BOTH HOUSES OVERWHELM PRESIDENT'S VETO OF BILL ON SPANISH WAR PENSIONS

REBUFF TO THE EXECUTIVE

Senate Votes 61 to 18, House 298 to 14 to Pass Measure.

LATTER RUSHES ACTION

Objection in Message to Pensions Due to 'Vicious Habits' Assailed and Defended.

REGULARS JOIN DEMOCRATS

Measure Liberalizes Payments to Veterans—Cost Placed at $11,000,000 Annually.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—President Hoover received today the first serious rebuff of his administration at the hands of Congress when, by heavy majorities, the Senate and the House overrode his veto of the bill liberalizing pensions for veterans of the Spanish-American War. The bill now becomes a law.

The Senate voted 61 to 18 against the President. In the House, which acted quickly afterward, the President's disapproval was rejected by the overwhelming vote of 298 to 14.

Under the Constitution, a two-thirds majority was required to pass the bill over the veto. In the Senate, there were eight votes to spare over the necessary two-thirds, while in the House there were 98 votes to spare.

Heretofore, the House has stood valiantly by the President, and its right-about-face was made all the more impressive by the fact that in spite of its much larger membership it cast four less votes to sustain the President than the Senate.

The course of the House received additional emphasis because of predictions that after the Senate had rejected the veto it would remain loyal to Mr. Hoover.

28 Republican Senators Shift.

Not a single Democratic Senator or Representative present voted to sustain the President. In the Senate twenty-eight Republicans joined the thirty-two Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite to override the veto. All the eighteen Senators and fourteen Representatives who sought to sustain the President were Republicans.

The veto message came up in the Senate this afternoon and was debated for an hour and a half until 3 o'clock, when, by prior agreement, the vote was taken. There was no debate in the House, which acted within an hour after the Senate had voted.

Scores of representatives of Associations of Veterans were actively engaged in buttonholing Senators and Representatives before the votes were taken in both branches. Governor Green of Michigan, national commander of the United Spanish War Veterans, who came to Washington in connection with the veto, was on the floor of the Senate while the debate was in progress, as was ex-Senator Rice Means of Colorado, former national commander of the same organization.

House's Speed a Surprise.

There was no expectation that the House would take up the veto message today. Some of the Republican leaders were out of town, and the prevailing idea was that action of the House would be deferred until their return. The impression prevailed also that the leaders would manage to line up enough administration supporters to prevent the proponents of the pension measure from getting the necessary two-thirds.

In addition, Representative Knudson of Minnesota, the sponsor of the bill in the House, had seen President Hoover and had obtained assurances from him that he would approve the measure if it were repassed without features to which the Executive objected in his veto message.

Heads of organizations of veterans announced last night, however, that they would stand or fall on the question of overriding the veto and would not compromise.

After the Senate had rejected the veto under the leadership of Senator Connally, Democrat, of Texas, there was agitation for immediate action in the House. Representative Crisp, Democrat, of Georgia, took the lead in organizing for action at once.

As a vote on a veto is a privileged matter, which can be called for at any time, the movement to expedite consideration of the President's message was easy of accomplishment.

Some of the leading Republicans made an attempt to postpone action

Ortiz Rubio Gives Silver Set, Long in His Family, to Hoover

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—A silver service of six flat pieces that has been in the family of President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico for generations today was presented to President Hoover by Señor Don Manuel C. Tellez, the Mexican Ambassador, on behalf of the Mexican Chief Executive. The gift was in token of President Ortiz Rubio's appreciation of the courtesies extended him on his visit to Washington last year as President-elect.

The largest of the ancient pieces was about twenty inches in diameter and the smallest twelve inches. On the face of each was inscribed "Presidente Herbert Hoover" and below in smaller type, "P. Ortiz Rubio."

DAVIS-BROWN TICKET EXPENDED $362,547

Exceeded the $338,000 Outlay of the Grundy Campaign in Pennsylvania Primary.

A MILLION TOTAL EXPECTED

Grundy Put In $291,000—W. A. Bonitz Gave $96,750 for the Vare Candidates.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Reports so far made to the Senate Campaign Funds Investigating Committee, which resumed its sessions today, show the expenditure of $900,457 on behalf of the Republican candidates in the recent Pennsylvania primary in which Secretary of Labor Davis defeated Senator Grundy for the United States Senatorship nomination and Gifford Pinchot won the Gubernatorial nomination over Francis Shunk Brown.

With an estimate that at least $200,000 remains to be reported, it is believed that the total expenditures will exceed $1,000,000, as against more than $3,000,000 spent in the 1926 primary, which led the Senate to refuse to seat William S. Vare.

The reports now before the committee reveal $362,547 spent for the Davis-Brown ticket, $338,000 on behalf of Senator Grundy and $200,000 in the campaign of Professor Francis H. Bohlen, wet candidate for the Senate nomination. Secretary Davis has reported personal expenditures of $10,541 and Mr. Brown contributed $20,524. Senator Grundy put $291,000 of his own money into his campaign.

Was Davis's Chief Backer.

Today's testimony before the committee revealed that Walter A. Bonitz, a Pittsburgh brick manufacturer, was the "angel" of Secretary Davis's campaign. A report filed showed that he had contributed $96,750. Secretary Davis, who was present when this contribution was revealed, testified that Mr. Bonitz was a casual acquaintance who had volunteered to help him.

Mr. Davis expressed surprise that the expenditures in behalf of the ticket he headed had exceeded those of the Grundy ticket.

It was unfair to assume, he added, that most or much of the funds raised for his ticket had been expended in behalf of his candidacy. He pointed out that there were seven candidates involved and insisted that it would be fairer to di-

MACDONALD DEFEATS TORY TREATY ATTACK IN A HEATED DEBATE

Commons Rejects 282 to 201 Demand for Committee to Investigate It.

CHURCHILL LEADS CRITICS

He Bitterly Denounces Pact as One to Increase Our Navy at Expense of Britain's.

PREMIER THANKS DIE-HARDS

Says Their Opposition in All Countries Has Shown Essential Fairness of Agreement.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 2.—There can no longer be any doubt that the London naval treaty will be approved by Great Britain. That result stands out from tonight's debate in the House of Commons, when Conservative die-hards shot their best bolts.

Led by Winston Churchill, they bemoaned that Great Britain had accepted a position of inferiority in relation to America, and when all was over the government had triumphed over a motion by former Premier Stanley Baldwin for reference of the treaty to a special committee of eleven for examination. The vote was 282 to 201.

Premier MacDonald observed that the best assurance he had received of the common sense of the naval treaty was that it had been attacked by the die-hards in every country. As far as he was concerned, that made him sure it was a good thing.

It had been expected that the big debate on the treaty would be delayed, since it was known to be the intention of the British Government to await American ratification. But consideration of former Premier Baldwin's motion developed into a debate of the first calibre.

Mr. Baldwin was not adamant against the treaty. He said the great pity in the world today was that America was not a member of the League of Nations, for with Britain she could prevent war anywhere. But with America out of the League he had very heavy doubts about the treaty leaving England the fleet she really needed. What he asked was a careful and secret inquiry something like that which has been going on at Washington.

Tory Consideration Recalled.

The Conservative leader said that during the conference the Opposition had leaned over backward not to embarrass the government but that now it wished to know more about a treaty so full of technicalities. In America, where the problem of naval defense was not so serious as for England, he remarked, there had been a most exhaustive inquiry.

"They seem pretty well satisfied with the results," he said. Even if some Americans thought England was down and out, declared Mr. Baldwin, that might be their privilege but, nevertheless, he wished to know how the treaty affected England's position just as Americans sought to know how it affected theirs. He did not want any naval scare in this country and it was to avoid that that he advocated a secret inquiry.

England, more than any other country, depended on sea power, explained Mr. Baldwin, and that was why all parties ought to be satisfied with the naval treaty as to whether it enabled Great Britain to fulfill her sacred obligations.

"It would be a simple problem," he declared, "if America were a member of the League of Nations. America as a member of the League,

Girl Flier in British Honors List; Howard a Peer, Eddington a Knight

Amy Johnson Rewarded for Australian Flight, Noel Buxton Elevated to Peerage, Baronetcy for Rolls-Royce Head, Simon Gets India Honor—Prince of Wales Holds Levee

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 2.—Varied services, from Sir Esme Howard's duty as Ambassador to Washington to Miss Amy Johnson's recent feat of flying alone to Australia received rewards in King George's birthday honors list, published tonight.

Sir Esme is one of the three new peers created. Three appointments have been made to the much-coveted Order of Merit, and there are three baronetcies, including the name of Frederick Henry Royce, founder, director and chief engineer of Rolls-Royce, Ltd., who designed the engines of the Supermarine S-6, in which Flight Lieut. Waghorn won the Schneider Cup last Summer.

Among the long list of knighthoods is the name of Professor Arthur Stanley Eddington, Plumian Professor of Astronomy at Cambridge University, whose views on the heavenly bodies are widely appreciated in the United States. As a reward for his services in connection with the Royal Indian Commission, whose report is eagerly awaited, Sir John Simon, the chairman, becomes a Knight Grand Commander of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India.

Elevated to the peerage with Sir Esme Howard, are Noel Buxton, Minister of Agriculture both in the first and the present labor administration, and H. S. Furniss, late principal of Ruskin College, Oxford. Mr. Buxton, who now takes his seat in the House of Lords, has been Labor Member of Parliament for North Norfolk since 1922. There will now be a by-election.

The three receiving the Order of Merit are Dr. Samuel Alexander, Honorary Professor of Philosophy at Manchester University and author of "Space, Time and Deity"; Dr. M. R. James, provost of Eton College, scholar and medieval historian, who is widely known for his "Ghost Stories of an Antiquary," and Professor G. M. Trevelyan, Regius Professor of Modern History at Cambridge University, who made a special study of Garibaldi and is now making a study of modern Italy. Mr. Trevelyan's father was also a member of the Order of Merit.

A number of interesting honors are bestowed for services rendered during the disturbances in Palestine last August. W. J. Miller, district officer at Nablus, and James Munro of the Palestine police force are made members of the Order of the

NAVAL TREATY FOES DEMAND ALL DATA

Condensed Papers Sent to Senate Committee by Stimson Dissatisfy Johnson.

GENEVA FILES CALLED FOR

Secretary Stimson Is Expected to Refuse to Submit the Additional Documents Sought.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, meeting today to begin drafting its report on the London naval treaty, was soon in deep water, and it was still on marshy ground when a vote to adjourn was carried following an executive session of less than two hours.

Instead of discussing the form the treaty report will take, the committee used up all the time discussing the State Department memorial submitted to the committee late Saturday afternoon by Secretary Stimson. When the papers were examined, it was found that only twelve had been submitted and these were paraphrased.

Immediately after Chairman Borah called the committee to order, the opposition, led by Senator Johnson of California, demanded that all papers bearing on the treaty be produced before the committee. Senator Johnson said it was his intention to demand that every document the publication of which would not be incompatible with the public interest be given to the press.

Mr. Johnson recalled that, in cross-examination of Admiral Hilary P. Jones, one of the high naval officers opposing the treaty, Senator Robinson of Arkansas had used a Navy General Board memorandum which quoted parts of official papers bearing on the conference.

"It is perfectly ridiculous," Senator Johnson asserted, "to put the seal of secrecy on documents parts of which have already been made public by proponents of the treaty."

Moses Seeks Geneva Papers.

The situation in the committee was further befogged when Senator Moses made a motion for the production also of the documents bearing on the unsuccessful Geneva naval limitation conference of 1927, called at the initiative of President Coolidge, at which the American delegates insisted that the United States needed twenty-three 10,000-ton cruisers armed with 8-inch guns. The motion was carried.

The understanding is the information is wanted by the treaty opponents in their efforts to prove that the American delegation in London abandoned the cruiser policy of the Coolidge Administration. The motion was taken by some as indicating that Senator Moses opposed ratification. He has not declared himself.

Senator Johnson will submit to Senator Borah tomorrow morning a memorandum of what he wants from the State Department, and Mr. Borah is expected to refer it to Secretary Stimson in the course of the day.

Secretary Stimson did not comment on the development, but there is reason to believe the department will refuse to submit the additional data sought by Senator Johnson. It is a rule of international relations that official correspondence between friendly nations is confidential unless and until the governments involved consent to publication.

The opponents of the treaty argue that, since Senator Robinson, one of

SENATE DEMOCRATS URGE TARIFF SPEED

Dill Asks Immediate Vote—Walsh of Massachusetts Cites Unemployment.

DEBATE MAY END IN WEEK

Harrison Says Republicans, in Praising New Flexible Clause, Admit 'Inequalities' in Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Upon the presentation of the conference report on the flexible tariff provision in the Senate today, Senators Walsh of Massachusetts and Dill of Washington, Democrats, urged that the tariff bill as a whole be acted on without delay, so that business might adjust itself, if necessary, to changed economic conditions. Senator Walsh spoke on unemployment and said that the present hesitation in business was due in part to uncertainty as to the fate of the bill.

Senator Simmons, member of the Finance Committee, and Senator Harrison of Mississippi, both Democratic conferees on the bill, assured the Senate that the Democrats would not unnecessarily delay final action. Mr. Simmons, however, insisted that there were so many new features written into the bill by the conference committee that it was the duty of the Senate to consider the measure thoroughly and not take snap judgment.

The flexible provision as agreed to by the latest conference was sharply attacked by Senator Harrison, who said that statements made by Republican Congressional leaders yesterday through the Republican National Committee were a confession of the "injustice of the rates." The statements carried the admission, Mr. Harrison remarked, that the flexible provision was necessary to correct the "inequalities of the bill."

The Senate devoted more than an hour to debate on the tariff report, and there were indications that final action might be taken in another week. Several Senators pleaded that the bill be expedited.

Walsh Tells of Business Pressure.

"I have reason to believe that the business of the country is in a very serious and critical condition," Senator Walsh said. "From all sides, appeals are coming to me to dispose of this measure. Even those who are opposed to this tariff bill want it out of the way. They want the atmosphere cleared up so that the business men of this country can begin to plan for the future.

"There is a good deal of unrest growing out of the uncertainty as to whether or not this bill is going to be passed. Business is held up on account of the bill. Men engaged in business do not know whether the provisions of this bill increasing the duties upon many raw materials are going to add to their cost of production or not.

"There is a spirit of uncertainty of which we ought to take cognizance and try to dispose of the bill as early as reasonably possible.

"I am deeply impressed with the appeals that have come to me from people who are against this bill to get it out of the way, to settle it, to enact it or to defeat it. The unemployment conditions in the country, the lack of business prosperity

DOYLE SPLIT FEES, BUT FAILS TO TELL WHO SHARED THEM

Admits to Federal Grand Jury Dividing Sums Received for Getting Permits in 1929.

SILENT ON EARLIER YEARS

But Tuttle Shows by Tax-Return Papers That Practice Went Back as Far as 1922.

BITTER FIGHT ON QUERIES

Court to Decide Later on Data Regarding Recipient of Payments and Amounts.

Dr. William F. Doyle admitted yesterday before the Federal grand jury that he had split fees received in 1929 from applicants for permits whom he had represented before the Board of Standards and Appeals. Although he refused to say whether he had split any similar fees in previous years, a communication sent by him to the supervising internal revenue agent on Jan. 8, 1925, disclosed that he had done so as far back as 1922.

Dr. Doyle's admission came as a result of an order from Federal Judge John M. Woolsey. He was not required to say with whom he had divided his fees, or how much he had given to others. This part of his testimony before the grand jury was made public when he was haled into court a second time yesterday because of refusal to answer questions in the grand jury room.

At the request of the grand jury United States Attorney Tuttle took Dr. Doyle before Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe who referred the matter to Judge Woolsey because Judge Woolsey had issued the order requiring him to make answers to certain questions which he had refused to answer on the ground that to do so might tend to degrade or incriminate him. Dr. Doyle was represented in court by former General Sessions Judge Alfred J. Talley and Samuel Falk. Mr. Talley accused Mr. Tuttle of trying to "get something on Dr. Doyle" who, he said, had answered all questions the court had instructed him to answer.

Amended Tax Returns He Says.

Answering Mr. Talley's statement that Dr. Doyle was, after all, a witness in the matter of the bankruptcy of Mrs. Lottie Cutler, of Passaic, N. J., Mr. Tuttle disclosed that his investigation had broadened considerably beyond that point from which he admitted it had started.

"This case," said Mr. Tuttle, "is now listed as the United States vs. John Doe, which is the usual title for a general grand jury investigation."

Mr. Tuttle also disclosed in court that Dr. Doyle had admitted to the grand jury that he had voluntarily amended in 1926 his income tax for the years 1922 and 1923 and had sent the government a check for about $30,000 more to cover the amended income tax returns.

When Mr. Tuttle brought Dr. Doyle before Judge Woolsey he said it had been agreed the grand jury need not be present. He handed Judge Woolsey a copy of a transcript of some of Dr. Doyle's testimony earlier in the day. From his own copy of this grand jury testimony Mr. Tuttle read the following questions which, he said, Dr. Doyle had refused to answer:

"What were the circumstances which led you to believe in 1925 that there had been a possibility of under payment (of income taxes by Dr. Doyle) for the years 1922, 1923 and 1924?"

"Would the circumstances involve in any way the splitting of fees?"

"In making the further payment (in 1925) on the years 1922 and 1923, was there before you the subject matter of splitting fees?"

"In the year 1922, in connection with your practice in zoning law applications, did you split fees with Seven to Leave Dirigible When She Reaches Spain—$55,000 Mail Loaded Before Start.

The Graf Zeppelin took off from the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., at 10:12 o'clock last night. Tilting her nose toward a half-moon, she slid slowly into the starry sky, circled the huge hangar where she had been docked since Saturday morning and headed into the northeast for New York and the start of her 5,500-mile return flight to Friedrichshafen, her home port, by way of Seville, Spain.

Her visit to New York lasted less than half an hour, but in that time the city's millions were able to obtain a clear view of her, soaring at an altitude of about 1,500 feet. She approached the city from Staten Island flew directly over the downtown section, veering off toward the Hudson River just below Thirty-fourth Street.

From the midtown roofs the Graf Zeppelin was sighted about 10:57 P. M. gliding from lower Manhattan toward the Jersey shore. Two faint yellow lights in the nose of the air liner enabled watchers to follow her.

As she proceeded up the Hudson a chorus of steamship and tug whistles rent the air, sometimes almost drowning out the steady hum of her powerful motors. Soon the airship disappeared and the thousands of watchers on the rooftops and in the streets below wondered if they had seen the last of her.

A brief wait, however, and she reappeared directly over Times Square, and this time the spectators below her obtained a clear view. The Zeppelin was flying much more slowly on the "downtown" trip and at a lower altitude than on the northward trip.

Searchlights from hotels and other buildings were trained on her and the blaze of illuminated signs in the theatre district gleamed on her sides, sharpening her outlines from nose to rudder. The big ship then swung southeast and headed seaward.

At 2 A. M. she reported by radio to land stations that she was passing Nantucket Lightship on her eastward course and that all was well.

Drops Wreath on Way.

At Asbury Park on her way to New York the Zeppelin dropped a wreath of roses from the control cabin. The wreath was intended for the Sons of the American Revolution, who are holding their national congress there.

Instead of falling on the roof of the convention hall the flowers landed on the beach casino, some distance away, but hundreds saw it fall and rushed toward it. It was damaged before representatives of the patriotic order reached it.

The take-off at Lakehurst was slightly delayed by minor difficulties in "weighing off" the huge ship. Her after part became too light as she was moved out of the dim tracery of shadows in the hangar to the cooler night air outside, and Dr. Hugo Eckener, her commander, was forced to "sally ship" by sending men to the stern of the cat-walk.

The order "Stand by to walk her out" was given by Lieutenant W. E. Zimmerman, the air station's mooring officer, at 9:40 P. M. and the mobile mooring mast, its cup holding fast the mooring cone of the dirigible, was pulled slowly ahead by a tractor and the great ship moved out of the hangar. Dr. Eckener signed the clearance papers just as the stand-by signal was given and the Graf Zeppelin was officially cleared for the fourth time from American soil.

Ship to Seek the Westerlies.

Dr. Eckener, in an interview given just before his ship took off, said he expected to set a northeasterly course for a short time after leaving New York to reach the latitude of the prevailing westerlies. Then, he said, he expects to change course to a southeasterly direction, so that a tail wind will help the ship on her way, and after reaching the fortieth parallel of latitude he will steer a

LAMONT MAKES PLEA FOR YOUNG PLAN LOAN

Asks American Public to Give Financial Support to German Reparations Settlement.

STAMP HONORED AT DINNER

Tells Political Science Academy World Finance Should be "Demilitarized."

What was interpreted as the initial move toward the commercialization under the Young plan of German reparation bonds in the United States, coupled with an indirect appeal to the American public to support the $300,000,000 German reparation loan, was made yesterday by Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., in an address at a luncheon in honor of Sir Josiah Stamp and Lady Stamp given by the Academy of Political Science at the Hotel Astor.

Like Mr. Lamont, Sir Josiah was a member of the Young Reparation Committee. He is president of the London, Midland & Scottish Railway, a director of the Bank of England, a governor of the London School of Economics and Political Science and an authority on international finance. Sir Josiah, as a member of both the Dawes and Young Reparation Committees and of the Reparation Payments and Industry Committee for the International Chamber of Commerce, helped in the solution of the thorny reparation problem.

Mr. Lamont, who introduced him, said yesterday that his visit to the United States constituted a happy coincidence with the task of floating the German reparation loan.

$85,000,000 Loan to Be Sold Here.

The American share of this loan is $85,000,000. The bonds are to be floated under the trusteeship of the Bank of International Settlements. J. P. Auto Drivers Increased 110,000 Here in Year; Late Renewals Indicate Total of 825,000

There are at least 110,000 more licensed drivers in Greater New York now than there were at this time last year, it was estimated yesterday from incomplete figures gathered at the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. With approximately 800,000 operators' and chauffeurs' renewals reported from all boroughs of the city at the close of business Saturday, it was predicted that final figures would carry the total this year well over 825,000, compared with 717,408 at this time last year.

Thousands of late comers crowded the main office of the bureau at 220 West Fortieth Street yesterday, but it was expected that this final rush would subside today and tomorrow. On Saturday the main office handled 20,737 renewals, while branch offices handled 1,066 and automobile club branches 3,763.

Meantime, it was said that original applications for operators' and chauffeurs' licenses throughout the city were coming in faster than on any previous year. During the past month, it was said, fifty-five inspectors were kept busy examining an average of 500 applicants daily, with the expectation that this latter figure will be increased during June.

Declaring that many persons had been misinformed, officials of the bureau explained that the expiration on May 31 of the 1929-30 licenses did not mean that renewals could not be made after that date, and that a new road test would have to be passed. A license may be renewed at any time within a year of its issuance, without further examination. However, since the 1929-30 licenses expired Saturday, it is unlawful to operate a car without the new credentials. Such operation will subject the driver to the financial responsibility law, which requires posting of an insurance policy or bond in the amount of at least $5,000 before a new license may be obtained.

Dickinson, Supporter of Tariff, Is Ahead Of Hammill, a Critic, in Iowa Primary

By The Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 2.—Representative L. J. Dickinson, supporter of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, took a commanding lead over Governor John J. Hamill, opponent of the measure, in early returns in Iowa's Republican Senatorial primary election today.

Frank J. Lund, a close associate of Senator Smith W. Brookhart, appealing for Farmer-Labor support, and William O. Payne, a newspaper editor running on an anti-World Court platform, were third and fourth, respectively, in the tally.

Returns from 569 of the 2,433 precincts gave Dickinson 48,414, Hammill 26,369, Lund 9,009, Payne 2,423.

Senator Daniel F. Steck, whom the winner will oppose in November, won the Democratic nomination without a contest.

In the campaign Mr. Dickinson, a farm spokesman in Congress, declaring himself to be a supporter of President Hoover, said that defense of the tariff bill was a matter of party loyalty and backed the new farm rates as the highest obtainable.

Governor Hammill, on the other hand, attacked the vote of ten of Iowa's eleven members of Congress in favor of the measure, and argued that the President was not satisfied with the new rates.

Mr. Lund, former campaign manager for Senator Brookhart, and Mr. Payne took no active part in the tariff debate, although both suggested that the bill would be improved if the equalization fee were included.

Dan W. Turner of Corning, advocate of a proposed State income tax, had a two-to-one lead over his two opponents, Ed Smith, Secretary of State, and Otto Lange of Dubuque, for the Republican nomination for Governor. Smith and Lange opposed the tax plan.

Returns from 570 precincts gave: Turner 53,983, Smith 27,116, Lange 5,566.

Fred P. Hagemann of Waverly was nominated without opposition for Governor by the Democrats, heading a single slate of candidates for State offices.

ASK HOOVER TO VETO THE TARIFF MEASURE

Textile Converters Reverse Past Policy in Directors' Letter to the President.

SEE FOREIGN RETALIATION

Bill if Passed Would Reduce Exports and Cause More Unemployment, They Assert.

Reversing their traditional attitude on the tariff, the Textile Converters' Association, comprising a large proportion of the leading concerns that prepare cotton textiles for distribution, yesterday made public a letter sent to President Hoover urging him to veto the Hawley-Smoot bill. H. G. Lauten, president of the organization, signed the communication which the directors instructed him to send.

In the opinion of the association, the bill will be "disadvantageous not merely for the industry here represented but every industry at large and the country as a whole."

"We feel," the letter continues, "that particularly the bill in question, if enacted into law, would greatly injure all of those engaged in an export business in that it would cause retaliation on the part of foreign countries in the form of higher duties, thereby causing further shrinkage in our exports; and this would not only directly injure those engaged in the export business but would likewise work equal hardship to those engaged in production in the domestic market, as the merchandise theretofore exported would then have to find a domestic market, increasing the already severe competitive conditions now prevailing. It is needless to observe that the productive capacity of the United States is far greater than its consumptive capacity."

Nine objections are raised to the bill and were enclosed in the letter to the President. They are as follows:

1. It betrays an unjustified fear of foreign rivalry and competition instead of thinking in terms of international trade and good-will.
2. It will benefit a small minority at the expense of the large majority of our citizens.
3. It will tend to create ill-will against us abroad, inviting and provoking resentment and reprisals at a time when every effort should be in the opposite direction, that of international amity.
4. It will cause retaliation on the part of foreign countries, thereby diminishing our sales to these foreign markets now so essential to the United States with its enormous productive capacity.
5. It carries to an extreme a protective theory, restrictive of international trade, perhaps needed when we were a debtor nation creating and building up our industrial enterprises, but no longer tenable now that we are the world's leading creditor nation and possess the world's strongest and most efficient industrial structure.
6. It will not create new labor, but will tend rather to cause more unemployment by reducing our exports.
7. It will increase the cost of living to the average citizen, particularly the farmer and the average wage-earner throughout the nation.
8. It will not aid the farmer, as his problem is not that of foreign competition in the domestic market, but is the problem of the disposal of surplus crops.
9. Under the already sufficiently high present tariff law, the majority of our industries have shown enormous forward strides in the last eight years, proving a higher and more protective tariff unnecessary.

Organizations in allied cotton textile lines will be asked to send similar protests to Washington, Mr. Lauten said last night.

Court Upholds Senator's Freedom of Speech Barring a Slander Suit Against Couzens

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The District of Columbia Court of Appeals, in a decision written by Chief Justice Martin, held today that the constitutional provision that a member of Congress shall not be questioned in any other place for any speech or debate in either branch, is a bar to suit against a member of Congress.

The decision was handed down in the case involving Senator Couzens of Michigan, who was sued for $500,000 damages by Howe P. Cochran, a tax consultant. Mr. Cochran charged the Senator with slander, alleging that a statement made on the floor of the Senate reflected on his character and that it was not spoken officially or in line with the Senator's duties.

The decision upholds the action of Justice Wendell P. Seafford of the District of Columbia Supreme Court in dismissing the suit for lack of jurisdiction.

The opinion says that the framers of the Constitution believed the interests of the people of the nation could best be served if members of Congress were permitted to have unlimited freedom of speech or debate. This provision, the court said, should be liberally construed.

Chief Justice Martin held that Senator Couzens's remarks were privileged and not subject to question in any other place. The argument that the remarks were made unofficially and not in line with the Senator's duties was declared to be a mere conclusion.

"Presumably legislators will be restrained in the exercise of such a privilege by the responsibilities of their office," Chief Justice Martin wrote. "Moreover, in the event of their failure in that regard, they will be subject to discipline by their colleagues."

COMMITTEE'S REPORT FAVORS PHILIPPINE BILL

Senate Gets Recommendation That the Independence Measure Be Passed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Passage of the Hawes-Cutting bill to grant complete independence to the Philippine Islands if, after a probationary government exercised by Filipinos for five years a plebiscite showed them to be in favor of it, was recommended to the Senate today in a report on the bill by a majority of the Committee on Territories.

The committee recently, by a vote of 8 to 4, ordered a favorable report on the bill to the Senate. At that time Senator Hawes, leader of the forces in the Senate for the adoption of the legislation, said he would not attempt to obtain action on the bill at this session, but would try to get it through at the next session.

Senator Hawes today submitted the report to the Senate. It reviews the extensive hearings on Philippine independence legislation, goes exhaustively into the question of Philippine independence, and explains in detail just what the bill proposes to do.

A minority report was also submitted today by the members of the committee opposing the bill. This latter report is signed by Senator Bingham, chairman of the committee, and three other members. It declars that the Hawes-Cutting proposal "is tantamount to a proposition for immediate independence," and that disaster would result from its going into effect, both to the Filipinos and to American interests in the Philippines and in the Far East.

Senator Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan, submitted what might be regarded as a third report, in which he concurred in the principle of the Hawes-Cutting bill regarding a probationary commonwealth as a test to determine whether the Filipino people are ready for independence, but declared he thought five years entirely too short a time to develop ultimate independence.

The majority report submitted today makes this explanation of the four major purposes of the bill:

"To provide for the drafting of a constitution for a free and independent government of the Philippine Islands.

"To provide for a ratification by the Philippine people of the constitution so formulated, and the election of governmental offiicials under the new constitution.

"To provide a five-year period of test for the gradual change of the economic and political relationship between the islands and the United States, thus giving the Philippine people an actual experience of such relationship. An opportunity, following such experience, to decide at a plebiscite whether they approve or disapprove of separation from the United States."

HOUSE SEATS BLANTON OVER CLANCY'S PROTEST

Longworth Decides That Texan's Campaign Statement Attacked Integrity of Legislators.

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP).—Fiery "Tom" Blanton, a veteran of many Congressional disputes, came back to his old seat in the House today to find new troubles awaiting him.

The Texas Democrat took the oath after a week's delay to receive his election credentials, but immediately after his induction a resolution was offered calling for an investigation of charges he had made in political advertising during his campaign.

The resolution was offered by Representative Clancy, Republican, of Michigan, and was referred to an election committee. Mr. Clancy offered the measure after he had sought unsuccessfully to prevent the Texan from taking the oath.

A demand for the seating of Mr. Blanton was made by Representative Garner of Texas, the minority leader, immediately after the House convened. Mr. Clancy sought to prevent it on the ground that Mr. Blanton's election certificate said he was elected to the office of "Congressman"; the Michigan member said it should have read "Representative in Congress."

Speaker Longworth put the question to the House to decide, and on a viva voce vote it was decided to permit the Texan to take the oath.

SONS OF REVOLUTION MOVE TO CURB REDS

Congress at Asbury Park Sees Threat of Communism—Plans Protest on Soviet Exhibit.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 2.—The Forty-first Congress of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, convening here today, emphasized the growth of communistic activities and urged steps to curb its progress.

A resolution will be offered tomorrow, members said, protesting against a display of Soviet government products in the commercial exhibit at Atlantic City next Fall.

Addressing a section of the convention, Miss L. M. Williamson of the National Headquarters of the D. A. R., declared that communism is gaining throughout the United States. As Miss Williamson spoke she pointed to an exhibit of communistic literature which included a poster advertising a lecture by Heywood Broun on "The Cockeyed World" and a pamphlet by Oswald Garrison Villard.

YANCEY AT PANAMA ON AIRPLANE TOUR

RADIOS STORY FROM AIR

Tells of Wireless Conversation With Commercial Plane Pointing Out Sights En Route Earlier.

By CAPTAIN LEWIS A. YANCEY.

All Rights Reserved.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ABOARD THE AIRPLANE PILOT-RADIO, Managua to Canal Zone, June 2 (By radio to THE NEW YORK TIMES Correspondent at Colon).—After a stay of five days in Mexico City, during which our engine and plane received a thorough check-over, we took off last Thursday afternoon bound for Vera Cruz.

Though the weather was clear over the entire route when we left it did not stay so very long, and before we had gone more than ninety or 100 miles we were dodging rain squalls and low clouds. This is not to be recommended as a pastime for a person with a weak heart, as skimming over treetops and ducking jungle-clad mountains is exciting, to say the least.

Rainy Season an Interference.

However, it is the rainy season down here, and I expect we shall have a great deal more of bad weather before reaching South America. After two hours and forty minutes of flying we landed at Vera Cruz, where we spent the night.

Friday morning we were on the field and ready for a start at 6:30 o'clock. However, one of the big three-motored passenger planes of the Pan-American Airways was to leave at 7 A. M., and so we decided to wait and fly with it. Exactly at 7 o'clock the big ship took off as the field manager gave the starting signal, and we followed a few seconds later, both bound for Guatemala City by way of San Jeronimo, Mexico.

For the next two and a half hours we flew beside the big Pan-American ship. She was carrying a full load of passengers, and at times we were close enough to distinguish some of their faces as they gazed at the constantly changing scenery. Her radio operator would send us messages every few minutes calling our attention to some point of interest we were then passing over or to one of the emergency landing fields, of which there seemed to be plenty.

From San Jeronimo we again flew in company with the Pan-American plane to Guatemala City, where we landed at 3 P. M. This stop was perhaps the most pleasant part of our trip. We stayed at Guatemala City over Saturday to enjoy the scenery and make a few social calls.

On Saturday morning we got away early again for Managua. The weather was perfect and for the most part the day's run was uneventful. About 11 A. M. we flew low over Corinto, as I was particularly interested in seeing Corinto from the air, because I spent several months there nearly twenty years ago as a member of the American naval force in Central American waters.

For the next hour I pointed out the interesting spots to Burgin and Bouck, and before we realized it we were in Managua, where we landed on the Marine Corps field. The marines lived up to their reputation of doing things thoroughly. Major Mitchell, commanding officer, immediately took charge of us, while half a dozen mechanics serviced our plane. Long into the night we listened to stories of the work our American boys are doing in the jungle sections of Nicaragua.

This morning we got away to a good start at exactly 7 o'clock. We are now flying along the west coast of Costa Rica at 9,000 feet and doing ninety miles an hour. The weather is nearly perfect with not one rain squall in sight. If things continue as nicely for a few hours more, we shall land at France Field early this afternoon.

Lands at France Field, Panama.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COLON, June 2.—The plane with its red and black body and yellow wings, looking like a tropical bird, flew straight out of a huge cumulus cloud and landed at France Field without preliminary circling at exactly 3 P. M., as Captain Yancey had radioed to the Pan-American Airways ground station ten minutes before.

The plane had been delayed by a tropical rainstorm covering a large area, around which it had to fly, although the plane had enjoyed perfect weather until 100 miles from France Field. The flight from Managua had been leisurely, following a route of the Pan-American Airways passing over Puntarenas and David.

Captain Yancey said he would remain here until Thursday and then continue his South American flight over the Pan-American Grace route. He plans to keep in touch with Pan-American ground stations every half hour during the day.

Discussing his radio work Zeh Bouck reported he had made contact from the plane after leaving Guatemala City en route to Managua with an amateur wireless operator in Hartford, Conn. The distance is more than 2,000 miles.

YANCEY, IN AIR, TO BID BYRD SHIPS GODSPEED

Good-Will Aviator Will Fly Over Vessels Today as They Leave Colon for New York.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COLON, June 2.—Landing here on the eve of the departure of the homeward-bound ships of the Byrd expedition, Captain Lewis A. Yancey, who is making a good-will flight over Latin America, announced tonight that he would bid the returning Antarctic veterans farewell from the air, flying over them as the two vessels pass out of Colon Harbor tomorrow.

The bark City of New York completed coaling this afternoon and moved from the coaling station to her pier. Her men and the crew of her sister ship, the steamer Eleanor Bolling, are having their last night in town with several thousand sailors from the ships of the Pacific Fleet, which are anchored in the harbor.

Admiral Byrd is staying at the Hotel Tivoli in Panama City tonight and will come to Colon on the first train in the morning, arriving here at 9 o'clock. The ships will sail as soon as he goes aboard the City of New York, his flagship. The bark was thronged all day by visitors, including many sailors of the fleet.

During the day Admiral Byrd visited the American schools at Ancon and Balboa.

W. CAMERON FORBES FOR ENVOY TO JAPAN

FORBES WAS IN PHILIPPINES

Served There as Vice Governor and Governor General Under Roosevelt and Taft.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—W. Cameron Forbes of Boston has been tentatively selected by President Hoover to be Ambassador to Japan, succeeding William R. Castle Jr., who is returning to resume his duties as Assistant Secretary of State after having served as Ambassador at Tokyo during the period of the London naval conference.

The selection of Mr. Forbes has not been completed, according to official information, in that the tender has not been formally made to him, nor has Japan been asked if he would be acceptable. These formalities, however, are expected to be completed very soon.

The task of finding the right man for the Tokyo post has been a difficult one for the President. He was attracted to Mr. Forbes because of the latter's services as chairman of the commission which last Winter made an investigation of Haitian conditions. He also recognized special qualifications in Mr. Forbes from his knowledge of the Far East gained through extensive experience in the Philippines, where he served as Vice Governor and then Governor General during the Roosevelt and Taft Administrations.

Mr. Forbes was born at Milton, Mass., in 1870 and was graduated from Harvard in 1892. He has since engaged in banking and in business, being a partner of J. M. Forbes & Co., merchants.

He was a member of the Philippine Commission and Secretary of Commerce and Police in the Government of the Philippines from 1904 to 1908, when he became Vice Governor, a post he occupied for a year. He was appointed Governor General, serving from Nov. 11, 1909, until Sept. 1, 1913. In 1921 he was a member of the Woods-Forbes mission sent by President Harding to investigate conditions in the Philippines.

DILL PATENT MEASURE IS PASSED BY SENATE

Bill to Prevent Recovery Where Anti-Trust Act Is Violated Now Goes to House.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2.—The Senate today passed the Dill bill providing for suspension of the right of a patentee to recover in suits for infringement of patents in case the defendant can show that the patentee is violating the Clayton Anti-Trust act.

The bill, passed without a roll-call vote, is aimed at patent pools formed in industry generally, but particularly at the Radio Corporation of America and companies affiliated with it in the pooling of patents in the electrical field, against which independent radio manufacturers have protested.

from other causes than the tariff, are bad enough without adding to the present handicaps of business by prolonging the uncertainty in regard to the disposition of this measure.

"I do ask my colleagues here please to hasten action. With a few speeches by the men who have sat in conference explaining the changes that have place taken in this bill, we ought to be in a position to vote. I cannot see any reason for going over again the long-drawn-out controversies and disputes that are involved in this question. Nearly every man on this floor knows now what he is going to do. If he does not know he ought not to be here.

Cites Conditions in Bay State.

"Just having been home in my State for three days, where I have seen conditions that have grieved me and pained me, I do not want any longer to share responsibility in delaying this measure.

"I do not mean to infer that conditions are due to the delay in this measure. I do not mean to infer that business conditions have suffered necessarily by the long-protracted debate which seems to me unnecessary in large part and too extensive; but I do mean to say that now, for the past weeks, when we have gotten right up to the point of deciding whether or not we are going to have a tariff bill, there is an uncertainty and there is a spirit of demand upon the part of the business men of the country to settle this question.

"Let us say, today or tomorrow or some day in the future, what we are going to do and do it, and let us go ahead to our task without the uncertainty of this gigantic bill, involving readjustments of thousands of commodities, leaving business in the unsettled and uncertain condition in which it is."

Senator Dill, as soon as Chairman Smoot of the Finance Committee had called up the conference report, containing a few other important provisions besides the new flexible clause, suggested that action be taken without further debate.

"If there shall be enough votes to pass the bill, we owe it to the country to stop business uncertainty from not knowing what will be done by passing the bill," he said. "If there shall not be enough votes to pass the bill, then we ought to defeat it and quit wasting more time. Every Senator knows how he is going to vote, so I hope we may vote on it without any discussion."

"I want to congratulate the Republican National Committee for putting the sanction of their party on the inequalities of the conference report," Senator Harrison said. "Of course many of us have known that there were inequalities in the bill, but this is the first time the Republican National Committee has told the country of them."

Noting especially that Senator Fess, one of the Republicans who issued the statements, had said the flexible clause would give the President power to correct any "inequalities" in the bill when it became law, Mr. Harrison said he thought the word should be "iniquities." But he ironically thanked the Senator for the admission of "inequalities."

Mr. Harrison said that Senator Smoot would gladly agree with Senator Dill that there should be no debate on the conference report, but that there were many who wanted to discuss the report at length. He said he would speak later on three phases of the measure.

"There has been no discussion as to how these rates have been jacked up and how the Senate conferees surrendered to the House conferees," he continued, adding at another time:

"If business is hampered by virtue of waiting a few days, business is in a pretty bad way, because the bill has been pending for fourteen to sixteen months."

While debating with Senator Smoot over a report of the Tariff Commission on the effect of the bill on farm prosperity, Senator Harrison contended that the Republican National Committee was not in harmony with Mr. Smoot.

"I presume that he is still on speaking terms with the Republican National Committee and that Mr. Claudius Huston is still chairman. I have not heard that he has been unhorsed," the Mississippian commented.

Assails Republican Conferees.

"You struck out many of the things that ought to have been in this report," he said, in assailing the Republican conferees.

"Why, we wrote into it that the Tariff Commission had to investigate the efficiency and economic operation and location of the domestic industry under consideration. But no; when we reached that item in the tariff bill, and putting it into the conference report, they said we must not tell the commission that they ought to take into consideration, in equalizing the difference in cost of production here and abroad, the efficiency or inefficiency of any plant in this country and that abroad.

"In other words, you have now given them license to take the most inefficient plant in America and equalize the difference in cost of production of some article made abroad and in this country—something that no Senator here believes is fair or just; and the American people, when they understand it, will not commend it or endorse it, because if we are going to have a difference in cost of production here and abroad and place the tariff accordingly, we certainly ought to take the efficiently managed plants in this country as the basis upon which to work. That was the expression of the Senate; that was written into the bill, and yet the Republican conferees would not stand for that at all."

Senator Simmons said that he concurred in the views expressed by Senator Walsh.

"We on this side of the chamber," he said, "want to have as early a vote as is practicable, consistent with due consideration of the very important questions involved. The bill as contained in the conference report is a new bill. It radically changes the bill as passed by either house, and if we refused to give it mature consideration, I think it would be very unfortunate."

Senator Simmons expressed the opinion that consideration of the report would not take long.

Shouse Replies to Republicans.

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic National Committee, issued a statement on the comments of the four Republican leaders on the flexible tariff.

"The implied promise that the President will exercise his superconstitutional power to lower rates will not be received with much confidence," he said.

"When the flexible clause was first enacted as part of the Fordney-McCumber tariff act of 1922 we had the same sort of promise, and, in addition, the definite statement of Senator McCumber himself that the provision was to remain in force only during the emergency resulting from the confusion in foreign exchange, which made it impossible for Congress to correctly estimate the differences in production costs here and abroad.

"We have had eight years of the exercise of the Presidential power under the flexible tariff, and my recollection is that except for live quail and paint brush handles, and perhaps one or two other articles of equal importance, all the changes have been ever upward. When the Tariff Commission recommended a reduction in the rates of sugar, a Republican President promptly pigeonholed the report.

"Mr. Hoover himself has been in possession of authority under this provision for fifteen months. He has exercised it to raise rates several times. It is my impression that he has never exercised the authority for a downward revision.

"The promise made for him, not by him—and the distinction is important—sounds like a simple effort to sweeten the dose the American public is expected to swallow. So unpopular is the bill that leading Republican newspapers all over the country are joining in the chorus of appeals to Mr. Hoover to veto the Grundy tariff."

PASS PENSION BILL OVER HOOVER'S VETO

until Thursday, but the effort to that end was rejected, 233 to 65, and the House's disapproval of the veto followed immediately.

The President's Objections.

In sending the pension bill back to the Senate, in which it originated, President Hoover explained in his message that he objected to it because of three features. These were that pensions would be paid veterans of the Spanish war whose disabilities resulted from "vicious habits," that the minimum period of service required for a veteran to be eligible for a pension was reduced from ninety to seventy days, and that pensions would be paid regardless of whether the veteran was in need of it.

The last objection was made the subject of sharp criticism in the debate in the Senate. In a few instances Senators were inclined to agree with the President in his objection to the "vicious habits" provision, while taking issue with him on the two others.

It has been estimated that the new pension law will cost the government about $11,000,000 annually.

The outstanding feature of the bill is the provision for increasing the pensions allowed to veterans who served ninety days during the war with Spain, or less than ninety days with a discharge for disability incurred in line of duty.

The new rates range from $20 a month when the veteran is one-tenth disabled to $60 when he is totally disabled.

Veterans who served between seventy and ninety days are for the first time made eligible for pension, and this the President objected to, but not the increase for the veterans who had longer service. The bill contained nothing which related to the need of veterans for pensions.

In the Senate debate today it was several times asserted that the service limit for pension eligibility in other wars was much less than the seventy-day minimum proposed.

Norbeck Votes to Sustain.

Senator Norbeck of South Dakota was the only member of the irregular Republican group in the Senate who voted to sustain the veto.

In the House the fourteen who voted to sustain the veto were all stanch administration followers.

Debate on the question of overriding the veto began in the Senate after bills on the calendar had been taken up and disposed of. A move on the part of administration forces to delay action in order that a substitute bill, meeting the objections of the President, could be put through the Senate, proved futile.

At the opening of the debate Senator Bingham, Republican, of Connecticut, moved to recommit the bill to the Committee on Pensions, in which it originated. Sponsors of the legislation, however, continued the debate until the hour for the vote, when Senator Swanson, Democrat, of Virginia, entered a point of order against the Bingham motion on the ground that the time had arrived at which the Senate had agreed to vote on the bill by unanimous consent.

Senator Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, presiding, declared the point of order unnecessary, and the hour at which the vote was to be taken having arrived there was no option left but to vote on the bill.

The debate was marked by an impassioned speech by Senator Norris, leader of the insurgent Republican group, who declared, referring to the administration's recent tax refund, that "we have given away the public funds to the millionaires, but our soldiers must be paupers before they can get any of the government's money."

The statement in the veto message that "in the interest of justice to the taxpayers and to maintain the fine body of citizens comprised in our war veterans free from the stigma of encroachment upon the public treasury, there should be a requirement of 'need' as well as disability as a basis for these pensions," was frequently referred to in the Senate as the President's "pauper proposal."

Senator Norris declared that the government was in many instances "paying subsidies to corporations who couldn't qualify under the pauper proposal." He declared that the "soldiers have never declared war," but that "we declare war."

"War is hell, and the worst kind of hell!" Senator Norris shouted.

Senator Borah declared "it will be conceded" that legislation to liberalize Spanish-American War veterans' pensions is needed. The Spanish-American War veterans, he said, "have been less considerately treated than any others in the history of the country."

Mr. Borah explained, however, that he did not think the government should establish "the precedent of paying out of the treasury pensions for disability incurred from 'vicious habits' after the termination of the war," but that if the disability from such habits was limited in inception to the date of the war, he would think a pension proper. He opposed the President, he said, on the two other objections and, since some legislation should be passed, he would vote to override the veto.

Senator George, Democrat, of Georgia, declared the President's proposal would "couple patriotism with pauperism."

GRAF ZEPPELIN Chose Poland Water for Cruise Around World and Again is Carrying America's Foremost Natural Mineral Water on Return Flight to Germany

YOU'LL NEVER KNOW WHAT YOU'RE MISSING

It's one thing to say we'll do a thing—it's quite another thing to do it. Changing tooth pastes, for example. Many of us see the PEBECO advertisements, believe their simple explanation of Pebeco's extra value. Many of us hear our friends tell of the real mouth exhilaration and comfort Pebeco gives ... and then we put off buying it. Remember this: You'll never know what you're missing until you try Pebeco—and the trial costs mighty little. Delay no longer.—

To offer a Primadora is more than a gesture, it's a compliment—a tribute to the taste of a man who knows a fine cigar.

WHEN he was delegated to help outfit the new offices, he balked. He had fretful visions of traiking all over town, of listening to endless sales prattle.

But the wise office manager took him directly to the showroom-store of Henry Klein & Co., Inc. Here in model offices he saw Telesco Partition, paneling and railing, in typical furnished settings. Thus he got a good idea in advance of the actual appearance of his new quarters.

When you see this Telesco exhibit, you will agree: That nothing less than rich walnut or mahogany Telesco will do. That no partition touches Telesco's adaptable telescoping posts, screw-type construction, durable lacquer finish, acid-proof base. That Telesco saves time in selection, time in erection, and money in the long run!

BROADWAY CHEERS ZEPPELIN ON WAY

Thousands in Skyscrapers and on Roofs Thrilled as Big Ship's Engines Thrum Adieu.

TIMES SQ. THRONGS HALT

Shout Greetings as Auto Horns Make Din—Haze at Intervals Impairs View of Dirigible.

The Graf Zeppelin thrummed a farewell to Times Square and the rest of the city last night and thousands on the rooftops along Broadway answered with the tooting of horns and loud shouting as she vanished in the mist on her long journey to Friedrichshafen.

About forty minutes after she climbed into the sky at Lakehurst the big air liner moved like a gray ghost over Sandy Hook with the half-moon faintly illuminating her hull. Soon she appeared over Staten Island, heading toward the city.

She came low, but was somewhat indistinct in the haze as she moved steadily over the bay. For a moment the mist shut her from view, then she reappeared over Governors Island, slid east of the Statue of Liberty and swung slightly westward for the flight up Broadway. Five thousand men and women cheered her in Battery Park.

Haze Impairs View.

It was 10:55 when the massive ship hummed over the gray towers of the financial district, proceeding at a speed of about sixty miles an hour, at an altitude of 1,500 feet. Captain Eckener seemed to have dimmed some of the ship's lights for this stage of the journey.

Observers in skyscrapers had some difficulty in keeping pace with the Zeppelin's progress as she sailed northward up Broadway. The mist was partly to blame for this, and the glow of millions of the city's white lights affected visibility.

At Thirty-fourth Street the gray bulk nosed westward and headed for the Hudson shrouded in the haze. Watchers on Riverside Drive heard her motors overhead, but caught only a fleeting glimpse of her. Searchlights darted eager fingers through the sky in a vain search for her silver sides.

At a point approximately between Hoboken and Weehawken the ship disappeared entirely from sight of New York watchers, but a few minutes later she was reported over 177th Street turning east again. She was preparing for her return down Broadway.

Watchers on the Palisades saw her nose for only a moment. She was heading back into the bright light district. The glow in her control cabin now seemed brighter and her whole bulk became suddenly more distinct. She moved swiftly over the Medical Centre.

Then she came down for her last dip over Broadway. The searchlights had found her, but she slipped from their view as if the sharp white beams hurt her. She was coming due south along the city's main street. From the rooftops thousands saw someone in the dirigible lift a trap and flash a lantern's beam.

Twelve minutes after eleven the crowds in Times Square came to a standstill. Motor cars stopped and horns tooted. The Zeppelin was now directly over the Times Building at a height that seemed no greater than her own full length of some 700 feet. Her motors were distinct and strong.

With a strong west wind blowing as the ship came down Broadway, Captain Eckener had to keep the the Zeppelin's nose turned into it, and this seemed to give the ship a crab-wise motion, but she held to her course above New York's ribbon of light until the mists claimed her again. She was heading out toward sea.

Now and again the running lights blinked blue and green through holes in the mist and the cabin lights could be seen blinking a "good-bye." At 11:20 the show was over. The Graf Zeppelin had left the White Way. Her motors were heard for another minute or so and then their song faded.

The traffic policemen blew their whistles and the horns and sirens stopped their raucous sound. Traffic started to move again and New York came down from the rooftops.

On the Jersey shore thousands of spectators lined the Palisades for a view of the airliner. Boulevard East was solidly packed with sightseers' cars from Weehawken to the Bergen County line. Many spectators also spent a considerable part of the evening riding back and forth on the North River ferryboats, from which they had an excellent view of the dirigible.

NAVY REJECTS FLIGHT BID.

Adams Declines Eckener's Offer to Take Two Men on Trip.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—An invitation from Dr. Hugo Eckener for two navy enlisted men to make the flight back to Germany on the Graf Zeppelin was rejected today by Secretary of the Navy Adams without any public reason being given. The navy appreciated the invitation, he said, but did not care to accept it.

Dr. Eckener left the designation of the men to the navy and the two who had been recommended to make the trip were William A. Russell, aviation chief machinist's mate, and Frank L. Peckham, chief boatswain's mate, both attached to the Lakehurst air station.

Secretary Adams upon returning to the city today after an absence over the holidays gave out a message received from Dr. Eckener on Saturday thanking the navy for its courtesies.

"After a happy landing," Dr. Eckener said, "and a safe berthing of our ship in the Lakehurst hangar by means of the newly developed ingenius ground-handling devices, I am happy to have the privilege of once more enjoying the hospitality of your department, for which please accept my sincerest thanks and deep appreciation."

Wilkins and Wife Are Making Belated Bridal Trip on Airship

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEHURST, N. J., June 2.—Sir Hubert Wilkins, the polar explorer, and Lady Wilkins, the former Miss Suzanne Bennett, will make their wedding trip in the Graf Zeppelin. When they went aboard tonight Lady Wilkins carried a small black cat.

"You notice," Lady Wilkins said, "that the cat has white whiskers and white paws. That is supposed to bring good luck."

Sir Hubert explained why the wedding trip had been delayed.

"Although we were married on Aug. 1, 1929," he said, "I went into the Antarctic immediately afterward and since then I have been busy every minute. We will spend a month in Switzerland, then shall begin work on a book about my four expeditions."

FIERRO AT SAN ANTONIO.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 2 (AP).—After spending the night on a ranch about forty miles southwest of San Angelo, Texas, Colonel Roberto Fierro, Mexican flier, who will attempt a non-stop flight from New York to Mexico City, landed at Winburn Field here today.

Colonel Fierro left Burbank, Cal., Sunday morning with the intention of flying to Kelly Field, where he planned to land Sunday afternoon. He stopped at Lordsberg, N. M., Sunday and took off later for San Antonio, but flying somewhat north of the direct route, he became doubtful of having enough fuel to compete the flight to San Antonio and landed on the Texas ranch.

AIRPLANE STRIKES TUG ON SAN FRANCISCO BAY

Woman Passenger Is Seriously Injured, 7 Others Bruised in Oakland Accident.

OAKLAND, Cal., June 2 (AP).—A San Francisco air ferry carrying six passengers and two pilots struck the pilot house of a tugboat in the Oakland estuary today, swerved from its course to the top of a sand-laden barge and nose-dived into the water, seriously injuring Mrs. J. E. Hawley of San Francisco. The other occupants of the plane suffered minor lacerations, bruises or shock. All were quickly rescued.

The ferry, piloted by George McCallum with Fred Hammer as copilot, had just left the water on a flight from its berth at the foot of Broadway to San Francisco and was skimming down the estuary a few feet above the water when the tug with two barges in tow loomed ahead.

McCallum attempted to gain altitude, but one of the amphibian's pontoons struck the pilot house, hurling the ferry to the barge and into the water.

At the Oakland Emergency Hospital it was reported Mrs. Hawley had a severe cerebral hemorrhage and probably would die. Her sister, Mrs. J. Kugler of San Francisco, was a passenger.

The four other passengers were Miss Isabel Stewart, 28, of Chicago; Mrs. Samuel E. Stewart of Honolulu, sister-in-law of Miss Stewart; Virgin Unks of San Leandro, and Mrs. Virgil Unks.

ECKENER CONFERS WITH BACKERS HERE

C. E. Mitchell Is Host at Luncheon to Discuss Plans for Transoceanic Service.

NO OFFICIAL ACTION TAKEN

German Says New Mobile Mooring Mast Solves the Problem of Landing Dirigibles.

Before leaving New York for Lakehurst yesterday Dr. Hugo Eckener had luncheon with his American associates in the projected transoceanic airship line. The company for developing this line was formed last year under the name International Zeppelin Transport Corporation, and interests closely identified with it are the National City Bank and its affiliated company, the National City Corporation of America; the Goodyear Zeppelin Company of Akron, the Aluminum Corporation of America, the United Aircraft and Transport Corporation and the Union Carbide Company.

Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the board of the National City Bank, was the host at the luncheon in a private dining room of the bank's restaurant, and those present besides Dr. Eckener included Colonel E. A. Deeds, chairman of the boards of the International Zeppelin Transport Corporation and the United Aircraft and Transport Corporation;; Knut Eckener, Dr. Eckener's son, who for the last year has been working at the Goodyear Zeppelin plant in Akron, and F. W. von Meister, representative of the Luftschiffbau Zeppelin. Also there were Joseph P. Ripley and R. M. Byrnes, vice presidents of the National City Company, and J. H. Durrell, also a vice president of the National City Company, who came north on the Graf Zeppelin from Pernambuco.

Discussion at the luncheon was informal, it was said, and no official action was taken.

One problem of commercial airship operation that has concerned all those connected with plans for the transatlantic line has been that of handling the big dirigible on the ground. Dr. Eckener, it is understood, expressed himself to his banker associates as much pleased with the operation at Lakehurst of the new mobile mast and believes that with improvements it will go a long way toward solving the landing-crew problem.

In discussing the plans one of those present at the luncheon yesterday emphasized that the new line was still in its "study period," and such important matters as possible freight, mail and passenger loads, the rates to be charged, the equipment of the airships and the location of terminals in the United States remained to be settled.

Dr. Eckener returned to his suite at the Sherry Netherland, visited friends there and rested for an hour after the lunch. He was joined in his apartment shortly before leaving by Colonel Deeds, Mr. Ripley and Mr. von Meister, who drove with him to Lakehurst. It was said that Knut Eckener, who also went to Lakehurst, would not sail on the Zeppelin, but planned to leave for Germany soon by steamer.

HOURLY AIR SERVICE TO CAPITAL PLANNED

Passenger and Express Line to Make Ten Round Trips Daily, Beginning Aug. 15.

An airplane line which will send out planes every hour on the hour between New York, Philadelphia and Washington was announced yesterday by Miss Amelia Earhart, woman flier. This new service, designed to compete directly with the railroads for passengers and express at rates approximating rail and Pullman fares, is to be started on Aug. 15, Miss Earhart announced.

The company that will operate the new service, known as the New York-Philadelphia-Washington Airway Corporation, was formed under the Delaware law by the Ludington brothers, Nicholas and C. T., of Philadelphia, who have long been associated with aviation. It is capitalized for $1,000,000, and there will be no public stock offering, the company being owned completely by the Ludingtons and others already associated with them in various aeronautical enterprises.

The line, Miss Earhart announced, will use Stinson trimotored planes, Lycoming powered, several of which have already been purchased. Others will be added as they are needed. The schedule calls for ten trips each way each day, a total of 4,000 of flying miles a day.

The administration of the line will be in the hands of Paul F. Collins and Eugene Vidal, vice presidents. Mr. Collins was formerly chief pilot for National Air Transport and general superintendent of Transcontinental Air Transport. Mr. Vidal, a former army pilot associated recently with T. A. T., will have charge of traffic. Miss Earhart is vice president in charge of public relations and will also have special duties in traffic promotion. She has been assistant to the Traffic Manager of T. A. T.

The first plane will leave the terminals each day at 8 A. M. and every hour thereafter until 5 P. M. The New York terminal will be the Newark Metropolitan Airport. At Philadelphia the company will use the Central Airport at Camden, which is controlled and operated by the Ludingtons. At Washington the new Washington Airport, which, it is asserted, is but six minutes from the centre of the city, will be used.

While nothing was said in the announcement or by Miss Earhart concerning the possibility of obtaining an air mail contract, it is regarded in aviation circles as a logical step for the new line to seek a contract under the recently signed Watres bill. The plans provide a schedule between the centre of New York and Washington of two hours and thirty-five minutes and a flying schedule of one hour and forty-five minutes, between the two terminal fields.

The directors of the company are Nicholas Ludington, president; C. T. Ludington, chairman of the board; R. Sanford Saltus Jr., Walter L. Morgan and Charles C. Savage Jr.

C. T. Ludington, recently resigned as vice president and chairman of the technical committee of N. A. T. Mr. Saltus is vice president of Central Airport and Ludington Philadelphia Flying Service. Mr. Morgan is president of Morgan & Co., of Philadelphia and of the Industrial and Power Securities Company. Charles C. Savage Jr. is a director in Central Airport and counsel for Ludington aviation projects.

ZEPPELIN DEPARTS; CIRCLES OVER CITY

general easterly course with deviations dependent upon the wind.

The Zeppelin carried with her seven passengers who will debark during a two-hour stop in Seville, Spain, the end of her first hop of 3,300 miles, and fifteen others who will remain aboard for the additional twenty hours necessary to complete the entire 5,500-mile voyage to Friedrichshafen.

Dr. Eckener said that he expected to complete the first leg of his journey in about fifty hours. The radio station of the Lakehurst naval station expects to be in touch with the dirigible during the first part of her trip and will receive four hourly position reports. The weather forecast for the night indicated a high-pressure area to the south and a storm centre over Nova Scotia. Dr. Eckener expected to steer between the squalls to the northward and the calm to the south and to take advantage of tail winds to help him on his way. Balm air and fair weather were forecast for at least a part of the way across the sea.

Crowds See Take-Off.

Crowds stood in the glare of flood lights tonight packed closely behind ropes held by marines and sailors as the Zeppelin was prepared for her departure and the great steel and concrete doors of the hangar rolled back. With a great rumbling her bow, held firmly by the stubby mooring mast, pointed almost directly toward Venus, low in the western sky. The half moon and a sky bright with stars added a faint illumination to the sweeping flood lights which lit up the parched grass and sandy soil with a weird illumination.

To the accompaniment of "auf wiedersehens" and "good-byes," the Graf was hauled slowly from the hangar, while a small dog barked in furious amazement at the puffing tractor. On the field the Zeppelin bow swung slowly into a gentle six-knot wind from the south.

Sir Hubert Wilkins, the British explorer, and his wife were among those who waved good-bye from the lighted salon windows. The ship carried with her as the personal guest of Dr. Eckener, a vice president of the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation, Fred M. Harpham, who expressed the optimistic attitude of officers, crew and passengers when he said that he expected to see regular transatlantic airship service within two or three years.

Another officer of the Goodyear Corporation, Carl Fiches, assistant manager of airship operations, traveled aboard the Graf Zeppelin as a semi-official member of the crew of forty-five. He is to observe the operation and management of the ship and will remain in Friedrichshafen to make further studies.

Mrs. Alvin Untermyer of New York, daughter-in-law of Samuel Untermyer, had booked passage on the airship but canceled it yesterday.

Lakehurst Astir Early.

Lakehurst was astir early yesterday to prepare for the departure of Germany's pride of the air. Visitors were again allowed from 8 in the morning until an hour or so before sunset, and marines and sailors directed the light traffic and answered the questions of about 14,000 persons. Scores of visitors' cars were parked along the edge of the field during the day, but after sundown only a handful of the crowd remained to watch the Zeppelin take off.

Inside the hangar the crew of the airship, aided by naval personnel and civilian workmen, were busy completing repairs to the broken struts of the after gondola and loading supplies aboard.

The gondola repairs were finished in early afternoon, after workmen during the morning had completed attaching the new struts to the hull. The fabric cloth around the new struts was replaced and coated with "dope," while other workmen in the four other motor gondolas were oiling and carefully going over the huge 600-horsepower Maybach motors.

Amidships, under the great silver envelope, hydrogen poured through rubber lines into the delicate gas cells. Before sundown about 170,000 cubic feet of hydrogen had inflated the cells to their capacity, and after sunset, as the temperature dropped and the gas contracted, more hydrogen was added, to increase the lifting power of the ship.

1,400 Pounds of Ice Taken On.

A drum of lubricating oil was hoisted aboard and 1,400 pounds of ice was cracked up and placed in the ship's refrigerator. "Dry ice" was also taken aboard and more than seventy-five gallons of mineral water were poured into the ship's "scuttlebut." Forward in the cabins the stewards were busy making up the bunks with clean linen fresh from the laundry at Lakehurst. And Henry Kubis, chief steward on the airship, checked more than a half ton of food as it was unloaded from a truck from Louis Sherry's of New York. The passengers during their two-day trip to Seville and the folllowing run up the coast to Germany will feast on the best of American chicken, roast beef, ham and eggs, bacon, bread, cereals, tomatoes, cream, lettuce, pineapple, strawberries, raspberries, ice cream and many other foodstuffs.

The liquor supply of the Graf Zeppelin was replenished during the ship's stay at Lakehurst by whiskies and wines bought from the official United States Government stores. Fifty of the 140 bottles of wine taken on board at Pernambuco also are on the ship. The wine was under seal during the stay at Lakehurst.

Don Alfonso, tall, sun-tanned cousin of the King of Spain, arrived late in the afternoon from Washington in a tri-motored naval plane. With him were two members of the Spanish colony in Washington, Captain José Iglesias, attché at the embassy there, and Richardo Paddillo, son of the Spanish Ambassador. The Infante was among the first passengers to arrive and was preceded only by Mr. Harpham, who had been in Lakehurst since Sunday morning.

Harpham Talks of Future Service.

In predicting a regular transatlantic Zeppelin service, Mr. Harpham explained that the initial steps in the establishment of such a service depended on the enactment of the McNary-Parker bill now in the Senate which gives the airship the same status as the airplane and provides a "marine code of the air." Mr. Harpham said he was going abroad to study "the administrative and business problems as well as the commercial aspects" of such a transatlantic service. He revealed that the name of the airship now being built at Akron by his company had been officially changed by order of the Navy Department from the ZRS-4 to the U. S. Airship Akron.

Most of the Zeppelin passengers arrived on a special train from New York about 7 o'clock. They were taken to the welfare building on the reservation, while thousands of letters sent down from the Varick Street postoffice station for mailing on the Zeppelin were prepared for loading by Frank E. Smith, postoffice representative from Washington, and assistants. Earlier in the day, the small cargo of freight, was loaded on the Zeppelin.

Eckener Drives to Field.

As the slanting rays of a sinking sun gilded the corrugated sides of the hangar, Dr. Eckener drove up to the flight office in a car driven by F. W. von Meister, representative of the Maybach Motor Company. He was accompanied by his son, Knute Eckener, and by two friends. Shortly after the "skipper's" arrival a huge monoplane from Teterboro airport settled to earth on the rough field. It brought several passengers from New York to witness the Zeppelin's departure. The plane was piloted by Leon Allen and the passengers included C. F. Hoyt, C. V. Whitney, Warren C. Trippe and Mrs. Nelson Doubleday.

QUEENS SHOWS GAIN OF 613,170 SINCE 1920

Population Is Officially Put at 1,082,212, a Rise of 130 Per Cent in 10 Years.

IS FASTEST GROWING AREA

Bronx, With 80 to 90 Per Cent, Is Next—Census Returns Are In for 41 of 62 City Districts.

The 1930 population of Queens was announced officially yesterday to be 1,082,212, an increase of 613,170, or more than 130 per cent, over the census count of 469,042 in 1920.

The figures, which were said to be preliminary and subject to upward revision, were made known at exercises at Forest Hills by the borough's three census supervisors, Raymond Richmond, in charge of the First, Second and Third Assembly Districts; Harold W. Esray for the Fourth Assembly District and Louis C. Gosdorfer for the Fifth and Sixth Assembly Districts.

With advance estimates placing the Bronx well past the 1,000,000 mark, the completed count in Queens establishes it as the fourth in the million class, Staten Island being the only borough not having that distinction. Brooklyn remains as the only borough to have more than 2,000,000 inhabitants, the shift in population during the last decade having taken an estimated 500,000 from Manhattan's 2,284,103 mark of ten years ago.

Queens Growing Most Rapidly.

The statistics for Queens, it was pointed out, reveal it to be the fastest growing borough of the city, the Bronx being second with an increase of between 80 and 90 per cent, according to the estimates of supervisors there. Brooklyn's estimated increase was shown to be comparatively small, between 10 and 15 per cent.

Census officials and civic leaders of Queens said the unprecedented growth of the borough, as shown in a study of the Federal censuses since the first one, in 1790, was largely attributable to the exodus from Manhattan, where overcrowded living conditions had caused residents to move to the more open areas.

Although the Queens supervisors announced they would not make public the borough's unemployment statistics until tomorrow morning, they said replies to the census questionnaires showed there was a normal rate of unemployment of about 2 per cent. It was estimated that the borough has about 250 farms, including greenhouses and florists' gardens.

The supervisors released comparative figures for the six Assembly districts of the borough as follows:

A. D.	1930.	1920.	Increase.
1st	152,122	78,805	73,317
2d	143,015	74,441	68,574
3d	191,615	76,593	115,022
4th	298,375	83,175	215,200

The biggest increase in an Assembly district in Queens, both numerically and proportionately, was in the Fourth, which is reputed to be the most populous Assembly district in the United States. This area, with more than 250 per cent growth, includes all of Jamaica, most of Flushing and other fast-growing communities accessible to Manhattan for commuting. Jamaica has climbed from about 40,000 in 1920 to 86,041 in 1930, according to Mr. Esray, while Flushing grew from 33,000 to 55,608.

The Third Assembly District of Queens, which was next in growth, includes all of the newly developed Jackson Heights and Jackson Heights North, as well as parts of Astoria, Woodside, Winfield, Elmhurst and all of East Elmhurst, Elmhurst Manor, Corona, Corona Heights, College Point, Malba, Whitestone, Beachhurst and a small part of Flushing. Long Island City, which had 86,041 inhabitants in 1920, has more than doubled in population, it was indicated.

Other Large Gains.

In the Thirty-fifth Census District, embracing the Fifth and Sixth Assembly Districts, large gains were shown in the Rockaways and adjacent areas, Richmond Hill, Forest Hills, Woodhaven, Ozone Park and Ridgewood. Other Queens areas in which heavy gains were reported include Bayside, Douglaston, Little Neck, Hollis, Queens Village, Bellaire, Springfield Gardens, St. Albans, Rosedale, Bellerose and South Ozone Park. No loss was reported for any community.

Borough President George U. Harvey, in a telegram read at the Forest Hills exercises to celebrate the growth of the borough's population, predicted that within another decade Queens would have the largest population of any borough in the city. He was joined in this opinion by Fred C. Lemmerman, president of the Queens Chamber of Commerce, who presided at the ceremony.

A survey of the 1930 census here shows that out of sixty-two Assembly districts forty-one have been completed. Those announced as complete will be subject only to minor corrections, checking of totals and the addition of "stragglers." The incomplete districts, supervisors expect, will be finished within about two weeks.

Progress by boroughs is shown as follows:

Borough.	Total.	Complete.	Incomplete.
Manhattan	23	14	9
Brooklyn	23	18	5
Queens	6	6	0

William M. Steuart, Director of the Census, is expected tonight from Washington to attend a dinner at the Aldine Club, 200 Fifth Avenue, given by the Census Committee, Inc., at which Dr. Walter Laidlaw, executive secretary, will discuss the form of the neighborhood tabulations to be printed by the committee for New York, Yonkers, Syracuse and other cities of more than 100,000 population.

Westchester Total Put at 510,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 2.—An unofficial estimate of the 1930 population of Westchester County made today on the basis of census figures already made public was 510,000.

The Census Bureau has counted 475,276 persons in the county exclusive of the towns of Mamaroneck, Pelham and Scarsdale, and has given incomplete figures for the cities of Mount Vernon and White Plains. Census Supervisor James F. Arbuckle said today he would not be able to give even a tentative figure for the county until about the middle of the week.

Mr. Arbuckle announced today that the town of Greenbrugh, which includes the villages of Dobbs Ferry, Tarrytown, Irvington, Ardsley and Elmsford, has a population of 34,990 persons, or 11,109 more than in 1920. The town of Mount Pleasant showed a gain of 47.3 per cent, from 14,004 in 1920 to 20,639 for this year.

Plainfield Total Is 34,405.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 2.—An increase of 6,705, or 24.2 per cent, is shown by the census of Plainfield, it was announced today by Supervisor Peter J. Olde. With a population of 34,405, the city is listed ahead of New Brunswick among New Jersey cities.

The first unemployment figures for Union County were also given by Mr. Olde, who said:

"The number of persons usually working at a gainful occupation who were reported on the unemployment schedule as without a job was 525." Mr. Olde said this percentage was low.

The enumeration for the county now is complete except for Elizabeth. The county total so far is more than 260,000. The final total is expected to be about 375,000.

Middlesex County Estimate.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., June 2.—Middlesex County has a total population of 208,997, according to the official preliminary census tabulation, it was announced today by William A. Kane, superviser of the census. This is an increase of 40,663 over the 1920 figures.

Mr. Kane said that when the final figures for the county were made public, in several weeks, he expected the county's population would reach 210,000.

The figures for Perth Amboy and New Brunswick, the only two cities in the county, were given as 43,953 and 34,273, respectively. The increase for Perth Amboy was 5.4 per cent over 1920 and for New Brunswick 4.6 per cent.

TROOPS SEIZE REDS IN NORTHWEST INDIA

Catch Eight Leaders in Net Spread in Charsadda and Prang, Communist Centres.

REVOLT TAKES GRAVE TURN

Tax-Resisting Land Owners Evade Collectors—Serious Loss in Government Revenues Seen.

GANDHI CAMPAIGN SPREADS

Its Vastness Arouses Apprehension That Extensive Military Operations May Be Necessary.

BOMBAY, June 2 (AP).—In the Peshawar district, beset by a threefold threat of civil resistance, wild tribesmen and communism, Britain today made the outstanding move in the strategy that is advancing her arms across the map of India.

British troops, without warning to the communities, marched into two villages of the northwest frontier, gateway to the Punjab, Charsadda and Prang. It was "Tommy Atkins's" turn to try his hand at stamping out the Reds who for weeks have kept that district in a turmoil and aided the attacks of the other two disturbing elements.

They arrested eight leaders and established martial law throughout the areas. Peshawar city itself today was quiet, as was most of the rest of India. In nearly every centre Mahatma Gandhi's "day of silence" was as usual made the order of Monday.

Due to the advent of the rainy season, salt raiding came to a virtual end with yesterday's mass attack upon the Wadala depots, in which police and military charged 15,000 volunteers and 150 or more persons were injured. There were no reports of the use of firearms.

The raiding was succeeded by a far more serious menace—tax resistance. To meet its eventualities, the government put forth a new regulation providing grave penalties not only for refusal to pay taxes but for inciting to tax disobedience.

Government agents began at once to attempt tax collecting, but in most cases found the natives had departed from their lands. The situation was viewed with great anxiety, as continued maintenance of the tax strike would seriously hamper government revenues at the end of the year, it was pointed out by fiscal observers.

Gandhi Campaign Spreading.

The government today was forced to realization that the Gandhi civil disobedience movement had reached vast proportions. Even an increase in the number of wearers of the Gandhi hats was observed. In cities a goodly majority of the populace wear the hats and take part in demonstrations.

The increasing boycott on British goods similarly is accepted as a sign of growing solidarity among the supporters of the Mahatma.

It was indicated that there was serious doubt in official circles that the government longer would be able to control the situation without free use of military forces in aid of the civil police.

A public meeting was held during the day on the esplanade at Maidan, in Bombay, to celebrate Sunday's "victory" of the volunteers at Wadala. Speakers appealed to the volunteers to enlist in defiance of the Viceroy's new ordinance against picketing, boycotting and non-payment of taxes.

Seventy-two salt raiders, out of 800 awaiting trial at Worli, today were sentenced to three months' rigorous imprisonment.

An extraordinary gazette issued today in Simla said that the Viceroy's new ordinances regarding prevention of intimidation and unlawful instigation to non-payment of taxes had been applied to Bengal, Bihar and Orissa, Assam and the Northwest Frontier Province. The ordinance regarding unlawful instigation was applied to the Punjab.

A bomb exploded today in Ferozepur Road, Lahore, but did no damage. An immediate search of the neighborhood revealed other live bombs and explosive materials.

Moslems Loot Bazaar.

LONDON, June 2 (AP).—A dispatch from Dacca tonight said that the Rhoitpur Bazaar, a few miles from Dacca, had been attacked by Moslems who had taken property valued at 600,000 rupees (about $216,000). One hundred Hindu houses in the same neighborhood also were reported looted.

The same dispatch said the post and telegraph office at Tangail, in the Mymensingh district, had been burned and important documents thereby destroyed.

Dacca was the scene of rioting between Moslems and Hindus last week.

BOMBAY GROUP VOTES TO DEFY PICKETING BAN

5,000 Women Posted at Cloth Shops to Set an Example to Rest of India.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOMBAY, June 2.—The ordinance prohibiting picketing was discussed by the All-India Nationalist Congress "war council" here today. The general opinion appeared to be that the challenge thrown down by the Viceroy should be taken up and that the Bombay congress committee should give an example to the rest of India by openly defying the ordinance.

More than 5,000 women picketed the cloth shops today. It is proposed to extend the picketing to liquor shops, which hitherto has not been attempted in Bombay, and to shops dealing in British goods.

A correspondent of The Times of India gives an example of the congress propaganda methods. He says on Hornby Road, the principal business thoroughfare of Bombay, he saw a crow gazing at a poster surmounted by a congress flag and carried by two men dressed in homespun. The poster depicted a squad of British troops firing point blank at defenseless parties, including women and children. The foreground was littered with bodies. Vernacular inscriptions described the incident as "an everyday event of the British misrule in India."

The same correspondent says, judging from the spectators' faces, this "latest news from the front" deeply impressed them and the half-hearted attempts of the Sepoy police to induce the poster carriers to move on were entirely disregarded by the two men, who were distributing inflammatory pamphlets.

INDIA LEADER MISQUOTED.

Rezmie Said National Congress Had Dissociated Itself From Ghose.

The report of a protest made by T. H. K. Rezmie, director of the India Independence League of America against the claim of Silendra Nath Ghose to speak with authority on the Indian situation printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES of May 11, quoted Mr. Rezmie incorrectly as having said that the Indian National Congress had dissociated itself from Mahatma Gandhi. What Mr. Rezmie said was that the congress had dissociated itself not from Mr. Gandhi but from Mr. Ghose.

Regarding the attitude of the Congress toward dominion status to which reference was made in the same report Mr. Rezmie said yesterday:

"The goal of the Indian National Congress and Mahatma Gandhi is not dominion status but independence. The use of the term dominion status is misleading when describing the next stage in the direction of independence, which the Indian Nationalists and Gandhi would be willing to accept, if offered without delay. In India (by Indians and English officials alike) dominion status is no longer understood to mean the same thing it does in Canada, United States or in British colonies.

McCARTER DELAYS INQUIRY.

Wants to Consult Judge on Ocean County Investigation.

Special to The New York Times.

TOMS RIVER, N. J., June 2.—Robert H. McCarter, who has been appointed special prosecutor by Supreme Court Justice Bodine to investigate conditions in Ocean County regarding prohibition violations and the operation of gambling games, has announced he will not begin his work until after a consultation with the justice. Mr. McCarter did not say when a conference will be held.

It is expected the investigation will take twenty days and cost $100,000.

Rais Shoebzadoo and Mulazim Amien Ezzedin, of the Transjordan force; Barukh Binan, administrative officer at Haifa; Haj Abdul Raheem el Nabplsi, Acting Mayor of Nablus, and Solomon Schiff, acting inspector at Tel Aviv are made honorary members of the order.

Miss Amy Johnson becomes a commander of the Order of the British Empire. Mrs. Burnett Smith, who, under the pen name of Annie S. Swan, has written much fiction, is also made a Commander of the Order of the British Empire. Miss A. L. Ernst of Philadelphia, in charge of the Ackerman Hoyt hospital at Jhansi, is among those receiving the Kaisar-i-Hind Medal of the first class.

An old "Savoyard" receiving a knighthood is Henry Alfred Lytton, who has appeared in all the principal men's parts in the Gilbert and Sullivan operas.

There was a brilliant gathering at St. James's Palace today when the Prince of Wales held a levée on behalf of the King. The Prince took his place on the golden throne, and for half an hour statesmen, diplomats, including Ambassador Dawes, and naval, military and air force officers, the majority in resplendent uniforms or levée dress with knee breeches, passed before him.

Wearing the scarlet and gold full-dress uniform of Colonel of the Welsh Guards, the Prince went by car from York House to Buckingham Palace, where he stepped into a gilded state coach, drawn by two gaily caparisoned horses driven by scarlet and gold clad coachmen, with three footmen in full dress royal livery behind. The Prince was cheered by large throngs along the Mall as he drove, attended by the Sovereign's escort of life guards.

Members of the Horonable Corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms who were on duty in scarlet uniforms and helmets with plumes of swans' feathers, added a note of medieval pageantry to the colorful scene in the palace. The Duke of York, Prince George and Prince Arthur of Connaught were also present.

AUTHOR FEARS INDIA MAY HAVE CIVIL WAR

Mukerji, Back From Visit, Sees "No Statesmanship Great Enough to Prevent It."

DEPLORES GANDHI'S ARREST

He Says British Have Removed Only Restraining Influence That Can Control the Masses.

Dhan Gopal Mukerji, Indian author, returned on the French liner Rochambeau yesterday after spending several weeks in India in the centres of passive resistance to British rule. He returned, as he expressed it, "greatly depressed," and not hopeful for an early settlement of the turbulent conditions there.

He predicts that a successful breaking up of the resistance campaign would let loose a tremendous force of unrestrained opposition to British occupancy, and deplored the "most fatal British move," the imprisonment of Mohandas Gandhi. The Mahatma, he declared, was virtually the only restraining influence among the revolutionists with power enough to control the masses.

Mr. Mukerji said that his first impression on returning to India was the evidence everywhere that India, in the great masses, no longer fears Great Britain, that there is a universal manifestation of fearlessness and that the British secret police no longer represent magic and invincibility to the untutored Indian.

Says We Cannot Know Truth.

The world cannot know what is happening in India, where "human beings are being shot down as pigeons," Mr. Mukerji declared, adding that in six months the world would really know what happened in Peshawar. A statement which the Indian writer issued on his arrival here follows in part:

"I visited many peasant groups with the president of India's national congress, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, in order to find out how they felt and thought. Almost all the peasants of the United Provinces, Behar and Bengal, numbering about 40,000,000 souls, are for total civil disobedience.

"Every group is organizing itself for non-violent resistance to the tax collectors. Resistance against the tax is the third move of the resistance groups. Unless something unforeseen happens in the meantime to upset the prearranged plans, the coming tax strife in India will be a dramatic spectacle. The astonishing part of the situation is that every peasant society is arranging its program in an open and above-board manner, showing conclusively that the nation is no longer afraid. Our people are healed of the disease of fear. This healing we owe to Mahatma Gandhi.

Marvels at New Youth.

"The second thing that struck me most forcefully was the Indian youth movement. No wonder early marriage is becoming a thing of the past. I found boys and girl volunteers marching not to the altar, but to the villages and factories in order to augment the political unrest among the proletariat.

"Among the youth I found no religion-consciousness, no caste-consciousness and no sex-consciousness.

"To sum it all up, India not only faces a bitter experience of a revolution but also a civil war which the princes and Indian landlords, who are fanatical adherents of the British, will thrust upon her. In short, there is chaos ahead if our present differences with Great Britain are not amicably composed. I fear chaos will win, for I see no statesmanship anywhere great enough to prevent it.

"I wish that world public opinion might bring pressure to bear on both Mahatma Gandhi and Premier MacDonald. Why is it that Mr. MacDonald, who was a pacifist during the last war, permits so much shooting in India? Every week the police fire on a crowd in one part of India or another. Can nothing be done to prevent the increasing insanity that is taking possession of the East? Is there no way of making the two contending forces settle their difficulties without further bloodshed?"

DAVID A. BOODY ESTATE VALUED AT $981,259

The estate of David A. Boody, last Democratic Mayor of the old City of Brooklyn, who died Jan. 20 last, was appraised in the Surrogate's Court in Brooklyn yesterday at $1,092,120 gross and $981,259 net. Mr. Boody, who was a Wall Street broker for sixty years, died at his home, 39 Plaza Street, Brooklyn, at the age of 93.

The principal assets of his estate, according to the transfer tax report, was his account in the brokerage firm of Boody, McClellan & Co., of which he was a member, which amounted to $845,095. He also left stocks and bonds valued at $229,813.

The estate was divided chiefly among his children and grandchildren. Mrs. Maude B. Carey, a daughter of 39 Plaza Street; Edgar Boody, a son, of Englewood, N. J., and Miss Constance Boody, a granddaughter, of 525 Park Avenue, each received property valued at $196,319. Alvin Boody, a son, of Sydney, Australia, and Mrs. Louise W. Boody, a daughter-in-law, of 187 Berkely Place, Brooklyn, each received a life interest in $93,103, which on their deaths is to pass to their children.

Trust funds of $32,701 were set up for the benefit of three grandchildren. They are Irving Boody of West New Brighton, S. I., Mrs. Mildred B. Walser of New Brighton, S. I., and Mrs. Abbie B. Hatcher of Tampa, Fla. A trust fund of $98,103 was created for Mrs. Gertrude R. Boody, a daughter-in-law, of New Brighton, S. I.

Mr. Boody owned 1,477 shares of the Manhattan Company, Inc., which were valued at $180,194. During his lifetime he created trust funds for two sisters and a brother which totaled $13,368. His personal effects were valued at only $226.

REFUSE TO LIFT BAN ON MIXED WEDLOCK

Presbyterians, by Close Vote, Reject Removal of Restriction as to Catholics.

DIVIDED IN WARM DEBATE

Rest of Marriage Program Is Adopted, Providing Extended Research Into Its Problems.

NAVAL TREATY SUPPORTED

Denying Citizenship for Refusal to Bear Arms Protested—Proposal to Prohibit Tobacco Is Lost.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, June 2.—After a warm debate, in which opinion was apparently almost evenly divided, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America today defeated by a small majority a resolution that would have eliminated from the confession of faith a section which prevents marriage between Presbyterians and Catholics.

Specifically, the assembly refused to remove from the confession of faith the expression that "Such as professed the true reformed religion should not marry with infidels, papists and other idolaters."

One reason for this refusal offered from the floor of the assembly was:

"Why make a kindly gesture toward a church which has no kindliness toward us?"

On the other side, the Rev. Dr. Howard A. Johnston of Milwaukee, speaking in behalf of the resolution, said:

"At the time of the Reformation the section as it now stands may have been justified, but in this day we feel that there are members of the Catholic Church who are firm believers in Jesus Christ."

Victory for Philadelphians.

The vote, on which the figures were not announced, was a victory for the Philadelphia Presbytery, which had filed the only protest against this one resolution of the ten offered by the Assembly's Special Commission on Marriage, Divorce and Remarriage. The move against the resolution was made by the Rev. George B. Bell of Philadelphia, who argued that elimination of the words, as provided, did not materially change the meaning of the section as a whole.

All of the other nine resolutions regarding marriage were adopted. These included a definition of Christian marriage as based on religion rather than on happiness, for the reason that "marriage is an invitation to share in the tragic aspects of our common existence."

Others called for enlightenment on marriage problems, one providing that "the Presbyterian ministry be urged to preach a series of sermons on the themes of love, marriage and the Christian home and allied subjects during this Church year," and another authorizing the Assembly to appropriate $1,500 toward the employment of a research secretary, in cooperation with other denominations, to study the problems.

It was also decided to add to the commission of eleven members for further study a doctor, a social worker and a psychiatrist. The commission was authorized to publish this year a symposium on marriage, including the best statements in current literature.

A report declaring that the cause of prohibition "faces the gravest crisis since the Eighteenth Amendment was passed to the Legislatures in 1917," was accepted, together with the conclusion that "a nation-wide plan of temperance education must begin anew with the spirit of the old crusaders" to make headway against the "thousand clever ways the enemies are seeking to nullify the operation of the Volstead act and in due time wipe out the Eighteenth Amendment."

An attempt was made from the floor to add tobacco and the motion pictures to the new anti-alcoholic campaign. An Elder from Alaska said:

"I have six children, but I do not fear they are menaced by liquor or drugs as much as I fear the tobacco trust and its advertising."

It was the understanding of the chair, however, that tobacco was included in other resolutions against narcotics. The motion picture issue was dropped.

Inquiry Into Liquor Drinking.

In connection with both marriage and prohibition, the assembly voted its approval of a report on Christian education, saying:

"We do not need more laws but nobler concepts. The fact is that we are trusting to the Constitution of the United States and the faithful instructions of a previous generation to work moral changes in the tastes and conduct of the people of today."

As a preliminary to renewing the process of education as the proper way to national temperance, the Department of Christian Education reported its intention of inquiring how much liquor parents and children were now consuming.

After hearing the Rev. Henry L. Bowlby of the Interdenominational Lord's Day Alliance in an impassioned plea for writing the Sabbath into the National Constitution, the Assembly voted to continue its moral and financial support.

Senate Urged to Ratify Treaty.

The Assembly adopted a resolution urging the United States Senate to ratify the London Naval Treaty and pledging itself generally to promote agencies of international peace.

The recent refusal of citizenship tot conscientious objectors caused the General Assembly to adopt a resolution of protest, in view of the "repeatedly declared aversion of the Church to war and its belief in the substitution of international conferences and courts."

It was resolved that "the right and duty of citizenship should not be conditioned upon the ability or willingness, contrary to conscience, to bear arms or to take part as a combatant of war."

Progress in the revision of the Book of Common Worship was reported by a committee under the Rev. Dr. Henry van Dyke of Princeton University, who said that the revision committee was using the language of the Confession of Faith and of the Directory of Worship as saturated with the thought and very words of the Bible. At the same time, he reported, the committee "has recognized the desire of the congregation, especially the young people, to take more part," and added:

"We have also endeavored to utter the aspirations of the present age to world peace, social justice, mutual good-will, Christian unity, and the growth of faith to keep pace with the increase of knowledge by providing fitting prayers and litanies, not forgetting the special place which our own country should have in our devotions."

The year until the next general Assembly is to be known as "stewardship year," which was defined today as "a better motivation of the Church's giving and a more worthy participation by all Presbyterians in the total Church program for building the Kingdom of God."

Capital Funds for Colleges.

A plan "to provide capital funds for such colleges as are completely in accord with the purposes and principles of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America" was ordered for presentation to the next General Assembly, after the Assembly heard the report of the Rev. Dr. William Chalmers Covert on "Modern Life Problems."

Dr. Covert declared that economic pleasure and the rising costs of operating educational institutions were "killing our Christian colleges as the secular high schools did our Presbyterian academies."

Christ had been left out of the tidal wave of secular education, according to Dr. Covert, who said:

"A seven years' study of the situation shows that before the war only one in 300 went to college; now, one in every 100 goes.

"This means generations of more high-powered, clever, well-endowed personalities than the world has ever seen. We are releasing the powers of personality, but are not equally concerned with the more difficult problem of controlling them. It is the supreme business of the Church to do this thing."

The "booklegging" of Scripture tracts into Soviet Russia was described in a report of the American Tract Society to the Assembly, which shares in the support of the work.

"In spite of Russia's restrictions, 12,000 of the Helen Gould Shepard Scripture tracts found their way into the homes of Russian peasants during the past year," the report states. "Just now the society is able to get large quantities of religious tracts into certain parts of Russia. This is a wonderful opportunity to save Russia from atheism."

CHARGES VAUSE LOST AGED WIDOW'S FUNDS

Tuttle Asserts Much of $63,000 of Which Judge Was Trustee Has Vanished.

SENDS CASE TO BROWER

Prosecutor Says Some of Money Was Deposited in Bank Under a Fictitious Name.

MAIL FRAUD TRIAL PUT OFF

To Begin on Monday—Grand Jury Starts New Brooklyn Inquiry Today.

A large part of a $63,000 estate left in trust for a widow now more than 80 years old apparently has disappeared under the trusteeship of County Judge W. Bernard Vause of Kings, United States Attorney Tuttle charged last night in a letter to District Attorney George E. Brower of Brooklyn.

The judge, who already has been indicted for mail fraud, perjury and grand larceny, has ignored repeated requests for an accounting of his stewardship, Mr. Tuttle said, has told conflicting stories about investments and has on one occasion at least used his personal funds "to pay income due from supposed investments of the trust estate."

This development came late in the day after the trial of Judge Vause and his nine co-defendants in the mail fraud charge growing out of the $400,00 failure of the Columbia Finance Corporation, scheduled to open yesterday, had been adjourned until next Monday by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe, who denied a demurrer to the indictments. A motion for a change of venue on behalf of Judge Vause and his brother Louis will be filed tomorrow, defense attorneys announced.

New Grand Jury Inquiry Today.

Judge Vause absented himself from the proceedings. Meanwhile in Brooklyn, the June grand jury was being sworn in by County Judge Franklin Taylor. This morning it will begin hearing evidence in connection with the actions of Judge Vause as chairman of the board of the Clinton Capital Corporation regarding the alleged payment of $25,000 of the company's assets to the judge.

The new charge uncovered by Mr. Tuttle in his inquiries into the Columbia Finance Company failure and the $250,000 fee Judge Vause received from the United American Lines for obtaining leases for the company to two city-owned piers is concerned with the estate of Henry Timm, who died in Brooklyn Aug. 2, 1923, after appointing his brother, Simon Timm; his wife, Caroline Timm, and Judge Vause as executors.

According to an accounting filed in the Surrogates' Court in 1924—the last that was made—the testator left $63,311.25. Of this $37,311.25 was in cash and the rest in mortgages on property in Pipestone, Minn. Administration expenses, according to the last account, amounted to $9,484.12, including legal fees of $2,500 paid to Vause & Vause.

The will created a trust, making the executors the trustees, who were not required to furnish bonds. Upon the death of Simon Timm, five years ago, Mrs. Timm became entitled to the income from the entire estate for life.

Loans Were Paid, Tuttle Says.

Both of the mortgages, one for $15,000 lent to John H. Bruins and one for $11,000 lent to Claudius Hass and Claus Claussen have been paid in full since Timm's death, according to evidence obtained by Mr. Tuttle, who said:

"I have before me a letter from the aforesaid mortgagor, John H. Bruins, dated Jan. 27, 1930, in which he states that he has made complete payment of the mortgage to the trust estate on Dec. 15, 1929 and all moneys are now in the hands of W. Bernard Vause.' We are told by Archibald W. J. Pohl of 480 East Nineteenth Street, Brooklyn, who was present Wednesday at a conference between Judge Vause and Mrs. Timm, that Judge Vause said that the proceeds so paid by Mr. Bruins had been invested by Judge Vause for the estate in lots on Foster Avenue and Fifty-third Street, Brooklyn; and, inasmuch as he did not altogether like the investment, he was going to get the money back and invest it in guaranteed mortgage certificates.

"On the other hand, as Judge Vause testified before the Federal grand jury last April, he stated that the lots on Foster Avenue and Fifty-third Street were purchased with funds from the Joseph S. Boyle special account; that he sold a half interest in those lots to the Columbia Finance Corporation, and that the subsequent foreclosure of the first mortgage on those lots had wiped out the investment, and that he had not been at any time the owner of any mortgage on those lots."

The other mortgage was paid up Dec. 4, 1924, and the $11,000 proceeds were deposited in the Equitable Trust Company to the account of the estate.

Fictitious Name Used, He Charges

"This amount," Mr. Tuttle said, "was thereupon withdrawn from that account Dec. 9, 1924, and was used on Dec. 10, 1924, in opening an account in the Brooklyn Trust Company in the name of 'William Jerome.' 'William Jerome' is a fictitious name which was intended, according to Judge Vause's testimony before our grand jury, to designate his own brother, George W. Vause."

Mr. Tuttle pointed out that $35,000 of the judge's fees from the United American Lines went into this account, to be checked out subsequently to an allegedly fictitious person, 'Frank Maxter,' until at the present only $80.09 remain.

Continuing, Mr. Tuttle said;

"In addition, the statement furnished by Judge Vause to the American Trust Company, in March last, purports to show $5,000 of the estate invested apparently in one of the promotions of Anderson T. Herd at 8 per cent per annum. It also purports to show an investment of $8,000 in the Valo Distributers, Inc., which I am informed has been engaged in the distribution of motion picture films and in which Judge Vause had some interest. The lawyer who represents the Valo Distributers has informed me that it now has substantially no assets.

"The account of the trust estate with the Equitable Trust Company shows a balance as of May 23, 1930, of only $46.20 and no deposit of income from the supposed investments since a time prior to the first of the present year. The only credit to the account in the current year is a deposit of $1,000 on March 21, 1930.

"As evidence that Judge Vause supplied from his own personal funds moneys to pay income due from supposed investments of the trust estate, I have in my possession a check drawn at his direction for $1,540 under date of Jan. 13, 1927, to the order of the estate of Henry Timm, and signed 'Joseph S. Boyle, special.'"

SAYS ACTRESS TRIED TO DIE

Chauffeur Testifies Christine Norman Told of One Suicide Attempt.

Mrs. Anna Christine Norman Booth, once popular on the Broadway stage as Christine Norman, who ended her life on March 6 by plunging from her twentieth floor apartment in the Hotel Warwick, had been frustrated in a suicide attempt last November, it was testified yesterday when trial of the suit by her mother and husband to invalidate her will was resumed before Surrogate O'Brien.

This testimony was given by John Ponselle, chauffeur for Mrs. Minnie Jamison of 956 Fifth Avenue, the testatrix's mother. He said he had been present in Mrs. Jamison's home when the actress asserted that she had just tried to jump from the deck of a ferry boat but had been prevented by other passengers. The chauffeur also testified that Mrs. Booth had informed her mother that she had moved from the Hotel Gladstone to the Warwick because her home at the Warwick was twenty stories above the street and offered greater opportunity for suicide.

Mrs. Mary Page, nurse at a Vermont sanitarium, testified that she had attended Mrs. Booth there in 1914 when she suffered from insomnia. During her sleepless nights, the nurse said, Mrs. Booth would don the costume she had worn in "Peg o' My Heart," and would walk about with her poodle, repeating her rôle in the play. Dr. George Riley, her physician at the retreat, told the court that Mrs. Booth had suffered from delusions that she was a victim of cancer and tuberculosis.

The trial will continue today.

DOYLE SPLIT FEES BUT SHIELDS AIDES

anybody?" This question was repeated with respect to the year 1923.

"Prior to May 1, 1925, did you ever split a fee you had received for work done before the Board of Standards and Appeals?"

Then came the question which Dr. Doyle had been ordered by the court to answer:

"Did you ever split a fee for work done before the Board of Standards and Appeals?"

"Yes," answered the witness, according to the transcript.

"During what year?"

Refuses to Answer Questions.

The transcript showed Dr. Doyle had refused to answer questions as to whether he had split fees in 1928 or earlier years on the ground that the answers might tend to incriminate or degrade him, although he also had told the grand jury that his memory was not clear as to 1928.

Mr. Tuttle said great importance was attached to the following questions and answers in which "split fees" are mentioned in Dr. Doyle's own letter:

Q.—Now, going back to the matter of your amendment of your income tax, I show you a photostatic copy of a communication dated Jan. 8, 1925, addressed to the office of the supervising internal revenue agent—it's on your letterhead, "William F. Doyle, 11 John Street, New York," and I ask you whether that is your signature, or a photostatic copy of your signature? A.—Well, I should judge it was—that is, it looks like my signature.

Q.—Now let me quote from this letter, which has just been marked in evidence—now I call your attention to the schedule A.—"Schedule A attached to the said letter"—it reads this way: "Analysis of all income from services, showing each appeal-cases handled and completed during each year. This list is practically the same as list of cases included in inspector's report, and the cases are identified according to the dates; the following analysis shows in Column 1, first: Date of hearing of appeal when the services are, in particular case, terminated. 2. Shows gross fee for each case. 3. Shows retainer received on each case. 4. Shows date of retainer deposited in bank as per analysis of bank deposits. 5. Shows balance of fee received. 6. Shows amount paid as split fee on cases before making the deposit in bank. 7. Shows net amount of fee deposited in bank, per analysis of bank deposits. 8. Shows date of balance of fees. 9. Shows amount of split fee on cases paid after depositing balance of fees in full. 10. Shows net fee received from each particular case." Now, doesn't that refresh your recollection that this schedule relating as it does on the first page to 1922—I say, doesn't that refresh your recollection that you were in that year splitting your fees?

A.—I'm not positive that this is mine—that the contents of this is mine—I am not positive of that; I refuse to answer. You did ask me the question—did I split a fee? I said "Yes"; that was in compliance with the judge's statement. Now I want to consult counsel as to the propriety of my answering that; I don't know that this is mine, excepting that you have a photostat here with my caption on there.

Q.—Well, suppose I asked you now, inasmuch as you have examined the photostat—suppose I asked you now the question which I asked you a little while ago—whether in 1922 or 1923 you did split your fees; would your answer be the same as you gave a little while ago—that you declined to answer on the ground it would tend to incriminate you?

A.—Yes, it would be.

Rules on 1929 Fees.

"It appears abundantly," Mr. Tuttle told Judge Woolsey, "that Dr. Doyle split his fees for a considerable period prior to 1929. It is a moral certainty that persons he split with did not include such payments in their income tax returns. One of the prime objects of this inquiry is to find out whether he split his fees, when and with whom, so that the Government might know to whom to look for a proper return."

"I will rule," said Judge Woolsey, "that he must answer whether he split any fees in the years prior to 1929."

"Mr. Tuttle says," interposed Mr. Talley, "that there is a moral certainty that some persons with whom Dr. Doyle split fees did not include them in their income tax returns. There is no evidence of that. That was taken out of the air. All the circumstances here indicate that the District Attorney is trying to get something on Dr. Doyle."

Mr. Tuttle contended that the Federal statute of limitations in such cases as this one ran in three years. Mr. Talley interpreted the law otherwise and argued that the statute did not run for six years in such matters. For that reason, he said, Dr. Doyle should not answer questions about his amended income tax return of January, 1925.

Judge Woolsey ruled that Dr. Doyle must answer all questions about his income tax prior to Jan. 1, 1924. He asked both sides to submit briefs with respect to their positions about the running of the Federal statute of limitations. These briefs are to be in before noon tomorrow. Judge Woolsey will then rule on the 1925 income tax return.

Arguing against his client giving the grand jury any information about split fees, particularly with respect to the persons with whom he split them, Mr. Talley said:

"How easy it would be for him (Mr. Tuttle) to spell out a possible conspiracy against the government between this witness and some one with whom he split fees."

Judge Woolsey said the questions with respect to how much had been split and with whom Dr. Doyle had split had not been asked and would be ruled upon as they came up.

"I can inform your honor now," said Mr. Talley, "that counsel will direct the witness to answer the question as to whether he split fees with any member of the Board of Standards and Appeals."

United States Attorney Amell of the Eastern District of New York was in court throughout the argument.

Mayor Not to Act Now.

Mayor Walker was asked yesterday if he would suspend further sittings by the Board of Standards and Appeals, which is scheduled to sit today, as a result of the two grand jury investigations under way. He said he would not, as the grand juries' actions superseded his powers in the matter, although, he added, they had been at it a long time. He made it clear that he would act promptly if an indictment should be returned.

District Attorney Crain said yesterday that Mr. Talley had sent him the names of two banks with which Mr. Doyle had transacted business. They are the Sterling National Bank, at Forty-second Street and Lexington Avenue, and the Corn Exchange Bank. Mr. Doyle, he asserted, had accounts with both these banks.

Mr. Crain will present to the grand jury today testimony with respect to Mrs. Cutler's gasoline station permit, for which she said she had paid Dr. Doyle and others almost $10,000. He also will press his inquiry into the question of an alleged zoning law violation by the owners of the Lefcourt Colonial Building at Forty-first Street and Madison Avenue. Later he will take up the matter of Chairman William E. Walsh of the Board of Standards and Appeals occupying a $4,000 apartment at 25 East Eighty-sixth Street for a rental reported at only $1,500 a year.

The District Attorney sent out some ninety letters yesterday to branches of the Chevrolet Motor Car Company in an effort to trace one Harry Rubin, to whom Mrs. Cutler said she gave $1,500 in connection with her permit. He drove a Chevrolet, she told Mr. Crain. He also wrote to the State Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Irene Bordoni Wins Injunction.

A permanent injunction was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday in favor of Irene Bordoni, actress, restraining her former husband, E. Ray Goetz, and his attorney from prosecuting a matrimonial suit against her here. The writ was granted on the ground that an annulment decree she obtained in Chicago last November is binding on the courts of New York. Miss Bordoni won the annulment on her allegation that when she was married to Mr. Goetz in Jersey City on Oct. 24, 1918, a divorce pending between Mr. Goetz and his former wife had not become effective.

TO CHALLENGE TARDIEU ON OUR CUSTOMS MEN

Deputy Will Interpellate French Government Today—Delay in Debate Likely.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 2.—In the list of interpellations on the calendar for discussion in the Chamber of Deputies during the session which opens tomorrow is one on the methods of American customs agents in France. The mover will be Charles Pomaret, Deputy from Lozère, a member of the Central party, to which Foreign Minister Briand belongs. He will ask the right to interrogate the government on "the re-establishment of American fiscal agents in France and the danger resulting therefrom to the independence and sovereignty of the government and also on methods of investigation of said fiscal agents."

It is probable the government will demand and the Chamber will approve the postponement sine die of debate on these questions. Deputy Pomaret, however, will have the right to make a short speech defending his claim to be heard and advancing reasons why the debate should be held.

In all there are some sixty demands for interpellations, covering a great variety of subjects, among which are the situation in Indo-China, the presence of a member of the government at the funeral of some French members of the Fascist party and the roughness of the play in a rugby match between France and Wales.

Premier Tardieu's program, as outlined in his speech at Dijon yesterday, has the whole-hearted support of a vast majority of the Paris newspapers. On the other hand, it has tended to embitter the quarrel between the Right and the Radicals, while the Socialists are preparing to lead a campaign of resistance to every government proposal in the hope of snatching a victory.

SOLUTIONS REACHED ON YOUNG PLAN LOAN

Group of Four in Paris Makes Such Progress That Signing of Accord Is Due Saturday.

FULL SESSION ON THURSDAY

Formula Reached Guarantees Sum Secured by the Reich's Budget Equally With Annuity Share.

By CARLISLE MacDONALD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 2.—The committee of four appointed by the international bankers' meeting to whip into shape the final agreement on the first Young plan reparation loan made such rapid progress today that it is now almost certain that the ceremonial of signing the financial accord will be held on Saturday, the first anniversary of the signing of the Young plan. The event will take place in the same room and around the very table where the Young agreement was born.

Large quantities of papers were sent to the printers tonight after four days of intensive efforts during which several night sessions were held, and while the decisions reached by the committee of four must be approved by a plenary session of the bankers from the nine markets in which the $300,000,000 operation is to be floated, its members are hopeful that their conclusions will be adopted without further dispute.

Plenary Meeting Thursday.

The investment bankers who returned home last week when certain difficult questions were turned over to the smaller group have been summoned to Paris for a plenary meeting on Thursday. Assuming that the plenary session endorses the work of the committee of four—and there is every reason to believe they will, since the whole matter has now been thoroughly threshed out and time is pressing—then the ceremony of signing the general agreement between the bankers and Germany will take place on Saturday. Under that schedule the bonds will be offered in the various world markets on June 11.

It will be recalled that one of the main problems inherited by the committee of four was the delicate question of the services of two portions of the loan; that is to say, the $200,000,000 destined for the allied treasuries and guaranteed as to interest and principal by a portion of the unconditional annuities of the Young plan, and the third $100,000,000, which the bankers, with the consent of the allied powers, are lending to Germany for the development of her railways and postal services. The latter is secured only by the German budget.

It was said today that a strong legal formula had been reached under the terms of which each portion of the loan will bear an equal guarantee as to interest and principle, thus removing any doubts which prospective investors might have had regarding the security for the $100,000,000 to be paid to Germany.

Method Not Revealed.

Just how this has been reached was not disclosed, but it is now likely that the German Finance Minister, Dr. Moldenhauer, will affix his signature to a clearly worded letter setting forth the direct responsibility of the Reich's budget for the non-reparation part of the loan.

The matter of the price of the bonds in the various markets is still being worked out, but there are indications that American investors will have the opportunity of purchasing them at a very attractive price. One suggestion is that the price will be around 85 or 86 to yield nearly 6½ per cent.

That the American price will be approximately at this figure is borne out by dispatches from Washington published here today to the effect that the State Department has given its informal consent to the floatation in America of "one-third of the loan," or $100,000,000. Previous estimates of the American share have fixed the amount at $85,000,000, but when this was pointed out in responsible American banking quarters it was explained that if the American issue price was around 85 it would be necessary to sell $100,000,000 worth of bonds to complete the American allotment of $85,000,000.

The committee of four is composed of Arthur Anderson of J. P. Morgan & Co., Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England; Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, and Robert Masson, director of the Credit Lyonnais.

TO FIX CONSTITUTION FOR POLISH ORTHODOX

President Asks Metropolitan to Call Conference to Decide Agenda for Assembly.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, June 2.—Three million orthodox Christians of Poland have been invited, in a special message from the President of the republic, to elect their representatives to the new Polish Sobor (Church Assembly) to decide on the definite constitution of the orthodox Church in Poland. A few years ago the orthodox Church was made independent of the Russian Patriarch, who was its head under the Russian Empire.

The President's message was read in the orthodox cathedral yesterday, where solemn mass was celebrated by Metropolitan Dionysus, with several Catholic dignitaries and State representatives present. The message asked the Metropolitan and the Bishops to convoke a conference preliminary to the Sobor to fix the agenda.

The Metropolitan called today on President Moscicki to thank him for the message.

The Polish press hails the message as a historic event in the relations between the Polish State and the orthodox Church, repairing the damages which the Church sustained in the partitioning of Poland between Russia, Prussia and Austria, the orthodox Church then refusing representation in the Senate and being thrown into the arms of the Russian Church.

The preliminary conference has been fixed for the end of the month and the Sobor for the end of the year. Bishop Cratriakox represented the Patriarch of Istanbul at yesterday's ceremony.

LAMONT MAKES PLEA FOR GERMAN LOAN

ican banks for sale to the public. The loan is to be floated either June 9 or 10.

In his address yesterday designed to encourage interest in the German reparation loan Mr. Lamont had the support of the presence not only of Sir Josiah, but also of Owen D. Young, father of the Young plan. Present also were many other persons prominent in finance, business and economics. To them Sir Josiah appealed for what he termed "the demilitarization of finance" as a step requisite for a more scientific approach to the world's financial problems and the correlation and integration of international financial life.

Sir Josiah said that the Bank of International Settlements, established to make the Young plan effective, may well prove the foundation for an international machinery such as it required to bring about the cooperation of the financial forces of the world, without which, he said, international financial stability, independent of the play and perturbations of political factors, cannot be achieved.

Lamont Assails McFadden.

In urging the wisdom and desirability of purchasing German reparation bonds, Mr. Lamont assailed Representative Louis T. McFadden of Pennsylvania for his attack in the House upon the Young reparation settlement and the German Government's good faith in accepting its obligations under the Young plan. One of the points of Mr. McFadden's attack was that Germany had gone beyond the law in accepting these obligations.

"No more unfounded or unjust accusations than these directed against a friendly people could well be imagined," said Mr. Lamont. "On the contrary, Germany has been most scrupulous in seeing to it that every step of her procedure of acceptance should conform to the law."

In support of this statement Mr. Lamont cited the national referendum initiated by a small Nationalist group opposed to the new plan and which was overwhelmingly defeated. Other proofs of Germany's good faith cited by Mr. Lamont was the approval of the plan by a large majority of the Reichstag and its signing by President von Hindenburg, "who approved the law in a message of great logic and power." As for Representative McFadden's assertion that the late Dr. Gustav Stresemann, Foreign Minister of Germany, had declared that Germany would not fulfill her obligations under the new plan, Mr. Lamont said that "examination fails to disclose any utterance of his even remotely supporting this Congressman's astonishing accusation."

"Just as the American investment public showed its wisdom five and a half years ago in materially assisting, through the Dawes plan, to put Germany upon its feet," Mr. Lamont said, "so now they are showing their readiness to cooperate in the new German loan, believing that their action will be another step in reaffirming Germany's credit; in the assistance given to America's foreign trade; in making concrete and effective the Locarno treaties; but most of all in the financial liquidation of the war and in building firm foundation for the new epoch of economic and political peace in Europe."

Calls Settlement Just.

Replying to other critics of the Young plan, particularly those "who wonder whether the experts did not lay an undue burden upon Germany," Mr. Lamont declared that "on the contrary those experts, under Mr. Young's leadership, sought to make a fair and final assessment of the European costs of the great war.

"They sought to arrange, so far as lay within their power, an equitable and final readjustment of the financial burdens of the war as among France, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, Belgium and so on. To this end they naturally took into account the important question of comparative debt and taxation burdens among these countries. To those critics who wonder whether the experts did not lay an undue burden upon Germany, I beg to point out that the public debt of Great Britain today is approximately equivalent to $37,000,000,000, that of France to $13,500,000,000, that of Germany (including all its reparation payments) under $11,000,000,000. Assuming for purposes of calculation that all Germany's annuity payments could be paid in a capital lump sum today to the creditor governments, even then Great Britain's debt would be reduced only from $37,000,000,000 to $35,000,000,000, France's $13,000,000,000 to $9,000,000,000."

Mr. Lamont said he mentioned these figures to give point to his belief that Germany's liability as now finally determined is not unduly burdensome upon her.

"To be sure," said Mr. Lamont, "her public debt will be external and that of the other countries that I have mentioned largely internal. In that way and to that extent the other countries are certainly in more advantageous position, because with them the question of exchange transfer is of much lesser importance. Even so, however, with normal conditions restored Germany should encounter no very serious difficulty in meeting this newly arranged public debt.

"As bearing upon this point, I may recall to you that Germany's payments to the creditor powers for the last year of the Dawes plan were approximately $590,000,000. Under the first year of the Young plan, now officially designated as the new plan, Germany's payments drop to approximately $400,000,000, being one-third less. The saving to Germany under the first ten years of the new plan, as contrasted with the Dawes plan, is very great, in present value something like a billion dollars. The German budget will receive average relief in the next three years of 750,000,000 marks per annum, and in five years an aggregate of 3,400,000 marks."

In support of his plea for active financial interest of Americans in aiding the operation of the new plan through the purchase of German reparations bonds, Mr. Lamont cited the growth of mutual confidence in Europe as a result of developments of the past few years and the direct advantages accruing from this situation to American trade and prosperity.

"The growth of mutual confidence in Europe since the first reconstructive efforts were undertaken has been slow, but it has been sure," Mr. Lamont said. "But the Stresemanns, the Briands, the Chamberlains and the MacDonalds—they have always known that the Locarno treaty, the Kellogg pact, the draft treaties of mutual assistance, could never be deemed fully workable so long as there remained grave danger of economic disorder in Europe.

"That danger, through the beneficent mechanisms of the Dawes and Young plans, supplemented by further important measures taken at The Hague and Baden-Baden conferences, has been ended. It is for that reason that American bankers, following the precedent which they had set for themselves in the previous operations for European reconstruction since the war, have taken the lead in this last step, which at the same time is the initial operation for the commercialization of reparations, under the mechanism set up by the Young plan."

Mr. Lamont then concluded by expressing his confidence that the American public would understand the importance of the situation and would give its support to the German reparations loan.

Sir Josiah said most of the ancient causes of international difficulty and misunderstanding have been eliminated by adequate institutional machinery, such as the League of Nations, the World Court, special treaties and arbitration pacts. He declared, however, that no such machinery has yet been created to deal with the questions of international finance, despite the fact that "international financial interdependence has become much more intricate and sensitive, while recognized and concerted means for dealing with it has hardly even been improvised."

"Politicians still talk of financial obligations in money as though they represent fixed things because they express them in so many pounds or dollars," said Sir Josiah, after reviewing some of the complexities of present day finance and economics. "But in reality they represent a fluctuating total of human effort every year. In general, lately, the position of debtors and of borrowers on bonds has become rapidly worse, their obligations being more onerous. The question of the price level as the most capricious arbiter of business and upsetter of contracts is a vital one in modern life. To make it less arbitrary involves a careful study of gold supplies and credit control and the possible good offices of the Bank of International Settlements.

"The Bank of International Settlements is the beginning of an institution that can develop into a machine for coordinated and thoroughgoing control of these capricious matters."

One of the first requirements toward such coordination and control, Sir Josiah said, is the demilitarization of finance by the scrapping of belligerent terms.

"In international finance there are too many fighting terms, such as retaliation and reparation," he said. "It ought to be demilitarized and treated as a problem for mutual international action in the interests of all."

At a reception given in his honor after the luncheon on board the Berengaria by the American officers of the London Midland and Scottish Railway Company, Sir Josiah appealed for increased American tourist traffic abroad as a means of helping Europe pay its debts to the United States, a factor, he said, which will become increasingly more important.

Referring to the pending American tariff bill, he said:

"With your increased tariff it will become increasingly difficult for us to pay our debts in money or goods, and one pleasant way of payment is by your coming over and looking at our historic points of interest and our cathedrals. The invisible balance of trade created by tourist traffic is a very important factor in the liquidation of debts and will become increasingly more important. Americans coming over to Europe are doing a very important thing for both America and Europe."

ITALIANS ESTABLISH TWO FLIGHT MARKS

Maddalena and Cecconi Cover 8,350 Kilometers in Closed Circuit in 67 Hours.

ATLANTIC ATTEMPT NEXT

Hero of Nobile Relief Expedition Will Try to Reach New York Later This Year.

MONTE CELIO, Italy, June 2 (AP).—Major Umberto Maddalena, hero of the relief of General Umberto Nobile and the Italia, today became the aviation idol of Italy anew by establishing two sustained non-refueling airplane flight records.

Major Maddalena and his companion, Lieutenant Fausto Cecconi, covered 8,350 kilometers (5,218 miles), setting a new distance record of 8,200 kilometers (5,125 miles), and then flying an additional 150 kilometers over Monte Celio Field until only enough fuel remained for ten minutes' further flying, whereupon they landed.

Major Maddalena wrested the endurance record from Germany and the record for distance in a closed circuit from France. He flew a course over land and sea and was 67 hours in the air. The former record was 65 hours and 26 minutes.

Sleeps Only Six Hours.

Physically exhausted but keen-eyed and alert, the two intrepid fliers went immediately to bed upon landing. Major Maddalena slept for six hours, after which he was an honored guest at a luncheon given by Minister of Aeronautics Balbo and other notables interested in flying.

Official Rome prepared today to recognize the achievement suitably.

The plane used by the two pilots was the S-64bis Savoia Marchetti, equipped with an A-22 Fiat motor. It was similar to that of the aviators Ferrarin and Del Prete in their Brazil flight in 1928 and the one Coste and Bellonte used a year later when they flew from France to Manchuria.

It was Major Maddalena who, in 1928, first sighted General Nobile and the survivors of the wrecked dirigible Italia, the polar exploration ship, on the ice north of Spitsbergen.

Major Maddalena announced that he considered his record flight essentially a preparation for his proposed attempt to fly to New York, in the same plane, later this year.

Former Records.

The former non-refueling flight record was made in 1928 by two Germans, Johann Risticz and Hans Zimmerman, who remained up sixty-five hours and twenty-six minutes.

Two Frenchmen held the previous distance record over a closed circuit. Dieudonné Coste and Paul Codos last December flew 8,016.8 kilometers (5,015.5 miles) in fifty-two hours and thirty-four minutes. To set a new official distance mark it was necessary for Major Maddalena to exceed this figure by 200 kilometers.

The Italian aviators flew over a course in which Monte Celio, Ostia, Ladispoli and Anzio were the corners. The flight began Friday and was beset almost from the start by poor visibility, bad weather and unfavorable atmospheric conditions.

Attempt Balloon Record.

MILAN, June 2 (AP).—Cavaliere Ernesto Sioli, a journalist, and Mario Massai took off today in the balloon Mina from the royal villa at Monza in an attempt to break the distance and endurance records for spherical balloons. They must remain in the air 26 hours and 27 minutes to establish a new mark.

EDGE PRAISES ART SCHOOL.

Attends Opening of Louvre Course of New York University.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 2.—Ambassador Walter E. Edge, who was a guest of honor at the inaugural ceremonies opening the Summer session of the Paris School of the Institute of Fine Arts of New York University at the Louvre this morning, emphasized how important it is for American students to get their impressions and knowledge of French culture and art at first hand instead of through the medium of textbooks.

He commented on the fact that more than 4,000 American students follow organized courses in Paris every year, 1,200 of whom attend the Ecole du Louvre. He praised the initiative which makes this possible.

Pierre Marraud, Minister of Public Instruction, paid a high tribute to the Ecole du Louvre as a fine-arts school.

Hundreds of American young men and women have availed themselves of the advantages of this course since it was established in 1928. The students pay a nominal matriculation fee. The credits obtained after examination are accepted in the Fine Arts Department of New York University toward the degrees of Bachelor or Master of Arts. There are four courses this year, and the work is largely by so-called "promenade conference."

RUMANIA'S POLITICS DIVIDES JEWS THERE

One Faction Attacks the Maniu Government as Anti-Semitic, Other Disputes Charge.

NEITHER GROUP SATISFIED

Those Allied With the Present Regime Are Disappointed With Its Weakness.

EXCESSIVE LIBERTY SCORED

Liberal Leader Thinks It Is Likely to Split Up Jewry and Curb Its Political Power.

By G. E. R. GEDYE.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, June 2.—A study of the recent recrudescence of anti-Semitic rioting in Rumania indicates that the Jews themselves differ regarding the extent to which the Maniu Government is to blame for permitting it.

The pre-war position of Rumanian Jews was little better than that of their Russian co-religionists. They had no rights to citizenship, could not buy or inherit land and were excluded from the professions. Almost the only recourse was to act as lessees for Rumanian "bojars" or landowners, who after borrowing money from them often found it cheaper to incite the peasantry against the lenders to drive them out than to repay these loans.

A general liberal trend of feeling in early post-war Europe benefited the position of the Jews, but resentment at the competition from the great influx of Jews driven from their homes in Poland, Russia and Galicia caused the revival of anti-Semitic agitation. The granting of citizenship enabled the Jews to send their sons to universities, which excited the jealousy of other students. Many university professors began to create fame for themselves by teaching anti-Semitism.

The late Premier Jon Bratianu found anti-Semitism useful to cover a multitude of political sins. Whenever disclosures concerning financial corruption and other scandals irritated public opinion, the Liberals gave the wink to professional anti-Semitic agitators, since persecution of the Jews was an excellent counter-irritant to divert public attention.

Student Strikes Broke Out.

It was in these circumstances that shocking riots amounting almost to pogroms occurred in Oradea, Mare, Cluj and elsewhere, as well as prolonged student strikes, which made it impossible for Jews to attend the universities. Under the Liberals the students obtained an order from the Minister of the Interior forbidding Jewish medical students to dissect Christian corpses.

When the Liberals fell, a majority of the Jews formed a cartel with the Maniu Government and obtained five seats in Parliament. A smaller group of Jews of the old kingdom, including several wealthy Bucharest bankers, formerly represented in Parliament by a banker, Berkowich, as Senator, and Dr. Fildermann, a lawyer, as Deputy, preferred to make a cartel with the Liberals and shared the Liberal debacle, losing their seats.

It is the latter group which—hoping to prevent the Maniu Government obtaining a loan it is seeking in the pious expectation that the Liberals may return and have the handling of the loan instead—is representing the Maniu Government as anti-Semitic.

The other group, comprising all the Jewish parliamentary representatives who stand as mouthpieces of the Jewish faith but excluding those Jews elected as definite members of the Maniu party, expresses disappointment at the failure of the Maniu Government to do more for Jewry and condemns its weakness toward anti-Semitism, but emphatically denies that the government itself has anti-Semitic tendencies and says that its overthrow would bring disaster for Jewry if it meant replacement by the Liberal party, under which the Jews suffered so much more.

Criticizes Maniu Government.

Dr. Fildermann, leader of the Jews allied with the Liberals and president of the Union of Rumanian Jews, which, he told your correspondent, included 30,000 Hebrews (there are about a million Jews in Rumania), in an interview severely criticized the Maniu Government, though he admitted there was no suggestion that pogroms had taken place. He began by attacking the government for granting too excessive liberty to the Jews.

"The laws governing religious bodies," he said, "in the cases of Catholics and members of the Orthodox Church, were drawn up in an agreement recognizing the heads of these bodies. The Liberal Government in 1922 summoned a conference of rabbis and heads of Jewish communities, received their suggestions and embodied them in law two years later regulating Jewish communities.

"Half a year later, however, the Maniu Government introduced a bill to alter the Liberal measure which was now a law, without consulting the Jewish representatives. This alone we consider a scandalous interference with our religious freedom. We are not in America; we are in Rumania, and we don't want this liberty to split up Jewry and weaken our political power. The Catholics and members of the Orthodox Church are not allowed to have schismatic churches recognized and we demand a place on the same footing, whereas the government's action means religious anarchy.

"We don't want freedom for every individual Jew to do what he likes, but for the Jewish religion as a whole to be free. It is Austria's old policy of divide and rule which Maniu is practicing. Equality granted to the Jews by the Treaty of Berlin and confirmed by the peace treaties entitles them to funds which the State allots to religious bodies from the taxes paid by all.

Failed to Get Funds.

"We form 10 per cent of the population, but until the last year under the Bratianu Government we received not a penny. Bratianu finalit granted us 10,000,000 lei and promised to increase it by 10,000,000. But Bratianu fell when only 7,000,000 lei had been paid. Although the budget provided for payment of the remaining 3,000,000, Maniu refused it, saying that Bratianu left him without any case. In 1929 Maniu granted 10,000,000 lei, but refused to increase which Bratianu had promised.

In Bessarabia the Jews form 12 per cent of the population. Yet when the government voted 800,000,000 lei for the starving population of Bessarabia, not a cent went to the Jews. With money from America the Jews founded their own cooperatives, but the autonomous rights which Bratianu had granted them were recalled by Maniu because, as a member of the government explained, they could not allow money obtained at a low rate of interest from America to be used in unfair competition with Rumanian cooperatives, and secondly, if the Jewish cooperatives prospered they would buy land and create a big class of Jewish peasant proprietors. What is that if not anti-Semitism?

"For fifty years our Jewish schools taught Hebrew as the native language and German as a foreign language. The Maniu Government classed Hebrew as a foreign language, and thus, under the law allowing only one foreign tongue to be taught, forced our schools to give up either Hebrew or German.

Teachers Forced Out.

"Forty per cent of our teachers are non-Jewish. Since until 1920 the Jews were not allowed to take a normal school course. Thus they could not obtain normal school certificates and the government accepted other degrees in their case. Three months ago the Maniu Government insisted on normal school certificates, obliging our schools to dismiss Jewish teachers and employ qualified Christians in their places.

"In 1918 the Bratinau Government suppressed all students' organizations because they were anti-Semitic, but the Maniu Government allowed them to reopen. Jews were attacked in some forty to fifty cases during the present government's régime, but the police always arrived too late and nobody was punished.

"The Maniu Government is the only one in Rumanian history which has not reproved the anti-Semites, not even when Professor Cuza stated in Parliament that the Jewish religion was criminal. Most dangerous of all is the present anti-Semitic propaganda among the ignorant, starving peasantry, who are told, 'The Jew buys your corn and pays a low price. You must buy clothes from the Jew and pay him high prices. The Jew is the cause of all your sufferings.'

"Among a stupid but suffering population, what result is that likely to have? It was by such propaganda that Cuza obtained many votes in Bessarabia."

Dr. Fischer, Deputy and chairman of the Jewish Parliamentary party, took a different view.

"We have had to contend with anti-Semitism since the Jews came to Rumania," he said. "Professor Cuza brought up several generations to hate us through the Anti-Semitic League, which the Liberals never touched after the Oradea and Mare outrages, although they closed the students' organizations a short time.

More Confident of Maniu.

"All former governments until Maniu tolerated occasional outbursts of anti-Semitic violence, but nothing comparable to the horrors at Cluj in 1922 and at Oradea and Mare in 1927 have been even attempted since Maniu took office. When Maniu came to power, we Jews who stood in his cartel confidently expected he would root out all anti-Semitic organizations. Therein he failed us, through weakness in the face of anti-Semitism of the lower officials, but not through ill-will.

"Jews throughout Rumania feel infinitely safer under his rule than they did under the Liberals. With the Liberal Government we could never feel sure they were not secretly provoking disorders. Now when such disorders occur, the overwhelming majority of Jews are entirely convinced it is against the government's wishes and due probably to the campaign of the Liberals to embarrass the government in every possible way.

"We criticize the government for failure to act sharply enough against students and other Nationalists, but it would be utter disaster to the entire Jewish community were Maniu forced to resign and if he were replaced by the Liberals with their ultra-Byzantine manners and morals. Only a few individual Jews would get any advantage from such a change, and we have no reason to fear that a great outburst against the Jews is imminent.

"I deplore the unfair way Dr. Fildermann treated the whole Jewish question. We certainly objected as a body to the government's granting excessive individual liberty, but we must admit, if we were displeased, orthodox Jews were delighted.

CENTRAL CHINA DRIVE OF REBELS CHECKED

Nanking Forces Hold Off Threat to Changsha, but Yangtse Valley Menace Is Grave.

NORTH CLAIMS BIG GAINS

Whole Nanking Air Force in Honan Reported Taken—Drive on Tsinan, Shantung, Begun.

CHANG ACTION EXPECTED

Mukden Leader Believed Planning to End War by Showing Force but Without Taking Sides.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, June 2.—While there is a dearth of news here from the northern front, in central China troops dispatched to the Changsha area are said to have checked temporarily the advance of Kwangsi troops and the "Ironsides" under Chang Fa-kwei, who had seriously threatened the city after their expulsion from southern provinces.

It is unlikely now that Changsha will be abandoned without a severe struggle, as Nanking realizes the seriousness of the threat to the Yangtse Valley. The Kwangsi forces have captured Siangtan, fifteen miles from Changsha, while the "Ironsides" are striking further north in a campaign which evidently is aimed at controlling the Yangtse Valley.

While Hankow is busily preparing defences, it is believed in reliable circles here that the object of the rebels in the South is to capture Shasi on the Upper Yangtse, a valuable revenue base, and Kiukiang on the Lower Yangtse, which would cut Nanking's communications with Hankow and give the rebels control of a large part of the Yangtse with the assistance of various Communist bandit armies operating in the vicinity.

This aspect of the situation is looked upon here as far graver than the northern war, as the most valuable section of China is involved, with foreign trade and Nanking's control threatened by a semi-communistic régime which would work to the detriment of all interests.

Nanking reports that a foreign military observer returning from the front has asserted that Nanking's fate in the war with the northerners is staked on a forthcoming battle along the Lunghai Railway. Nanking aims to break the northerners' right wing between Kihsien and Kaifeng and destroy the Yellow River bridge in order to prevent supplies from reaching the northerners.

It is now admitted that Nanking forces did not capture Lanfeng. That city is held by Shansi troops, who have strongly fortified it, and the northern line is likely to be penetrated only by the most desperate attack. It is admitted, too, that the Nanking forces are outnumbered in the Lunghai Railway sector, while the northerners, anticipating Nanking's plan to destroy the Yellow River bridge, have strongly fortified it. Anti-aircraft guns and an airplane base for counter-attacks are among the fortifications.

Altered circumstances have compelled Chiang Kai-shek to change his plans in the present campaign owing to the strength of the Northerners' position. Chang Hsueh-liang, Mukden leader, is expected to mass troops to force peace both on the North and Nanking without declaring himself for either side, although both continue to work strenuously to obtain his support. He is unlikely to budge from his domain, but a mere demonstration of his military force is calculated to exercise a decisive influence on the war.

Heavy Northern Gains Reported.

PEKING, June 2 (AP).—A general northern advance in Honan Province following a vigorous offensive launched on the night of May 30 was told of in dispatches published in war extras tonight.

These reports said Northern cavalry in a surprise attack had captured twelve pursuit planes believed to be the entire Nanking air force on the Honan front. Fifty pilots and mechanics were taken prisoner.

The Northerners asserted that at least 30,000 Nanking troops had been disarmed. The Northern forces were said to have reached a point about fifty miles east of Kaifeng.

At the same time the Shansi army of the Northern alliance was reported to be crossing the Yellow River in force to attack the important city of Tsinan, the fall of which was predicted here.

VATICAN STATE LIMITS SALT AND TOBACCO SALE

Acts to Prevent Smuggling Into Italy of Products Under Government Monopoly.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VATICAN CITY, June 2.—One of the first effects of the proclamation of the independent Vatican State was that it became a great centre for the smuggling of salt and tobacco into Italy, where both these commodities are State monopolies sold at retail at several hundred per cent more than their cost of manufacture. Now the Vatican State is yielding in part to the pressure of the Italian Government, which was greatly troubled by the activities of the smugglers, and has also declared a monopoly on salt and tobacco.

According to the law promulgated today, the importation and sale of salt and tobacco in the territory of the Vatican State reserved to the State, which sells them to the public through retailers of its own choice who must, however, all be citizens of the Vatican State.

Sales may be made only to citizens or residents of the Vatican State or to persons who normally permanently work there. The Governor of the Vatican State reserves the right to establish a maximum quantity of each that a purchaser may buy.

Private individuals may import salt and tobacco only if authorized by the Governor and must pay an import duty. Only tobacco for the Pope and the Cardinals residing in the Vatican State is exempt from import duty. The exportation of salt and tobacco is prohibited.

BRIAND UNION TOPIC FOR GENEVA GROUPS

Reconciling Plan With National Sovereignty Is Studied by European Cooperation Body.

SACRIFICE SEEN AS NEEDED

League's Economic Committee Also Begins Session—League Union Opens Conference Today.

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, June 2.—Questions directly and indirectly related to Aristide Briand's proposed European federation, especially on the economic side, are now occupying Geneva. Two organizations, the Federation of Committees for European Cooperation and the League of Nations' Economic Committee, began sessions today, and a third, the Federation of the League of Nations Associations, will begin tomorrow its second international economic conference as a preliminary to its general congress opening on Thursday.

The Federation of Committees for European Cooperation is dealing directly with the matter of European union. Last year it sent out a questionnaire on the subject and most of the answers from its sections in the various countries correspond closely to the principles and methods recently outlined by M. Briand in his memorandum.

The meeting is especially considering one of the basic problems of any federation—how to reconcile it with national sovereignty; and the French jurist, Joseph Barthelemy, told the session today that though M. Briand had said that the sovereignty of the various States would be safeguarded, this was intended to reassure nationalists more interested in the form than the substance of things, for in practice every federation required some sacrifice of sovereignty for the common good.

M. Barthelemy and Wilhelm Heile, former member of the Reichstag, both of whom were instrumental in founding the organization a few years ago, stressed the need of a European federation's including Britain. It is on this plank that their organization's platform chiefly differs from Count Coudenhove-Kalergi's Pan-Europa movement, which would exclude Britain.

The meeting of the League Economic Committee, which Lucius Eastman of New York is attending as the American member, is dealing especially with questions which the February conference for a European tariff truce and concerted economic action left for it to study. They include the constitution of a permanent organization of conciliation and arbitration on commercial and customs questions, and the convocation of periodical governmental conferences on economic questions and methods of improving trade relations between European and non-European countries.

The League of Nations Union's economic conference will hear Sir George Paish on the principles of a policy favorable to peace, and the former German Minister of Colonies, Dr. Dernburg, on the tariff truce conference.

Meanwhile, to complete the picture, the League's conference on bills of exchange is continuing its efforts to establish a single Continental system for this important medium of international trade.

REBEL FORCE BATTLES BRAZILIAN SOLDIERS

State Authorities Prepare to Use Bombing Planes in Parahyba Clash.

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 2 (AP).—Unconfirmed reports said tonight that the rebel forces of Deputy José Pereira and those of the Parahyba State Government had been fighting continuously since yesterday morning.

The reports added that the State authorities had acquired several bombing planes which would be used against the rebels in a few days.

The government forces were augmented by 150 police, sent toward Princeza with 150,000 rounds of rifle ammunition in motor trucks.

Pereira's followers and the provincial police have had frequent clashes since May 1. In a fight on May 27 thirty-eight of his men were reported killed after a fifty-four-hour battle.

ACT TO COMBAT DUCE SEEN

Yugoslavian Minister of War Is Named Envoy to Rumania.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, June 2. — General Hadzic, Yugoslavian Minister of War, has been named Minister to Bucharest, an action which is interpreted as a sequel to the recent warlike speeches of Premier Mussolini on his tour of Italy. M. Hadzic is a close friend of King Alexander.

He will take his new post before the Little Entente conference begins and will accompany the Rumanian Foreign Minister, M. Mironescu, when the latter goes to Prague for that gathering. The Little Entente was formed originally for almost purely defensive purposes, but Dr. Benes, Czechoslovakian Foreign Minister, allowed it to become known through an indiscretion in his newspaper last year that a secret military treaty still exists among them.

It is understood that Yugoslavia's fears as to Italy's aggressive intentions have been increased by Premier Mussolini's recent sabre rattling and will make every attempt to draw the bonds of the military alliance even closer at the forthcoming conference.

SWEDISH MINISTRY QUITS AFTER DEFEAT

Lindman's Fall Over Grain Duty Marks First Cabinet Upset Since 1928.

EKMAN SEEN AS PREMIER

He Is Leader of People's Party—Farm Depression Is Major Issue in Political Situation.

STOCKHOLM, June 2 (AP).—For the first time since Oct. 1, 1928, Sweden tonight was without a Ministry following collapse of the Lindman Government.

The cabinet, as a consequence of defeat in both chambers of the Riksdag over the issue of a wheat tariff, tendered its resignation today. Although the cabinet was of a Conservative complexion, it did not have a majority in either House of the Legislature.

After summoning the presidents of both chambers and leaders of the Opposition party, King Gustaf asked the Ministers to retain control of affairs during the formation of a new cabinet.

Heavy majorities brought about the overthrow in both Chambers on a question of confidence. The defeat arose from a proposal to increase the tariff on wheat imports, upon which the Cabinet had insisted.

The depressed state of agriculture has been a leading issue in Parliament. Both major parties opposed increasing the levy on grain.

The government was headed by Rear Admiral Arvid Lindman, who once before had been Premier.

It was regarded as a possibility tonight that Carl Gustaf Ekman, leader of the People's party, might become the new Prime Minister.

King Gustaf on Jan. 11 opened the Riksdag, emphasizing his anxiety concerning agriculture. He said he considered the necessary measures would be passed to increase the consumption of Swedish grain and improve prices. The King forecast the reduction of income and capital taxes. The budget, when introduced, showed a total of $216,544,000.

Of a total of 230 members, there were only 73 Conservatives in the Second Riksdag Chamber. The Social Democrats numbered 90, Agricultural Union 27, Communists 8, Liberals 4 and Popular party 28.

The Lindman Government's previous proposal of a higher import duty on sugar had been defeated. The Cabinet was attacked by the Liberals and the Social Democrats on increased appropriations for national defense and on other issues.

ITALIANS AT PARIS TOMB.

Volunteer Veterans Offer Wreath to Unknown Soldier.

PARIS, June 2 (AP).—Survivors of the Italian volunteer corps that fought with the French in 1914 and 1915 in the Argonne, where Bruno and Sante Garibaldi were killed, laid a wreath today on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

The ceremony took place before a number of French service men who shook hands cordially with the Italians.

General Gouraud, who commanded the troops in the Argonne sector, sent a letter of regret that he was unable to be present because he was obliged to leave for the Dardanelles to attend the unveiling of a monument to the dead of the French Army of the Orient.

"I think as you do," the hero of the Dardanelles said in his letter, "that when two great peoples have shed their blood for the same cause, both north and south of the Alps, mingling the blood of their soldiers on the same battlefields, nothing can create dissension between them."

the American delegates, made public through reference and by quotation parts of the files bearing on the London conference, all could now be revealed.

The document used by Senator Robinson in questioning Admiral Jones was dated Sept. 11, 1929, and was in the form of an official memorandum from the General Board to Secretary Adams.

The memorandum made reference to fourteen dispatches bearing on the conference. In one instance it quoted Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain at some length on the subject of the American claim for twenty-three 10,000-ton cruisers mounting 8-inch guns. If the United States persisted in that claim, Mr. MacDonald said that Japan would want fourteen of the same type of cruisers, and, he added, he was "perfectly certain" the British Dominions would veto any proposition giving Japan more than twelve of the 8-inch class.

"The State Department," Senator Johnson said after the committee session, "sent to the Foreign Relations Committee certain documents on Saturday afternoon last. I have not given the documents the careful scrutiny they deserve, but from the casual examination I have been able to make, I can see that the papers do not cover all the information we desire."

Senator Johnson was asked if he was seeking only the cable correspondence preceding the conference.

"No, I am asking for more than that," he said.

"In my opinion we are entitled not only to the correspondence carried by the cables but to all other documents and papers bearing on the question, whether transmitted by cable, wireless or mail. It is perfectly ridiculous to put a seal of secrecy on documents, parts of which have already been disclosed to the public, by those who are seeking ratification of the treaty."

In some quarters friendly to the treaty, apprehension was expressed that the development may mean a delay of several days in the drafting of the report to the Senate. Also some feared that in the event the committee votes not to ask for the additional documents requested by Senator Johnson, opponents of the treaty may take the fight to the floor of the Senate and seek by resolution to get the papers in the name of the Senate.

The committee will meet again in executive session tomorrow.

Mrs. Yarnell Quits Navy League.

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP).—Mrs. H. E. Yarnell, wife of Rear Admiral Yarnell, Engineer-in-Chief of the Navy, announced her resignation today from the Navy League because of what she described as its attitude toward the London naval pact. In a radio address recently an officer of the league advocated delay of Senate action on the treaty until December. Mrs. Yarnell accompanied her husband to the London conference, where he served as an adviser to the American delegation.

COLOMBIAN PLANE DOWN.

Good-Will Fliers Forced by Storm to Land at Cayambe, Near Quito.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOGOTA, June 2.—Benjamin Mendez and his American mechanic, Tod Hunter, who at 7:25 this morning left here in the airplane Recaurte on a good-will flight to Quito as delegates to the centenary celebration of Marshal Sucre, were forced to land at Cayambe, near Quito; on account of a storm over the city.

This flight is the first over the Andes from the capital of Colombia to the capital of Ecuador. The fliers landed at 1:30 P. M. and expected to continue to Quito after the storm cleared.

WARNS ARMS EXPORTS TO CHINA NEED PERMIT

State Department Notifies Shippers They Must Conform to Presidential Proclamation of 1922.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The State Department notified exporters today that the exportation of arms from the United States to China was still governed by the Presidential proclamation of March 4, 1922. The notice, in the form of a caution, was explained as due to misunderstandings that have arisen, although there has been no known case of illegal shipment of war materials to China.

Under the joint resolution it is unlawful to export to China, "except under such limitations and exceptions as the President prescribes, any arms or munitions of war from any place in the United States" until otherwise ordered by the President or by Congress.

The Secretary of State, who is authorized to prescribe the limitations and exceptions to the application of the resolution, has announced that exportation of arms and munitions of war for the use of the Chinese Government will be permitted when an application for license to export has been submitted by the firm in the United States which desires to make shipments and when the Chinese Legation at Washington has informed the Department of State that it is the desire of the Chinese Government that the shipment be authorized.

PROMISES STATEMENT ON CHANNEL TUNNEL

Premier Tell Commons He Will Put Project to Free Vote if Step Is Desired.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 2.—Questioned in the House of Commons regarding the progress of the government's review of the Channel tunnel scheme, Premier MacDonald today said he hoped shortly to make a full statement on the whole subject, including all the problems involved.

The Premier promised that full consideration would be given to every opinion, and that if he was satisfied such a desire existed the question of construction would be remitted to a free vote in the Commons.

The fears that proposed quarrying operations would destroy one of the finest remaining sections of Hadrian's wall—the ancient Roman fortification across North Britain—were dismissed in the House of Commons this afternoon by the Commissioner of Works, George Lansbury, who said the wall was in no danger of being touched.

know," added Mr. Lansbury, "that legislation is being prepared which will give my department adequate powers to protect the surroundings of ancient monuments, including the Roman wall."

GERMAN MINERS STRIKE.

Mansfeld Copper Pits Shut Down in Wage Cut Campaign.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 2.—The closing of the Mansfeld copper mines at Eisleben, Thuringia, was ordered by the management today as the first shot in what promises to be a big battle for a general reduction of wages, a program demanded in connection with the company's plan to reduce prices.

The Mansfeld copper mines had decreed a 15 per cent reduction in all wages and salaries, beginning June 1, and had threatened to shut down the works if the employes opposed the measure. According to the Socialist Vorwaerts, only 5 per cent of the employes, totaling 14,000, went to the mines this morning. Therefore the mines were closed completely.

MACDONALD DEFEATS TORY TREATY ATTACK

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

with us, could make war impossible, and I hope some day that will come to pass. But there is no sign of it in the immediate future and we must consider America as outside the League of Nations and as determined as ever to maintain neutrality as far as European struggles may be concerned. That opens up possibilities of great difficulties in the future with regard to blockades."

As for what the treaty did to battleships, Mr. Baldwin was pleased, for he found that battleships probably were on the way to extinction. But there would remain the task that battleships used to do, and it would fall on the cruisers. That brought him to ask why the government had reduced the British demands from seventy cruisers to fifty.

Also Mr. Baldwin worried about destroyer reduction. Furthermore, although an arrangement was reached with America and Japan, he thought the naval conference had made the European situation worse by stirring up national rivalries and he saw great danger of European nations now turning to larger construction. Indeed, he could not resist saying the conference seemed to provide for more warship building than had taken place since the World War.

War Prospect Discounted.

Mr. Baldwin did not think there would be another war for some time, but it was unsafe to assume there would not be or that England could remain neutral. Frankly, he said, he worried about the relation of the British fleet to the European situation and said that he would like to propose a committee to examine the treaty.

Mr. MacDonald replied that he would refuse the special committee Mr. Baldwin asked. Even if such a procedure were adopted in Washington it was an ordinary procedure there, whereas what the Conservative chief proposed was an innovation in British procedure.

Winston Churchill started interrupting the Prime Minister, which caused Mr. MacDonald to ask Mr. Churchill to curb his "uncontrollable exhuberance" until his turn came.

Then Mr. MacDonald said the only way to have limitation was by a limitation treaty, and if the Conservatives did not like that method, why did they send delegates to the 1927 conference at Geneva, and he would recall to those who had so much to regret that the London conference made only a three-power agreement, only that the three powers were at Geneva.

More American Building Admitted.

It was, he said, not a fair statement to say that the London conference would bring more building. That was true for the United States, he said, but not for the other two parties. Without the treaty there would have been much more building, the Prime Minister asserted. It was all very well to say that England should not bother about the American fleet, but, with the American building plans, how could there be that parity which America demanded without a hard and fast building agreement?

Even if American building did not affect England directly, it would do so indirectly through its effect on the building of other powers, in Mr. MacDonald's view.

"There was an underlying assumption," said Mr. MacDonald, "that America and ourselves could cooperate in certain conditions when action required." But he added that to discuss that now would only do harm.

"And it is perfectly well known that every public pronouncement by responsible American statesmen is contrary to that assumption."

As for Mr. Baldwin's seventy cruisers, he reminded the Conservative leader that when Prime Minister he had never provided for building seventy and had only talked about it. It all depended, said Mr. MacDonald, on how many the others had and how much security had been gained by political means.

Security Not in Arms, Says Premier.

"It is our position that mere armament will not give security," he said. "If we have been taught nothing by war, let us go on in the way we have been going until another war gives us a chance of learning something again."

There was no problem raised by Mr. Baldwin, said the Prime Minister, which had not been considered at the conference. The American Admirals now say they would not swap the American fleet under the treaty for Great Britain's. He was glad the American Admirals were satisfied and he was sure Britain should be. It was only the men who wished to prepare for war who in every country had condemned the treaty and he was happy to see the naval agreement opposed by the diehards everywhere. He asked the House to reject the motion for a special committee.

Commander Southy said Mr. MacDonald had played with a people whose national game was poker and he had had the fate of all amateurs, for England had been bluffed out of the game and America had gained superiority.

Mr. Churchill said the London treaty was not a treaty of parity, but a treaty of inferiority.

Second Place Seen for Britain.

"It is a declaration by which the British Empire accepts the position of second power on the sea," he said. He objected that, "a sinister provision," it made certain that this inferiority would be established before the treaty could be revised in 1935.

"Never since the reign of Charles II has this country been so defenseless, and never since Charles II has it been so vulnerable," he said.

Mr. Churchill declared that a premise of the treaty was that England should not worry about the American fleet, but the terms of the agreement, representing haggling with America over every ounce in every category of ships, are "nothing but a diplomatic grimace," said Mr. Churchill.

"If we are not bothering about American ships how can you make any sense of this treaty?" he demanded. If the idea of a hostile United States was not ruled out, the treaty was impossible, he said; and, if it was ruled out, the treaty was quite unnecessary.

It was not that Britain's battle fleet might be defeated that Mr. Churchill regarded as important, but rather that Britain's food supplies might be cut off in distant seas. He thought the treaty had aggravated Britain's position as regards Japan and that the arguments it had started on the Continent would weaken Britain's position in the Mediterranean.

Views It as Move Against Britain.

Mr. Churchill said the treaty ought to be called "an international treaty for the limitation and reduction of British naval armaments and for the expansion, actual or relative, of the naval armaments of the United States, Japan, France and Italy," or, perhaps better yet, he said, "a treaty for the limitation of the power and right of Great Britain to safeguard its food supplies and for the multiplication and improvement of all means possessed by other nations for interrupting said food supplies."

A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, said that in his heart of hearts Mr. Churchill had no use for peace. The naval treaty, he said, had not weakened Britain's relative position, and he thought tonight's attack on the treaty a shame.

Even if seventy cruisers were needed in 1927, he pointed out, since then the Kellogg pact and the optional clause had been signed, which he said meant, considering the limitation of other fleets, that fifty cruisers now are enough.

It would not make any difference what sort of committee was appointed or what was done, Mr. Churchill would be against it, he declared.

Mr. Alexander said the government believed the treaty to be a real contribution to world peace and had no doubt the country would see it that way.

A vote was then taken, and the result was greeted with prolonged government cheers.

BRITAIN APPROVES DAM AT LAKE TSANA OUTLET

American Firm's Project Is Not a Violation of 1903 Agreement, Henderson Tells Commons.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 2.—Investigation by a United States firm of an engineering problem involved in the construction of an irrigation dam across the outlet for Lake Tsana for the Abyssinian Government was raised in the House of Commons this afternoon when P. J. H. Hanon, Conservative, suggested that this arrangement was a violation of the covenant of 1903 between Emperor Menelik and Britain that no work across the Blue Nile or Lake Tsana would be constructed except in agreement with the British and Sudanese Governments.

Foreign Secretary Henderson said a preliminary technical survey of the site for the new Tsana reservoir and a project for its construction had been prepared by the White Corporation of the United States with the full concurrence of the British and Sudanese Governments and therefore there was no question of any violation of the Menelik agreement.

MANY DOUBT SOVIET CAN FILL RAIL PLANS

Strained Roads Face Program Calling for 2,805,000,000-Ton Freight Gain in Year.

REDOUBLED EFFORT URGED

Foreigners in Moscow Sure Aim Cannot Be Achieved, but Izvestia Says It Must Be Done.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, June 2.—Nothing could better illustrate the mentality and outlook of the new Russia than an editorial in Izvestia today on the Soviet railroad problem.

At present the Soviet railroads are under a heavy fire of criticism because daily freight-car loadings average only 49,000 instead of 52,000, as required by the program. The resultant traffic jams at many points and the dislocation of industrial and food supply programs are daily scored in the severest terms by the Soviet press.

The subject undoubtedly will be hotly debated in the coming Communist party congress, although Railroad Commissar Rudsutak is not only one of the ablest executives the Soviet possesses but is politically of the highest rank, second perhaps to Joseph Stalin only. M. Rudsutak is fully aware of the difficulties of increasing locomotives, rolling stock and track mileage at an unprecedented rate and, simultaneously, of maintaining regular service for passengers and freight. Recently he sent a big commission, headed by Assistant Commissar Sulimof, to the United States with virtually a free hand in adopting measures to improve Russian railroads by American methods, material and technical advice.

But that is a matter for the future, and the fact remains that Soviet railroads are now considered one of the weaker "fronts" in the five-year plan campaign. But Izvestia coolly announces today that by next Autumn, when it is hoped the railroads will be called on to move a record harvest, daily freight-car loadings must reach the figure of 70,000.

In the next fiscal year, beginning Oct. 1, the railroads will be required to transport a total of 3,020,000,000 tons of freight, as compared with 215,000,000 in the current year. The average daily run of a freight locomotive must be increased to 120 miles—that is, 23 per cent above the present level—and the average daily run of a freight car must be increased to sixty-three miles, an advance of 35 per cent.

In other words, at a time when the railroads are staggering under an over-heavy load, it is announced that the load will be made greater by half. How typical of present conditions here, where each shortcoming is seized upon as an occasion for redoubled effort.

One wonders—most foreigners here are sure and some leading Communists themselves have doubts—whether the Russian people will not crack under the strain. Izvestia answers:

"We shall mobilize all the strength of the government, the Communist party and labor organizations to insure fulfillment of the Autumn railroad plan. It can and must be accomplished."

A few months ago there were louder alarms and graver anxiety about the Spring sowing campaign. Then, too, Izvestia and Pravda demanded concentration of forces to achieve what seemed impossible. And it was achieved, but still one wonders, Has human endurance no limit or human will no barrier?

REDS SEEN CHECKING LENIN DEIFICATION

Delay in Completion of Tomb Causes View that Apotheosis Has Gone Too Far.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, June 2.—The fundamentally theocratic nature of the Bolshevist régime is illustrated by a remarkable controversy now going on in Pravda and other newspapers about a change recently made by Land Commissioner Yakovlef in one of Lenin's "slogans," as Communists call them, although "texts" is the word that conveys their true meaning.

Its intellectual opponents have asserted the Bolshevist régime was based on arid and doctrinaire materialism. In reality it is an enthusiastic religion in all senses of the word save belief in a superhuman deity. Today, despite all the rigidity of Communist dogma, Lenin gradually is undergoing apotheosis and is being changed from a leader and prophet to a god. His followers know it and try to fight it.

It is nearly a year now since the high wooden wall was erected around the little shrine where Lenin's embalmed body was visited by adoring thousands each evening in Moscow Red Square. And a year ago it was said the new mausoleum building for the dead leader would be completed by November, last. Then it was to be ready by May 1 of this year. Now the date is fixed for the November anniversary of the revolution.

Your correspondent makes a different suggestion—that the public is being accustomed not to see Lenin because the Kremlin felt the whole business smacked of idol worship, which Lenin and his successors had given their lives to uproot from Russia. Yet if Lenin's body is allowed to perish nothing can destroy his mystic influence upon the new Russia or his teaching and doctrines, which have become so nearly sacred that the coming Communist party convention will devote much of its time to a decision as to whether M. Yakovlef did emend Lenin in text, and if so whether the emendation may stand.

Lenin said:

"Soviet power in the villages must find support in the poor peasant—must seek an alliance with the middle peasant—and fight the rich peasant."

Now M. Yakovlef declares:

"Soviet power in the villages must find support in the collectivized peasant."

Here is the basis of the controversy. Alert Communist theologians interpret the Yakovlef slogan as a change from Lenin's. All the disputation may seem just a tempest in a tea cup, but to this correspondent it appears as a symbol of immense importance.

CARVINGS GAVE CLUE TO HITTITE TEMPLE

Chicago Expedition Uncovered Doorway of Huge Stones After Two Days' Digging.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ISTANBUL, June 2.—The Angora correspondent of Politikas, giving details of the Hittite temple uncovered in the last six days at Ghiavour Kale by the University of Chicago expedition, says a rock at the hilltop, with three carvings on it, believed to represent early Hittite rulers, gave the first clue.

After two days' digging, he says, the expedition found the temple doorway, built of huge stones, with a small room beyond and a small stairway leading to a sculptured rock platform, believed to have been used for worship. Near the platform was a tower, believed to have been part of a palace erected by the Phrygians. East of the tower was a large wall.

The Phrygian and Hittite structures were well defined by two different types of building. The heavier stones used by the Hittites had apparently been brought from a long distance and had been carefully cut.

WAR MOTHERS VISIT MISSIONS IN FRANCE

Women Find French Children Being Cared For There by Americans.

ILL MEMBERS RECOVERING

New Contingent of 110 Arrives in New York on Way to Visit Graves of Their Sons.

CHATEAU THIERRY, France, June 2 (AP).—Twenty-six American Gold Star mothers today visited the missions maintained here by American churches and experienced a thrill that the mothers who had preceded them in the Château Thierry sector had missed.

The mothers, who visited the graves of their soldier sons in Belleau Wood, went through the usual experiences of women who for the first time came upon the last resting places of their beloved dead. The affecting character of these visits has lost nothing by repetition, but it was in the missions that their grief was put aside and they felt some of the joy that the institutions are bringing to their once war-torn sector.

The women found a considerable number of French children in these missions being cared for by Americans as if they were of their own nationality.

All the mothers in this sector today were reported in excellent health.

After Mrs. Elizabeth B. Hutchins, 92 and oldest of the Gold Star mothers in France, had seen her son's grave in Belleau Wood, she agreed with the officers in charge of the pilgrimage that it was wise for her to return at once to Paris to rest. The remainder of the group continued the tour.

Mrs. Eva Leblanc of Hollywood, who is of French descent, responded for the Gold Star party to the Mayor's address of welcome when the war mothers arrived at City Hall.

Two Who Were Ill Recovering.

PARIS, June 2 (AP).—Both serious cases of illness among American Gold Star mothers in France today were nearly recovered.

Mrs. Florence Williams of Portsmouth, Ohio, who was at her hotel at Verdun, it was announced would return to Paris soon. Mrs. Florence Reynolds has left the American Hospital and returned to a Paris hotel. She wishes to return to the United States with her original party, which is leaving Friday, so she is being taken daily to the ceremtery near Soissons where her son is buried.

Mrs. Lissette Leidl Goldendale of Washington, who is at the American Hospital with an attack of rheumatism, is expected by her doctors to rejoin her party in a day or so.

One hundred and ten Gold Star mothers, participating in the pilgrimage to the graves of their sons on the battlefields of France, arrived yesterday at the Hotel Governor Clinton.

The mothers were received by Major Joseph F. Cottrell, who is in charge of their entertainment during their two days in New York. The contingent consisted mainly of California women, while a few of them came from Michigan, North Dakota, Illinois, Ohio, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

They are scheduled to sail aboard the United States liner America tomorrow morning.

The bank closed recently with a shortage estimated at $213,000.

HANDS CULLUM MEDAL TO GERMAN SCIENTIST

Sackett Presents American Award for Geographical Science to Dr. Hettner at Heidelberg.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HEIDELBERG, June 2.—The Cullum Gold Medal of the American Geographical Society was presented this evening to Dr. Alfred Hettner of the Heidelberg University faculty by Ambassador Sackett for distinguished work in the advancement of geographical science.

Mr. Sackett, who was introduced by the rector of the university, Dr. Gotschilch, said in part:

"In recognition of special distinction in the field of exploration and geographical research, the society awards four medals. One is the Cullum medal, founded by Major George Cullum of the United States Army and former vice president of the society. Two of your countrymen—George von Neumayer, physical geographer, hydrographer and meteorologist, and Hermann Wagner, geographer and statistician—have already received the medal; you, Dr. Hettner, take your place with them today as one of the most distinguished scientists of the world.

"The recognition of outstanding personalities in the Old World is a privilege for a society devoting itself to the development of scientific achievement in the New World and serves to strengthen the tie that binds those German and American minds which have been devoting themselves unselfishly to the progress of our civilization in every branch of intellectual development."

Dr. Hettner has exercised great influence in the development of scientific geography, particularly in regional geography, and is now regarded as one of the leading German exponents of the subject.

'AIR TRIBUNAL' SPEEDS JUSTICE IN CYRENAICA

Vice Governor Solves Problems by Sending Court to Scenes of Trials in Planes.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, June 2.—General Graziani, Vice Governor of Cyrenaica, has devised an ingenious plan for solving the difficult problem of dispensing justice speedily in the extensive but sparsely populated territory under his charge. He has inaugurated a "flying tribunal" which, starting each day from Bengasi, the capital of Cyrenaica, goes by airplane to any place where its services are required.

The tribunal is composed of one military and one civilian judge. They go first, followed by another plane carrying the interpreters and clerks. As soon as they arrive at the scene of a trial they don their magistrates' robes and set about dispensing justice. The court is usually held in the open air, in the shade of palm trees.

The efficacy of the plan is illustrated by the official figures. On April 3 there were 178 prisoners awaiting trial. Now 147 of those have been tried. Seventy were acquitted, forty-seven sentenced to imprisonment and thirty condemned to death. Of the latter, twenty-seven have been executed, while three have had their sentences suspended.

WORLD DRIVE OPENS ON WHITE SLAVERS

Argentine Group Is Assured of Cooperation of Societies in Twenty-seven Countries.

CENTRE OF TRAFFIC FOUND

Buenos Aires Vice Organization Masqueraded as Sick Benefit and Burial Association.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, June 2.—A world-wide campaign for the suppression of organized white slavery has been launched as a result of the recent discovery in Argentina of an international organization for exploiting women.

The International Jewish Association for the Protection of Girls and Women, encouraged by the success of its Argentine branch in finally bringing white slavers to justice after several years of discouraging lack of police cooperation, has instructed all its affiliates to renew their efforts to uncover white slave activities in their respective countries, according to telegrams received by the Argentine branch.

In addition to the Jewish organizations, other similar societies in twenty-seven countries have notified the Argentine branch of the Jewish association of their intention to participate in this world-wide campaign. The New York Probation and Protective Association is among the associations in nine European and eighteen American countries which have signified their intention to cooperate.

The countries in which white slave campaigns either have begun or are about to start are Belgium, France, Germany, Great Britain, Holland, Italy, Portugal, Spain, Switzerland, the United States, Bolivia, Brazil, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Guatemala, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, San Salvador, Uruguay and Venezuela.

The police in all the Argentine provinces are making arrests daily in an effort to round up 425 members of the Zwi Migdal Society, which, under the guise of a mutual aid society, regularly chartered as a limited stock corporation by the Province of Buenos Aires, had been eficiently carrying on an international white slave traffic for forty years.

When they learned warrants were about to be issued for their arrest, Zwi Migdal members fled to Europe and to other South American Republics. Others sought hiding in the provinces and are being hunted down and arrested. The majority of those arrested insisted they thought the society was an organization providing sick and accident insurance and burial in a Jewish cemetery belonging to the organization.

The investigation shows that for forty years women and girls have been shipped to Argentina and bought, sold and exchanged. In some cases, girls sent by agents in Europe under promises of marriage or employment on their arrival were met here or in Montevideo by white slavers. In other cases the slavers would go to Europe to bring girls here to go through false marriage ceremonies in the Zwi Migdal Synagogue.

TO ASK CUBAN BUDGET CUT.

Committee Will Recommend Today Reductions of $9,000,000.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, June 2.—The final report of the National Budget Commission recommending to President Machado that economies should be introduced into the general governmental budget for the coming fiscal year will be delivered tomorrow.

Reductions to be recommended represent a saving of $9,000,000, to be made with strict impartiality and to be based on the enforcement of a Presidential decree reducing salaries of all government employes 10 to 15 per cent. Suppression of certain bureaus and sections of deparements was found unnecessary.

BIGOTS ARE ASSAILED BY JUSTICE TOMPKINS

Cardinal Hayes at Marymount Commencement Deplores Immodesty of Women's Dress.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 2.—Supreme Court Justice Arthur M. Tompkins of the Appellate Division, Brooklyn, and former Grand Master of Masons of New York State, assailed intolerance and bigotry in an address at the commencement exercises here today of Marymount College, conducted by the Sisters of the Sacred Heart.

"The great need of this world," said Justice Tompkins, "is more tolerance and respect for the rights and happiness and feelings of others and less bigotry and indifference. Give us more kindness and less bitterness, more charity and less selfishness and greed, more confidence and less suspicion."

Switching to women entering business, Justice Tompkins said he liked best to think of women in the home as wife and as mother. He said:

"The home is the strength of the national. There the woman is queen. There she can accomplish most and best for the present and future welfare of the human race."

Cardinal Hayes of New York presided at the exercises. In his address, speaking of women's clothes, he said:

"Our holy father is alarmed because this immodesty of dress is going to have its effect, and he has instructed us to insist and plead with our women in this regard. There is modesty which is interior and which is exterior. The Church claims and insists there are ways and means and methods by which you can offset the immodesty of the present dress. The same holds good with regard to public exhibitions and time of recreation."

Jim Smith Eats a Lettuce Salad and "Goes Social"

The event which this page records occurred only a comparatively few years ago. Apparently without warning upon a certain normal week-day evening three things suddenly happened in the life of this man of such epoch-making import as to change the activities of an entire nation.

All three things were climactic in character. The last was a lettuce salad.

First, when Jim Smith came home as usual from his job in the factory his wife met him at the door and said, "The Wallaces are here." (The Wallaces being the next door neighbors.)

Jim said, "What's the matter?" And his wife frowned.

When Jim came into the living room, Wallace was wearing a necktie and a sheepish look, and Mrs. Wallace was actually dressed up.

Jim went batty trying to think it out. When a neighbor was in trouble, he came to your house or you went to his. But he didn't dress up for the occasion. Then Mrs. Smith said, "Put your coat on," and Jim's mind walked out on him, cold.

The next event occurred at the table. The table itself looked so different that Jim started to sit down and stood up again. When he did sit down and reach for his food he didn't get it. Mrs. Smith had deftly taken the platter out from under his hand and was passing it first to Mrs. Wallace, next to Mr. Wallace, and finally to him.

Then something suddenly happened to Jim Smith, something about as beautiful as ever comes into the life of a man. Instead of diving down to get at his food, he looked up and began talking to his neighbor. Timidly at first, as a young girl at her first love affair. But any recording angel would have been proud to have written down those first stumbling sentences. For, while the words were inarticulate, the spirit of Jim Smith was brimming over.

He was a host, and this was his neighbor, and they were eating together, not from any biological necessity, and above all, thank God, not because Wallace was out of a job, nor even because there was a funeral. But right in the middle of the week and for no reason at all, he and Wallace were just sitting down to eat together, and Mrs. Wallace was smiling at him across the table.

The third event, which created an epoch for a nation, really came as an anti-climax for Jim Smith. Mrs. Smith went out and came back with four more plates, each containing–a lettuce salad. That wasn't food at all. Lettuce was usually designated as grass, but by this time he would have eaten his own front lawn if it had been served to him.

For Jim Smith had "gone social" at last.

We have a bully time here at True Story Magazine. We get the first faint whisperings of these social changes. Then we see them rise like a tide and sweep over the land. Then we turn to the great commercial structure and see the significance.

Most of us never stop to realize that there is as much difference between biological and social food as there is between biological and social living.

With biological hunger we don't pass, we grab. With socialized hunger we don't grab, we pass. Biological food is meat and bread and potatoes. Socialized food includes lettuce and celery and asparagus and fruits and desserts. Biological soup, which is not a bad phrase, is meat and bones and vegetables boiled in water. Socialized soup is a mixture of flavors and savors put up in a can.

When we saw this social change in food itself rising, as we have said, like a tide throughout our wage-earning masses, we said to ourselves, it is not possible for this to be reflected in the written records of a people without showing up in the commercial records of a nation. So we turned first to the department of Agriculture. And there it all was, as plain as the nose on your face.

Asparagus: in two states alone, California and New Jersey, sixty thousand acres have been added for the raising of asparagus.

Lettuce: the consumption has increased two hundred and fifty per cent since 1920. In the big urban centers where lettuce can be had the year round the consumption has increased two thousand five hundred per cent.

And then comes Sugar with all that that means. But sugar–surely that is not a social food? No, sugar in the raw is biological. But sugar in candy and ice cream and canned fruits and cakes and desserts is certainly social. America is practically consuming its own weight in sugar every year. 116 pounds for every man, woman, and child. And you can bet your last nickel that the greater part of it comes in social forms.

The government record of increases in your social foods is endless. Almost as endless as the record of all the other social changes that had to follow. For you cannot socialize your food without socializing all the other factors that surround it.

Biologically you can eat out of a bowl or without a bowl, on a bare table or without a table, in a bare room or even without a room. But socially it cannot be done. And when Jim Smith put on his coat and became a host instead of a feeder, when wage-earning America sat down at a dinner table and "went social" the very character of a nation's food was changed as well as the character of the entire setting that went with it.

Why True Story Magazine should be the only publication interested in these tremendous economic and social changes of our wage-earning masses is quite beyond understanding.

Considerably over half of commercial America is now absolutely dependent for its volume of production upon these very changes, and yet we still seem to be the only keeper of these human documents and recorder of the events which they portray.

VIGILANTE BANDS BESIEGE EACH OTHER

Meantime Robbers Who Had Seized $3,000 From Bank Made Their Escape.

ONE OF POSSE WOUNDED

He Lies in Michigan Farm Yard While Friends Exchange Volleys, Each Thinking Others Robbers.

Special to The New York Times.

MANCELONA, Mich., June 2.—While two groups of a posse, unaware of each other's identity, held each other at bay near Bellaire today, robbers who had held up the Antrim County Savings Bank here and obtained $3,000 escaped. They are believed to be hiding in the district, however. Two persons were wounded, one by the fleeing robbers and another in an exchange of shots between the two posses. At least one of the robbers is believed to have been wounded, as a bloodstained car, with one bullet hole in it, was found abandoned late today near Green River.

Herbert Sullivan, clerk in a dry goods store here and a member of the county vigilantes, was the man shot by the fleeing robbers when he attempted to halt their automobile near Green River. Dr. J. H. A. Gerber, also a member of the vigilantes, was wounded when one group of the posse fired on a farmhouse in which it was believed the robbers were hiding but was really occupied by other possemen.

Four of the five robbers entered the bank at 9:30 o'clock this morning. One man was left in their car, a second was stationed at the door and the other three covered the employes of the bank with revolvers and forced them to leave the cage and avoid all alarm signals. They were then forced to lie on the floor.

Directors of the bank were holding a meeting in the rear. E. L. J. Mills, cashier, succeeded in getting into the directors' room and there called the telephone operator, who had a siren sounded, calling the vigilantes, organized four years ago and made up largely of World War veterans.

Acting on a telephone call Dr. Gerber and his son, Fred, of Bellaire started to head off the robbers.

About a mile from town they saw a car approaching at high speed from the opposite direction and, believing it was the robbers' machine, the father and son left their car and made for a farmhouse, hoping to ambush the supposed bandits.

Before Dr. Gerber could reach the house, the other car, which contained vigilantes from Mancelona and Bellaire, drove into the farmyard and opened fire. Dr. Gerber got into the house and telephoned to Bellaire that the robbers were at the farmhouse and had shot his father.

The persons in the other car believed they had the bandits surrounded and when a posse arrived from Bellaire its members joined the others in firing on the farmhouse. Those inside, believing the vigilantes were robbers, returned the fire.

Both groups exchanged shots for more than two hours, while Dr. Gerber, shot in the spine and paralyzed from his waist down, lay in the yard.

Finally it was determined to rush the farmhouse. When the posse gained entrance they found only young Gerber, a farmer and his hired man.

vide the total expenditures by that number to ascertain his share.

The committee showed a keen interest in Mr. Bonitz and his contribution. Wayne Blakely, treasurer of the Western Pennsylvania Davis-Brown committee, when he was asked about Mr. Bonitz's contribution, said the latter was a Pittsburgh business man who was interested in the candidacy of Mr. Davis.

"Do you know Mr. Bonitz?" Senator Nye, chairman of the committee, asked Secretary Davis when he was on the stand.

"The first time I saw him," answered the Secretary of Labor, "was during the Mayoralty campaign in Pittsburgh several years ago."

"How was he interested in the present campaign?"

"He came to me and said that he wanted to help when it was thought I would be a candidate for Governor."

When Senator Nye had estimated roughly $358,287 had been expended in behalf of the Davis-Brown ticket, he asked Secretary Davis:

"Does this constitute the sum total of your campaign expenses?"

"It is more than I thought was spent," answered Mr. Davis.

Contributions by Vare and Mellons.

The reports showed that the Brown-Davis State committee, of which Samuel M. Vauclain, former president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, was treasurer, collected up to May 29, $131,287.46, and expended $129,693.33. In Philadelphia the Citizens' Advisory Committee, with former Mayor J. Hampton Moore as chairman, expended approximately $60,000. Seventeen counties in Western Pennsylvania expended $77,450, while in Allegheny County the expenditures were $84,863.36, including Secretary Davis's personal expenses of $10,541.

William S. Vare contributed $6,000 and Charles B. Hall, a Philadelphia Councilman, $15,000 to the Davis-Brown fund. Senator Nye sought detailed information about the maount contributed by Mr. Hall and brought out that he was a member of the Council at a salary of $5,000 a year.

Secretary Mellon of the Treasury, R. B. Mellon, his brother, and W. L. Mellon, a nephew, each contributed $5,000 to the Davis-Brown chest. Other contributors were:

E. T. Stotesbury, $2,500.
W. H. Woodin, $10,000.
George W. Maxey, candidate for the State Supreme Court, $10,000.
Jay Cooke, $1,000.
J. H. Loucheim, $5,000.
Joseph E. Widener, $9,000.
F. M. Kirby, $10,000.

Vauclain Explains Contributions.

Mr. Vauclain testified that $47,197.99 was expended for advertising and that $39,897 was turned over to county committees.

"I notice," Senator Nye said, "that under advertising you have given $200 to the Pennsylvania Chief of Police. Is that a newspaper?"

Mr. Vauclain said the money was probably paid for special services by the Police Chief.

Mr. Vauclain said further that General Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and a Republican National Committeeman, had made no contribution to the campaign. Contributions by the Mellons had been given for the sole use of the Brown campaign.

Secretary Davis interrupted to say that he was present when Mr. Brown received the checks from the Mellons, with that condition prescribed.

In reply to a question, Mr. Vauclain said that he did not think campaign expenditures should be limited if they "were made by the proper persons. He said there had never been a campaign in Pennsylvania where the expenditures were so small as in the last primary.

Tells of Grundy's Expenditure.

"Mr. Grundy spent an ordinary fortune of $291,000 of his own money in his campaign," Mr. Vauclain said, "but the other candidate did not have much to spend. I believe that Mr. Davis could have won if he had not spent a cent."

General Atterbury induced Mr. Vauclain to accept the treasureship of the State campaign, he said.

J. Hampton Moore said that he found no illegal registration in Philadelphia and that the purging of the voting lists represented merely removal and deaths.

"The election seemed to me as fair and as clean as any we have had in Philadelphia," he added. "There was no disorder and no trouble on election day except where the voting machines were used for the first time.

"I never saw such care about campaign expenditures. I believe that the knowledge that the Senate Committee was active, aided in bringing this about."

Asked whether he believed in limiting campaign expenditures Mr. Moore said:

"I believe that the campaign expenditures should be limited according to the voting population. I think that unles there is a limitation, the wealthiest man would get the office, without consideration of his qualifications or adaptability."

"In other words, the plum would go to the highest bidder," remarked Senator Nye.

"Without pointing out any particular case, that seems to have been the case in several instances," responded Mr. Moore.

Robert P. Quigley, treasurer of the citizens' advisory committee, reported total contributions of $62,575.

In Allegheny County, $88,460 was received and $84,863.36 distributed, which included $35,395 for 7,079 watchers at $5 each and $19,275 for 3,855 messengers. Watchers for Secretary Davis alone cost $5,070.

Senator Nye at the end of the session said that apparently the existence of the Senate committee had tended to keep down campaign expenditures in Pennsylvania.

"I believe that the committee should recommend a permanent committee in the House and Senate to be operative before campaigns," he said. "So far we find that its existence has held down heavy expenditures and kept the election reasonably clean."

Senator Nye will go this week to Illinois, where the committee, the last of the month, will hold hearings on the expenditures of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican nominee for Senator.

Bonitz Willing to Testify.

PITTSBURGH, June 2 (AP).—Walter A. Bonitz, who contributed $96,750 to the Brown-Davis primary fund, said tonight that he was willing to go before the Senate committee and explain his pre-primary activities as well as his donation.

Mr. Bonitz, a brick manufacturer and former head of the Brick Manufacturers' Association of the United States, said he was not a politician. He added he had contributed to the campaigns of candidates in the past and that at the time money was being raised for the pre-primary campaign, he promised to obtain funds for the Davis-Brown organization.

When difficulties were encountered in getting the money, he kept his word by contributing it himself.

Mr. Bonitz said he made his contribution because of his interest in the Republican party. He was emphatic in saying that the contribution was for the entire Davis-Brown ticket and not for any particular candidate.

TARDIEU AND EDGE CONFER.

Discuss Tariff and Double Taxation at Renewal of Their Talks.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 2.—Premier Tardieu today received Ambassador Edge and had a 45-minute discussion with him of a number of questions interesting both France and the United States. The interview marked the renewal of their frequent friendly conversations, held after the Ambassador's arrival in France and which since February have been interrupted by the incessant occupation of the Premier.

It was stated that the Premier was especially interested to hear from the Ambassador his impressions gathered in the tours he has made of industrial districts. It is understood the Premier expressed himself as pleased with the outcome of the discussions of our tariff on French lace. Another issue between the two countries, that of double taxation, is also understood to be on the road to a settlement.

Ambassador Edge later this week will make a tour of the Lille and Roubaix manufacturing district.

THE 42 WRISTS THAT SUBDUED THE SOUTH POLE NOW WEAR HAMILTONS

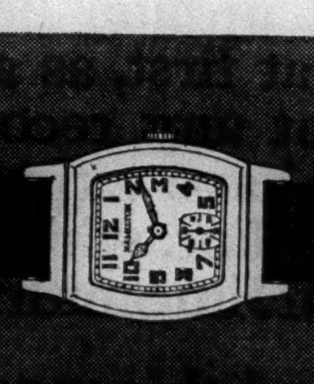
Around each of the forty-two wrists that subdued the South Pole is now strapped a Hamilton Watch —presented by Rear Admiral R. E. Byrd.

Hamilton was the official Timepiece of the entire Byrd Antarctic Expedition. Every man who went to the Ice Barrier carried a specially cased watch of Railroad Accuracy. Four Hamiltons were in the plane that flew so triumphantly over the South Pole.

Admiral Byrd also used Hamilton Watches for navigational purposes in his flight over the North Pole in 1926. They had to be accurate. He knows that Hamiltons are—faithful and reliable, hour after hour.

Hamilton seems to be predominantly the watch of successful men. This is not a coincidence. For they have discovered from experience that saved minutes mean success.

Whether it is in the cab of the Twentieth Century, in the plane that cast its shadow over the Pole, or in a meeting of some Board of Directors, you are more than likely to find that the man at the throttle, or at the stick, or at the head of the table, has a Hamilton accurately ticking away the minutes.



Members of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition (listed below) now wear this beautiful Hamilton strap watch. It is now on display in all fine jewelry shops. Ask to see the "RALEIGH" (plain) in 14k filled white gold—$55.

HUNTS SNELL SMITH IN CANFIELD INQUIRY

Federal Grand Jury Seeks to Question Man Who Said He Was Former Hoover Aide.

ARREST IS THREATENED

Witnesses Declare He Knows Story of Alleged Bribery in Obtaining Beer Permit.

Snell Smith, who once described himself as a publicity man for the Department of Commerce when President Hoover was its head, is wanted by the government to explain what he knows about the alleged conference, Dec. 15, 1922, between Palmer Canfield, former prohibition administrator, and beer promoters in the Hotel Roosevelt, where, it is charged, $10,000 or $20,000 disappeared from a table. This was announced yesterday by Robert B. Watts, Assistant United States Attorney in charge of prohibition enforcement.

Smith was described by Mr. Watts as a "political operator" or "contact man" in Washington, who has "numerous connections with departmental heads." He appeared voluntarily in the Federal Building three weeks ago, according to the prosecutor, but since then has failed to heed a subpoena calling for his appearance before a Federal grand jury, which since April 23 has been investigating alleged wholesale corruption in the enforcement unit.

"Unless Smith is located before tomorrow," Mr. Watts said, "a warrant will be issued for his arrest as a material witness in this case. Meanwhile the grand jury will continue its investigation for at least two weeks longer."

Call Smith an "Eyewitness."

Smith, Mr. Watts explained, is wanted because several of the fifty or more witnesses who have already testified before the grand jury, said that he could give an "eyewitness" story of the conference, and shed light on the identity of the "fourth man," who is said to have met with the former administrator when "arrangements" were made for a near-beer permit.

That permit, according to Joseph F. Walsh, Republican leader of Newburgh, was sought by officials of the Columbia County Cereal Beverage Company of Hudson, N. Y. Eight officers and employes of this company were found guilty last April on indictments charging conspiracy and violation of the prohibition law.

Walsh, president of the company, pleaded guilty at the trial and testified for the government. He told a jury in Federal court that he had undertaken to use his "political influence" to obtain a near-beer permit for the Greenport Products Company, operated by the same defendants.

Major Maurice Campbell, Prohibition Administrator, he said, refused to grant the permit. Soon after this, he said, the defendants established the Columbia County concern and asked him to become its president. Michael A. Devasto, he said, convicted ringleader of the conspiracy, and George H. Burt, vice president, told him they had attended a conference with Canfield in the Roosevelt and had made arrangements for the permit.

They were able to do this, it was explained, because the city of Hudson has been moved out of Major Campbell's jurisdiction into the newly created Northern District, of which Canfield had just been appointed administrator with headquarters in Albany. Burt and Devasto, according to Walsh, said that a fourth man, whose name Walsh could not remember, had attended the conference.

Got Permit a Month Later.

He said he was informed that either $10,000 or $20,000 had been left on a table. That money simply "disappeared" and the following month, when Canfield's appointment became effective, the Columbia company received a permit, he said.

Soon after this testimony and the conviction of the eight defendants, including Devasto and Burt, the grand jury began an investigation of Walsh's story and also other testimony at the trial which tended, according to Federal Attorney Tuttle, to show wholesale corruption in the prohibition bureau.

Canfield, who was suspended at his own request as legal adviser of the bureau for the Northeastern States, appeared voluntarily before the grand jury and denied all knowledge of the conference referred and all knowledge of Devasto and Burt. Meanwhile the grand jury questioned more than fifty witnesses in one of the most comprehensive investigations it has undertaken.

Among these witnesses was Saul Grill, former undercover agent of the bureau, who was let out of the department. Grill, it was said, was one of the witnesses who asserted that Smith could clear up the mystery of the "fourth man."

Smith, according to J. H. Terry, Assistant United States Attorney, who has been actively in charge of the investigation, was an associate of Canfield. He was described by the prosecutor as a person "who knows every one and understands just what is going on."

TWO, HIGH UP ON LEDGE, SAVED BY FIRE LADDER

Patrolman Badly Burned Trying to Reach Pair Trapped on 49th Street House.

A man and a woman who had been driven by fire to the window sill of their sixth floor apartment at 109 West Forty-ninth Street were carried down an eighty-five-foot aerial ladder by firemen yesterday morning after Patrolman Harry Jackson had been painfully burned about the face and hands in trying to save them.

The pair were seen perched on the ledge by Patrolman Jackson, who turned in an alarm and then went up through the building to their rescue. Their door was locked and he battered it down with a fire axe, only to be met by a sheet of flame which drove him back, badly scorched.

Meanwhile Firemen William Yates and Pierce Tweedale had taken the couple down the ladder to the street. The rescued pair disappeared in the crowd before any one obtained their names. The fire was confined to their room and was extinguished with little damage. It had apparently resulted from a cigarette dropped on a couch.

Most of the other tenants of the building were driven to the street by the smoke. Patrolman Jackson was taken to Polyclinic Hospital and after treatment was able to go home.

COURT DEFERS HEARING ON TAXICAB CONTRACTS

Yellow Corporation Injunction Against General Motors to Be Argued June 11.

Supreme Court Justice Lydon adjourned yesterday until June 11 the hearing on the damage and injunction suit filed last week by the Yellow Taxi Corporation, New York, against the General Motors Corporation and allied companies for alleged diversion of taxicab concessions at railroad and pier terminals by use of business pressure. The court permitted to remain in force a temporary injunction which bars the Terminal Cab Corporation from supplying taxicab service to the Furness-Bermuda Line pier at Pier 95, North River, at the foot of West Fifty-fifth Street.

In its suit the Yellow Taxi Corporation charged that General Motors, by reason of its large shipments over the lines of the New York Central and the Pennsylvania Railroad, forced those companies to grant to the Terminal Cab Corporation the cab concessions formerly held by the Yellow Taxi Corporation at Grand Central Station, Pennsylvania Station and the Forty-second Street ferry of the West Shore Railroad.

INCREASE YOUR SALES
Immediately!

If you distribute your products through Drug, Stationery, Grocery, Jewelry or Haberdashery stores, this message is vital to you.

THIS brings to your attention a solution which is much more constructive than the mere slashing of expenses in order to bolster earnings temporarily. In days like these, no business can mark time. You must go forward, making your own conditions or yield to those thrust upon you—and read the unpleasant answer in your quarterly earnings statement.

As a manufacturer, you recognize that you must not only get dealers to stock your merchandise, but also seek purchasers by means of advertising. The formula of bringing the public and dealer together in this manner is standard procedure. What this advertisement does is to show you how to accomplish this result at a moderate cost—and quickly.

The medium is window display advertising. But do not dismiss this message with the remark, "We have tried it." Have you tried it properly?

Technically a man is an advertiser if he runs a few scattered advertisements. Actually he is not. Similarly, there are many differences between buying a few thousand window displays and using a properly designed and planned window display campaign.

Our organization has made a thorough study of window display advertising. Through tests we have proved beyond doubt the ability of properly planned window display advertising campaigns to produce an immediate step-up in sales. On one product we secured in new business above the normal increase $12.00 (at the wholesale price to the retailer) for every dollar invested in displays.

PLEASE WEIGH THESE 10 VITAL FACTS:

Window displays are working at the point of sale.

Window displays follow exactly your channels of distribution.

The reader of a window sales message can act (buy) immediately. There is no gap of distance or lapse of time between the advertisement and the store.

When a dealer puts your display in his window his interest and that of his clerks are secured automatically.

Window displays are always in FULL COLOR.

Window displays show the actual product, not merely pictures of it. "Goods well displayed are half sold."

Women are the largest buyers of most products. Millions of women daily pass the windows of stores where your product is for sale.

Window displays give larger circulation at lower cost.

Window displays are the quickest-acting efficient advertising medium available to the manufacturer.

Window displays create and cement dealer good-will, and by moving goods off his shelves secure reorders for you.

We specialize in window and store display advertising and that alone. It has been our privilege to create displays for many of the outstanding products of the day.

The mere making of the display is only a small part of our work. Every phase of the campaign from beginning to end is directed by us in cooperation with your own organization.

We have men in the field doing research work constantly.

Test experiences enable us to tell you what percentage of stores you must cover in a community in order to get sufficient mass effect. By making cross-section tests, we can demonstrate in advance of your main expenditure that the complete campaign will be profitable to you. Our interest does not lie in selling a few displays here and there. We desire to explain the difference between doing a cursory job and going at it right.

In half an hour at your office or at ours, we will give you the benefit of more than ten years' specialized experience, recite facts and name prominent advertisers to whom you may turn for confirmation of what we tell you.

May we put our time against yours?

"I appeal from your customs. I must be myself" says Emerson in his "Self-Reliance."

There is a tendency, today, to minimize the individual and to exaggerate the machine-like customs of business, and of life.

Some men are so constituted that they fit quite easily into a mechanistic system, while others feel, instinctively that their individuality will be, or is being, gradually standardized out of them. They are becoming "cogs" and they don't want to be "cogs."

Work in the life insurance field certainly doesn't cramp individuality, ingenuity, or initiative. Men of character, who are capable of sustained hard work, who like to overcome obstacles by their mind and personality, who are interested in human nature, may well consider the profession of life insurance. There are no big fortunes to be made in it, but many agents have attained bigger things than that in its service.

Life insurance is used today as an essential commodity. There are but few problems in a man's personal or business finance in which it cannot be of help.

Life insurance is a property free from shrinkage or depreciation, nor will it be dissipated by inexperienced or speculatively inclined beneficiaries if its policy income provisions are used.

This office offers a liberal commission contract with a renewal income for a period of years—thorough courses of instruction, and the cooperation in practical field work of an experienced staff, without affecting in any way the agents' commissions.

We will be glad to discuss the matter in detail with anyone who is interested. We will tell him, as clearly as we can, the nature of the business, its possibilities and also its difficulties. He can then more accurately analyze the situation—and also himself and make his own decision.

DRY RAID WILL GET HIGH COURT HEARING

Supreme Court Agrees to Review Charge That Go-Bart Papers Were Seized.

FOURTH AMENDMENT CITED

Briefs for Company, Gowen and Bartels Contend That Arrests Made Were Unconstitutional.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The Supreme Court today agreed to review the case of the Go-Bart Importing Company, Philip D. Gowen and William Bartels against the government, in which the petitioners contend prohibition agents raided their premises, arrested them and illegally seized their books and papers.

The case originated in the Federal court for the Southern District of New York, where the petitioners asked for an order directing the government to restore the papers and for the suppression of this property as evidence.

District Judge Alfred C. Coxe denied the application and was sustained by the Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. The Go-Bart company and Gowen and Bartels asked for a writ of certiorari which the Supreme Court granted today.

On June 5, 1929, William J. Calhoun, a prohibition agent, swore out a complaint charging Gowen, Bartels and others with conspiracy under the prohibition law. On the next day other agents went to the Go-Bart company, showed what they said was a search warrant and "proceeded to ransack the premises."

Gowen entered, whereupon a warrant for his arrest was produced, and the agents, according to the Go-Bart company's counsel, took some of Gowen's keys and forced him to open his desk and safe. They took papers, documents, journals, insurance policies, canceled checks, index cards and miscellaneous property and "rummaged at will" through two other desks.

Bartels and another employe were arrested and arraigned before Commissioner Cotter on a prohibition conspiracy charge, but, the lawyers say, there has been no hearing on this complaint, nor any indictment.

The Go-Bart company, Gowen and Bartels brought the proceeding to recover the papers. In the meantime the dry agents said that an informer named Braidwood had stated that the petitioners bought and sold liquor.

The petitioners allege that the original complaint was made entirely upon information and belief and that the grounds were not valid. They say that although the warrant was directed to the United States Marshal, he did not accompany the dry agents.

"In this case," the petitioners' brief states, "the agents have made a sorry record. The insufficient complaint, the disregard of the United States Marshal in the execution of the warrant, the cunning and high-handed search, the threats of force to compel the opening of locked containers and the attempt to lie their way out present a spectacle which cannot, it is respectfully submitted, be reconciled with the enforcement of the spirit of the Fourth Amendment.

"To disregard orderly procedure and summarily arrest persons sitting peaceably in their offices upon the word of an accomplice and an informer, uncorroborated so far as the record discloses, is in effect to violate the amendment.

"So far as our examination of the books discloses, this is the first case that has ever sanctioned a general and exploratory search for incriminating papers as an incident to arrest or otherwise."

ROBERTS TAKES SEAT ON THE SUPREME BENCH

New Justice's Wife and Daughter Are Present in Court When He Is Sworn In.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Owen J. Roberts of Philadelphia was sworn in as an associate justice of the United States Supreme Court today, giving the bench its full quota of nine for the first time since February, when both Chief Justice Taft and Associate Justice Sanford died.

Mrs. Roberts, the new justice's daughter, and several of his friends from Pennsylvania were in the crowded court room when Mr. Roberts walked in, the last in line of the justices headed by Chief Justice Hughes.

The new member of the court had taken the constitutional oath of office in the robing room and was clad in his black gown when he entered.

As the chief justice and his associates took their seats and the crier opened the court, Mr. Hughes announced the appointment of Justice Roberts and his presence in the room.

Justice Roberts stood at the desk of Charles Elmore Cropley, clerk of the court, who read the justice's commission and administered the oath. Frank Key Green, the marshal, escorted the new member to a seat on the extreme left of the bench, and the court began its regular business.

Mr. Garfield is a son of a former Secretary of the Interior, James R. Garfield, whose father was president. The families are prominent in Cleveland, Ohio.

Custody of two minor children is divided by agreement. A property settlement was made out of court.

ADMITS ACCUSING WOMAN FALSELY

Law Clerk Says He Brought Theft Charge So She Could Be Held as a Bail-Jumper.

When Marie Smith, 27 years old, of 116 Mott Street was arraigned in the Tombs Court yesterday on a charge of attempted robbery made by Rocco Cardone, a law clerk of 331 Broome Street, the complainant admitted to Magistrate Stern that he had made the charge so that she could be detained by the police as a bail jumper.

Cardone, who is a brother of former Assistant District Attorney John Cardone, explained to the court that on Wednesday night the woman was released in $500 bail in the Night court, but that she had failed to appear in the Women's court the next day for a hearing on a vagrancy charge, and her bond was forfeited.

He added that he had guaranteed her appearance to the bondsman, and when he met her shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday morning he called a policeman. He told him that she had jumped the bail and a warrant had been issued for her.

It developed there is no arrangement between the magistrates' courts and the police to broadcast an alarm for a fugitive in such a case and both the policeman and the lieutenant at the station refused to hold her on Cardone's unsupported statement.

DISPERSE KOREAN RAIDERS.

Chinese Troops Halt Attempts to Terrorize Japanese Centres.

TOKYO, June 2 (AP).—Scores of Koreans trying to terrorize Japanese centres of influence in Kirin Province, Manchuria, last night raided Toutaokou, said a dispatch today from Seoul, Korea, to the Rengo News Agency. The Chinese military drove off the raiders. The curfew regulation was enforced, but other details were unavailable, owing to severed communications.

The Korean terrorists are working with Chinese Communists, who have organized three squads for propaganda, destruction and assassination.

On Saturday bands of Koreans hostile to the Japanese régime in Korea attacked several towns in the Chientao district of Kirin, Manchuria. Bombs were thrown at Japanese Consulates and industrial plants were set afire in Yenki, Lung Ching-tsun and other towns. One Japanese Consulate policeman was wounded in an exchange of rifle shots.

What infinite relief to know Kotex deodorizes

Kotex gives you every refinement of comfort and protection ... and it deodorizes a complete, safe way.

DAINTINESS makes one important demand which some women overlook. And Kotex answers that demand. It deodorizes, by a special process, as it is worn. You've no idea what a relief it is!

And Kotex gives you—too—the relief that comes with safe protection. It is filled, you know, with Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding. This is a cellulose substance which, for sanitary purposes, fulfills the same function as cotton with 5 times the absorbency.

Used in leading hospitals

In world-famous hospitals, where health protection is doubly vital, this very same absorbent is now used today ... 85% of America's leading hospitals now use Kotex filler, so its superiority and safety are unquestioned for your use.

Kotex is never bulky and uncomfortable, because it is fashioned in a way that eliminates bulk and makes the pad inconspicuous under the closest fitting frocks. It is not only soft to feel, but soft to wear. And that softness lasts—it doesn't pack into chafing hardness.

Once you use it, you'll find it indispensable. There are many reasons why—and one is the fact that it is so easily disposed of. That fact alone has changed the hygienic habits of millions of women the world over.

Kotex Company, Chicago, Ill.

KOTEX IS SOFT ...

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.
2—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.
3—Disposable, instantly, completely.
4—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

Regular Kotex—45c for 12
Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

LIFE moves. Times change. Change comes with almost lightning rapidity. The Evening Journal goes marching on.

Newspaper reading habits change. Buying habits change—from choice or necessity. Incomes go up and come down. The Journal goes marching on.

The Journal has been marching steadily and surely on for 30 years. Today its eyes are front. It is progressing faster than ever in the past. Its readers cling to it through thick and thin. More readers come to it every year, every month, every day.

Why—in good times and in times not so good—does the Journal keep on registering these gains?

The answer is simple—a good newspaper, well delivered. But the job of delivering a good newspaper on time is not actually so simple as it sounds.

It demands a vital, virile, vigorous newspaper—a newspaper that chronicles life as it is lived—a newspaper that brings to you in your home the living, beating pulse of humanity in the great world outside. And the Journal is that kind of a newspaper.

It demands a vivid, sympathetic understanding of the human heart and mind. And the Journal has that understanding.

It demands men whose courage and vision and wills bow to no ordinary limitations—and the Journal has those men.

You have probably known these things in a vague, uncertain way. Learn them now in a positive, satisfying way.

Pick up a Journal this afternoon—tonight on the way home. Get acquainted with its news, its features, its pictures, its cartoons and its editorials.

The Journal speaks a universal language. It recognizes no lines of caste or class. It is a newspaper for all the American people—alive, alert, marching gloriously on and doing its part to emphasize New York as the best town to live in and do business in.

Once a Journal reader, always one.

HIGH COURT ANNULS ORDER ON RAIL RATES

Decision Holds Resolution by Congress for Farm Relief Could Not Lower Charges.

RAILROADS APPEALED CASE

They Contended That Reduction of Tariffs on Citrus Fruits From California Was Unlawful.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—In the first test of the Hoch-Smith resolution passed by Congress five years ago to aid agriculture through advantageous freight rates, the Supreme Court unanimously held today that the Interstate Commerce Commission had erroneously construed the resolution.

The opinion was handed down by Justice Van Devanter, reversing a decree of the Federal District Court of Northern California. The Ann Arbor Railroad Company appealed from a decision upholding an order by the Interstate Commerce Commission reducing the rates on California deciduous fruits consigned to points east of the Mississippi River.

The California Growers and Shippers' Protective League joined with the government in opposing the railroad company.

Justice Van Devanter held that the Interstate Commerce Commission's interpretation of the resolution is in direct conflict with the interstate commerce act, which, he pointed out, not only guarantees the railroads reasonable returns but also prohibits rate discriminations in favor of any person, group or industry.

Resolution Directed Rate Change.

Under the Hoch-Smith resolution, the commission was directed not only to consider in adjusting freight rates the "conditions which at any time prevail in our several industries" but also "in view of the existing depression in agriculture" the commission was directed "to effect with the least practicable delay such lawful changes in the rate structure * * * as will promote the freedom of movement * * * of the products of agriculture affected by that depression * * * at the lowest possible rates compatible with the maintenance of adequate transportation service * * *"

In ordering a reduction in rates on California fruits, the commission construed the Hoch-Smith resolution as modifying the Interstate Commerce act to place farm products in a "most-favored" class, notwithstanding, according to the Supreme Court's opinion, that most of the carriers affected "have not as yet made the fair return for which Section 15A of the Interstate Commerce act makes provision as a means of securing the maintenance of an adequate transportation system."

Terms Wording Hopeful Desire.

"We are of the opinion," the Court said, "that the commission's construction cannot be supported," and added that, "Considering the connection in which these words are brought into the sentence we think they fall much short of supporting the construction adopted by the commission. They are more in the nature of a hopeful characterization of an object deemed desirable if, and in so far as it may be attainable, than a rule intended to control rate-making."

"Of course," the opinion continued, "they should not lightly be disregarded. Neither should they lightly be accepted as overturning positive and unambiguous provisions constituting part of a system of laws reflecting the settled legislative policy, such as the Interstate Commerce act.

"If they mean no more than that the depressed condition of the industry is to be given such consideration as may be reasonable considering the nature and cost of the transportation service and the need for maintaining an adequate transportation system, they work no change in the existing law. But, if they mean more and are intended to require that rates be reduced to some uncertain level below that standard, they give rise to a serious question respecting the constitutional validity of the paragraph of which they are a part."

NO TAR AND FEATHER LAW.

Federal Government Cannot Prosecute Louisiana Brothers.

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 2 (AP).—Dr. S. L. Newsom of Hammond, La., a dentist who was tarred and feathered last week by Ike G. Starns and his four brothers, failed today in his effort to prosecute them in Federal District Court here.

United States District Attorney Edmond E. Talbot and Dr. Newsom, accompanied by B. M. Harvard, one of his lawyers, held a conference today.

"I advised Dr. Newsom and his counsel, Mr. Harvard," said Mr. Talbot, "that I could find no point in the case in which any Federal statute had been violated. Therefore I told them I could not present the case to the United States grand jury, nor could I see any possibility of prosecuting any or all of the five Starns brothers in the Federal courts."

Ike G. Starns and his four brothers were indicted last week by a grand jury at Amite, and their trial is expected to come up in a State court in June.

Starns publicly admitted tarring and feathering the dentist, whom he accused of breaking up his home.

SEES BRIAND PLAN SUCCEED

Jules-Blois, Historian, Predicts Triumph of Federation Idea.

Eventual success for the proposal of Aristide Briand for a "United States of Europe" was predicted in a talk last night by H. A. Jules-Blois, prominent French historian and personal friend of the Foreign Minister, at the Army and Navy Club of America.

Describing M. Briand's project as a "sublime undertaking," the speaker declared that a federation of Europe similar to the system of government in this country, except in political status, was not too distant in the future.

Maxime Mongendre, French Consul General, introduced the speaker and acted as chairman of the meeting, which was held under the auspices of the Cercle des Annales. Both M. Mongendre and M. Jules-Blois agreed that M. Briand had gained an "indelible record" in the "golden book of universal peace" and that as the result of his work there is a closer unity and less likelihood of war in Europe than in recent times.

HIGH COURT CLEARS JUDGMENT DOCKET

Justices Make New Record in Disposing of Cases Before Taking Recess Until Oct. 6.

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP).—Setting a record by disposing of all cases on hand for decision, none being carried over to the next term, the Supreme Court today recessed to meet again Oct. 6.

It consented to review several cases, one being the contention of the New York Life Insurance Company that the government had used improper methods in imposing a capital-stock tax for 1919, 1920 and 1921.

The court refused to review a decision awarding to Lenora Howe of Erie, Pa., judgments for $47,355 against the Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York and of $21,740 against the National Life Association on policies carried in the two companies by her husband, William Howe, alleged to have been burned to death in his automobile in November, 1927. The insurance companies contested because of alleged inability to identify the body.

The court vacated a decree against the Panama Steamship Company on a judgment for $10,000 awarded against it in favor of Ernestina Isabelle Vargas, as damages for assault on a passenger alleged to have been committed by one of the company's employes.

The court refused to review the first of several cases brought to test the validity of the Jones act, imposing severe penalties for violations of the prohibition law, brought by Frank Ross, convicted of violating the law at the Viaduct Club, Elm Grove, W. Va.

Another of the myriad legal problems raised by prohibition will be passed upon by the court in deciding whether a company may make deductions in profit taxes for losses attributed to the Volstead act. The case was brought by the National Industrial Alcohol Company of New Orleans.

The court consented to review two cases brought by the government under the Sherman anti-trust law, in which ten of the largest motion picture distributing companies and the Film Board of Trade were charged with enforcing illegal contracts and rules on exhibitors and set the cases for argument on Oct. 27.

Brooklyn Gas Hearing Put Off.

The hearing scheduled yesterday before the Public Service Commission on the application of the Brooklyn Union Gas Company for a chance in its rates which would include an initial charge of 95 cents for the first 200 cubic feet of gas was postponed until next Monday and Tuesday. Commissioner George R. Van Namee, who is presiding at the hearings was unable to be present yesterday.

BROCK AND SCHLEE TO SEEK NEW RECORD

Plan San Diego-to-Jacksonville Flight and Return About June 10.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 2 (AP).—William Brock and Edward Schlee will attempt a flight from Rockwell Field here to Jacksonville, Fla., and return about June 10 to smash the transcontinental speed record east and west, now held by Lieutenant James H. Doolittle and Major Theodore Macauley, it was announced by the Chamber of Commerce, which will handle arrangements for the flight at the request of Brock.

Broadcast of the plane's progress is planned.

The westbound speed record is held by Lieutenant Doolittle, who flew from Pablo Beach, Jacksonville, to Rockwell Field, 2,079 miles, in 21 hours, 20 minutes September, 1922. The eastbound record is held by Major Macauley, who flew from Rockwell Field to Jacksonville in 19 hours, 10 minutes, with one stop at Kelly Field, Texas, for fuel, in August, 1920.

ROOSEVELT SEES GAIN FOR DEMOCRATS IN FALL

No Big Political Upset Likely, People Are Disillusioned as to Business, He Says in Boston.

BOSTON, June 2 (AP).—Governor Roosevelt of New York said here tonight that, while he expected the Democratic party to make gains in the Senate and House next Fall, he did not expect any major political upheaval. The statement was made during an interview after he arrived here to attend the wedding of his son, James, who will be married Wednesday at Brookline.

The Governor said he did not think people would think along political lines on the present unemployment situation, although he added that he believed a great many people had been disillusioned.

"They thought because of the promises in the 1928 campaign that we would have unexampled prosperity for four more years," he said. "The shock of the present business depression was rather rude, to say the least. In other words, people from now on will consider the economics of the situation rather than political campaign promises.

"As for the business situation itself, it is not getting much worse, but it's not getting much better either. In New York State, and for that matter in New England, we will really have to wait until September before we can get figures that really tell the tale."

He believed the issues in the coming Congressional contests would be unemployment and prohibition.

JUSTICE IS ACCUSED IN M'CANLISS CASE

Morschauser Awarded Child to Father Through 'Subtle Influence,' Proskauer Says.

SWAYED BY MACK, HE ADDS

'Draw Your Own Conclusions,' Ex-Justice Replies to Appellate Bench's Request for Details.

The charge that Supreme Court Justice Morschauser in White Plains had awarded to Lee McCanliss, wealthy Bronxville lawyer, the custody of his 6-year-old son as the result of "subtle and persuasive influence" exerted on the judge by John E. Mack, counsel for McCanliss, was made to the Appellate Division in Brooklyn yesterday by Joseph M. Proskauer, former Supreme Court justice. Mr. Proskauer appeared in behalf of the boy's mother, Mrs. Irene McCanliss, of 840 Park Avenue.

The Appellate Division invited Mr. Proskauer to elaborate on his accusation, but he declined, saying that the court "will have to draw its own conclusions." Mr. Mack, after informing the court that "lawyers don't tell Justice Morschauser what to do; he tells them," asked to have Mr. Proskauer's remarks stricken from the record. The court, however, granted Mrs. McCanliss's application for a stay of Justice Morschauser's custody order pending her appeal from the ruling.

Result of Annulment Action.

The custody proceeding arose before Justice Morschauser in Dutchess County, after Mr. McCanliss had begun an annulment proceeding against his wife based on the charge that she had concealed from him that she was of illegitimate birth. He asked for the custody of the son, Douglas McCanliss, and after secret hearings before Justice Morschauser his application was granted.

In asking for a stay Mr. Proskauer said: "It is my opinion that Justice Morschauser was led to make his findings by virtue of the subtle and persuasive influence of John E. Mack. The court drew up a regular set of findings to decide a habeas corpus proceeding, and all these were against Mrs. McCanliss, the mother of the boy."

Justice Carswell inquired of Mr. Proskauer if he thought there was an erroneous use of discretion, and Justice Kapper asked, "Would you go further than that?"

Charges Abuse of Discretion.

"Well," Mr. Proskauer replied, "you will have to draw your own conclusions. I do claim there was an abuse of discretion."

Mr. Proskauer added that several prominent persons were ready to testify in behalf of Mrs. McCanliss and that some already had done so. He asserted that Justice Morschaser's decision had the effect of branding "these prominent persons" as "perjurers."

Mr. Mack denied that any influence had been used in connection with the ruling and asserted that the boy had been subjected to improper influence while in the custody of the mother.

The McCanlisses were married in 1923. Mrs. McCanliss is a graduate of Barnard College and a former resident of Stamford, Conn., where she once taught school. Mr. McCanliss is a member of the law firm of Davis, Polk, Wardwell, Gardiner & Reid of New York.

COLLEGE HEADS SAY DRINKING IS REDUCED

Majority of 257 Answering the W. C. T. U., Report Temperance Gains Under Dry Laws.

HIBBEN BLAMES ELDERS

Lays Youths' Habits to Outside Environment—Angell Refers to Yost and Stagg.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 2.—A majority of college heads who answered a questionnaire sent out by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union have declared there is less drinking than ever among their students, according to a statement given out today at the union's headquarters in Evanston.

Inspired by what it saw as "widespread wet propaganda that the college is unsafe, the organization solicited opinions of educators on the liquor situation on their campuses. The replies of 257 presidents in forty-five States were gathered and presented in a report by the union. This was the result as tabulated:

Less drinking than before prohibition, 146.

No drinking among students, 44.

Drinking now and always unknown, or almost unknown, among students, 47.

About the same amount of drinking now as before the Eighteenth Amendment, 8.

Conditions bad, 7.

Conditions worse, 3.

Summing up the results officials of the organization observed:

"The presidents' views coincide with the statements by the two famous football coaches, Alonzo A. Stagg of Chicago University and Z. (Hurry Up) Yost, Michigan University, who told the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives that student drinking was vastly less since prohibition, and are in disagreement with the idea expressed by Coach W. W. Roper of Princeton, who said drinking conditions are so bad he hesitated to send his children to college."

Hibben Blames Older Generation.

Drinking students, the survey indicated, are likely to come from families or communities where drinking by the older generation is common, and it found that student bodies where drinking is the rule "represent sons of that small but vocal class who are defying the prohibition laws, making liquor a fetish in a dry era, putting appetite and making much about 'personal liberty' above the common welfare and working to defeat the President's law enforcement program and to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment."

President Hibben of Princeton in his reply to the W. C. T. U. wrote:

"The college communities are not wholly to be blamed (for student drinking), for young men and women today in college circles are reflecting merely what is going on in their homes and in their social environment. Youth has a very deep-seated imitative propensity, and they are following the example of their elders."

"The president of Yale directed his secretary to write us a letter referring us for information to Coach Stagg of Chicago and Coach Yost of Michigan," said the report. "If Yale accepts the views of these well-known experts in youth, then we can add one more institution to the list of those who believe student drinking vastly on the decline.

"William J. Boone, president of the College of Idaho, who says drinking rarely occurs among his students, wrote:

" 'To us simple-minded Westerners the position of President Nicholas Murray Butler, Dwight Morrow, Emily Post and Coach Roper, is an enigma. Can it be possible that prohibition does not prohibit? If it does not why the fuss on the part of those opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment?' "

Following are some of the responses from some of the institutions:

CHARLES J. DREME, Dean, Fordham University—"Sobriety is most certainly the rule here. * * * I believe college sobriety is the rule in a great many institutions."

WELLESLEY COLLEGE—"We have never been conscious that our students drink here. * * * I think the leaders among the student body are opposed to it."

DAVID KINLEY, president, University of Illinois—"In my opinion, drinking among college and university students is less than it used to be and the moral and scholastic level of these students today is, on the whole, higher than that of the students of a generation ago."

E. D. WARFIELD, president of Wilson College—"I regretted Mr. Roper's testimony because I am a Princeton graduate and an old athlete. My impression of conditions at Princeton is that there is much less drinking there than there was twenty years ago. The president was my classmate and continues one of my most intimate friends, and we owe it to him that commencement drinking has been reduced almost to the vanishing point."

S. A. BURRUSS, president, Virginia Polytechnic Institute—"There is nothing like half as much drinking done by the students of this college as in former years."

ARTHUR W. TARVELL, Dean of Men, Carnegie Institution of Technology—"Less than 5 per cent of the students have any interest in liquor."

DANIEL L. MARSH, president Boston University—"Conditions are so much better than they were twenty years ago that any attempted comparison becomes a contrast. All one needs in order to become enthusiastic for prohibition is to have a memory of what conditions were in the old days and contrast those conditions with today. We have 15,000 students enrolled here, and I hardly think of any greater disservice to the rising generation than to scrap prohibition."

MERVIN G. FILLER, president Dickinson College—"I am in the heartiest sympathy with the desire and purpose to show the absolute falsity of the claim made by the liquor people concerning drinking in American colleges. * * * After the Volstead act went into effect Dickinson College announced that any use of liquor would be considered a serious offense."

CLARENCE A. BARBOUR, president Brown University—"I am not prepared to admit or believe that there is more drunkenness on the average American college campus than there was prior to national prohibition. I heartily wish that conditions were better, but I am glad they are as good as they are in view of the persistent propaganda being waged to break down the hoped for and desired observance of the law."

W. W. COMFORT, president, Haverford College—"The sentiment of the entire academic community is against the use of liquor. * * * We are nearly exempt from the evils of liquor."

ARTHUR STANLEY PEASE, president, Amherst College—"There is perhaps more talk about drinking in college now than twenty-five or thirty years ago. * * * The frequency and degree of drunkenness has been greatly reduced. Certainly the scholastic level has been much raised since the years just following the war, or even since thirty years ago, and such an increase seems inconsistent with drunkenness and disorder."

PAUL D. MOODY, president, Middlebury College—"I have never known the time when there seemed to be less drunkenness or when the moral tone was more satisfactory in the colleges as I know them than today."

EMORY W. HUNT, President Bucknell University—"There is much less drinking among college students than there was ten years ago and the sentiment against it decidedly stronger."

GEORGE B. CUTTEN, president, Colgate University—"Our student body has more than doubled and there is less drinking actually and, of course, proportionately than prior to prohibition."

WALLACE W. ATWOOD, Clark University—"In the ten years I do not believe we have had as many as ten cases of drunkenness come to my attention. There is distinctly an atmosphere of sobriety on the college campus."

HARRY A. GARFIELD, president, Williams College—"The young men of today, on the whole, are a cleaner, better lot than they were twenty years ago or when I was an undergraduate."

JOHN A. COUSENS, president, Tufts College—"Conditions with regard to drinking and drunkenness are steadily improving and are far better than they were in the previous generation."

W. M. LEWIS, president, Lafayette College—"There is less evidence of drinking than formerly."

W. P. SHORTRIDGE, dean, West Virginia University—"There is much less drinking among the students than was true in the days before the prohibition amendment was adopted."

J. M. THOMAS, president, Rutgers University—"Personally I believe in the retention of the Eighteenth Amendment and have seen nothing as a college administrator to incline me to the opposite view."

EDWARD Y. BLEWETT, executive secretary, University of New Hampshire—"President Lewis states that he would be proud to have the University of New Hampshire pointed out as an institution where student sobriety, rather than drunkenness, is the rule. He feels also that this condition prevails in most of the colleges of the land."

SAYS MEN GRADUATES ARE NOW 'ADOLESCENT'

Dr. Vincent Tells Goucher Women Athletic Contests Have Paralyzed Their Minds.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 2.—Alumni of men's colleges have "become adolescent," their minds attuned to athletic contests but with no sense of the things of the spirit, declared Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller Institute, in the course of a commencement address to the 212 graduates of Goucher College here today.

Dr. Vincent deplored the enthusiasm with which alumni of men's colleges return to athletic contacts and the lack of interest they take in the things of the mind. More, he said, is expected of the graduates of women's colleges. Of the masculine graduates he remarked that they "seem to have lost a sense of things of the mind and spirit. Athletic contests have paralyzed all functions of the cerebelli. The alumni have become adolescent."

A letter from Dr. David J. Robertson of Washington, in which he accepted the presidency of the college, was read during the exercises. Dr. Robertson praised the educational record of Goucher College and its possibilities for the future. He commended the members of the faculty and said that "any man would be glad to call them colleagues." The president-elect will take up his work here June 15.

Dean Dorothy Stimson, who has been acting president of the college since the death of Dr. Hans Froelicher, was granted a leave of absence during the year 1930-1931 in order to make use of the Guggenheim Scholarship which was awarded her some time ago for foreign study. Dr. Stimson had postponed making use of this scholarship at the request of the board of trustees. After a year's study abroad she will return to Goucher to resume her duties as dean.

Wood Holes' scholarships were won by Mary Burton Derrickson of the class of 1930 and Helen Miriam Coplan of the class of 1931. The Dean Van Meter Alumnae Fellowship was awarded to Margaret Elliott MacGregor of the class of 1917 and the Elizabeth King Ellicott Fellowship was awarded to Katherine Allen Powell of the class of 1926.

DIVINITY GRADUATES TOLD OF OBSTACLES

Minister's Own Failings Source of Greatest Perplexities, Yale Scholars Hear.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 2.—The young minister, after a glimpse behind the scenes of the great universities or denominations, may wonder at times whether Christianity is a sham, Professor Kenneth S. La Tourette of the Yale Divinity School said today in an address to the members of the graduating class.

The failings of the ministers themselves, not those of other persons, probably will prove his greatest perplexities and obstacles, he declared.

Speaking on "The Task of the Minister—the Cure of Souls," Professor La Tourette said that the Catholic priest is not disturbed by the presumption that it is difficult to cure others while the clergyman himself stands desperately in need of guidance.

"Clearly, the chief task of him whom we still call, in the terms of an older nomenclature, a foreign missionary, Professor La Tourette said in part, is the cure of souls. Some of us who are clased as liberals, in reacting from an older motive which made much of plucking brands from the burning, are in danger of forgetting this.

"I scarcely need tell you of the temptations and the sorrows which beset us as we try to give ourselves to the cure of souls.

"At times some of us—perhaps all of us—after a glimpse behind the scenes into the inner operation of any of our great denominations or universities, may wonder whether Christianity is not a hollow sham. Time and again those whom we have sought to help will prove ungrateful, or, what is worse, will fail to become the men and women that we knew they might and ought to be, will deteriorate before our eyes and will crumple under an emergency.

"To most of us, I suspect, the chief obstacle and the greatest perplexity in the cure of souls are not the failing of others, but ourselves.

Dean Luther A. Weigle, who presided at the exercises celebrating the 108th anniversary of the Divinity School, announced the award of seventeen honors:

Harold Augustus Pflug, B. A., Elmhurst College, 1925, of Massillon, Ohio, received the Julia A. Archibald high-scholarship prize, and the Day Fellowship, established in 1909 by bequest from Mrs. Olivia Hotchkiss Day, and will receive the degree of Bachelor of Divinity cum laude.

Other awards were:

Two Brothers Fellowship, awarded annually for biblical study abroad—Rose John Griffeth.

Hooker [illegible] Traveling Fellowship—Allen Jerome Miller.

The [illegible] prizes for proficiency in reading of scriptures and hymns were awarded as follows:

Middle Class—First prize, divided between Virgil LeRoy Elliott and William Conrad Hamm; second prize, Leroy Cabbage.

The Mersick Prizes, designed to promote the attainment of effective public address, were awarded as follows:

JUDGE WHEAT APPROVED.

Senate Judiciary Committee Also Favors Schneider Nomination.

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP).—Without opposition the nomination of Alfred A. Wheat, formerly of New York, to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, was approved today by the Senate judiciary committee.

The committee ordered a favorable report after Attorney General Mitchell had approved the nomination before a subcommittee.

HOLDS BOOK PRICE CUT AFFECTS ONLY A FEW

Guinzburg of Literary Guild Says Only 'Popular' Publications Will Be Sold Cheaply.

Only a small percentage of books published will be affected by the price reductions announced recently by several publishing firms, in the opinion of Harold K. Guinzburg, president of the Literary Guild, who discussed the production of dollar books over Station WRNY yesterday. Sales of books through chain stores will tend to decrease the cost of production, Mr. Guinzburg said, but only books of wide popular appeal can be merchandised through such outlets.

"The public is not aware that the largest item in determining the cost of a book is not the manufacture," said Mr. Guinzburg. "The cost of paper, printing and binding is usually only 10 per cent of the retail price of the volume. The author receives about 15 per cent, the retailer gets a discount of 40 per cent, advertising takes 5 per cent, and about 5 per cent goes into the investment in setting up the book. The remaining 25 per cent covers selling expenses, general overhead and a profit which, in the case of a successful book, may be 10 per cent. Of course, just as often the publisher is left with no profit but with a considerable loss.

"The only way to reduce materially the price of books is by cutting royalties, and selling books in such large quantities that manufacturing, advertising and selling costs are reduced to a minimum. Publishers who are planning dollar books propose to sell four times as many books to make the plan economically sound for author and publisher. To do this they will have to sell mostly through drug and chain stores, which will have room in their shops for a maximum of about 5 per cent of the titles published a year. The titles that will get this form of distribution will inevitably be detective stories and the type of books that are bought essentially as merchandise. Other books which will continue to be sold through the book stores will not benefit from this great extra sale and cannot therefore be reduced in price without loss to author, publisher and bookseller.

"Although one cannot yet predict what the outcome will be if other publishers join the production of inexpensive books, it will be more difficult for books of literary merit to survive. The book clubs have showed that it is possible to increase the audience for really fine books. We may now see that there is a still greater audience for fiction of the sort which is now largely confined to the most popular magazines and newspapers. It may be that those who have heretofore relied solely upon magazines for their reading matter are willing to buy the equivalent in book form, if it is cheap enough."

JUNIATA HEARS FLETCHER.

Ex-Envoy, In Commencement Speech, Advocates Legislative Reform.

Special to The New York Times.

HUNTINGTON, Pa., June 2.—Modification of the organization and practices of the national government was the theme of an address Henry P. Fletcher, former Ambassador to Italy, at the fifty-fourth commencement exercises of Juniata College held this morning.

Dr. Charles C. Ellis, who was elected President of Juniata following the death of former Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh, conferred degrees in arts, science, economics, music and home economics upon the class of ninety-six, the largest in the history of the school.

Mr. Fletcher, who received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, suggested in his address that national representation upon an economic or occupational basis, in place of the present geographical system, might work for a stronger democracy.

BEST AGE IS PRESENT, CURTIS TELLS CLASS

Vice President Is Commencement Speaker at Marshall—Gets Honorary Degree.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 2 (AP).—Vice President Curtis told the 162 students of the graduating class at Marshall College that "there has never been a better period since the Creation than that which awaits the young man and young woman of today."

The Vice President delivered the commencement address. The honorary degree of Doctor of Law was conferred upon the Vice President, Herbert Fitzpatrick, vice president and general manager of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, and Leonard A. Busby, a Chicago attorney.

Reminding the class that the people of the United States are living at a "furious pace" and that the "minds of our experts and inventors are taxed, indeed, to add another mile to the schedule or to take another hour from the time-table, the Vice President said the industrial, commercial and agricultural growth of the country "is a good demonstration of the faith the men of our country have in our future."

COLUMBIA COLLEGE HAS OWN EXERCISES

First Separate Commencement Is Held, 352 Students Receiving Their Degrees.

BUTLER PRAISES NEW PLAN

Dean Hawkes and Class Speakers Suggest It Be Made Permanent—39 Elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

In the first separate commencement exercises for Columbia College, held yesterday afternoon, before the general university commencement and the formal awarding of degrees which will take place today, 352 students, including six as of the class of 1929, received diplomas from President Nicholas Murray Butler and Dean Herbert E. Hawkes.

Both Dr. Butler and Dean Hawkes joined with spokesmen of the graduating class in lauding the idea of holding the separate exercises for the college and forecast the continuation of the new plan in the future. The winners of the four college prizes which depend on the votes of the graduates themselves and the 1930 Phi Beta Kappa drawing of thirty-nine men were also announced. The separate college commencement is the result of student petition. It followed a two-months' editorial campaign by Spectator, Columbia's undergraduate daily.

With more than 1,000 relatives of the graduating students and guests of the college looking on, the exercises were held in the Van Amringe quadrangle on the university campus. After William Bradford Smith, class salutatorian, had spoken, Dean Hawkes, in his "last word" to the graduating students, urged the combination of a life of ideas with a life of affairs.

Praises Living With Ideas.

"Those of you who have really learned the lesson that the college has tried to teach know that activity is not the highest accomplishment," he said. "The man who in the recesses of his own mind can live quietly with ideas has come to know a manner of living that transcends in fineness and in satisfaction the ceaseless agitation of the hustler.

"But if the man in the world of doing is self-centred in the pursuit of material things for his own pleasure, the man who lives the life of a hermit is selfish in an even more refined way. If the man in the world of business benefits himself by his success he is almost certain to benefit others, else his own success is not likely to be long-lived. The world of the hermit is bounded by his own thinking and his only aim is to improve himself. This is the very pinnacle of self-appreciation.

"If you have learned either the lesson of the cloister or of the market place to the exclusion of the other, you have failed to accomplish the result that the college desires. Only by superimposing the life of ideas upon the life of affairs can one really reach the full stature of the educated man."

After the presentation of diplomas, President Butler in a brief address said he would refrain from giving the customary commencement advice, which, he said, was "very sound, very convincing and very boring." He suggested that the graduates use their education to form a guage of greatness and excellence.

"What you had opportunity to gain is the measuring rod of greatness," he said. "You do not measure it in feet or rods, but by intangible standards, the essence of which is spirit."

William Thompson Matthews delivered the valedictory address.

JEWISH GUARDIANS SEE DELINQUENCY DECLINE

Definite progress in the amelioration of problems arising from juvenile delinquency is announced in the ninth annual report of the Jewish Board of Guardians, and the twenty-third annual report of its predecessor, the Jewish Protectory and Aid Society, which have just been made public.

The reports show that extension of preventive work among potential delinquents has resulted in a marked falling off in the number of boys sent to the board's school at Hawthorne, N. Y. The population at the close of the year was only 142, a decrease of 39 from the total at the beginning of the year. The population at Cedar Knolls, the girls' school maintained by the board, increased, however, from 36 to 57.

CITY LODGER HAS $3,517.

Bank Book Found Under Bed in Municipal Haven for Needy.

A bank book showing deposits of $3,517 in the Bowery Savings Bank was found under a bed in the Municipal Lodging House at 432 East Twenty-fifth Street yesterday morning by the superintendent of the institution, Joseph A. Mannix. The book bore the name of Bernardo Zerato and gave his address as 432 East Twenty-fifth Street, the same as the lodging house.

Mr. Mannix recalled that Zerato, a man about 30 years of age, had stayed at the institution five nights each month for some time. That length of time is the maximum that a person is allowed to spend in the lodging house.

Frank J. Taylor, Commissioner of Public Welfare, said that 1,387 persons had been quartered in the institution Sunday night, including twenty-five women and six children. On the night of June 1 last year there were only 487 persons in the house.

Commissioner Taylor also announced that he had asked the Board of Estimate yesterday to appropriate $35,000 to set up a free employment agency to be operated by the city for the remainder of 1930.

$31,680 LIQUOR SEIZED ON AMERICAN SHIP

Customs Men Find 3,168 Bottles on the Ambridge, Owned by the Shipping Board.

Three days of watchful waiting by customs guards resulted yesterday in the finding of liquors concealed in the hold of the freighter Ambridge of the American Diamond Line, lying at Pier 2, Hoboken. The value of the liquor was estimated at $31,680.

Deputy Surveyor John McGill, in charge of the customs enforcement division, had received information from treasury agents in Europe that the Ambridge had a quantity of champagne and other wines and liquors concealed on board.

When the Ambridge arrived in Quarantine last Friday from Antwerp, Mr. McGill went to meet the vessel on a United States Coast Guard cutter and escorted it to the pier. Searchers went on board there, but failed to find anything. A second search was made on Sunday with the same result. Yesterday the zeal of the customs men was rewarded by the discovery of 528 sacks containing six bottles each, stowed away under cargo manifested for Baltimore and Norfolk. The 3,168 bottles were removed to the Army Base in Brooklyn last night.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 2 (AP).—Mrs. Esther Auchincloss Nash of Cedarhurst, L. I., daughter of Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss and the late Mr. Auchincloss of 33 East Sixty-seventh Street, New York, was married to Norman Biltz of Los Angeles, Cal., late this afternoon.

The ceremony was performed at the Summer home of the bride's mother at Sascoo Hill, Southport, by the Rev. George Stewart of Stamford, in the presence of the bride's immediate family.

Mrs. Biltz is a niece of Miss Annie Burr Jennings of Sunnieholm, Fairfield, and of Oliver G. Jennings of New York and Fairfield.

She obtained a divorce from E. J. Nash of New York some time ago.

Bars Liquor Equipment Suit Based on Warehouse Smells

CLEVELAND, June 2 (AP).—In what is believed to be the first case so decided in this country since the Supreme Court held that goods used for the purpose of manufacturing intoxicating beverages may be legally confiscated, Federal Commissioner M. J. Monahen late today ordered a seizure of corn sugar and empty cans returned to their owners.

Mr. Monahen granted a motion compelling Federal prohibition officials to return ninety tons of corn sugar and 3,500 empty five-gallon cans seized in a raid May 10 upon an Akron warehouse owned by Leo Isar, reported "corn sugar baron" of that city. The seizure was made on the basis of the Supreme Court ruling.

A search warrant for the warehouse was based on odors said to have emanated from the place. This, the Commissioner held, was insufficient evidence to show the sugar and cans might be intended for manufacture of illicit liquor.

SUES FOR $800,000 WILLED TO HARVARD

Cousin of Stuart Wyeth Says He Is Rightful Owner of Bronx Real Estate.

CALLS INSTRUMENT INVALID

Also Asserts Document of May 8, 1919, Was Not Last Testament —Bank Is Co-Defendant.

Proceedings were started in Bronx Supreme Court yesterday by Francis H. Wyeth of Philadelphia against Harvard University and the Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Company, as executors, to get possession of Bronx real estate valued at about $800,000 which was bequeathed to the university by Stuart Wyeth, president of John Wyeth & Brothers, manufacturing chemists, who died Dec. 30, 1929.

The complaint charges that the will of Stuart Wyeth, dated May 8, 1919, was neither valid nor his last testament. Frederic H. McCoun, of the law firm of Scudder, McCoun, Stockton and Kerfoot, through which the action was brought, said that his client was a first cousin of the late Mr. Wyeth and had not been named in the will.

The property is in three parcels and is part of an estate estimated at more than $5,000,000, the bulk of which was left to Harvard. According to the papers, one plot is on the west side of Sheridan Avenue, 200 feet south of 167th Street, and is 336 by 303; another, 225 by 100 feet, is at the northeast corner of the Grand Concourse and 172d Street, and the last, 150 by 107 feet, is at the southeast corner of Field Place and Grand Concourse.

Mr. Wyeth, who is in the electrical business, alleged that the President and Fellows of Harvard College "are the residuary devisees under the alleged will of May 8, 1919," and "now withhold possession of said premises from the plaintiff, who is one of the lawful owners thereof, and refuse to deliver possession of said premises to plaintiff, although due demand therefor has been made."

The Fidelity-Philadelphia Company, as executors of the will, started supplementary proceedings in the Bronx Surrogate's Court on March 10 to bring about a settlement of the local property in accordance with the terms of the will. One of the bequests was for $100,000 to former Judge James Gay Gordon of Philadelphia, who was personal and company counsel for Stuart Wyeth for a half century.

UNION DOCTOR ATTACKS COMPENSATION BUREAU

Dr. Lewy, Chief State Examiner, Is Unfair to Workers, Curran Tells Building Men.

The State Bureau of Workmen's Compensation was denounced yesterday for its alleged anti-labor attitude and bias against injured employes by Dr. E. T. Curran, a representative of the New York building unions, at the opening session of the conference of the New York State bricklayers, masons, plasterers, marble, tile and terraza workers in the Hotel Leverich Towers, Brooklyn.

Dr. Raphael Lewy, chief medical examiner of the bureau, was charged by Dr. Curran with "arrogance, prejudice and often inhumanity toward injured employes." Dr. Curran urged the elimination of the present bureau and the substitution of a board more representative of organized labor. The right to appeal from the decisions of the board, which is not granted at present, also was urged by Dr. Curran.

Dr. Lewy, when advised of Dr. Curran's charges, pointed to his record of sixteen years service for the bureau and suggested that any complaints against his acts should be lodged with Miss Frances Perkins, State Industrial Commissioner.

"Mr. Curran represents injured employes before the bureau and claims to be a doctor as well as a lawyer," Dr. Lewy said, "but his name is not listed in the membership of any medical society. This is not the first time Mr. Curran has attacked me for supposed bias against injured employes."

PRINTERS RE-ELECT HOWARD

Typographical Union President Has a Plurality of 10,020.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 2 (AP).—The plurality of Charles P. Howard, candidate for re-election as president of the International Typographical Union, today had reached 10,020 when the votes of 539 unions had been unofficially tabulated. The vote was practically complete.

The vote for Howard was 31,306. His closest opponent, Fred Barker of Spokane, Wash., had 11,885. R. D. Soderstrom of Streator, Ill., was third with 9,401.

Woodruff Randolph of Chicago, candidate for re-election as secretary-treasurer, had a total of 31,417 votes. His opponent, John J. Buckley of New York, had received 18,230.

H. D. SAVAGE TO HEAD THEATRE LEAGUE

May Draw a $25,000 Salary—Would Be Asked to Stop Ticket Speculation.

IS BANKER AND ENGINEER

Regulation of Ticket Sales Expected to Go Into Effect Early Next Month.

Official announcement that Harlow Dow Savage will act as executive secretary of the New York Thearte League, Inc., at a reported salary of $25,000 a year, will probably be made next week, it was said yesterday after a closed meeting of the league at the Empire Theatre. Meanwhile, Mr. Savage, whose appointment is regarded as practically certain by the group's members, is continuing his study of the theatrical situation and his plans for organization.

Mr. Savage, who has had experience in the banking and engineering fields, has not hitherto been known in the theatre. As executive secretary he will operate the machinery through which most of New York's producing managers and ticket brokers hope to eliminate speculation and will have certain police powers in seeing that league agreements are lived up to.

Yesterday's meeting was for the purpose of considering and making minor changes in the contract between the theatrical men and the ticket agents. It is expected that further changes will be made at the next meeting, which, according to Arthur Hopkins, president of the league, probably will be held on Friday.

It is now generally believed that the league will put its plans for the regulation of ticket sales into effect early next month.

Mr. Savage, who is 50 years old, lives in Scarsdale. He is the author of many papers on engineering subjects, and designed and installed the first completely electrified refractory plant in the world. Mr. Savage has been an officer and director of many industrial and engineering corporations, and was the first president of the Refractory Manufacturers' Association. His clubs include the Scarsdale Golf Club, the American Yacht, the Milton Point Casino and the Engineers.

LESSEES ABANDON THE LITTLE THEATRE

Poor Business Blamed for Harkem Concern's Action—Lease Has Twelve Years to Run.

Four months of poor theatrical business were said yesterday to have caused the abrupt abandonment on Saturday of a twelve-and-a-half-year lease of the Little Theatre in West Forty-fourth Street by the Harkem Holding Corporation. The playhouse was taken over on Dec. 16 from its owner, Winthrop Ames, by Chauncey W. Keim on behalf of the corporation. Mr. Keim refused to make any statement yesterday, but another member of the corporation, who asked that his name be withheld, confirmed the giving up of the theatre.

Since December the theatre has booked "Many-A-Slip," "House Afire," "Dora Mobridge" and "The Traitor," all of which played to losses and had brief runs. "Many-A-Slip," produced by Lew Cantor in February, ran for seven weeks. During its engagement at the Little Theatre the Harkem concern assumed control of the play. After its Broadway stay, "Many-A-Slip" was sent on tour, closing in Chicago on Saturday night.

At Mr. Ames's office yesterday reports of the giving up of the theatre could not be confirmed. It was said there would be a meeting of counsel for Mr. Ames and the corporation later in the week.

A ten-year lease on the Little Theatre held by L. Lawrence Weber, John Golden and F. Ray Comstock expired last September. The house then reverted to Mr. Ames. It has a seating capacity of 600. Many successful productions have been witnessed there since it was built in 1912.

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

Being The Players they have excellent actors at their command, and in "Milestones," which they revived at the Empire last evening, you will find the actors well bestowed. But that does not explain why such a distinguished occasion as The Players' annual revival should be devoted to so platitudinous an event. For this feuilleton by Arnold Bennett and Edward Knoblock on the immutability of human nature is not decrepit enough to have become a classic nor is it young enough to be lively. It is, as you may remember from 1912, a three-act study of man's repetitious stupidities. The man who is heart and soul for iron ships in 1860 dismisses steel ships as so much empty talk in 1885. And those who have married for social contentment, thereby boring themselves to death, try to stuff the same error down the throats of their children as successive marrying generations come along.

In another hundred years "Milestones" may become a classic, deserving the reverence of a Players' revival. But last evening it seemed no more than a competent piece of contrasting play-construction with a transparent moral. Can it be that the tables have turned? Can it be true that the younger generation, which was frightening its elders by its rashness in 1912, has become more royal than the king and is now alarming its elders by its sobriety, its responsibility and its mature sense of the fitness of things? All the graybeards of "Milestones" insist that the younger generation has gone off its head. But at least to one spectator last evening it seemed that "Milestones" would be more apt to the current day if it were played backwards. The moral would be more palatable if it complained that the younger generation had got on its head too securely.

Alas! that is too facile a comment to be a sound one. All that matters really is the playing and the splendid costuming. Sometimes The Players have assembled more notorious casts, with a more galvanic boxoffice appeal, but they have seldom selected their casts more wisely for the exposition of a drama. As John Rhead, who is youthfully impulsive in the first act, and venerably stodgy in the last, Tom Powers gives one of the best performances of his career. You will remember him particularly from "Strange Interlude" and "The Apple Cart." Here he is equally good. In the companion triptych of Rose Sibley, who marries in youthful haste and hopes eventually that every one can do likewise, Dorothy Stickney gives an equally discerning performance.

It is no more than a foible of the stage to insist that those who are tenderly young in one act must creak with old age before the play is over. It is a foible, and a childish one. Mr. Powers, Miss Stickney and Beulah Bondi as the spinster make the best of a bad matter by acting with distinction in every scene. They are ably abetted by Florence Vroom, Ernest Cossart, Warburton Gamble, Selena Royale and Catherine Willard in similar rôles. Although the scenery is as flimsy as 1912 could make it, the furniture and the costumes have a beauty all their own, and Henry Stillman has directed the performance conspicuously well.

No more than fifteen actors are required to play the three acts of "Milestones." But the curtain-raiser, "The Little Father of the Wilderness," by Austin Strong and Lloyd Osbourne, marches forty-one actors before the footlights. It is one of those armchair whimsies that often become singularly effective before the footlights. Louis XV has summoned Père Marlotte all the way from the wilds of Canada merely to settle a silly bet about the height of a waterfall.

When Père Marlotte discovers that the royal summons has no more value than that, he is nearly broken hearted. While he is retreating in confusion to the background the Chevalier de Frontenac arrives from Canada with his entourage and receives the affectionate respects of his monarch. Having bowed to his sovereign, de Frontenac thereupon surprises the courtiers by bowing to Père Marlotte, whose heroic work among the savages he has known and reverenced. At the curtain Père belatedly receives his reward.

It is a polite fable, courteously expressed, and it restores Francis Wilson to a part he has played before and which he obviously enjoys playing again. Here you will find Walter Hampden, president of The Players, content with the brief part of Chevalier De Frontenac, Augustin Duncan and Joseph Kilgour bringing up the uniformed rear of the Canadian party, and Margalo Gillmore representing the only tenderness the king's retainers have to offer.

But still you wonder why The Players have dedicated the [illegible] week of their annual revival to such commonplace wares.

Money or Love.

THE WONDERFUL LIES OF NOVA PETROVA, with Brigitte Helm, Warwick Ward, Franz Lederer and others, directed by Hans Schwarz, produced by Ufa; Laurel and Hardy in "The Hoose-Gow"; "Do You Remember?" snapshots of the past. At the Fifty-fifth Street Playhouse.

There is more truth than lying in the Ufa silent film, "The Wonderful Lies of Nina Petrova," which is now holding forth at the Fifty-fifth Street Playhouse. The plot of this production is not especially deep, but it is ably worked out, with clever camera work and competent acting.

Brigitte Helm, who won great favor by her performance in "Metropolis," plays Nina Petrova, who is presumed to be a prevaricating expert. Warwick Ward, who was seen as the acrobat Artinelli in "Variety," portrays a Russian general, a man of considerable wealth who puts at the disposal of Nina Petrova, his mistress, a charming villa, where she enjoys a life of luxury and ease.

Franz Lederer impersonates a youthful lieutenant, who becomes madly in love with Nina, knowing full well that she is the general's paramour. Eventually Nina discovers that she loves the impecunious lieutenant and forthwith deserts the general. She resigns herself to living on the lieutenant's pittance, and although they owe money and are bothered by creditors they are cheerful.

In the officers' club one evening the Lieutenant becomes envious of a brother officer who is winning substantial amounts of money. He decides to take a fling himself and discovers that his luck is even more phenomenal than the other officer's. At a late hour the General enters and he undertakes to reduce the young officer's pile of winnings, in which he (the General) is not only successful, but finally obtains from the Lieutenant a written confession that the younger officer has cheated.

The last episodes are worked out in a dramatic fashion, the lying lady keeping her word to the bitter end, but, to do so, she is impelled to lie to her young lover.

This picture was directed by Hans Schwartz under the supervision of Erich Pommer. The introductory scenes are ingeniously conceived, the spectator being taken through Petrova's villa via the camera, first to one room, then to a hallway, finally to a room with a balcony on which stands the tenant of the house, Nina Petrova. This scene is virtually repeated toward the end and it is a very effective idea.

Warwick Ward gives a splendid interpretation of the handsome General. Miss Helm is impressive in her rôle. Herr Lederer gives remarkable thought to the changing moods of his character. During one particular sequence one reads on his physiognomy dread of what may happen; then there is an expression of astonishment, then his mouth and eyes smile and finally he realizes that he has no cause for worry. All this is filmed in a few seconds and none of the changes of expression is too slow.

This German film is followed by Laurel and Hardy in a comedy called "The Hoose-Gow," which is much too boisterous for the talent of this pair. This wild subject ends in every character throwing something supposed to be boiled rice at each other.

WARNERS BACK TWO SHOWS

Broadway to Have Musical Productions by Connolly & Swanstrom.

Two musical shows, to be financed by Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., will be produced on Broadway next season by the firm of Connolly & Swanstrom, Bobby Connolly said yesterday. Neither the exact type of the productions nor their authorship has been finally determined.

Mr. Connolly's statement follows within four days a speech made in Atlantic City by Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Brothers, in which he told executives of Warner Brothers that his company would seriously enter the Broadway theatrical field after a little more experience in New York play production. During the past season the firm has financed "Fifty Million Frenchmen," "Top Speed" and several plays presented by A. H. Woods.

Peggy Mosely Wed to Attorney.

Miss Peggy Mosely of 3,215 Fifth Avenue, Astoria, a member of the chorus of the musical comedy "Flying High," at the Apollo Theatre, was married to John S. Leonard of 785 West End Avenue by Deputy Clerk J. J. McCormick at the Municipal Building yesterday afternoon. Mr. Leonard is an attorney. Miss Mosely will continue in the cast of the musical comedy. A wedding party was held last night.

Shirley Dahl to Wed Roscoe Ails.

Shirley Dahl and Roscoe Ails, both of the vaudeville stage, will be married next Sunday at noon in the ballroom of the Central Park Casino. The Rev. Dr. Nathan A. Seagle will officiate. Miss Dahl, who concluded a Radio-Keith-Orpheum engagement three weeks ago, appeared in Mr. Ails's vaudeville act last year. Mr. Ails recently closed a tour in "The New Moon."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Spook House" will open tonight at the Vanderbilt Theatre.

The opening of the negro musical comedy, "Change Your Luck," has been postponed from tomorrow until Friday night at the George M. Cohan Theatre.

Alexander Smallens, director of the Philadelphia Opera Company and assistant conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, will conduct the opening performance of "The Garrick Gaieties" at the Guild Theatre tomorrow night.

Kenneth Macgowan, Gilbert Seldes and Richard S. Aldrich will go to Cleveland tonight to see the production of Sacha Guitry's comedy, "The Fall of Berg-op-Zoom," at the Play House there. Macgowan & Reed, Inc., plan to produce Mr. Seldes's adaptation of the play in New York next season.

Eddie Dowling and Alice Brady have been engaged for Summer tours in R. K. O. vaudeville. Miss Brady will open on June 14 at the Palace, Chicago. Ilse Marvenga, who appeared this season in the revival of "Naughty Marietta," is now playing in the R. K. O. theatres where she will continue until September.

A producing firm known as Sussanoff Productions has opened offices at 147 West Forty-eighth Street and plans to stage both plays and vaudeville acts. The firm will also operate a studio of the theatre and announces a Summer course in playwriting under the direction of Aben Kandel.

TOSCANINI DELIGHTS LONDON ONCE MORE

Queens Hall Affords Chance to Enjoy the Full Flavor of Philharmonic.

AUDIENCE IS CARRIED AWAY

Enthusiasm Not Equaled by That Aroused by Any Recent Brilliant Visitors in Music World.

By H. C. COLLES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 2.—In the concert at Queens hall tonight we could enjoy the full flavor of the wonderful instrument that the Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra of New York is under the control of Toscanini. Not only the virtuousity of the players but their extraordinary adaptability to their conductor's highly individual conceptions of the music completely carried the audience away.

To say it took their breath away would be an inapt figure of speech, for in the interval after Elgar's "Enigma Variations" the aisles in the hall and the corridors around it were packed with people exchanging voluble comments of admiration. Quite clearly this concert aroused enthusiasm which surpassed that gained by any recent brilliant visitors to London, who have included Furtwaengler, with the Berlin Philharmonic, and Mengelberg, with the Amsterdam Concert Gebouw orchestra.

Tonight's program contained much greater variety in musical style than Toscanini's first London program at Albert Hall yesterday. Some one apparently had a last-moment inspiration, for Debussy's "La Mer" was not in the scheme as printed, and the audience, who were invited to pay a shilling for three booklets of advertisements, could eventually discover what was to be played only from a slip enclosed in one or the other of the booklets. However, the ultimate choice could not have been better for the purpose. In Haydn's symphony called "The Clock" pure music was given us at the outset.

Even those who heard it from the front orchestra seats could have heard nothing that was not music. The body of strings (slightly reduced in numbers for this work) sounded like an enlarged quartet. Loud passages had no suggestion of scrape; soft ones had an infinite variety of nuance within the quiet tone. The cantilena of violins in the slow movement was the most memorable event of the whole, but Haydn's characteristic dialogue passages of the woodwind were all exquisite, especially those between flute and bassoon in the trio to the minuet.

But what was done with the simple outlines of Haydn was carried out to the fullest extent in the subtle impressions of Debussy, and here the tone of brass—intense, penetrating though it was in the finale—remained entirely musical.

To an English audience there was naturally a very special interest in hearing Toscanini conduct Elgar's "Enigma Variations" and this work was received with enthusiasm far beyond that accorded to the magical playing of Debussy. Probably never has the "Troyte" variation been played with more electric energy or the "Nimrod" variation attained such an overwhelming tonal climax.

The playing was wonderful, and Toscanini had perfectly definite ideas of every number which he brought out with complete mastery. But his ideas were too definite for a satisfying reading of Elgar. Those who value his music, and this work in particular, for a certain elusive quality and mentality, at one moment almost excessively confidential and at another withdrawing into half statements and hints of feeling, could not be wholly at ease listening to this highly organized interpretation.

One or two numbers the conductor clearly misunderstood—that with the initials W. N. for example, in which the two moods stood apart from one another where they should blend. Yet it was exceedingly interesting to hear how Elgar's music appeals to the mind of a foreigner, and what it becomes when treated with Latin directness.

For those to whom two hours of orchestral music do not suffice to slake the appetite Mendelssohn's Nocturne and Scherzo from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and Wagner's prelude and finale from "Tristan" were added to the feast. The orchestra gives two more concerts in London before its European tour ends.

NEGRO REVUE AT GARRICK.

"Bubble Along" in Name and Content Suggests Predecessors.

After a recent brief whirl at burlesque, which escaped unsuspected by a heedless public, the attention of the Garrick Theatre was turned last evening to a Negro revue entitled "Bubble Along." Since everything in it, including the music, contrived to be as derivative as its title, it proved to be a shadowy and nondescript entertainment not worth the burnt cork fetched to meet the occasion. There will be matinee and evening performances until the bubble breaks.

While it endures, however, there are strangely to be found in the Provincetown's late manor twelve dusky coryphées, slimy clad but enthusiastically out of step; at least three sets of comicos engaged in the older forms of dialect banter; a gentleman who makes a spoon dance in a decanter; another gentleman (Giles, the name is) who calmly appropriates the Harry Richman ballad in praise of the long winding highway; and, lest this sort of thing go on too long, another pair of gentlemen who, respectively, would give anything to hear their mothers sing and who wail for a dream ship that promises never to come in and probably won't.

Although the little matter of programs was omitted last evening, the customary across-the-aisle advices said that the tall girl who danced and sang is Emma Jane Caldwell and that the two pretty good young hoofers go by the firm name of Robinson and Wade. In brave but vague association with these events there was also an orchestra content to have its own opinion of this talk about African rhythms. Contrary to rumor, there is no runway in the theatre, but smoking is permitted in all parts of the house.

WALKER WHITESIDE'S PLAY.

He Will Appear in "Birthdays" on Broadway in September.

Walker Whiteside, an actor who is seen more frequently on the road than in New York, plans to appear on Broadway in September in "Birthdays," a play by two sisters, Jessy Trimble and Belle Trimble Mattson. The locale of the play is said to be Westchester County and in it Mr. Whiteside will have the part of an orchestra leader.

Mr. Whiteside's last New York appearance was in a revival of "The Royal Box" at the Belmont Theatre.

JUILLIARD SCHOOL AWARDS DIPLOMAS

83 Graduates and 19 Postgraduates Receive Certificates—Jeanette Epstein Receives High Honors.

Commencement exercises of the Institute of Musical Art of the Juilliard School of Music were held last night at Carnegie Hall. Several thousand relatives and friends of the graduating class gathered to hear a program of music by the school orchestra and pupils of the class.

Diplomas were presented by Frank Damrosch, dean of the institute, to eighty-three who had completed courses in various departments of music and to nineteen post-graduates.

The class was addressed by Walter Damrosch, brother of the dean. He told them that the granting of the diplomas marked a "permanent marriage to Apollo" and advised them to be musical missionaries to parts of the country outside of New York.

"If you can bring a taste for music to communities that have not had it before," he said, "you will find yourself richly rewarded. If you preserve your faith in what you have to bring, your influence will make itself felt."

Special pupils who appeared in the program were Miss Catherine Carver, who played the piano in the "Burleske in D Minor for Piano and Orchestra," by Richard Strauss; Fima Fidelman, violinist, in the "Concerto for the Violin, Opus 35," by Tchaikovsky, and Miss Jeannette Epstein, who played the "Concerto for the Piano, 2, in C Minor," by Rachmaninoff. Several selections were also played by the school orchestra under the direction of Willem Willeke.

Silver medals were presented to Miss Carver and Miss Epstein for highest honors in the artists' course. Miss Epstein also received the Morris Loeb prize of $1,000 for unusual ability. Other prizes included $150 to Henry Dreyfuss Brant for piano studies and $100 to Miss Helen Thomson for composition.

PADEREWSKI ARRANGES FOR 17TH TOUR HERE

Pianist to Fulfill Next Season 75 Engagements Illness Interfered With.

Ignace Jan Paderewski, former Prime Minister of Poland and eminent pianist, whose illness forced him to cancel his American tour last season, is now completely recovered and plans to come here in October. A cable received from him by George Engles, his manager, announces that he will arrive in New York early in October for his seventeenth American tour, and expects to fulfill the entire seventy-five engagements for which he was booked last year. He humorously suggests that arrangements also be made "for a mild Winter."

Two recitals are scheduled for New York, two for Boston and two for Chicago. The remainder of the tour will consist of single recitals in the larger cities from coast to coast. By arrangement with Mr. Engles the tour will be made under the auspices of the NBC Artists Service.

Paderewski, who is now in Paris, will spend most of the Summer at his chateau in Morges, Switzerland, preparing for the tour.

The pianist, who is 69 years old, was operated on for appendicitis on Sept. 23, a month before the date he was scheduled to sail for this country.

PLAY TO BE MADE OPERETTA

Agnes Morgan to Aid in Transforming "A Roamin' Gentleman."

Martin Brown's play, "A Roamin' Gentleman," which was tried out in Philadelphia this Winter with Hal Skelly and Mary Duncan in the leading rôles, will be converted into an operetta before it reaches Broadway next season. In its musical form the show will be known as "A Roamin' Roman," and will be presented by Frank C. Reilly, who tried out the Brown play. Mr. Skelly will be starred in "A Roamin' Roman."

Agnes Morgan, best known for her contributions to "The Grand Street Follies," will transform the play into the musical piece. The composer and lyricist have not been chosen. Efforts are beings made to engage Peggy Wood or Evelyn Herbert to appear with Mr. Skelly in the cast, another of the members of which may be Detmar Poppen.

White Spring flowers and ferns decorated the chantry. The Rev. Dr. Roelif H. Brooks, the rector, performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and intimate friends.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of ivory-colored satin, and a veil of tulle held in place with a narrow bandeau of orange blossoms across the back of the head. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies.

NOTE TO MOTHERS

Dear Mothers: Do you know (perhaps some of you new mothers don't) that from the very minute a little baby begins to kick his feet in the air, the question of what kind of shoes he shall wear later on, is very, very important?

Well, anyway, every good mother, (and that means every mother), knows that little children should wear shoes that will guide feet in their growth and help them to develop properly. And most mothers know that Coward shoes are just the shoes that will do this for their children. Because most mothers know that long, long ago, James Coward made a special study of children's feet, and then designed Coward Shoes over special lasts, to make sure that little boys and girls would have shoes which would let their toes grow straight and strong. And that is why all mothers, who know about Coward Shoes, always buy them for their children from the minute they are old enough to begin to wear real shoes.

WHITE IS EXECUTED IN NEVADA BY GAS

DEATH COMES QUICKLY

Heart Stops 9½ Minutes After the Poison Is Dropped Into Container of Water.

CARSON CITY, Nev., June 2 (AP).—With a smile on his face, R. H. (Bob) White, convicted of the murder of Louis Lavell, a fellow gambler, at Elko, in 1928, was executed today in the new lethal gas chamber at the State prison.

Death came quickly and apparently without pain, although the 200-pound stockily built man of 40 strained on the straps that bound his hands and legs to the straight-backed chair after he had taken two deep breaths of the death-dealing hydrocyanic acid gas.

It was nine and a half minutes from the time when ten one-ounce "eggs" of cyanide of potassium, in a screen container, were dropped into a jar of sulphuric acid and water, until White's heart stopped beating, said Dr. E. E. Hamer, Nevada State health officer, who kept a specially built stethoscope on the condemned man throughout the proceedings and recorded the actions of the heart.

Fifty-three spectators including two women, Miss Mae E. Kenney of Carson City and Miss Margaret Skeeter of Reno, trained nurses, who recently came here from Virginia, peered through the windows of the execution chamber.

As he entered the stone chamber, accompanied by Warden Matt Penrose, White's step was firm and he smiled at the crowd at the two windows. He aided the guards in adjusting the straps, and gave each guard a hearty handshake when the work was completed.

Warden Penrose was the last to leave the cell. He glanced at the two-gallon jar of sulphuric acid and water standing near the wall at the left side of the prisoner and then turned to White and grasped him by the hand.

"Good-bye, Bob," said the warden, and White, with a broad smile on his face, answered: "Good-bye, Matt."

As the warden closed the heavy, insulated door to the cell, White looked up again at the crowd and then nodded his head toward the gas-generating device. He was looking directly at the generator when the string holding the cyanide container was cut on the other side of the wall, and the ten pellets dropped into the acid.

As the first cloud of gas arose from the jar White looked at the crowd. With his head held high he took a deep breath. This was followed by a shorter breath. Then his eyes closed, his head fell back, the muscles of his arms and legs moved and a convulsive movement shook his entire body. This movement ended after three more breaths and his head dropped forward.

After the execution Warden Penrose declared Nevada's method of inflicting capital punishment "is by far the simplest and most humane method yet devised."

"The prisoner is subject to no torture or violation of any kind," he said. "The prisoner's body is not disturbed or distorted in any way, and there is absolutely no chance for any slip up. Death by gas is quick, sure and painless."

3 KILLED IN MEXICO IN ATTACK ON MINE

American Foreman, Camp Policeman and Raider Lose Lives—Discharged Workers Blamed.

BISBEE, Ariz., June 2 (AP).—Twenty Mexicans attacked the Silver Plume Mine, twenty-seven miles south of Cananea, Sonora, today and killed the camp policeman and Charles Koehler, an American mining man.

One of the raiders was killed, presumably by Mr. Koehler, who had run from his house after engaging the attackers.

The band appeared first at the home of the camp policeman, whose name was not learned. After killing him the raiders took his ammunition.

E. Howells, superintendent of the mine, said he believed the attackers were disgruntled workers discharged when the Manzanel Mine closed some weeks ago. Mr. Koehler had been foreman there.

After killing Mr. Koehler the raiders burned his home. His body was found about fifty yards from the ruins.

Mr. Howells said he fled to safety with his family when he heard the shooting.

BRONX ASKS THROUGH STOP

Committee Planned for Survey to Aid Dispatch of Mail There.

Representatives of the New York Central Railroad and Bronx civic organizations conferred yesterday with William G. Fullen, chairman of the Transit Commission, and George R. Van Namee of the Public Service Commission on the proposed establishment of a through train stop in the Bronx. The Federal Government has promised to erect a postoffice on a government-owned site at 149th Street and Mott Avenue, provided through trains stop within the borough at a point convenient for handling mail.

It is probable that a committee will be appointed next Monday, at the suggestion of Mr. Fullen, to make a survey and recommend action. Mr. Fullen suggested that it include three representatives of Bronx organizations, two spokesmen for the railroad and one representative for each of the two commissions.

R. E. Dougherty, New York Central vice president in charge of operation, said that establishment of a through stop might mean discontinuance of some of the present sixteen local stops in the Bronx, including perhaps that at 138th Street, which has been suggested as a through stop station.

SAYS HOSTILE TRIBE HOLDS SPANISH FLIERS

Father of Burguete Says Nunez and Ferrer Landed Near, but Not With His Son.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, June 2.—Captain Nuñez and Mechanic Ferrer, missing Spanish fliers, are in the hands of a hostile rather than friendly tribe, according to General Burguete, the father of the rescued flier and president of the Army and Navy Council. He tells a story considerably different from the official reports.

The General, who visited the Prince of the Asturias, the heir to the throne, at the palace today and left stating the Prince was taking a great interest in Captain Nuñez's predicament, stated: "According to my information the planes landed some little distance apart. Friendly tribes reached my son, Commander Burguete, first, but hostiles seized the occupants of the other plane. My son wished to remain until the Arabs sent Captain Nuñez and Mechanic Ferrer over to his plane, but his friendly rescuers pointed out that it would be better to leave as quickly as possible, because their enemies could get reinforcements in the interior and attack if they remained to save the other Spanish officer, who is held for ransom."

This is directly opposed to all of the government reports, which first stated that Captain Nuñez expected momentarily to follow Commander Burguete over the side of his plane and then that he was in the hands of a friendly tribe. The ransom is regarded as sure, and evidently the government did not wish to cause alarm.

According to General Balmes, Chief of Air Service, who returned to Madrid today after partaking in the search, the rescue of Captain Nuñez is imminent.

TO FIGHT FOR SHORT WEEK.

Labor Group Also Will Seek Job Insurance to Aid Idle.

The Conference for Progressive Labor Action will start a campaign for unemployment insurance and a shorter work-week at its annual dinner tonight at the Consumers Cooperative Restaurant, 49 East Twenty-fifth Street, according to an announcement yesterday by A. J. Muste, chairman of the conference. The campaign is to be carried on among non-union workers as well as among organized labor.

The objects of the campaign are termed "urgent immediate forms of relief in the intolerable unemployment situation" by the announcement. With the continued advance in the uses of machinery and with the entry of Russia into the international market, unemployment will increase rather than decrease, the conference statement declared.

BAIL FOR 30-CENT "THEFT."

Woman, Accused of Taking Flower at Cemetery, Gives $500 Bond.

Mrs. Laube Robledo, 42 years old, of 178 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, was held in $500 bail for the Court of Special Sessions yesterday by Magistrate Daly in the Ridgewood court, Queens, on a charge of removing a thirty-cent flower from one grave in Evergreens Cemetery and placing it on another.

Mrs. Robledo was arrested on Sunday on the complaint of Mrs. Grace Hoffman of 190-12 109th Avenue, Hollis, Queens. Magistrate Marvin, who held her for a hearing, tried to intercede for her when he learned that she had been locked up and that the value of the flower which was "stolen" was so small. Mrs. Hoffman, however, insisted that Mrs. Robledo be held.

If the New Day Brings Difficult Things to Do take up first the hardest or most disagreeable. With that out of the way all others seem to be easier. The longer we delay to do the difficult thing, the harder it seems to be to make up our minds to get at it. The fact that you conquered yourself to undertake the job you disliked most seems to give you strength to do all the rest better and more quickly than you expected.

Says Accusers Changed Testimony After Talk With John Borg—Abell Acts at Trenton.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., June 2.—Maintaining that he had been advised by counsel that he could not be compelled to tell of his "private dealings with clients," Senator Ralph W. Chandless, Republican leader in Bergen County, refused today to disclose to Supreme Court Commissioner Price what he did with the $10,000 he received from the three contractors who built the Lodi sewer.

It was the Senator's first day as a witness in the hearing into the Lodi sewer scandal. He clashed more than once with Commissioner Price, who is conducting the hearing. Their first encounter came when Mr. Price asked the witness to explain how he arranged with Albert C. Middleton, State Treasurer, for a deposit of $200,000 of State funds in the Little Ferry National Bank. With this money the bank was able to buy the sewer bonds.

Clashes With Examiner.

"I want to make a statement," Senator Chandless said, drawing a typewritten paper from his coat pocket.

"And I direct you to answer the question, what conversation you had with Mr. Middleton?" Price retorted.

"I must decline," the Senator replied.

"The witness's declination will be put on record and it will be certified," Mr. Price said, rapping with his gavel as Jack Rinzler, associate counsel for the township officials, attempted to voice an objection.

Senator Chandless, reading from his prepared statement, declared that his refusal to answer the questions was based upon the advice of former Supreme Court Justice James F. Minturn, his personal counsel.

"I hereby refuse," he read, "to exhibit to the public my personal and private affairs and the business of my client." He charged that Mr. Price had "exceeded his authority" in putting the two cited questions to him. Senator Chandless asserted that, although he had not received $10,000 as a "bonus" for obtaining the State deposit in the Little Ferry Bank, there would hav[illegible] nothing irregular in his re[illegible] either by Lodi Township or by [illegible] bank to have done so.

"As for the equity of the deposit," he read, "there has been for a long time and perhaps there still is on deposit in a Morris County bank in which a member of the Legislature is an officer, nearly as much money as there is on deposit in all the Bergen County banks combined and Bergen County is much larger than Morris."

Senator Frank D. Abell, chairman of the legislative commission before which two township officials accused Senator Chandless last week of directing false testimony, is president of a Morristown bank.

Denies Directing Witnesses.

At the time he conferred with them on Feb. 9 and 10 "to prepare a newspaper statement," Senator Chandless said, Mayor Nicholas V. C. Monnett and Committeeman John Planz of Lodi Township, who accuse him, did not know they were to be called before the Abell commission.

He pointed out that they had, up to last week, maintained that the $10,000 was a fee, but then changed their stories.

"The change in their testimony took place," he said, "only after the three witnesses had been taken to the home of John Borg, my political enemy, who has boasted that he already has spent $16,000 and will spend $16,000 more to get me."

Senator Chandless said the contractors had engaged him to collect the money due them and that he was to receive 5 per cent of the amount involved, which was around $200,000.

"Now, your checks show they were deposited in the Peoples Bank, but what did you do with the $5,000 in cash?" again asked Mr. Price.

"What is the scope of this investigation?" returned Senator Chandless. "I received no money from Lodi Township, so why are my private matters being inquired into"? I decline to answer for the reason already stated."

Andrew J. Steelman, counsel for the taxpayers, asked Senator Chandless if he had said that John Borg, publisher of The Evening Record, had urged Mayor Monnett and others to admit they were perjurers, to which the Senator said he would answer that at the proper time.

The Senator admitted that Mr. Arnolt, one of the contractors, had telephoned him a day before the Abel commission met to investigate this same scandal, and he admitted that he asked Mr. Arnolt to attend the meeting in Judge C. J. McCarthy's office, but the Senator denied coaching the witnesses.

ABELL SHOWS BANK FUNDS.

Treasurer Reports Only $300,000 Deposited in Morris County.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., June 2.—Taking exception to a statement reported to have been made earlier in the day by Senator Ralph W. Chandless of Bergen County in testimony before Supreme Court Commissioner Price at Hackensack that "there is on deposit in a Morris County bank, of which a member of the Legislature is an officer, nearly as much State money as there is on deposit in all the Bergen County banks combined." Senator Frank D. Abell of Morristown, chairman of the Audit and Survey Committee of the Legislature, caused State Treasurer Albert C. Middleton to be called before the committee this afternoon.

Mr. Middleton testified that total State deposits in Morris County banks are $300,000, as compared with $500,000 in Bergen County banks. In the First National Bank of Morristown, of which Senator Abell is president, State funds on deposit total $90,000, including $15,000 of institution funds.

Jersey Using Road Signs To Teach History to Tourists

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., June 2.—History and geography will be taught to motor tourists along New Jersey State highways, according to a plan of the New Jersey State Highway Commission, to identify rivers and streams with descriptive signs.

About half of the proposed 1,000 markers for the State already have been placed. The others are being made at the State Reformatory in Rahway. They are fifteen by thirty inches and will be erected on concrete posts at vantage points.

Millstone River, the Delaware, the Raritan, Rancocas Creek, Crosswicks Creek, the Shabakunk Creek and the Mechanic River, Millica River, Toms River and Shipetaukin Creek are among the names that have been placed, recalling the Revolution and the days when Indians were in possession of New Jersey.

ONE WORD DELAYS ENDING STEEL ROW

Clarification of Green's Ruling Awaited by Trade Board Before Signing Contract.

HIS INTERPRETATION ASKED

Whether Use of Term "Conditions" Means "Rules" Is Question—Reply Expected by Thursday.

The interpretation of one word in the mediation report of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, is virtually the only obstacle to a decision by open-shop steel erectors of New York City on the question of signing or withholding their signatures to the tentative agreement that would institute the closed shop and end the quarter century dispute in the steel erection industry here, it was learned yesterday.

The labor committee of the Structural Steel Board of Trade had before it for consideration yesterday the formal contract negotiated between Charles L. Eidlitz, chairman of its board of governors, and P. J. Morrin, president of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers.

On learning that Mr. Green had not complied with their request to interpret his ruling and clarify the point on which the employers wished further light, the labor committee put the entire matter over until Thursday in the hope that the interpretation would be forthcoming.

In writing his ruling concerning the territory in which the agreement shall be effective Mr. Green used the term "union wages and working conditions." Since the document contains working "rules" and does not refer to working "conditions," Mr. Green was asked to say whether by "conditions" he meant rules. Thus far, it was said yesterday, Mr. Green has not clarified this point. The union officials' point of view is that the document should be signed at once and interpreted later. The employers feel that it would be better to clear up the situation now and then consider the question of signing it.

The agreement provides that disputes shall be referred to Mr. Eidlitz for a ruling and that such rulings may be appealed to a joint labor committee of an equal number on each side, with a referee to break a deadlock.

One point not yet cleared up, but not one of major proportions, involves subway construction. As the union has agreed to operate on the five-and-a-half-day week basis for general contractors on subway work the steel erectors who may engage in such work wish to be placed on the same basis. However, they agree to the five-day week similar to the other building trade employers in work above ground.

One section in the agreement quashes the report that the union, under the proposed agreement, would attempt to force the unionization of fabricating shops. The document specifically states that "the question of the manufactured product, i. e., whether or not union made, shall not be questioned nor shall any attempt be made to control or unionize the fabrication plants of any member of the board" and the union "agrees that this is a fundamental principle and generally established in the building industry."

The tentative agreement provides for amicable adjustment of disputes and bans strikes and lockouts. The union agrees not to restrict output and the employers' right to "hire and fire" is recognized.

SMITH'S SONS INITIATED AT TAMMANY RITES

100 Members Welcome Youths as Former Governor Is Installed as Sachem.

Alfred E. Smith Jr. and Arthur W. Smith, sons of former Governor Alfred E. Smith, were initiated last night as members of the Tammany Society at a well attended meeting at Tammany Hall. With them was initiated Aron Steuer, Justice of the City Court and son of Max D. Steuer, lawyer.

The two junior Smiths were accompanied by their father, who was reinstalled as a Sachem of the Society. Former Governor Smith was unable to attend the May meeting, when the installation of officers took place, as were four other Sachems, who also were installed last night. These were District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain, former Park Commissioser Francis D. Gallatin, George W. Olvany, former leader of Tammany, and Louis F. Haffen, former Borough President of the Bronx.

John R. Voorhis, Grand Sachem, who will be 101 years old next month, was absent, and Dr. Thomas Darlington, Father of the Council, presided at the meeting. More than 100 members were present.

ASSERTS OHIO FACES NEW PRISON RIOTS

Cox in Report on Fire Demands Ousting of Columbus Warden and an Impartial Inquiry.

FINDS REFORMS BLOCKED

Lays Blame for 322 Deaths Upon State Politicians—Extols Heroism of Convicts in Blaze.

There is danger of new mutinies in Ohio prisons unless political expediency is cast to the winds and responsibility is placed where it properly belongs, William B. Cox, secretary of the National Society of Penal Information, declared yesterday, in an official report of a two weeks' survey of the recent Ohio penitentiary fire in which 322 inmates were burned to death.

"Ohio has not seen the last of its prison trouble and won't see it until Warden P. E. Thomas is removed and a fair, impartial investigation is made and one that is not a whitewash of officialdom," Mr. Cox asserted. "Politics must be forgotten and the investigation must be conducted by some one who is not politically interested in the State."

Urges an Outside Inquiry.

Mr. Cox suggested that an inquiry into the recent fire and into prison conditions in Ohio generally be conducted by a group of penologists outside of that State. He said that Governor Myers Y. Cooper was meeting the situation "about as well as could be expected from a politician." He continued.

"The Governor of Ohio has recently appointed a new commission to make a study of the entire problem. It is to be hoped that this survey will not confine itself alone to conditions that now exist but that it will endeavor to formulate and carry through a really effective program. For seventeen years one commission after another has made a survey of the conditions in Ohio and new programs have been suggested from time to time, all of which have been effectively shelved because of political expediency.

"In nearly if not all of these surveys the same general conclusions have been reached, that is to say, they have all agreed that something should be done to alleviate conditions, but nothing definite has been done to overcome the inadequacy and shortsightedness of the present penal policy."

Mr. Cox also asserted that in an effort to remedy conditions at Columbus transfers to overcrowded reformatories are almost daily taking place. Many of these transferred prisoners, he said, only foment trouble and create more idleness and unrest.

"Now that order has been at least partially restored, there is a greater duty to be performed," Mr. Cox continued. "Only through an honest investigation of all the facts, and the placing of responsibility where it properly belongs will the incensed convicts be satisfied that the State means to right whatever wrongs have been done. Otherwise there will surely be further trouble as soon as the soldiers have been withdrawn from the prison."

While holding the State Legislature rather than Warden Thomas responsible for overcrowding in the Columbus prison, Mr. Cox reported that "whatever the direct cause of the fire was, it was at base due to incompetence or something infinitely worse." He cited the efforts of the prisoners to save their fellow inmates' lives in the fire as "a striking contrast to the apparent cowardice or lack of intelligence on the part of most of the officials."

Prison Officials Criticized.

Mr. Cox also found evidence of "stupidity or negligence on the part of administrative officials" in the method of guarding prisoners. He said it was customary for the day guards in the Ohio prison to leave before the arrival of the night force and noted that the fire started during this interval of change. He also criticized Warden Thomas for failing to go into the prison yard during the fire.

"What lies back of the warden's statement, that if he is removed from office by the Governor, he, the Governor, will never again sit in the Governor's chair?" Mr. Cox asked. "These and many more questions should be satisfactorily answered before the full responsibility can be placed, or shifted from high State officials to subordinates or convicts," he asserted.

Mr. Cox was assisted in his survey by H. R. Dean, investigator for the society. Charles D. Osborne, president of the society and son of the late Thomas Mott Osborne, has offered Governor Cooper the entire resources of the society in any further investigation of the fire, Mr. Cox declared.

Commenting on conditions in other State prisons, Mr. Cox said the Missouri institutions were as bad as those in Ohio and that the New Jersey State prison in Trenton was "a veritable fire trap." Clinton Prison in this State, he said, is still "seething with unrest" and likely to have another break any day.

THOMAS SCORES COX REPORT.

Denies Charges and Calls Prison Society "Bunch of Troublemakers."

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 2.—Warden Preston E. Thomas of the Ohio Penitentiary said tonight that he has no regard for the National Society of Penal Information of New York or for its secretary, William B. Cox. He refused extended comment upon the report of Mr. Cox, which suggested to Governor Cooper that Warden Thomas should be relieved, and upon Mr. Cox's charge that incompetent administration caused many deaths in the prison fire.

"Cox is an apostle of Thomas Mott Osborne," Warden Thomas said. "I would not say anything to give that bunch encouragement. They are a self-appointed bunch of uplifters. We do not need those imported troublemakers here in Ohio. The State can handle its prison affairs without help from the outside. These reports do nothing except to incite trouble. Prisoners deceived by such stuff are encouraged to make trouble and we probably will be forced to take severe measures to suppress the trouble they cause."

Warden Thomas also denied saying that he would cause the defeat of Governor Cooper if the Governor dared to interfere with him. "I never said such a thing," Mr. Thomas said. "I do not dabble in politics. If I did say such a thing it would be ample cause for the Governor to remove me. It is only another of these untruthful reports."

City's May 31 Tax Collections Set a Record; Berry Puts Total at More Than $84,000,000

A record for tax collections by the city on a May 31 was announced yesterday by Controller Berry, who issued a statement saying that on Sunday, June 1, a total of $77,712,941.49 had been deposited or made ready for deposit in the five boroughs on account of the 1930 tax levy. With $1,283,529.72 already collected and deposited for assessments, water rents and arrears of taxes, and more than $5,000,000 received by mail yesterday, the total was estimated at more than $84,000,000.

The increase in the tax levy this year is responsible for the record, Mr. Berry said. Last year $70,465,757.55 for the tax levy alone was deposited on May 31, and the year before the sum was $67,620,927.36.

A report was received by the Controller from City Collector William Reid Jr. declaring that to bank the remittances received in cash and by mail the staffs of the Department of Finance in all the boroughs worked on Memorial Day and on Saturday until after 6 P. M., and that to accomplish the task in Brooklyn, the Bronx and Queens the employes also reported on Sunday. In this way payments received by mail were made ready for deposit yesterday morning.

One-half of the city tax levy of $498,236,714.63 was due during May, and the amount received up to yesterday was $197,630,176.84. Of this amount, $184,779,137.65 was on account of the first half of 1930 and $12,851,039.19 on account of the second half. For taxes paid in advance the city allows a 4 per cent discount.

The total collected was distributed among the boroughs as follows:

Bronx	18,668,751.70
Brooklyn	41,639,427.73
Queens	20,168,955.77
Richmond	2,816,520.14

On Saturday and Sunday approximately 131,117 payments were made, of which 9,412 were in cash, made at the various offices of the Finance Department on Saturday morning.

ELLIOTT IDENTIFIES ONE AS KIDNAPPER

Banker at Trial of Four Says Bongiorno Was in Auto With His Abductors.

THREE WOMEN TESTIFY

All Support Former Cashier's Story of Being Taken Captive on Passaic Street.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., June 2.—The trial of four men charged with conspiracy to kidnap Willard H. Elliott, former Passaic banker, opened in County Court here today. Mr. Elliott on the stand identified one of the four suspects and again told how he was stopped on Passaic Avenue and driven blindfolded to a house still unidentified, where he was held prisoner for five days by two courteous guards, and finally set free.

The four on trial before Judge Joseph A. Delaney and a jury of eight men and four women are Harry Kuller, 43 years old, Passaic real estate broker; Angelo Lapiduro, 38, Passaic sugar dealer; Joseph Bongiorno, 32, of Passaic, and Joseph Jackovicz, 38, of Clifton.

Mr. Elliott took the stand in the middle of the afternoon. He said that he left his East Orange home early on the morning of June 26, 1929, and drove toward Passaic. On Passaic Avenue, near Clifton, he passed a Cadillac car, but a bit further on when he slowed for a stop sign the big car drew alongside, and a man, apparently an Italian, jumped from the running board with a pistol. The Italian and another man climbed into Mr. Elliott's car and ordered him to lie on the floor.

According to Mr. Elliott's story they drove for some time, finally parking for the day near a big garage. At night he was blindfolded and they drove on. Ultimately they reached a house and he was led inside. A woman's hand, he said, assisted him up the steps and into a room. There his eyes were freed.

He stayed there five days with two men, known as John and Tom, on guard. They played cards together and drank wine. Once a firecracker exploded in the yard and Mr. Elliott quoted one of his captors as remarking that he "might hear some real shooting." But the man said he would be safe. At the end of the period—on a Monday morning—two men came into the room, blindfolded him once more and drove him away, finally setting him free.

Mr. Elliott was asked when he first saw any of the suspects after the kidnapping. He said that he had visited a prize fight in Garfield with some detectives and stood at the entrance looking at the audience.

"Did you see any of the defendants?" the prosecutor asked.

"Yes," he said. "I saw Mr. Bongiorno."

He was asked whether he could pick out the man from those in the courtroom. He did so.

"Did you ever see him before then?" he was asked.

"Yes," he replied. "He is the man who drove the car which cut me off the morning I was kidnapped."

Court was adjourned just after cross-examination began.

Three women witnesses were also heard during the day, Mrs. Rita Richardson, Mrs. Tessie Schmidt and her sister, Miss Mildred Baker. They were residents of Passaic Avenue at the time of the kidnapping and all described the stopping of the auto substantially as Mr. Elliott himself described it later. The trial will continue today.

DENY KIDNAPPING FLIER.

Corbett and Three Others Plead Not Guilty in Quinn Case.

J. Morgan Corbett, socially prominent realty man of Boston, and three other men, who were indicted for second degree assault in the alleged kidnapping of James B. Quinn Jr., airplane pilot, pleaded not guilty yesterday before Judge Stackell in Bronx County Court.

The other defendants are Arthur Hamel of Haverhill, Mass., Edward Kendall of North Deading, Mass., and Edward Kline of 161 West Eighty-fourth Street. Quinn alleged the four men lured him to a bungalow in Edgewater Camp in the Bronx on April 1 and held him for forty-eight hours in an effort to learn the whereabouts of Corbett's wife, who has been missing for several months. The men were continued in $2,500 bail each.

THREE OUT ON BAIL IN GEM THEFT CASE

Woman and Two Men Seized in Hotel With $300,000 Loot Put Up $25,000 Bond Each.

FIFTH AV. JEWELER HELD

$2,000 Pearl Stud Sold to Mary Garden in 1911 Traced by Police—Others Identify Stolen Jewels.

Three of the prisoners arrested a week ago in a room of the Hotel Commodore, where the police seized $300,000 in stolen jewelry, were freed in $25,000 bail each yesterday after spending a week in jail. They are William J. O'Connor of Buffalo and Jack Rosen, who gave his address as 218 West 118th Street when arrested, but is known also as Alexander Friedman, a jeweler with offices at 535 Fifth Avenue; and Hilda Carter.

Bail for O'Connor and Rosen was fixed by Supreme Court Justice Valente after listening to arguments on a writ of habeas corpus. The prisoners then went before Magistrate Flood in Yorkville Court, who continued the case until tomorrow. Assistant District Attorney Cohn agreed to freeing the woman, a mystery figure in the case, who kept her coat collar up to foil photographers, but he objected to bail for James W. Watson or George Cole because, he said, they may face a murder charge in Hot Springs, Ark. Watson has a record of sixteen arrests on charges ranging from vagrancy to murder in West Coast cities.

There was a steady procession at Police Headquarters yesterday of persons seeking to identify stolen jewelry in the more than $1,000,000 worth which the police have. The police reported identifying a pearl stud valued at approximately $2,000, which had been sold by Bailey, Banks & Biddle of Philadelphia to Mary Garden, the opera singer. Acting Captain Richard Oliver, assisted by jewelry experts, found the mark of the Philadelphia concern. A description of the piece was telegraphed there, and the jewelers replied that such a stone had been sold on Nov. 7, 1911, to Miss Garden.

Mrs. Louis Kaufman of 2,721 Euclid Heights Boulevard, Cleveland, whose husband is a vice president of the Guardian Trust Company there, identified four pieces which had been stolen from her at the Hollywood Beach Hotel, Hollywood Fla., last February.

Presentation of the evidence against the five prisoners to the grand jury was started yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Hastings. He called Mrs. L. J. Herman, 470 West End Avenue; Acting Captain Oliver, Detective Daniel F. Ryan and Joseph A. Roe, a jewelry expert. Mrs. Herman appeared at headquarters and regained part of her jewelry, leaving three pieces to be used as evidence.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney said that he had had no reports from the men sent to other cities to check up on the activities of the prisoners. He said that Rosen is the same man who, as Alexander Friedman, was arrested on March 18 when he attempted to pledge for a loan stock stolen from Arthur E. Frank & Co., brokers of 100 Broadway. Friedman at that time said that he had received the stock in payment for jewelry. He was held in $15,000 bail.

Although Cole's room at the Hotel Manger had been searched before, detectives returned there yesterday and found a tear gas pistol in the form of a fountain pen hidden in a groove in one of the bureau drawers. The "pen" held a two-inch tear gas capsule and also was capable of discharging a pistol bullet, tests at headquarters showed.

Meanwhile, the wide search for more clues in connection with the jewel robberies spread to Toronto, where New York and Buffalo detectives examined certain boxes in a safety deposit vault. Toronto was the home of Clinton (Red Duke) Jones, who was sentenced to life imprisonment at Buffalo for his part in a big jewel robbery there.

It was suspected that Jones had a valuable necklace hidden in a Toronto vault, but after Detective Sergeant Whalen of New York and Detectives Burns and Schultz of Buffalo had made a search, they said nothing important had developed. Last night the three detectives went to Hamilton, Ont.

HECKSCHER DIVORCE REVEALED BY SUIT

Former Wife of James Heckscher Asks $250,000 of Banker's Bride for Alienation.

DECREE OBTAINED IN MARCH

Three Weeks Later Financier Wed His Secretary—Reply to Suit Has Been Filed.

A suit for $250,000 for alienation of affections has been instituted by Mrs. Mary Fry Heckscher against Mrs. Lillian Jane Altwater Heckscher, the young bride and former secretary of James Heckscher, vice president in charge of the foreign office of the Irving Trust Company of this city, it was learned yesterday.

The news of the alienation suit followed closely the disclosure made yesterday that Mr. Heckscher, who is prominent in New York financial circles, and his first wife, whom he married in London, England, in 1903, had been divorced, and that he had remarried.

The first Mrs. Heckscher started action for divorce several months ago, it was ascertained, in the Supreme Court of Westchester County, and her divorce became final on March 24. The papers were sealed.

Three weeks following the divorce Mr. Heckscher and Miss Altwater, who had been acting as his secretary for some time, were married in Baltimore. Since their marriage they have been living at 33 Fifth Avenue.

The second Mrs. Heckscher is described as a little more than 30 years old, educated and accomplished, and more than fifteen years her husband's junior. She is the daughter of the late Peter Altwater, who is described in the City Directory as a foreman. The family formerly resided at 69 Clinton Place, the Bronx. Mrs. Altwater, the mother, is now living at 2,277 Andrews Avenue, the Bronx.

By his first wife Mr. Heckscher had two children, James Heckscher, who is now abroad studying banking, and Mrs. Yvonne Deuel, the wife of Norman Vincent Duel of New York, to whom she was married secretly in December, 1927, in Elkton, Md. The announcement of her marriage was made by her father more than a year later.

According to former Municipal Court Justice Herman Joseph, now associated with House, Grossman & Vorhaus, and attorney for Mr. Heckscher, Mrs. Mary Fry Heckscher received $25,000 cash from her husband, who also agreed to pay to her $10,000 a year. In addition to this he said she received $1,000 a month after their separation and until she received her final decree of divorce, as well as a large quantity of jewelry, an automobile and the furnishings of their former home at 1,175 Park Avenue.

Mr. Heckscher did not contest his first wife's divorce action, Mr. Joseph said. She is a native of England, he said, and they were married on Feb. 25, 1903, in London.

The alienation suit by the first wife was started in Westchester County on May 15 and the answer already has been filed. Ferdinand Pecora, former Chief Assistant District Attorney, is acting attorney for the first Mrs. Heckscher.

Mr. Heckscher, in his offices at the Woolworth Building, declined to comment on the case and referred all inquirers to his lawyer. As head of the foreign office of the Irving Trust Company he visits Europe frequently. In April, 1928, he returned from a business trip around the world, and his reports on industrial and economic conditions in the countries he visited were widely published at that time.

FILES NEW EVIDENCE AGAINST LAZARUS

Washburn Sends Data Received From Lawyer's Client in Celotex Case to Bar Association.

Assistant Attorney General Watson Washburn, in charge of the State Bureau of Securities, made public a letter he sent yesterday to the grievance committee of the New York Bar Association containing additional information on the alleged activities of Stanley M. Lazarus, an attorney with offices at 1,775 Broadway.

Mr. Lazarus was counsel for David Adler of Ridgewood, N. J., who filed suit in Wilmington, Del., three weeks ago for a receivership for the Celotex Company. The starting of the action caused the stock of the company to drop from $42.87½ to $20 on the New York Stock Exchange. The receivership proceedings were dismissed.

Because of the activities of Lazarus in the Celotex case "and other suits of similar nature," according to Mr. Washburn, the matter was referred last week to the Bar Association "for such action as the association deems proper."

In the supplementary letter to Einar Chrystie, counsel for the grievance committee, Mr. Washburn says he questioned Adler, who testified he bought fifty shares of stock in the Celotex Company at the suggestion of Mr. Lazarus, and the information in the bill of complaint, he added, came from Mr. Lazarus and his brother. Adler is quoted as having told Mr. Washburn that if as a result of the suit the Celotex Company was refinanced Lazarus declared his (Adler's) share would be from $8,000 to $9,000.

Mr. Washburn in his letter quoted Adler as testifying:

"The information contained in the bill of complaint was given to me by Lazarus. I heard Lazarus's brother state that the Celotex Company owed his firm $10,000. Some of the information came from the brother and the rest through Stanley Lazarus, who told me he had received the information from some one connected with the company. Lazarus told me he had arranged for the financing of Fox Film and that there would be no question of refinancing this company."

When informed of the contents of the Washburn letter, Mr. Lazarus said:

"I still refuse to try this case in the newspapers. I am prepared, as I have heretofore stated, to meet any charges that he (Washburn) might make, at the proper time and place."

Fire Sweeps Jamestown Plant.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., June 2 (AP).—Fire early today swept the Toddy Manufacturing Company plant at Watts Flats, ten miles west of here, causing a loss estimated at $100,000. The concern manufactures a beverage composed in part of powdered milk, and it is believed the fire started in one of the boxes containing this powder. The building is one of several similar plants.

Mr. Rogers's Observations On the News of the Day

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 2.—The Supreme Court swore in Owen J. Roberts as a member today and then they adjourned for a year. Not much chance for a man to make a mistake there. The Senate needn't have been so particular.

Chicago is kinder like the stock market. It has been away off par lately, but it got back toward normal yesterday. They machine-gunned seven.

The Zep goes back home tonight, with Lady Drummond Hay, Karl von Wiegand—all the same passengers they always have. They ought to change the cast on that thing. People will get the idea that it can't haul anybody else.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

In the 129 cities analyzed corporations made 33,977 contributions to community chests totaling $12,954,000 or 22 per cent of the total of $58,801,000 collected by the chests. In 1920 corporations made 2,652 contributions aggregating $2,535,000 to the thirteen community chests then organized.

"Perhaps the most significant fact revealed by the study is the great number and amount of corporation contributions to welfare, charitable and health work," said Mr. Cravath. "Clearly this indicates a changing attitude in the minds of business leaders regarding the relationship between corporate enterprise and human welfare. It is still unlawful for a corporation to give away its stockholders' money in gratuities, but apparently this kind of participation in community welfare is no longer regarded as gratuitous.

Now Part of Business Cost.

"Corporations are beginning to see, it appears, that the preservation of human health and happiness, and the betterment of the social standard generally in communities in which they operate is not mere alms-giving, but legitimately and logically a recognized part of the cost of doing business."

In a formal statement the committee of sponsors commended the report to both corporations and community welfare leaders, suggesting that it "establishes a basis for sounder understanding between these two major parties at interest in this problem and lays the groundwork for developing much needed fundamental principles to govern both contributions and solicitation."

The 129 community chests selected for study had raised 84 per cent of all funds raised by the country's 330 chests. Studies in such "non-chest" cities as New York, Chicago and Boston were included in the same survey and the resulting factors will be revealed after the figures have been analyzed further by the sponsors.

Professor Edwin F. Gay of Harvard, and Wesley C. Mitchell of Columbia University, directors of research of the National Bureau of Economic Research, supervised the fact-finding, and Pierce Williams and Frederick E. Croxton of the bureau's staff, were in immediate charge of the work.

FEW OF COMMITTEE TO HEAR CANNON

Lobby Body Will Lack Caraway, Borah and Robinson at the Examination Today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Bishop James Cannon, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will appear before the Senate Lobby Committee tomorrow, but the scope of this questioning was as uncertain today as it has been for weeks past.

It appeared that his examination would be conducted by a minority of the committee under an acting chairman, despite repeated assurances by the committee members that the work of the Virginia anti-Smith Democrats under Bishop Cannon in the last Presidential election would be subjected to a searching inquiry.

Questioned regarding Bishop Cannon's expressed doubt of the authority of the lobby committee to examine organizations concerning their political work, Senator Walsh today expressed disagreement with that view, saying:

"There certainly is no difference between lobbying by approaching officials concerning a cause and endeavoring to elect officials who will favor that cause."

PLAN FOR RESERVOIR ADOPTED BY HERRICK

Landscape Architects' Project for Play Area Approved With Minor Changes.

COST TO EXCEED ESTIMATE

Two Recreation Spaces Are Enlarged and Route of Walk Altered in Design.

REPORT ON FILL IS DENIED

Contractor Was Not Ordered to Stop Dumping Earth on Site, Says Park Commissioner.

The plan of the American Institute of Landscape Architects for beautifying the site of the old South Reservoir in Central Park was adopted yesterday at a conference between Park Commissioner Herrick, Nathan Straus Jr., president of the Park Association, and architects of the Park Board and of the New York Chapter of the Institute.

Several minor modifications in the plan were discussed and agreed upon at yesterday's meeting, held in Commissioner Herrick's office at the arsenal in Central Park. In anticipation of other modifications that may be necessary to make the plan conform to the park's topography, Commissioner Herrick will withhold for a time formal announcement of his approval.

Maps and blueprints showing how the plan will work out, and including the modifications adopted yesterday, were ordered prepared by Commissioner Herrick, and following the completion of these formal approval of the project will be made by him.

Meadow Is Chief Feature.

The essential feature of the plan, drawn up by A. F. Brinckerhoff, who was present yesterday, is an oval meadow, slightly depressed, about 1,300 feet long and 800 feet wide. On each side, at the north end, will be an area about 400 feet in diameter, to be entirely enclosed in foliage. Wading pools for smaller children will be built in these spaces. Originally these spaces had been planned to be only 300 feet across.

The increase in area and a definite commitment to the placing in them of the wading pools were agreed upon yesterday. At the southerly end of the meadow a small lake is proposed against the outcropping of ledge rock now existing there.

A walk across the lower end of the meadow, to connect the Metropolitan Museum of Art with the American Museum of Natural History, has been changed slightly in direction and swung toward the north to save the expense of carrying the walk over two roadways in the southwestern corner of the park.

Commissioner Herrick declined yesterday to discuss the cost of the project, but from other sources it was learned that the expense would considerably exceed the first estimates, which placed it under $1,000,000. It was pointed out, however, that the city will gain in park and play-space land.

Plan Adopted Last Winter.

The plan to drain the old South Reservoir in Central Park, which had not been used for years, and convert it into a play space for children, was broached by Commissioner Herrick last Winter, and shortly afterward was adopted by the Board of Estimate.

Mr. Herrick received an appropriation of $500,000 to carry on the work, the cost being cut down considerably by the use of dirt from subway excavations to fill in the area. The contractor agreed to tear down the retaining wall, a $90,000 job, in return for the privilege of using the site as a dumping ground.

The plan approved yesterday was submitted to Mr. Herrick on April 21. It was drawn by a committee of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Landscape Architects, headed by A. F. Brinckerhoff, and including Gilmore D. Clarke, Clarence Fowler, John R. Brinley, Armistead Fitzhugh and Alfred Gieffert Jr., the president of the New York Chapter.

In submitting the plan, the committee said:

"The plan represents the composite expression of the best judgment of the members of this organization. The problem was not an easy one, but it was our purpose to so design the area that it would be reasonably economical of execution, in harmony with the surrounding park design, readily accessible to pedestrians and passengers from motor vehicles, and of use to persons of all ages and interests, although primarily a recreation area for the young."

Many tons of fill have already been dumped into the reservoir site. The quantity being placed in there gave rise to the fear in some quarters that it would interfere with the carrying out of the architects' plan, which requires little fill. The subject was discussed at yesterday's meeting, and it was reported that no more fill would be placed on the site.

Commissioner Herrick denied the report, and declined to discuss it further. It was pointed out that if the contractor were told to stop using the reservoir as a dump, he might stop work on the razing of the retaining wall. Another contractor would then have to be hired to finish the job, and the cost would rise.

CHARLES S. HAND TO GET $17,500 CITY JOB TODAY

Mayor Announces He Will Appoint His Secretary Lay Member of Sanitation Board.

Mayor Walker said yesterday that he expects to appoint his secretary, Charles S. Hand, as the lay member of the Sanitation Commission this afternoon. At the same time he will announce the name of his new secretary.

While Mr. Hand's appointment has been impending for several weeks, the identity of the Mayor's new secretary remains undisclosed. The post of secretary to the Mayor carries a salary of $12,000 a year and the Sanitation Commissionership pays $17,500 a year. The first term is for two years and the subsequent terms are six years each.

FRENCH INDUSTRIALISM.

The high light of Premier TARDIEU's speech at Dijon was bound to be the reply to MUSSOLINI—without naming him—which the proprieties of international politics called for. Under any circumstances French deftness would have been equal to discovering just the right tone of cool indifference demanded by hot words beyond the Alps. But M. TARDIEU was peculiarly happy in his approach. On the eve of the evacuation of the Rhineland, what could be more in order than a discussion of French security under new conditions? Against the fears raised by the Opposition of a France stripped of her defense against the hereditary enemy the Premier found it necessary to declare that France was afraid of no one. And it is almost an automatic rule of public rhetoric that when a nation has no reason to fear unduly it goes on to say that it has no desire to boast unduly. Whether the Italian press will find M. TARDIEU's words evasive or provocative or injurious by their very brevity, we may soon know.

Of greater moment is the French Premier's concern with matter's domestic on the eve of the reassembling of the Chamber of Deputies. The correspondent of The World describes the speech as being in the main a plea for the upbuilding of a modern industrial State in France. Presumably the case was not so abruptly stated by M. TARDIEU. He would be aware of a nation that is still half agricultural and given to believe, indeed, that its strength lies in its immunity from the extremes of enormous wealth and proletarianism. But M. TARDIEU represents the newer men in France who are not afraid of the implications of national victory and leadership in modern times. French security, too, ties up with the question of industrialization. War is more than ever a matter of financial and industrial resources. The French peasant and small bourgeois may be won away from their aversion to factory chimneys by the argument that factories become ammunition plants in war time.

Ever since the Treaty of Versailles it has been a question of profound interest to the historically minded whether victory in 1918 would have an influence on France similar to that of victory in 1870 on Germany. From Sedan dates the transformation of a pastoral Germany into the modern industrial Germany, the change from the Germany of KANT and SCHILLER into the Germany of KRUPP and synthetic dyes. German population had been growing at a good rate since the beginning of the nineteenth century, but France, though behind, was not very far behind. With 1870 and the introduction of the industrial revolution into Germany, the population growth sped up, while France, partially under the shock of defeat, brought her population increase to a sharp standstill. Now, after the Armistice, with Lorraine coal and Briey iron once more united in her possession, would she set out to put herself on a level with Great Britain and Germany, would she raise tall factory chimneys to rival the Ruhr and incidentally to support a population, say, a dozen millions larger than she now maintains? The question is not yet answered. Great industrial activity there has been in France, but whether this is only filling up the war deficits or the beginning of a career of thorough industrialization is not yet plain. French social students are fond of comparing her quality civilization with the quantity civilization of America. There are not wanting signs that Frenchmen are beginning to think of mass production.

PESSIMISTS AND OPTIMISTS.

Toward the end of his life THOMAS HARDY wrote in his diary that pessimism is "the one sure game in this life." The reason he gave was that if you play that game you cannot lose and you may win. It was not on this theory, one may be sure, that two warnings against a pessimistic habit of mind were given to the press yesterday. One came from the National City Bank of New York, which in its June review of economic conditions declared that the thing mainly to be guarded against at the present time is "an "excess of pessimism, just as an ex-"cess of optimism was the basis of "danger a year ago." The other admonition came from Senator BORAH, who in his radio talk to young men took up his parable against "premature pessimists." If there is just now in this country a prevalent tendency to pessimism about business and about politics, it may be said that the two authorities cited have themselves done something to contribute to it. But let that pass.

Not only for the United States, but for all the rest of the world, it is a time to "incline to hope rather than fear." Even on the basis of the doctrine of chances, a turn for the better may be asserted to be nearly due. Experienced and cool-headed English economists are saying this of Great Britain today. There is much more reason to affirm it of the United States. In this country, at least, pessimism has never been the "sure game" that HARDY held it to be. An American professor, WILLIAM G. SUMNER, who long had the reputation of being a pessimist, once said, half regretfully as it seemed, "after all, the optimists have the best of it." They certainly have always had it in America, and even if some men take satisfaction in seeing their doleful predictions come true, it is wiser for most of us to take a rosy view of the future, though it may not, in fact, prove to be so bright colored as we had expected it to be. It is better to have hoped and lost than never to have hoped at all. In the very act of keeping cheerful and looking on the bright side we get a continuous reward which may serve as more than an offset to our occasional disappointments and frustrations. It is because Americans have for generations been convinced of this that warnings against an excess of pessimism seem not merely a novelty but a misplaced one when addressed to them.

A LONDON NEWSPAPER MERGER.

The London Daily News, which had already eaten up The Leader and The Westminster Gazette, has now swallowed The Chronicle. The transaction is called a merger and the swallowed one retains its name. It was published simultaneously in London and Leeds. In both cities a large force of employes is thrown upon the street. That is no uncommon incident of the great modern process of absorption and combination. The old lords of Fleet Street have been supplanted. The limited liability company rules the roost. Immensely above such comparatively humble amalgamations as this stand the new magnificoes, mastering groups of newspapers and enormous associated funds. The strain on capital and the ferocious competition in the contemporary world of English journalism are illustrated by the fact that a circulation of a million did not enable The Chronicle to earn more than a scanty profit on its investment; and even that could not be looked for in the future.

It is consoling to reflect that prudent Mr. LLOYD GEORGE and his friends, who owned The Chronicle for the eight years after 1918, got rid of it at a high price before its fat days were done. In the house of the righteous is much. The Chronicle is kindly remembered by some of us for its radical vigor under the short editorship of MASSINGHAM in the late '90s; but it was put on the road to success and power by ROBERT, now Sir ROBERT, DONALD. He reduced the price to a cent, revivified and broadened the news service and all departments, made it the organ of the more liberal Liberals. It was at the height of its fortune during the war. Its foreign correspondence was of the first order and it was the first of London journals regularly to publish illustrations by distinguished artists.

Doubtless some of its characteristics will be preserved for a time in The Daily News, itself admirable in so many ways, but there cannot be two bosses in one shop. In these consolidations the vital and energizing spirit of the acquired newspaper invariably fades. It is no use to kick against the operation of an economic law. Is it only the disposition to praise times past that makes FREDERICK GREENWOOD's Pall Mall Gazette and St. James's Gazette and COOK's and SPENDER's and F. C. GOULD's Westminster Gazette shine in the memory with such brilliance? There is a highly profitable kind of British journalism that sometimes reminds us of JOHN RANDOLPH's "rotten mackerel by moonlight." Fortunately, nothing of that sort is to be expected from this latest coalescence.

Recent by-elections have seemed to show a tendency of Liberals to flock to the Conservative side. If it be true that their numbers are diminishing, the need of two morning spokesmen is mitigated. Or, if we like, we may take this union, though born of necessity, as an omen of union in the Liberal party, of the two Liberal parties.

THE SCHOOL AND THE CHILD.

The greatest physical problem which the New York Board of Education has yearly to face is not due to the increase in population. It is the need of following with prompt and adequate provision a constantly shifting population. The prophet has ever to go to the mountain. The school has to go to the child; but in this case the mountain itself moves about and the prophet has first to find it.

Because of the delay in preparing new school sites, a considerable number of buildings contemplated in the 1929 program (estimated to cost nearly $30,000,000) have been carried over into 1930, making the total inclusive estimate $47,325,000. But, as the announcement in yesterday's TIMES states, this is only a third of the expenditure necessary to carry through the plans for the next three years. During that time it is anticipated that the full-time school provision will overtake the school population and thus simplify the problem by eliminating one of the unknown elements, for the yearly increase, once overtaken, can be so closely estimated that it becomes as a known quantity.

The shifting, too, can at a nearer range be more accurately foreseen and more quickly met when accommodations have caught up with current need. Meantime, the closest study is necessary to determine the flight of individuals from homes in one part of the city to another, where the new schools should be located. But this inquiry must be supplemented by prompt action in securing the sites fixed upon. And there is special reason now for shortening this process and for getting building operations under way. Unemployment conditions and educational needs unite in urging all speed possible consistent with safety and thoroughgoing work. Now is the time of all times to quicken the lagging building program.

There is this incidental advantage in the shifting of population that the most modern school provision is being gradually made for greater numbers. But New York will have to go at an even more rapid building pace to keep up relatively with the progress of many smaller cities. The recent building program of such a city as Birmingham, Ala., for example, of schools both for white children and for Negroes, suggests that we of New York have not made surpassing provision. We have, to be sure, a longer educational past, and so more old elementary school buildings; but even with our more recent high school buildings we have not outstripped many lesser communities in the attractiveness and adequacy of schools and the spaciousness of grounds. This is the year to push forward with all possible vigor.

POLAR FLYING PROBLEMS.

While Sir HUBERT WILKINS is planning to make an expedition to the north polar region in a submarine which our Navy Department will provide, he believes that "the airplane is suitable for preliminary reconnoitring," and that a great deal of such work "remains "to be done both in the Arctic and "the Antarctic." He is one of the great authorities on polar flying, sharing that distinction with Admiral BYRD. An article by him on "The Problems of Polar Flying" is published in Aviation. He makes out so good a case for the use of airplanes that other explorers who do not agree with him about the availability of submarines may argue that he could combine the two. In fact, he is considering meteorological balloons as a part of his equipment when he takes a submarine to Spitsbergen.

Sir HUBERT's article is a record of his experience with airplanes in both the Arctic and the Antarctic. He prefers the single-motor plane. "Two men at a pinch," he says, "could handle such a machine, "whereas it took several men to "move the heavy and not more re-"liable three-engined machine." In the latter there are "a greater number of devices to go wrong." Moreover, "big airplanes need big ships for transportation." A single-engined plane was "carried from "Spitsbergen to New York, from "New York to the Antarctic and "back to South America completely "set up and ready for flight." Wooden skis proved more satisfactory than metal. This was in the Arctic. But as in the Deception Island region flat surfaces for taking off were not to be had, pontoons were used.

It is to be noted that ten degrees below freezing was the lowest temperature registered between November and February (the Antarctic Summer). Only once was ice on the pontoons a difficulty. Wireless direction-finding was not practicable on long flights from a land base. Two years of work and more than 6,000 miles of flying in the Antarctic cost about $60,000.

STITCHES IN TIME.

Three years of intensive preparation by the Republicans for the next city campaign are not too many. Mayor WALKER's last majority was overwhelming. The five boroughs again demonstrated that unless unusually sensational charges against men high in the City Government are sustained they prefer Tammany rule to anything the Republicans promise. Mr. LA GUARDIA made a number of charges and steadily prophesied graver, and documented, ones. As these failed to appear, even the slight interest which he had roused in the electorate faded.

Possibly that campaign taught the Republican leaders a useful lesson. Certainly it proved that they must have the strongest type of candidate and the heaviest sort of ammunition if they hope to shake the hold of Tammany. Their present organizing for 1933 is based on two foundations, however, which may unsettle the plan: the legalizing of a city-wide convention to replace the primary, and the designation of a city leader. Governor ROOSEVELT vetoed the bill which would have set up the first arrangement; unless a Republican defeats him this year the New York City board of strategy will have to wait until 1932 for its convention system. The rest of the program depends on no such distant hopes. General HARBORD's advisory committee for New York County, and its four correlated agencies in the other counties, are at work. Pending the functioning of a well-equipped research bureau, to run down irregularities in the government, Alderman BALDWIN is giving an excellent one-man performance. Many events give strength to those who are seeking a legislative investigation of local affairs, to begin after adjournment at Albany next Spring. The findings of that body, plus whatever else may have been obtained by the research bureau, may give Tammany's opposition a platform for 1933.

As is usual with political campaigners who are looking so far ahead, some of the announced items in their preparedness program are impractical. Topping the list of these, perhaps, is the idea of selecting "a list of Mayoralty eligibles" and working them out in the meantime as if they were three-year-olds preparing for the Belmont Stakes. The next anti-Tammany Mayoralty candidate will not be found that way. He will be strong enough to force himself on the party, as Mr. LA GUARDIA was, without having any particular relation to the occasion. Or he will, like another CINCINNATUS, without any ambition on his own part, be summoned from the plow.

GOOD INTENTIONS NOT ENOUGH

Young men and women graduating from college this month must soon decide, if they have not already done so, what they will do to make use of their education and further to develop their capacities. Many of them have given the subject careful thought, consulting with teachers, parents, friends and vocational bureaus. Some of the more ambitious and serious minded have expressed discouragement. For those with a natural interest in social service work there may be promise in a statement of Miss RUTH HILL, personnel director of the Family Welfare Association of America, announcing an acute shortage of trained family social workers.

There is an excellent chance in the next five years for about 2,000 college graduates to obtain training for social work through family welfare societies in any one of the 234 cities making up the Family Welfare Association of America. Miss HILL bases this estimate on information from these cities stating definitely that approximately 1,250 new workers will be needed to take the places of those who have left the work for various reasons and to extend it. An increase of about 20 per cent in the number of family welfare workers is anticipated. On this basis a total of 6,000 persons will be needed during the next five years. Only a third of this number can be absorbed as they come fresh from college. The others should be divided equally between graduates of social work schools and such graduates who have in addition some experience in social work.

If this year's graduates enter one of the twenty-eight professional schools of social work for another year or two of special training, they will stand a better chance of acceptance by one of the welfare societies. But there is an immediate opportunity for the "most promis-"ing, all-round, fun-loving and hard-"est-working young men and wo-"men." They must realize that the present shortage is due chiefly to the exacting requirements of today. A few years ago welfare agencies were less discriminating. They engaged untrained girls of 20 who had a temporary enthusiasm for relieving the ills of mankind, and mature women, equally eager and untrained. Social work no longer means relieving financial or material distress only. It involves every problem—educational, mental, physical, legal—that can confront and discompose a family. Good intentions and training are both necessary, and underlying both must be a disposition to understand and like the most difficult specimens of humanity.

Miss HILL's parting words are worth noting:

> While social work is still no profession in which to make a fortune, salaries are better today than they have been, and as communities are coming to appreciate more fully the nature and value of modern social work, salaries in this profession should become comparable to those in the other major professions.

NO COLONIAL SERVICE.

The resignation of Mr. E. A. GILMORE, Vice Governor of the Philippines for the last eight years, recalls our lack of system in dealing with what are, in effect, colonial responsibilities. Governor GILMORE leaves to become dean of the Law School at Iowa University—a position similar to the one he held at the University of Wisconsin. By his return to private life, the country is deprived of his long, thorough experience with all manner of Philippine questions. On three different occasions he served as Acting Governor General—filling that office for a total of fifteen months. As Vice Governor his special fields were education and public health. In both he showed diligence and discrimination. Few men are better informed today about conditions in the Philippine Islands.

Twice the Vice Governor was passed over when a new Governor General was sought. Not even in Washington was room made for his knowledge of the islands. Despite the excellent precedent of promoting men in the Philippine service set in the administrations of MCKINLEY, ROOSEVELT and TAFT, the government appears to have returned to the traditional American custom of ignoring a trained personnel. It is true that General WOOD had had extensive experience in the islands, and that Colonel STIMSON and former Secretary DAVIS had, through the War Department and personal contact, familiarized themselves with Philippine conditions. But there cannot now be said to exist anything resembling a career in this branch of the public service.

Administration of our alien dependencies presents many highly complicated problems which can be mastered only after long experience. In form we have done little more than to place our framework of government upon our insular possessions. But in fact the work involves subtle reactions of race and an adjustment between almost irreconcilable differences of custom. Furthermore, to the normal rivalry between the executive and the legislative branches, which we know so well in this country, is added in the Philippines and Porto Rico the fact that the executive branch represents Americans and is controlled by them, whereas the Legislature is in the hands of the natives.

So long as the American flag flies over the Philippines the United States needs skilled civilians there, familiar with the islands and their problems. The only men who may be regarded as "experts" in these lines that remain in the government service are the officers of the army who have acted as advisers to successive Governors General.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Where Dictators Have a Free Hand.

What might conceivably be described as a new traffic regulation came into force on the first of the month in Turkey. From that day the Arabic alphabet, which marches from right to left, is outlawed in favor of the Latin characters, which move the other way. The change comes after a preparatory period of two years, during which the Turkish people have been going through an intensive, and by all accounts painful, training in the new characters. The Turkish newspapers, which some time ago went over to the new alphabet, have been doing their best to ward off bankruptcy while waiting for their readers to learn how to read all over again.

Revolutionizing an alphabet is not so difficult in a country like Turkey as it would be where popular education is more widespread. With possibly 80 per cent of its people illiterate, Anatolia has that much less to unlearn. In more than one way history since the World War has taught the advantage, for the revolutionist, of starting with raw material.

By the theories of KARL MARX, one of the last countries in which to attempt a Socialist experiment would be Russia, because of its industrial barkwardness. But in practice a Communist coup d'état succeeded easily in Russia for the very reason of its undeveloped industrial life. It meant that there was no powerful middle class to put up a fight against LENIN.

New York's Ferries.

New York's insular position has for years accustomed her inhabitants to diving under or over the rivers surrounding Manhattan. Her ferry lines, in addition to being a means of transportation from one place to another, have always held a particular charm for New Yorkers. On a ferry one has an ocean voyage in miniature.

But few of those who patronize New York's thirty-three ferry lines realize how much a part of the city's history they are. The first ferry went to Long Island and was established in 1642, when this was still the village of New Amsterdam. The Hoboken ferry, which celebrates its 155th anniversary this month, was started in 1775. Even then New York was merely a cosmopolitan village, its twenty thousand inhabitants speaking eighteen languages.

When the charter for the Hoboken ferry was granted, the line ran from Bear Market, opposite Vesey Street, to the Kings Arm Inn, the only hostelry in Hoboken. Scarcely a year after it was started, the colonies rebelled and the ferry was used to transport both the Revolutionary and the British troops. At that time the ferry was powered by horses, running on treadmills.

In 1811 the first steam ferry in the world was run on this line but was discontinued until 1821, when the Hoboken Steamboat Ferry Company was established. In 1903 the company was taken over by the Lackawanna Railroad.

Uncle Sam on Brewing Tea.

Tea drinkers of the world will doubtless quarrel about the admonitions on the correct brewing of tea which the solicitous Department of Agriculture has just broadcast to ten million housewives. From the English and the Irish in particular will come the cry that Uncle Sam's instructions can produce only an innocuous potion.

Tea, says our government, should never be boiled. This is tea-treason, according to our British and Irish cousins, who boil theirs until a spoon will stand up straight in the cup. But the water poured over the tea leaves must be boiling. An earthenware pot should be used, and after the tea is steeped for not more than six minutes it should be put into another container. A tea-ball is permissible, or a simple strainer containing the tea leaves through which the boiling water is poured.

This is sound doctrine, endorsed—at least in part—by the Oriental nations from which we borrowed the tea-drinking habit. Except that the Department of Agriculture might alienate the sugar lobby and the dairy interests, it could have gone even further and pointed out that the best tea is drunk without either sugar or milk or cream (or lemon, for that matter). Incidentally, at the risk of enraging the British lion, Uncle Sam might also have remarked that for variety and delicacy of flavors no teas compare with those grown in China.

Finnegan of Projects.

The Channel tunnel plan is dead again. For fifty years this project has been killed and revived, only to die again. It is understood that its most recent death-blow came on economic, not military, grounds.

This is the surprising new factor in a situation which has always brought surprises. The Admiralty and the General Staff, and lately the Air Board, have opposed building the tunnel under the British Channel because it would be one more link to guard in the chain of insular defenses. But the Committee of Imperial Defense were not so much impressed with this as with Chancellor SNOWDEN's report that the tunnel tolls would not justify its cost.

If this is true, it will be a stronger reason for dispelling Lord ESBISHAM's dream than the arguments of the warriors. While the Royal Air Force would have a job to protect the tunnel if there were war with a Continental Power, there doesn't seem to be much in the theory that the tunnel would offer an easy means of invasion. One carload of nitroglycerin would dispose of the advancing enemy. So would depth bombs and detonators set off from London. But a tube that won't pay in time of peace and would probably have to be destroyed in time of war has little to recommend it.

IRISH FINANCES.

Comparison Between Northern and Free State Affairs Is Disputed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read in THE TIMES of May 29 a cabled article—"Finances of Ulster Near 'Danger Point' "—based on a statement by Finance Minister Pollock that Ulster could no longer keep financial step with the socialistic expenditures of England.

In that article your correspondent states "that the reason for Northern Ireland's embarrassment, in contrast with the Irish Free State's sound financial condition, lies in the enormous increase in the cost of pensions, unemployment insurance," &c.

The comparison between Northern Ireland and the Irish Free State is entirely inaccurate. Ever since the establishment of the Government of Northern Ireland in Ulster, all expenditures have been met out of revenue, and no debt whatever has been contracted.

The Irish Free State, on the other hand, has a large accumulated budget deficit and has also accumulated a considerable debt through borrowing.

I leave your readers to judge for themselves which of the Irelands is in a sound financial condition.

[A dispatch from THE TIMES Dublin correspondent, published May 25, said of the Free State budget, "Instead of showing the deficit which had been foreshadowed by pessimists * * * the budget balanced with an excess of normal revenues over normal expenditures of some $1,250,000."—Editor, TIMES.]

ALL ROADS LEAD TO ROME.

All roads, so runs the proverb, lead to Rome. . . .
I take the road of dreams, and I am there;
I scent her roses dying on the air;
I feel her sunshine; sense the hallowed gloom
Of her cathedrals; view the golden dome
That crowns her living glory; find my way
Among the ruins of her vanished day—
She calls me, and in dreams, in dreams, I come.
But will there come a shining day for me
On which my eyes, my waking eyes, shall see
Rome in her splendor? Shall I truly come,
Be gathered to her heart—no alien,
But as a lost child to its mother's breast again?
Oh, is it true that all roads lead to Rome?

ELECTION OF SENATORS.

Advocate of Amendment Later Regretted Its Adoption.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just read with much interest what you have to say about the selection of candidates for United States Senator by primaries and their "popular" election. It is fast coming to the point when it will be so difficult for any other than a very wealthy person to be elected Senator that a majority in that body will have bought their way in. Surely that will not be to the public welfare.

I can tell you that the majority have reached the conclusion of John M. Stahl, who got us farmers the delivery of mail and did so much for the modern parcel post and good roads. I have just been reading his "Growing With the West," recently published, and in it he gives the letter from him that Representative Rucker, who had charge of the final House debate on the amendment changing the method of electing Senators, had sent to the clerk's desk and read when that final three hours' debate was opened—a mark of distinction not often accorded a letter from one who insisted on remaining a private citizen.

Mr. Stahl was an able advocate of the amendment, but in his autobiography he says: "I think this part of my public activity would better never have come to pass. The election of Senators is really further from the control of the people than it was before. The expense of the primary elections are no small addition to the tax burden of the people. The expenses of the candidates in the campaign for nomination and election have been multiplied. The tendency is to limit the nominations to men of wealth or those who will put themselves under criminal obligations to procure funds considered necessary to success. Certainly the personnel of the Senate has not been improved. The men who framed the Constitution of the United States were men of very unusual, it might be said of superhuman, wisdom. They produced a wonderful charter for a republic: a Constitution that has not always been improved by tinkering. That Constitution should have our veneration and we should regard it with that aversion to change that must come from a right appreciation of its merits."

Many will endorse every word of that. The amendment that should be canceled is not the last one; at the least, it is not the one that should have the first consideration.

Away down here in Florida we have not as yet the direct interest in this subject that Pennsylvania and Illinois and other States have, but the Senate has a big share in legislating for all of us. We are all concerned in its character.

AN ENGLISHMAN PROTESTS.

Deprecates Plan to Locate Airport and Ranges Near West Point.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

From papers which have reached me from the United States I understand that under Hamilton Fish's bill, now under consideration by Congress, it is proposed to expropriate the owners of the property south and west of West Point, and to create an airport upon the more or less level land east of the main road to West Point, and further to create an artillery and machine-gun range in this area.

This part of the Hudson River is, if I may say so as a foreigner, one of the most beautiful bits of the Hudson, namely, that stretch of the river from Anthony's Nose to West Point. Although it is true that the property on both sides belongs to private persons, in a sense it belongs to the nation, as it is one of the beauty spots of the country, for thousands of people who travel up the Hudson in the Spring, Summer and Fall take delight in viewing this most lovely stretch of the river.

If the proposed airport is made on this most unsuitable site, which of course can be done with great expenditure, it will mean that the whole of this part of the Hudson will be ruined, either for habitation, or, on the other hand, from a scenic point of view. The trees will have to be cut down to a very great extent, and the valley, which is narrow here, will reverberate with the sounds of "horridum bellum."

All I can say is, that to destroy a beauty spot in order to create artillery and machine-gun ranges and an airport seems to me, as an outside observer, to be an act of vandalism. Some years ago it was proposed to locate Sing Sing prison near Fort Montgomery, a proposal which fortunately did not come to fruition. There is plenty of land away from the river which could be obtained at probably less expense and which could be used for the purpose desired without ruining one of the most attractive parts of your country, teeming as it is with historical interest.

Poor Rendition of Lincoln Speech.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Today again many people in various parts of the country recited Lincoln's Speech at Gettysburg, and probably with few, if any, exceptions every rendition was executed in a drab monotone. At least such must be the conclusion of any one who has listened to the many repetitions of the speech that have been broadcast since the advent of radio.

Some years ago I had an Edison wax cylinder record of the speech, by Len Spencer. The rendition was superb, and nothing I have heard since has even remotely approached it.

I understand that Len Spencer is dead, but I often wonder whether there is not still in existence somewhere one of those old records and an old phonograph. If there is, it would be to the advantage of every orator who wishes to recite the speech to use Spencer as a guide for expression. Better still, perhaps, would be the broadcasting of the record itself.

The full dramatic intensity of Lincoln's masterpiece cannot be conveyed without proper expression.

BROOKLYN'S MARINE PARK.

Work Would Relieve Unemployment and the City Should Act.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read with considerable interest THE TIMES editorial on the Regional Plan's proposal to build a great marine park on Staten Island, because at this time in Brooklyn we are trying to interest the Board of Estimate in providing substantial funds for the development of Marine Park, a tract of more than 1,500 acres, which the city has owned for several years.

Part of this land was donated by Messrs. Pratt and White. On the south it fronts on Jamaica Bay and Rockaway Inlet. It includes Plum Island, which could easily accommodate one-half million bathers. Through its centre runs Gerritsen Basin, a wide and deep waterway, and there are other streams within its borders.

It already has better transportation facilities, with respect to the whole city, than the Staten Island tract, and it will have perfect transit when Mr. Delaney builds the Nostrand Avenue subway extension and the Utica Avenue subway, on both of which hearings were held before the Board of Transportation this Spring.

To date about $215,000 has been appropriated toward its development, and less than $25,000 of this has been spent. Mr. Delaney proposes to furnish the Brooklyn Park Commissioner with material from subway excavations at low cost for filling purposes. It will be two years before this material can be secured, and it will fill an acreage of only about one-half of 1 per cent of the total Marine Park area. The city has been rather delinquent in furthering this project and niggardly with its appropriations.

I have before me pledges from two of Brooklyn's most substantial builders that they will build homes to the value of $2,500,000 this year if the city will make a substantial appropriation toward the development of the park. Within two years, there would arise homes to the value of at least $10,000,000 around the park, were the city to show a sincere interest in its development. The amount of work created by such building operations would certainly help our existing unemployment situation. The people of Brooklyn could begin to enjoy a splendid waterfront park and the city would receive taxes from newly created values in the surrounding area.

THE TIMES reports today that a subcommittee of the Committee of the Whole will recommend no additional appropriation for Marine Park in the Tax Note Calendar. I have been hearing groans from civic workers all day.

SWISS VIEW OF TARIFF.

Ill-Will Toward Us Certain to Result if Bill Is Passed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

At the beginning of May the Federation of Swiss Watchmakers appealed to me to do what I could regarding the pending American tariff bill, in view of my position as an American-born importer of American merchandise, and president and founder, since 1915, of the women's movement, entitled the "World Union of Women for International Concord," as well as in view of the service that I was able to render to this country during the war by instigating the Swiss wheat mission to America. You are one of the ninety prominent and influential people to whom I addressed myself in this grave crisis.

You will be interested to know that the most practical result of my campaign has been the combined action of the automobile manufacturers in America, who wired me that they would take up the matter and present it to the proper government authorities.

Your exceptional understanding of the interdependence of international trade and its relation to the peace of the world makes it almost unnecessary to point out the dangerous repercussion in Europe of the tariff bill, against which thirty-eight nations have protested violently.

The indignation against the proposed tariff has done more to advance the idea of an economic United States of Europe than could, perhaps, have been accomplished in a generation. M. Briand's plan will, undoubtedly, be of great benefit to European peace, but when European manufacturers can buy and sell freely in a larger market than the United States does now at home, and will be able to increase production proportionately, with infinitely cheaper and more skilled labor, the exports from the United States—loaded with carrying charges and duties—will certainly find themselves handicapped in a solid, united, eventually free-trade Europe.

Aside from the economic features of this question, it is impossible to overstate the ill-will and hatred engendered by the proposed tariff increase, due to the loss and suffering which are sure to follow if the bill is passed.

Saluting the Flag.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have not marched in a New York parade for some years, so was greatly impressed yesterday with the almost universal recognition of the colors. This in spite of the unusual frequency with which they passed. One felt it was real tribute and not because some one was looking.

Small children saluted, old ladies stood up, foreign-looking men raised their hats. One could spot old soldiers as they drew themselves to attention or if uncovered by the wistful look in their eyes, thinking of old days and old units now disbanded.

Then, too, one was impressed by the universal red of the poppy. Not only was there good salesmanship, but there was true memory of those who live beyond.

GEN. H. M. LORD DIES; EX-CHIEF OF BUDGET

Man Called World's Greatest Paymaster Victim of a Nervous Breakdown.

SERVED THREE PRESIDENTS

Passed on Bills Amounting to 24 Billions for War Department—Had Remarkable Memory.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Brig. Gen. Herbert M. Lord, U. S. A., retired, who as second director of the United States budget served for seven years under three administrations and often was referred to as "the greatest paymaster in the world," died at 8:30 A. M. today in his apartment at the Woodley. He was in his seventy-first year.

The General had been in bed for more than a month, suffering from a nervous breakdown and complications ensuing from an attack of influenza about a year ago.

General Lord's wife, the former Annie Stuart Waldo of Thomaston, Me., and his daughter, Mrs. Ruth Van Rensselaer, were at the bedside. His son, Major Kenneth Lord, recently returned to his post at Fort Leavenworth after a visit to the family home.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed, but burial will be in Arlington Cemetery, with full military honors.

General Lord had been in poor health since his retirement on July 1 as director of the budget. At the request of President Hoover he retained office until the end of the fiscal year, when he was succeeded by J. C. Roop. He spent part of the Winter at St. Petersburg, Fla., in an effort to regain his strength.

BRIG. GEN. H. M. LORD, Former Director of the Budget, Who Died Yesterday in Washington.

In Important Post During War.

During the less than twenty months in which the United States participated in the World War, General Lord, as director of finance for the War Department, theoretically paid out more than $24,000,000,000. And when his military career was at an end he became Director of the Budget, where his chief function was to keep down government expenditures.

General Lord was named to the budget directorship by President Harding on July 1, 1922, succeeding Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, the budget's first director, now Ambassador at London. Hardly had General Lord taken up the budget duties when government officials learned of "the man with the remarkable memory" who could literally quote figures by the yard.

No man was more proud than General Lord when, during successive years, reduction was shown in the amount of government expenditures. He spent long hours in the treasury, calculating, counting, considering where a dollar might be trimmed from the estimates of appropriations submitted from the various governmental agencies. The President told him each year that the budget submitted to Congress should not exceed a stated figure, and General Lord's life thenceforth was dedicated to the task of cutting the total to the stipulated amount.

Honored by Roosevelt and Wilson.

Practically all his army service was in connection with financial matters. Twice he was called by Presidents for special detail away from the army. President Roosevelt picked him to aid in drafting the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, and President Wilson named him as the disbursing officer for government relief for the Salem (Mass.) fire sufferers in the Winter of 1914-1915. An appropriation of $200,000 was given General Lord for the work in Salem, and he turned back $153,000 to the Treasury.

When the United States entered the World War, he was finance officer of the Quartermaster Corps. There followed quick reorganization in the army, and General Lord was made director of finance, a job which had jurisdiction over every bureau of the great department. A Distinguished Service Medal was awarded to him for his handling of war finances.

Economy Almost a Passion.

Economy with General Lord was almost a passion during his years as Budget Director, so that he went so far in 1928 as to advocate the longer use of pencils by government employes to save money, and announced that the government was saving $8,000 yearly by reducing the size of money order blanks an inch. But when scoffers—he had his enemies and critics—were still laughing at him, he announced that since 1920 there had been a total treasury surplus of $2,692,000,000, of which the budget system had saved $2,392,000,000.

And yet one of his greatest achievements, of which he wrote for a newspaper afterward with pride, had little to do with economy, per se. Early in 1919, when he was Director of Finance for the War Department, he found that the Quartermaster Department owed $800,000,000 and more to American factories, railroads and other corporations. Frantic company officers came to him, begged for the money, said they faced bankruptcy.

General Lord investigated, found many of them were right, and asked Congress to adopt a deficiency bill that would pay the money owed, which, with new bills, amounted to more than $1,000,000,000. A filibuster deadlocked Congress, and on March 4, 1919, it went out of existence with the money still owed, and, General Lord later averred, with a national panic impending. Accordingly, General Lord accomplished the largest diversion of public funds in history, paid $1,270,000,000 to eager creditors from funds appropriated for other purposes, and the next Congress, without a murmur, legalized the procedure. A panic was averted.

In January, 1925, Mr. Coolidge voiced his desire to hereafter keep the cost of government down to $3,000,000,000. In this General Lord concurred. They were never completely successful in their efforts, but in 1927 the total expeditures dipped to a record post-war low level of $3,493,584,000. Since then it has steadily risen. In 1928 it was $3,643,519,875, in 1929 it was $3,848,463,189.63 and this year and next, President Hoover has predicted, it will be above $4,000,000.

General Lord was born in Rockland, Me., on Dec. 6, 1859, the son of Sabin and Abbie Sweet Lord. He learned his letters in the rural schools and acquired his life-long habit of rising at 5 A. M. to start the day's work after a long, solitary walk. When he went to Waterville, Me., to enter Colby College, he walked the fifty-five miles. He walked back from college on vacations.

A Teacher, Then an Editor.

In 1884 he was graduated with an A. B. degree and for several years he taught school, working meanwhile for his A. M., which he acquired from his Alma Mater in 1889. Then he went to Cardiff, Tenn., where he worked on a newspaper as editor, reporter and advertising manager, all together. From Cardiff, several years later, he went to a Denver newspaper. Finally he returned to Maine and became the editor of the Rockland Courier-Gazette. He was said to have worked from twelve to eighteen hours a day there and to have walked, for pleasure, from ten to thirty miles whenever he had the time.

At that time Representative Nelson Dingley, who was the editor and owner of the Lewiston Journal, obtained for General Lord the position of clerk of the House Ways and Means Committee, which he was said to have accepted only after a long walk in which to think it over. In that post he learned finance.

Joins the Army.

When the Spanish-American War began, General Lord was commissioned a major of volunteers and from then until 1922 his work was handling Army finances. In 1899 he became chief paymaster of the Army and had the task of paying off the Cuban Army. Of $3,000,000 given to him, he turned back to the treasury $500,000.

At the close of the World War thousands of disabled soldiers arrived from overseas with no record of the outfits to which they belonged or of the payments which should be made to them. They filled the hospitals and many were fundless. General Lord, who was then Director of Finance for the War Department, paid them on their own certificates; later, as in the case of the war bills, Congress legalized the payments.

Instances of General Lord's various economies as Director of the Budget are many. In 1928 he announced that all Federal departments had been asked to reduce their staffs 2 per cent a year, not by discharge but by only employing 7 per cent instead of the full 9 per cent lost in each annual turnover.

General Lord in 1926 incurred the enmity of many naval officers by cutting $15,000,000 from the navy estimates. The next year he said the government had saved $4,298,448 in a year by paying its bills promptly so as to obtain discounts.

Other economies effected by General Lord included the saving of $487,000 in government printing in 1928. He also asked government employes not to write useless letters, pointing out, to the delight of administration opponents, that it cost 26 cents to write and deliver each letter.

General Lord was the author of a number of articles on his work, especially since his retirement. In 1920 Colby conferred on him an honorary LL. D. degree, and he always kept in close touch with his college and State. His only club was the Army and Navy.

C. C. THURBER DIES AT POST IN ATHENS

Director There for Near East Relief Succumbs to a Paralytic Stroke.

FUNERAL BY GOVERNMENT

Suffered Hardships in Asia Minor During Massacres and Deportations of Greeks.

Christopher C. Thurber, director for the Near East Relief and a social worker for many years, died on Saturday of a paralytic stroke in Athens, Greece, where he was in charge. He was 50 years old.

A dispatch to the headquarters of the Near East Relief, 151 Fifth Avenue, said a governmental funeral service had been held yesterday morning in Athens Cathedral, which was attended by the United States Minister, Robert Skinner; members of the American colony and many children who had been aided by Mr. Thurber. According to his wish, he was buried in Greece.

Born in Norwich, Conn., in 1880, Mr. Thurber graduated from Trinity College, Hartford, in 1903, and thereafter spent seven years doing social work among lumbermen in Canada. He instituted modern methods for the mental and physical care of men working in the woods, and did similar work during several years for the Y. M. C. A. in the coal regions of Pennsylvania. He also was a social worker among school children for a time.

With Red Cross During War.

In 1918, when the United States entered the World War, Mr. Thurber became director of the Red Cross work at Camp Wadsworth, and later took charge of the Red Cross hospital work throughout the South, with headquarters at Greenville, S. C.

Shortly after the war he returned to social work, and in 1921 went abroad for the Near East Relief. He returned only occasionally to the United States, staying for a few months each time with his sister in Los Angeles, Mrs. Harwood Huntington, his service in Greece and Turkey having brought many adventures and hardships.

At Sivas, Asia Minor, in 1922, he was in charge of relief work during the massacres and deportations. More than 90,000 deportees, of which only 9,000 are reported to have survived, passed the door of his home. From among the survivors he collected 7,000 children, whom he took by way of the Black Sea to Istambul.

Thrown Into Prison and Flogged.

Twice during his nine years in the Near East he was thrown into prison. In 1922 he was a prisoner with two other Americans, both of whom died, and was flogged on the feet, so that he afterward limped.

As a recompense for his imprisonment, the Turkish Government appointed him Mayor of Scutari, a suburb of Istambul, where he cared for many refugee children.

When typhus broke out in the Selemié Barracks in Istambul, Mr. Thurber was in charge of hospital work there. He was stricken with the disease, as were 11,000 of his charges. A little later he returned to this country and lectured for several months on the work of the Near East Relief.

The Greek Government awarded to him three medals, including the Cross of War, for bravery in connection with his relief work. For the last few years he is said to have been held in greater affection by the people of Athens than any other American.

A message from Greece received by the Near East Relief yesterday stated, "The Greek Government presents its sincere condolence to your committee, and shares its deep sorrow for the loss of Christopher Thurber, precious collaborator and great friend of Greece." Besides his sister, Mr. Thurber is survived by a brother, Charles Francis Adams Thurber of Auburndale, Mass.

HERBERT H. WINSLOW DRAMATIST, DIES AT 64

Prolific Author of Plays and Vaudeville Sketches Succumbs From a Clot on Brain.

Special to The New York Times.

DOBBS FERRY, N. Y., June 2.—Herbert Hall Winslow, playwright, died suddenly Sunday night at his home, 587 Broadway, Hastings-on-Hudson, from a clot on the brain. He had been ill since Thursday. Born in Keokuk, Iowa, Nov. 23, 1865, he started writing at the age of 14. He came East and made his residence in New York.

Mr. Winslow was the author of fifty-six plays, of which eighteen were produced on Broadway between 1890 and 1927. Among the latter the most succesful was "What's Your Wife Doing?" written in collaboration with Emil Nyitray and produced by Arthur Klein on Oct. 1, 1923. The story of the play was adapted in the musical comedy entitled "Mercenary Mary," presented by L. Lawrence Weber at the Longacre Theatre in April 1925.

Before leaving Keokuk to begin his career in New York, Mr. Winslow was the city editor of The Keokuk Constitution, and in 1885 became the editor of his own magazine, Winslow's Monthly. He also wrote many articles and short stories, and for the last two years had been dramatic critic on The Yonkers Statesman.

T. R. DAWLEY JR., PUBLICIST, IS DEAD

Correspondent in the Spanish-American War Narrowly Avoided Firing Squads in Cuba.

WAS FRIEND OF ROOSEVELT

President Sent Him on Mission to Santo Domingo in 1904—Wrote Many Magazine Articles.

Thomas Robinson Dawley Jr., author, publicist and war correspondent in the Spanish-American War, died of heart disease on Sunday morning at St. Vincent's Hospital. He was 68 years old and had lived at 255 West Twenty-second Street for ten years.

He is survived by a son, Thomas Robinson Dawley 3d, who conducts a school of music at 120 West Forty-eighth Street, and two daughters, Mrs. Antoinette Long of Evanston, Ill., and Mrs. John R. Pierce of Celina, Ohio. Services will be held at noon today at the funeral chapel at 224 Eighth Avenue.

Mr. Dawley's career as a newspaper correspondent in the last years of the nineteenth century included many thrilling adventures in Central America and Cuba. Shortly before the Spanish-American War he was imprisoned in Morro Castle in Cuba for his activities as a correspondent, and after escaping several firing squads he was expelled from the island. He later returned to serve under General Shafter and was instrumental in bringing about the capitulation of Santiago, through his knowledge of the country.

Was Descendant of Early Settlers.

Mr. Dawley was a close friend of President Roosevelt and at the opening of the World War assisted Colonel Roosevelt in recruiting a battalion of infantry and two squadrons of cavalry for the expeditionary force. The project, however, was rejected by President Wilson.

Born in this city in 1862, Mr. Dawley was descended from early settlers in Massachusetts and Rhode Island. He entered the printing establishment of his father at an early age and after several years in Europe engaged in newspaper work in New Orleans.

He spent four years in Guatemala studying the political situation in Central America and instigated the arrest and imprisonment of the Satrap of Peten, a small revolting province of Guatemala. While in that country he married Miss Rosalie Janez of New Orleans and returned to this country to devote several years to teaching.

He re-entered newspaper work as a correspondent for Harper's Weekly a few years before the Spanish-American War. At the close of the war he founded the first daily newspaper in Cuba, but he was arrested soon after and his newspaper was seized by the authorities.

Made Survey of Child Labor.

On his return to the United States Mr. Dawley was sent to Spain by the Century Magazine and a few years later, in 1904, he was sent to Santo Domingo by President Roosevelt for special investigations.

In 1907 he made a study of the employment of women and children in the textile mills of the South as a special agent of the Bureau of Labor. The results of his studies were published in a book, "The Child That Toileth Not," in which he pointed out that the situation was not as bad as had been anticipated.

In the World War Mr. Dawley served as adjudicator of claims in the War Risk Bureau for a brief period. Soon afterward he returned to the scene of his earlier activities in Guatemala. He arrived at the beginning of a revolution and participated in the overthrow of Estrada Cabrera. He was then appointed official publicist by the Herrera Government and was founder of the Casa del Niños for the protection and instruction of poor children.

Mr. Dawley had been living in retirement in this city for ten years. He occasionally wrote magazine articles.

ATTACK TRIAL PLAN FOR LIQUOR CASES

Three Drys of House Committee and Two Others Sign Minority Report Assailing Procedure.

DECLARE BILL IMPRACTICAL

It Would Cause Confusion, Loss of Time and Endanger Administration of Justice, They Say.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The new procedure for handling some prohibition cases, provided for in the enforcement program reported favorably by the House Judiciary Committee last week, was attacked today as a "slipshod, ill-advised, impractical system of turning out stereotyped justice in quantity production," in a minority report signed by five members of the committee, three of whom are considered "dry."

Concurring in the views were Representatives Bachmann of West Virginia, Dominick of South Carolina and Tucker of Virginia, all considered in the dry element of the House, and Representatives La Guardia and Celler of New York, counted among the wets.

Mr. Bachmann and Mr. Tucker submitted other minority views of their own, but for the new procedure they joined with the others in condemning the plan as one "advantageous to the guilty and detrimental to the innocent," couched, they said, "in the phraseology and nomenclature of the cross-word puzzle," and never heard of "until advocated by the commission on law observance."

The dissenting members declared the procedure provided for in the "trial by commissioner" bill to be impractical.

"It proposes to expedite procedure and relieve congestion in the Federal courts. It will accomplish neither," their report said. "We are convinced that the procedure provided in this bill will cause confusion, loss of time, and endanger the administration of justice.

Call Plan Uncertain.

"The circuitous, indirect method for the trial of persons charged with a petty offense in the bill reveals the uncertainty of the entire plan. It is sought to make a commissioner a trial judge and yet he is not judge. It seeks to relieve Federal judges from the trial of petty offenses, but the judge is nevertheless required to determine the guilt or innocence of the defendant. It attempts to expedite final disposition of the cases and instead prolongs and delays such disposition. Its purpose is to avoid a trial by jury, yet such trial is made available in the nebulous offing.

"The bill imposes the duty and responsibility of punishing offenders on the district judge and takes from him the opportunity of hearing and seeing the defendant and all the witnesses. The bill authorizes the commissioner to hear the testimony and recommend the punishment, but dares not give him the authority to make findings.

"The bill authorizes the commissioner to recommend punishment, but the Constitution prevents him saying whether the defendant is guilty or innocent. The bill is highly technical in its provisions of criminal jurisprudence, yet it is drafted in the phraseology and nomenclature of the cross-word puzzle.

"It is clear to any one familiar with court proceedings that the plan proposed will not accomplish any of the results desired. The plan will be advantageous to the guilty and detrimental to the innocent.

"The purpose of empowering the commissioners to do indirectly what should be done directly is a clumsy attempt to avoid Constitutional requirements.

Question Category of Offense.

"Even though an offense may be characterized as petty, there is a grave question if the punishment of a fine of $500 and sentence of six months in jail is not such as to bring the offense outside of the category of petty offenses, whereat trial by jury is guaranteed by the Constitution.

"Section 4, providing for the fees for the commissioner, will create conditions in the commissioner's court that will soon amount to a scandal. Imagine the commissioner haggling with the defendants and attorneys for pleas of not guilty to receive a fee of $5 instead of $1 for pleas of guilty.

"The bill provides an entirely new system of criminal procedure. It is destructive of every fundamental, precedent and custom in our Federal practice. The plan is a slipshod, ill-advised, impractical system of turning out stereotyped justice in quantity production regardless of the merits and the circumstances in each individual case.

"The proposed plan is unfair to the defendant and unfair to the government. This particular kind of procedure is not only unknown under present criminal procedure and the common law, but never was heard of at all until advocated by the Commission on Law Observance."

Farm Expert Says Insect Pests Cost Us $1,000,000,000 a Year

William B. Duryee, Secretary of Agriculture of New Jersey, in an address broadcast yesterday afternoon over WOR, said that the losses occasioned by insects in the United States annually are estimated at more than $1,000,000,000. He declared that of seventy-three of our worst pests thirty-seven were imported from other countries and that some native insects, once harmless, may became our enemies by a change of food habit.

He classed in this category the Colorado beetle, which originally fed on a native food plant on the slopes of the Rocky Mountains, but became a potato pest when civilation moved to those regions. He added that control measures have been adopted for nearly all of our pests.

"One pest with which we are greatly concerned in the East," said Mr. Duryee, "is the Japanese beetle, which is now eating the roots of grass and ruining our lawns and which will emerge from the ground about June 15. This was imported from Japan prior to 1916."

FORT ADVOCATES RIGID ENFORCEMENT

Declares if Elected Senator He Will Insist on Law Being Strictly Obeyed.

ENDS PASSAIC COUNTY TOUR

Frelinghuysen Denies He Will Quit Race—Asbury Park Banker, a Dry, Backs Morrow.

Representative Franklin W. Fort, dry aspirant for the Republican nomination for United States Senator in New Jersey, will attempt to clarify his "home brew" speech delivered in Congress in a radio address on Thursday night, it was announced yesterday.

Mr. Fort, who went into Passaic County on a tour which wound up with a speech in Paterson last night, gained wide attention when his Congress address in support of prohibition was interpreted as an endorsement of the right to make "home brew" and wine within the law. In an East Orange speech a week ago, however, he made a brief statement, saying that his speech referred only to non-intoxicating home brew.

At that time he charged speakers for his opponents, Dwight W. Morrow and former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, with distorting his Congress speech and promised to devote a complete address to a statement of his attitude. Albert E. Howe, his campaign manager, said in Newark that the speech would go on the air over WOR at 9:30 o'clock Thursday night.

In his talk in Paterson last night Mr. Fort, addressing about 150 persons at the Alexander Hamilton Hotel, attacked suggestions of rivals that his nomination would mean the defeat of the Republican candidate in the general election in the Fall because of his dry stand. He declared that he could win in the fight against Alexander C. Simpson, the Democratic choice, as well as either of the two others. He promised, if chosen, to insist upon strict enforcement of prohibition, including application of regulations against liquor drinking to the enforcement officers.

"As Senator," he said, "I shall expect officers of the law to personally observe prohibition and to enforce the law to the maximum of their ability."

To Stress World Court.

Former Senator Frelinghuysen will stress the anti-World Court issue raised in a swing through South Jersey starting today in Millville. Mr. Frelinghuysen will tour Cumberland County communities and go over into Atlantic tomorrow.

Mr. Frelinghuysen's campaign manager issued a statement in Newark ascribing reports that the former Senator would retire from the race to join the Morrow camp, as a political trick. Avowing that Mr. Frelinghuysen would be in the battle to the end, he demanded that Mr. Morrow answer the queries propounded by the former Senator on the stump. He called upon the Ambassador to reply to the allegations that the leaders backing him were connected with impositions upon the public by the Public Service Corporation and demanded that Mr. Morrow give some statement on the scandals that had developed in several counties where charges have been leveled against leaders now backing him.

Mr. Morrow was busy yesterday preparing for he three speeches he is to make this week. He will talk tomorrow night in Trenton and on Thursday he will deliver an address in Pompton Lakes. On Friday he will invade Passaic County and wind up a tour with a speech in Paterson.

The Morrow headquarters made public a statement by W. G. Couse of Asbury Park, president of the State Bankers' Association, commending the Ambassador's cause. Mr. Couse, long known as an advocate of prohibition, said that Mr. Morrow would have his support, notwithstanding the Ambassador's demand for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"I have carefully studied the speech with which Mr. Morrow opened his campaign," said Mr. Couse, "and I am convinced that it represents his honest, sincere convictions and that it is in no sense based upon political expediency. Prohibition is an outstanding issue and the agitation regarding it has made it apparently overshadow all others. There are, however, many other issues vital to the welfare of the country. I believe Mr. Morrow would bring to bear on those issues an exceptionally keen intelligence, broadly trained in national and international affairs."

CITY BREVITIES.

The Rev. Dr. William Rosenau, rabbi of Eutaw Place Temple, Baltimore, will be the chief speaker tonight at the sixth annual commencement exercises of the Hebrew Union College School for Teachers in New York City, which will take place in Temple Emanu-El, Sixty-fifth Street and Fifth Avenue. Twenty students will graduate.

Third year medical students of the New York University-Bellevue Medical School, numbering 116, visited yesterday the Department of Health, 505 Pearl Street, studying preventive methods and the compilation of vital statistics.

SEES MOVE TO EVADE PROHIBITION STAND

Curran Says Republicans in All Wet States Are Proposing Referenda.

HE WANTS BINDING VOTE

Declares New York Convention of Republicans Will Provide "Giant" Test for Nation.

With the Republican administration at Washington professedly dry, Republican organizations in all the wet States from the Atlantic to the Pacific are discussing referenda on prohibition to save themselves from coming out openly and taking their stand on the prohibition question, according to Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Mr. Curran in an interview yesterday said that the Republican State convention in New York where a prominent Republican leader has set afoot a movement looking to a referendum on the wet and dry question next year, will afford the "giant" test with regard to the willingness of the Republican party to face conditions as they are and fall in line with the lengthening procession of those seeking a rational solution of the prohibition problem.

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, according to Mr. Curran, has decided to fight the proposed referenda as involving nothing more than straw votes which will not advance the anti-prohibition cause. Mr. Curran said even the drys of the country ought to line up with the organization in favor of a test that would carry with it some binding force on Congress to remedy conditions.

In the elections to the United States Senate and House of Representatives this Autumn, the association will fight for candidates who are willing to pledge themselves to vote for resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment to the electorates of the forty-eight States.

"We believe the time for pussy-footing is past and that the time for a real test that will bring results is at hand," Mr. Curran said. "We are ready for such a test now and we believe that the voters will demand it. We are confident what the result will be and are willing to abide by it."

Mr. Curran has just returned from a trip that took him through Pennsylvania, Maryland, Illinois and Missouri. He said that everywhere he went the Republican leaders were talking referendum on the prohibition question, indicating that from some central authority word had gone out that referendum was the slogan to be adopted by the Republican party in the elections this Autumn.

"As I see it," he said, "this sort of talk is the last gasp of despair from leaders within my old party who are committed to their old policy of cowardice and evasion which has cost them so dearly in some localities in the past and is going to cost them more dearly in the future.

"Resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment to the people of the States, who are the jury, will afford the real referendum on the prohibition question. Referenda on the proposal to repeal the amendment in this State or in that would furnish only a straw vote and get us no further than we are now. Past experienoe has shown that to be the truth."

It is expected that the proposal for a referendum in this State, sponsored by a group of prominent Republican leaders up-State, will come in for at least informal discussion at a meeting of the Republican State Committee, which, under a call issued yesterday, will be held here on Wednesday, June 11, to fix a time and place and isssue the official call for the Republican State convention. The meeting will be held at the National Republican Club at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The advisory committee of the Republican County Committee, through its subcommittee on legislation, will take up for discussion at a meeting today two resolutions on prohibition. One, sponsored by Frederic R. Coudert, who was the Republican candidate for District Attorney last year, calls for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The other, sponsored by Abraham S. Gilbert, calls for modification of the Volstead law with a view to restoring to the States control of the liquor traffic.

Martin Saxe, chairman of the subcommittee, said the meeting would be behind closed doors, that a report which may be agreed upon today would be submitted to the advisory committee at a meeting to be held at the Hotel Astor on June 17 and by that body in turn to the Republican County Committee at its regular monthly meeting on June 19.

SEIZE LIQUOR ON TRACTOR.

Agents Arrest Four Using Machine to Cross Fire Island Dunes.

For nights the rumbling and whirring of machinery, coming apparently from a distant point on Fire Island Beach, has disturbed the sleep and puzzled the imaginations of residents of a Summer colony on that strip of sand opposite Blue Point, across Great South Bay, L. I. The noise and mystery were ended yesterday when Coast Guardsmen under Captain Sullivan saw a large tractor worming its way along the beach.

The agents discovered that the tractor contained 250 cases of liquor. Captain Sullivan and his men arrested four occupants of the tractor. Seeing a large schooner some miles off shore, the captain concluded that its cargo had been landed near by.

The sand offers no traction for automobiles, he explained, and the liquor-runners, he said, used the tractor to carry their contraband across the dunes, where it was loaded into other ships which conveyed it to the mainland.

The prisoners, all of whom denied their guilt, were arraigned before Edward E. Fay, United States Commissioner in Brooklyn, and held in bail of $500 each. They said they were Andrew Moseman, 272 Glenmore Avenue, Brooklyn; Al Friedman of the same address, Alfred Tupper, Catlin Place, Lynbrook, L. I., and Irwin Washer, 376 Union Avenue, Lynbrook.

200 RADIO MAKERS SHOW NEW MODELS

But Number of Exhibitors at Atlantic City Show Is 90 Fewer Than Year Ago.

25,000 AT CONVENTION

Most Changes in Sets Show Only Refinements in Earlier Types—Several Leaders Fail to Exhibit.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 2.—The latest radio receiving sets, the 1930-31 models, are on display here at the Civic Auditorium, where the sixth annual radio trade show and convention of the Radio Manufacturers Association opened this morning. It is estimated that 25,000 manufacturers, jobbers, and dealers have arrived within the last forty-eight hours. Twenty-six special trains have come into the station since Sunday morning.

Two hundred manufacturers have their apparatus on display. It is estimated by officials of the exhibition, however, that there are ninety fewer exhibitors than last year. This is attributed to the general business depression. Several of the large companies, including the Radio Corporation of America, Victor, General Electric, Westinghouse and Atwater-Kent, have space at the auditorium, but no apparatus. They plan not to reveal their new sets until later in the Summer.

Screen-grid tube sets and electric-dynamic loud-speakers predominate, according to a representative of the Radio Manufacturers Association, which indicates no radical change since last year. Most of the changes are mechanical and electrical refinements that improve tone quality. The screen-grid tube is now used by most set builders. There has been no general move toward the adoption of the pentode or five-element tube, as some had anticipated. Almost every manufacturer is including a combination radio and phonograph machine in the 1930-31 line. The console cabinet is the most popular. Few table model sets are seen. There are a number of midget console receivers.

The improvements generally adopted are tone control, automatic volume control, provision for remote control tuning and some means of quickly identifying a station when it is tuned in exactly right. This is usually accomplished by a flash of light. This, however, is not entirely new, as several sets were so equipped last season.

Prices range about the same as last season, although the manufacturers point out that the purchaser gets more for his money in the new merchandise than in previous years because of the refinements in circuit design. There is little change in the cabinets.

Three new tubes for battery-operated and direct current sets are introduced by the R. C. A. Radiotron Company, and its licensees. These tubes are expected to improve radio on the farm and in sections where alternating current is not available, for they require only two volts on the filament.

Sentiment in the radio industry is optimistic, according to the leaders attending the show. They are hopeful that general business will turn upward. If it shows signs of improvement by the time the Radio World's Fair opens in New York in September they feel that "the fascination of radio is so great, and its appeal to the public so widespread that it will stage a rapid comeback from the depression." The tube manufacturers are more cheerful than the set builders. They expect many replacements during the Autumn and Winter and estimate that at least 125,000,000 tubes will be sold in 1930.

Other radio organizations holding meetings here during the week include the National Federation of Radio Associations, the Radio Wholesalers Association, the Institute of Radio Engineers, the National Association of Broadcasters, the Radio Club of America and the Radio Retailers Association of Canada.

APPLIES TRANSFER TAX TO CERTAIN MERGERS

Revenue Bureau Counsel Denies Plea of New York Concern in Consolidation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—A decision of some importance because of the tendency toward consolidation in business and industry was made today by Clarence M. Charest, general counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau, in which he held that the transfer of certain stocks, resulting from merged corporations, is subject to the Federal transfer tax.

Mr. Charest prepared the decision as a result of the consolidation of some corporations in New York during 1929. The case involved Section 86 of the stock corporation law of New York.

HOG ISLAND SALE COMPLETE

Philadelphia Pays $450,000 Down on $3,000,000 Purchase Price.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Sale of Hog Island to Philadelphia for $3,000,000 was completed at the Shipping Board today with the signing of the final contract by Chairman T. V. O'Connor of the board. Mayor Harry A. Mackay has previously signed the document on behalf of Philadelphia. The contract provides that the property shall be used for the creation of a modern air, rail and marine terminal.

Fifteen per cent, or $450,000 of the purchase price, will be paid down, and the city will guarantee the immediate expenditure of $500,000 for grading the portion of the property to be used as an airport. At the northerly end of the island's waterfront a seaplane landing basin having shore frontage of 1,400 feet has been provided, leaving approximately 13,000 feet of waterfront for the marine terminal features of the project.

Anna Urbas, Slain by Gangsters, Had Furniture and Insurance.

Anna Margaret Urbas, who was thrown into the Harlem River with weights wired to her neck by gangsters who sought to seal her lips, left $1,500 in furniture stored in Queens before she fled in a futile attempt at escape. Identification as Anna Urbas, companion of Eugene Moran, a racketeer who was murdered last August, was established by means of dental plates, and was accepted yesterday as official at the morgue.

Richard Fuqua, a taxicab driver who knew her, appeared at the morgue yesterday and viewed the body. He said that she had a life insurance policy of $1,000 and also the furniture, more than sufficient to pay funeral expenses.

The police are still searching for the men who murdered her and Moran.

GEN. RUSSELL RETURNS

Commissioner to Haiti Hurries to Washington With Yearly Report.

Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, United States High Commissioner to the Republic of Haiti, arrived yesterday on the Panama Railroad steamship Ancon, accompanied by Mrs. Russell, and left by train for Washington to submit his annual report on Haitian affairs to the State Department. He declined to discuss conditions in Haiti with the reporters who met him at the ship.

On the pier General Russell accidentally met Louis Borno, former President of Haiti, who had come there to meet his wife and daughter Simonde. They exchanged greetings and General Russell passed on. The ex-president said he will leave in a few days with his family for Paris, where his 18-year-old son will enter a university.

FRATERNITY CLUBS FACING A PADLOCK

Proceedings to Be Brought to Close Part of the Building, Prosecutor Announces.

DEFENDANTS LOSE RULING

Commissioner Refuses to Dismiss Complaints Against Employes—Agents Tell of Raid.

After an investigation begun a month ago when Federal agents posing as college graduates raided the Fraternity Clubs Building, 22 East Thirty-eighth Street, Robert B. Watts, Assistant United States Attorney in charge of prohibition cases, announced yesterday that he would apply for a padlock against part of these premises. Mr. Watts declined to say how inclusive his application would be.

The application, the first ever made here against a building housing graduates of colleges and universities, will be made in support of the policy of Major Maurice Campbell, Prohibition Administrator, to raid any and all places where he believes liquor is being dispensed in violation of the Volstead act.

Maurice Cohen, Assistant United States Attorney, won a victory for the government in the case earlier in the afternoon when Francis A. O'Neill, United States Commissioner, refused after a hearing to dismiss complaints against five employes of the club who were arrested during the raid.

The employes, Al Dionne, captain of waiters; Louis Rossano, valet; John Dionne, bartender; Louis Heimans, headwaiter, and Steve Sandy, waiter, were continued in bail of $1,000 each for trial on charges of possession and sale.

Frederick Kendrick and Joseph M. Roure, prohibition agents, told how they got into the club, which houses members of nineteen national fraternities and supposedly is for their exclusive use. Their first visit, they said, was on April 18. Kendrick said he just walked in with Roure and took the elevator to the third floor. Once on the third floor, they said, it was a simple matter to walk one flight down to the dining room. They noticed a procession of men, they said, walking from the dining room to a hallway.

"We thought something was up," Kendrick said, "so we followed them. They led us right into the bar."

The agents said they sat down casually on a wall bench in the bar, and that Sandy, the waiter, came over and asked them what they wanted. The agents said they wanted whiskey. Sandy, they said, asked Kendrick to show his card. The "collegiate" agent had none, but he finally persuaded Sandy, he said, to give him a "check." He took the check, he said, to the bartender, and after examing it Dionne called Sandy over and gave him a key.

"We can't sell you a drink," Kendrick quoted Dionne as having said, "but we'll sell you a bottle of rye."

Sandy, according to the agents, then walked over to a locker room adjoining the bar, opened a locker and came back with a pint of rye which the agents opened at a table and proceeded to drink.

Kendrick and Roure also visited the clubhouse on April 22 and 23, they said, and on each occasion, were made to feel at home. During their rambles, they said, they discovered another locker room in the basement where liquor could be obtained by "similar arrangements."

The last visit of the agents was on April 30 when they were accompanied by five other members of Major Campbell's staff. Kendrick, armed with a search warrant, seized enough locker keys, he said, to enable him to find 101 bottles of assorted liquor, all of which the agents confiscated.

Columbia Nine Defeats Penn, 4 to 3, in 10 Innings; Masters's Streak Broken

Pennsylvania's hopes of winning the Eastern Intercollegiate League baseball championship were blasted yesterday at South Field when Columbia triumphed over the Red and Blue, 4 to 3, in ten innings in the last home game for the Lions. With an Alumni Day crowd of 1,500 persons excitedly urging him on, Johnny Balquist, diminutive shortstop, scored the winning run from second base on Tom McLaughlin's double to centre field, sliding into the plate head first to barely beat Carlsten's throw.

Besides sounding the death knell to Penn's league aspirations, the encounter marked the end of Walter Masters's remarkable pitching record. Previous to yesterday's contest, Masters had won fifteen consecutive games this season and last.

The visitors outhit Columbia, twelve hits to ten, but the Lions capitalized theirs to better advantage. Bill Wilkens, the Morningside sophomore pitcher, received excellent support. Several times Penn runners were caught between the bases and this alertness of the Lions saved several situations. Balquist was outstanding, making several difficult fielding plays, and handling twelve out of thirteen chances.

13 Penn Runners Stranded.

The frequency with which Penn was in scoring position is shown by the fact that the visitors had thirteen men left on bases.

Columbia got off to a two-run lead in the first inning when, with one out, Hewitt singled; Balquist singled over second, but Carlsten fumbled the ball and the fleet-footed Hewitt scored and Balquist went to third. McLaughlin was out at first, Wilner to Callaghan. Bradley then banged a double down the left-field foul line and Balquist tallied the Lions' second run.

Penn put across a run in the third after two were out. Slaughter was walked and advanced to third when McLaughlin let Graupner's grounder get by him. Becker's double to left brought home Slaughter. The Philadelphians tied the count in the fourth when Callaghan singled, went to third on Masters's single to centre, and scored when Carlsten lifted a sacrifice fly to Bradley.

Columbia Breaks Tie.

The deadlock did not continue long, however, for in Columbia's half of the fourth Obey doubled and came home on Swettman's rousing two-base hit to the left field fence.

Penn drew up on even terms again in the fifth and then the battle remained at 3 to 3 until the tenth inning. Penn's third run came when Graupner was hit by a pitched ball and then stole second. Becker flied out to Obey and Balquist tossed out Caniglia at first. Callaghan, who was the visitors' star on the offense with four hits, smashed a triple to right field and Graupner scored.

Coakley, 15 Years at Columbia, Receives $500 Gift in Gold

Andy Coakley, veteran baseball coach at Columbia University, was the recipient of $500 in gold yesterday at South Field, just before the Columbia and Pennsylvania teams met. Dr. Donald Beck, chairman of the baseball committee at Columbia, called both the Columbia and Penn nines together shortly before the game started and, in a short speech, presented the bag of gold, which was given by former pupils of Coakley, to the coach. Coakley has been coach at Columbia for fifteen years.

4 HARVARD CREWS DRILL ON THAMES

Squad Starts Preparation for Yale With Morning and Evening Sessions.

NO CHANGES IN BOATINGS.

Eli Eights, With Exception of Freshman Boat, Also Hold Two Workouts.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 2.—The four crews comprising Harvard's rowing squad held their initial workout on the Thames River this morning in preparation for the Yale regatta on June 20. Coach Charles Whiteside gave the two varsity crews a three-mile paddle, interrupted by short racing spurts. On the return, he pointed out individual faults.

The freshmen and combination eights, under Bert Haines, were sent down to the waters off the Submarine Base, two miles from Red Top, where a half hour was spent.

The oarsmen were late putting their shells overboard for the second session, Whiteside holding his charges until the southwest wind had died down in the early evening.

Varsity Follows Course.

The varsity crews held to the course in the evening drill, going further down stream than in the morning practice. The freshmen also extended their workout by paddling as far as the three-mile mark.

There were no changes in the make-up of any of the crews, the men being seated as they were in the last practice on the Charles River. The varsity, combination and freshman eights are using Pocock shells, while the junior-varsity is rowing the Lutz boat.

The squad physician, who has been at Red Top for several years, is here again this year and reports a clean bill of health for the camp.

Yale Practices Upstream.

Yale's two varsity and combination crews received an hour's instruction on the upper two miles of the course this morning, but this evening all of the shells, including the freshman, paddled up the Thames River for two and one-half miles.

The freshmen will not be allowed to practice mornings until next Monday, when examinations will be over.

An interested spectator in the coaching launch with Leader following the crew at work this evening was Robert Cushman, captain of the Yale crew last year.

SPRINT STARS HEAD N. C. A. A. TRACK FIELD

Simpson, Tolan and Bracey to Clash in Chicago on Friday and Saturday.

CHICAGO, June 2 (AP).—Collegiate champions will run, jump and throw for more records Friday and Saturday in the ninth annual National Collegiate Athletic Association meet at the University of Chicago.

Almost every outstanding performer of the season is entered. Most of the East's best and at least a part of the great Southern California and Stanford teams are certain to compete.

For the 100-yard dash, George Simpson, Ohio State, ruler of Big Ten dash men; Eddie Tolan, Michigan, holder of the world's record at 0:09.5; Claude Bracey, Rice Institute, winner of both sprint events in 1928; Cy Leland, Texas Christian, and Hubert Meier of Iowa State College, who is credited with 0:09.4 this year, are on the list, along with more than a dozen others who have bettered even time. Frank Wykoff, Southern California, winner of the I. C. A. A. A. A. century last Saturday, is entered but is not a certainty to start.

If all the mile runners entered are at top form the race may surpass the century in brilliance. Ralph Hill, Oregon, who placed fourth in the N. C. A. A. mile last year, has an amazing mark of 4:12.4, two seconds faster than the accepted intercollegiate record set in 1913 by John Paul Jones of Cornell. Hill made the mark in defeating by inches Rufus Kiser of the University of Washington. Kiser is entered and will start. Ray Swartz, Western State Teachers, Kalamazoo, Mich., did 4:16.7 two weeks ago, and Jack Walter, Marquette University, has done 4:18.2. Others who have run the distance under 4:20 are Joe Sivak, Butler; Ray Putnam, Iowa State; Roger Artnett, Michigan State Normal, and Orval Martin, Purdue. Martin, however, is expected to run in the two-mile.

Russell Dills, Missouri, has the best season's attempt in the 440-yard dash, 0:48.6, but must beat Russell Walter, Northwestern, winner of the event last year. A host of other nominees have bettered 50 seconds. A half-dozen high jumpers with marks of 6 feet 4 inches or better, are entered and talent in other events is of similar calibre.

Another struggle for the team championship between Southern California and Stanford should result if both enter full teams. Although the Trojans won handily at Cambridge, the N. C. A. A. scoring system will make it an open affair. Six places win points under the plan, with 10 points for a first place, 8 for second, 6 for third, 4 for fourth, 2 for fifth, and 1 for sixth.

Falk, forced out of the Junior Varsity by illness, has returned and is rowing at 5 in McManus's place. Mann, a veteran oarsman, who has just recovered from a long illness, is rowing at 3.

Rosbrook has regained a place in the freshman eight at 4, replacing Martin. Everett is rowing bow and Schreck has moved to 2, replacing Le Page. The new boatings are designed for the longer distances the crews will race at Pougkeepsie June 26. They will leave Ithaca about June 16.

Pine Appointed Crew Captain For Penn at Poughkeepsie

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—Warren Pine of Troy, N. Y., was appointed captain of the University of Pennsylvania crews for the races at Poughkeepsie following a conference between Acting Captain Adrian Teaf and Coach Rusty Callow today.

Pine, who formerly attended Blair Academy, rows at No. 5 in the varsity. This will be the second time this season he has been acting captain for a regatta, having been named just preceding the Blackwell Cup races at Derby, Conn., with Yale and Columbia. Pine is a senior, 21 years old, weighs 180 pounds and is six feet tall.

CAPTAIN IS NAMED FOR NAVY VARSITY

Pieczentkowski, Who Rows at 7, to Act at Princeton and Poughkeepsie Regattas.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 2.—Midshipman Herman A. Pieczentkowski of Providence, R. I., has been named captain of the Naval Academy varsity crew which has been getting along the whole season, up to this time, without an official leader. The election had been postponed largely because it was uncertain whether a member of the graduating class would be included in the varsity boat, but Pieczentkowski, the only member of that class in the first boat, is now firmly settled at 7.

The new captain will perform the duties of his position in the race against California and Princeton at Princeton June 14, and in the Poughkeepsie regatta, June 26. Pieczentkowski has rowed on either the junior varsity or varsity for three seasons and in his first year was a member of the champion plebe crew in 1927. He is a strong and capable oarsman.

Rowing practice this week is being curtailed on account of the June week drills and exercises in which all midshipmen, even crew men, must take part. After Thursday, however, the squad will receive more liberal treatment.

The varsity squad is now reduced to the members of the varsity, junior varsity and third crews. The 150-pound squad was disbanded today, its race at Philadelphia last Saturday closing its season.

TITLE DRIVE IS OVER IN BIG TEN SPORTS

Purdue and Wisconsin, Each With Two Championships, Set Pace for Year.

CHICAGO, June 2 (AP).—The Big Ten athletic year is finished as far as the distribution of championships is concerned, with Purdue and Wisconsin possessors of two titles each.

Wisconsin, last Saturday, clinched its second championship of the year by defeating Michigan, 1 to 0, in its final baseball game. The victory gave the Badgers a standing of nine games won and one lost. Illinois was second in the race with eight victories and two defeats.

Purdue's year was its greatest. The Boilermakers won the football and basketball titles without the loss of a game in either sport. Wisconsin also won the indoor track title.

Michigan relinquished the baseball championship after two years on top, but regained the outdoor track and field title after a lapse of three years. The swimming championship was won by Northwestern, which broke Michigan's three-year hold on the title. Illinois won both the individual and team golf championships, and Chicago retained the singles and doubles tennis championships.

TEN EYCK SHIFTS CREWS.

Examinations Force Syracuse Coach to Make Changes.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 2.—Three make-shift crews reported to Coach Jim Ten Eyck of Syracuse University for today's practice over the Long Branch course. Because of final examinations, the varsity, junior varsity and freshman eights have been unable to practice in regular formation for more than a week. Loizeaux, a veteran, will stroke the junior varsity. That is the only change contemplated.

Donald, pitching for Clarkson, hurled well until the ninth inning, when St. Lawrence brought in four runs.

THOMPSON BEATEN BY CLINES, 6-3, 6-1

Suffers Unexpected Defeat in Long Island Public Courts Tennis Tourney.

BURNS PUTS OUT MILESTEIN

Scores 6-1, 6-3 Victory to Gain Quarter-Finals—Sprinzer and Talmadge Also Advance.

Defaults and the elimination of William Thompson marked yesterday's play in the Long Island Public Courts tennis tourney at the Montgomery Royal tennis courts. Four contestants progressed to the quarter-final round.

Thompson's defeat was brought about by William Clines, a newcomer from Louisville, Ky., in a second round match, 6—3, 6—1. The victory was unexpected due to the high ranking Thompson holds in local tennis circles, but he was unable to solve his opponent's attack. Clines impressed with a well-rounded game of forceful driving and steadiness.

Edward Burns Jr. of the Crescent Athletic Club became one of those to reach the quarter-final round by defeating Harry Milestein, 6—1, 6—3. J. Sprinzer was forced to three sets before he conquered Rudolph Pearlman, 6—3, 2—6, 6—2.

Reginald Talmadge accounted for his second victory of the day and entered the quarter-finals by turning back Charles Frink, 6—1, 6—4. In the first round he defeated Henry Pearlman, 6—0, 6—3.

In the first round Thompson eliminated Ben Gold, former Manual Training High School star, 6—0, 6—2. Travers Le Gros won in that round by allowing Edward Stillman but two games, winning 6—1, 6—1. Play will be continued today.

THE SUMMARIES.

First Round—Harry Milestein won from A. Garrassun by default; Travers Le Gros defeated Edward Stillman, 6—1, 6—1; Ralph Axelrod won from Charles Marks by default; Rudolph Pearlman won from Robert Tollman by default; J. BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 2 (AP).—The Belgian tennis championships got under way today with no Americans entered. William T. Tilden, who had expected to participate, wired the committee that he would be unable to play. Miss Helen Jacobs also scratched her entry because of the imminence of the Wightman Cup matches.

Among the internationally known players participating are Henri Cochet, Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon of France; E. C. Peters, Mrs. R. E. Haylock, Miss Joan Ridley of England; Hans Timmer of Holland; G. Lyttleton Rogers of Ireland; O. R. and L. M. Williams of the Argentine and Mrs. Freeland of Canada.

In the opening match Mrs. Haylock defeated Mlle. Nauts of Belgium, 6—1, 6—2. Peters and Miss Ridley defeated Bolle and Mlle. Dumonceau of Belgium, 6—2, 6—1 and L. M. Williams beat De Coene of Belgium, 6—3, 6—1.

ROSEN TO PLAY AT TORONTO

N. Y. U. Lacrosse Star Accepts Bid to Appear on American Team.

Theodore Rosen, third attack on the past season's New York University lacrosse team, has accepted an invitation to play his regular position on the American twelve which will meet the Canadian champions in the international games on June 12, 14 and 16 at Toronto, it was announced yesterday at the university.

The Violet twelve won ten games and lost three this year, and it was largely due to the work of Rosen, a sophomore, that N. Y. U. turned in this record. Rosen was also high scorer for his team.

HALL WINS MATCH AT HARTFORD NET

Begins Defense of New England Title by Beating Ryan of Yale, 6-1, 2-6, 6-4.

SMITH LOSES IN UPSET

Waterbury Star Bows to Shaw, 6-8, 6-4, 6-1—Miss Deridder Eliminates Mrs. Brainard.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 2.—J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., began the defense of his New England tennis title today by conquering Robert Ryan of Yale in the opening round, the New Haven star yielding after an extra set. The score was 6—1, 2—6, 6—4. An upset was scored when Francis Smith of Waterbury, one of last year's contenders, was eliminated by Art Shaw of Meriden, 6—8, 6—4, 6—1.

Many of the first-round matches were played late in the day and some were put over until tomorrow. Play was started also in the women's singles, and a surprise was the defeat of Mrs. Morgan B. Brainard of Hartford by Miss Deridder of Hartford, 7—5, 4—6, 6—3.

Hall had a rather close call with Ryan, closer than is indicated by the score, for all the games were taken by narrow margins. In the deciding third set, Ryan led, 4 to 3, and stood 30-love in the eighth game, when Hall rallied to take the game and the next two for the match.

Smith practically double-faulted himself out of the running, although a new backhand stroke with which he has been experimenting failed to make an impression on the steady game offered by Shaw.

Frank Luce of Yale, who has examinations scheduled in New Haven tomorrow, defaulted to Harold MacGuffin of Philadelphia. Luce won the first set, 6—2, and was leading, 5 to 3, in the second set, when darkness and the academic engagement tomorrow impelled him to offer a default.

DAVIS CUP PLAYERS WILL SAIL TONIGHT

Four Team Members and Two Substitutes to Compete at Wimbledon First.

TILDEN'S SERVICES SOUGHT

U. S. Champion's Addition to Team Will Be Taken Up After Contingent Reaches London.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

The last wave of America's expeditionary tennis forces will leave for foreign parts at midnight tonight, when Captain Fitz-Eugene Dixon and a squad of six players sail on the Berengaria to renew the Davis Cup campaign on French soil.

Included in the party will be John Hope Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal.; G. Martin Lott 2d of Chicago, John Van Ryn of East Orange, N. J., and Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas., the four regular members of the team, and Berkeley Bell of Austin and Gregory Mangin of Newark, substitutes. Mrs. Allison will accompany her husband, and also in the party will be Mrs. Dixon and Miss Dorothea Scudder and her mother, Mrs. Edward Wallace Scudder.

The immediate destination of the team is England, where the six players will take part in the Wimbledon championships. Following the two weeks of play there, Captain Dixon will lead his young charges to France, where preparations will begin for the interzone match with the winning nation in the European sector. This will be played July 18, 19 and 20, and in the event that the United States is the winner, she will face France in the challenge round July 25, 26 and 27.

Likely to Sound Out Tilden.

Shortly following the team's arrival in London it is expected that Captain Dixon will hold a conference with William Tilden to sound out the national champion on the matter of his willingness to take a place on the international firing line again.

Tilden has been playing abroad with conspicuous success for four months and reached the final round of the French championship, in which he lost to Henri Cochet in four sets after having defeated Jean Borotra in five sets in the semi-finals.

Although the American champion recently reiterated that he had not changed the stand he took last Fall, when he stated that he was through with international tennis, it is commonly believed that if overtures are made to him he will take a different position.

Tilden has played on every American team since 1920, when he and William Johnston brought the cup back from Australia, and, with opportunity knocking this year in the expected absence of René Lacoste from the French team, it is felt that the Philadelphian will feel the urge to get back into the fray and lend his services in the effort to reclaim the trophy.

Tilden's Services Valuable.

Tilden's victory over Borotra, who will undoubtedly be France's second singles player, unless Lacoste is sufficently restored to health to take part in the matches, emphasizes the value of his services. The United States, presupposing that she will reach the challenge round, would have every reason, with him in the line-up, to look forward hopefully for at least one victory in singles.

Van Ryn and Allison, victors over Cochet and Borotra in the challenge round doubles last year, could be expected to contribute a second point and the outcome, apparently, would hang on the match between Borotra and America's other singles representative.

All signs point to Lott as being this man and in view of the fine showing he made against the Basque in 1929 it would not be expecting the impossible of him to turn in the deciding victory of the series of five matches.

In the event that Tilden abides by his decision not to play on the team, Doeg looms as a singles nominee in view of his decisive victory over Van Ryn in the final of the Orange Lawn Tennis Club tournament. The play at South Orange, however, was on grass, while the Davis Cup matches are contested on clay, so nothing is certain at this time. Captain Dixon probably will not make his final selections until the team's base of operations has been transferred to Paris.

KASHDAN CHESS VICTOR.

Defeats Charles Jaffe in First of Eight-Game Series.

Working out a victory in a difficult ending in which he had only a slight edge at the time of adjournment, I. Kashdan, champion of the Manhattan Chess Club, yesterday defeated Charles Jaffe in the first encounter of their match of eight games at the rooms of the Manhattan Chess Club.

It required clever finessing on the part of the Olympic expert to accomplish his purpose in a bishop and pawn ending, but he was successful after fifty-three moves had been recorded.

The second game is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at the Café Europe Chess Club, Second Avenue and Thirteenth Street, and the rest of the games will be played at the Manhattan Chess Club.

Belmont Park Feature Is Captured by Moine, 12 to 1 Shot; Clean Play Second

MOINE, 12-1, WINS AT BELMONT PARK

Beats Clean Play, Another 12-1 Shot, in Raceland Handicap —Stormy Dawn Third.

5 OF 6 FAVORITES BEATEN

Novena, in First Race, Only One to Score—Polygamous Finishes Eighth in Bluepoint.

By BRYAN FIELD.

The favorites found the carefully groomed racing strip at Belmont Park a rocky way yesterday and five of the six went down to defeat in a manner that was disheartening to supporters of form. The Raceland Handicap was the day's feature and here a 3-year-old Friar Rock gelding, Moine, slipped past the other horses to win at 12 to 1.

Moine bore the colors of Martin Madden and whipped Clean Play, another 12 to 1 shot, by half a length. In back of these two came Stormy Dawn, 11 to 5 favorite, but a weary horse at the end of a mile, which Moine stepped in the fair time of 1:37 4-5.

Before the field went to the post for the Raceland the picking of the winner did not appear to be a complicated proposition. Stormy Dawn had been favorite several times and had just failed winning after game efforts and it seemed more than probable that he could hold his own with the rather mediocre company in which he found himself. Failing Stormy Dawn, there was Chicatie, a fair stable colorbearer with considerable class a year ago, making his season's début, and Mrs. John D. Hertz's Fair Ball, fancied by those who like Fair Play blood strain.

How Moine beat these three and the five others is not hard to tell. Chicatie was left at the post. Fair Ball was asked to carry 122 pounds and he refused to extend himself. Stormy Dawn, a game enough fellow, had up the top weight of 124 pounds and got into some trouble.

This trouble was not serious, but taken with his weight, it was enough to stop him in the stretch when he should have been galloping along about his business.

Moine, meanwhile, disregarded by the others in the race, had taken his solitary way along the outside. When he got to the stretch he had plenty of speed in reserve. Clean Play, rather a good sprinter, had set all the early pace and he was the one to catch. Moine, well ridden by Danny Lyons, passed him without ado and won going away. He was well favored by the weights, having only 107 pounds to carry, and the victory was one of the two or three that he has scored in his whole racing career.

The Middleburg Stable's mare Electa has earned a reputation for coming from behind in the stretch, and this show of gameness made her the odds-on favorite in the Ethelbert Purse. Electa turned on her closing sprint, but it did not even land her in the money.

Host Wins From Nicotine.

A. W. Wentzel's Host, with Arthur Robertson riding, and 4 to 1 in a five-horse field, won from Mrs. H. C. Phipps's Nicotine by half a length. Coupled with Nicotine was the Wheatley Stable's Flaming and the entry was as long priced as the winner. Sun Falcon, early pacemaker, landed fourth, well ahead of the public choice, which stopped after making a bid in the stretch. Host carried top weight of 117 pounds and ran the mile and an eighth in 1:51 1-5.

Perhaps the worst blow to form was in the Bluepoint Purse, where Gifford A. Cochran's Polygamous was made the 3-to-5 odds-on choice in a field of nine, but finished next to last. Dunsany, owned by the syndicate of women who race as Mr. Pembroke, was the winner by three lengths, paying 6 to 1. He won from Quick Step, a 15-to-1 shot, with Buckeye Poet, 10 to 1, third. Dunsany carried 113 pounds against 120 for Polygamous. The favorite was outrun and showed a dull, sluggish effort for the six furlongs, a route he has burned up in other races against better horses.

The only favorite to win was Mrs. Myrtle Shea's Novena in the first race. This filly was lately claimed by Willie Shea for his wife and closed favorite after Wee Drop had opened favorite. Kensington finished second to Novena, with Ronald Grey third.

Post and Paddock.

The meeting of Gallant Fox and Whichone in the Belmont Stakes on Saturday has excited wide interest in the West, it was learned at Belmont Park yesterday. Newspapers as far West as Chicago have requested reservations for reporters in order that the meeting between these two undefeated colts will be adequately reported.

Whichone now is the odds-on favorite in future books as the result of his Withers victory. Before that he had won the Ballot Handicap, his only other start this year. Gallant Fox has started three times, winning the Wood Memorial, Preakness and Kentucky Derby.

While Saturday, with the running of the Belmont and the National Stallion Stakes, will be the high spot of the meeting, the racing will not come to an end until a week from today. The Maturity is the closing day stake, and then the scene will shift to Aqueduct, where the Brooklyn Handicap likely will see the reappearance of Blue Larkspur.

E. R. Bradley's Withers and Belmont winner of last year worked half a mile in 0:48 2-5 on Sunday and a mile in 1:41 2-5 yesterday. He seems ready for a race and may be seen under silks in an overnight handicap before the Brooklyn.

Sun Beau, which beat Diavolo twice last season, also is getting close to racing form. He went a mile on Sunday with Sun Falcon in 1:42 3-5. Sun Falcon ran yesterday, but failed to win. Buddy Bauer is another of the handicap division training well at Belmont. He turned a mile in 1:38 2-5 yesterday.

Harry M. Stevens, for more than a quarter of a century caterer at the racing plants under Jockey Club jurisdiction and lately caterer at other courses also, was honored yesterday by the New York Turf Writers' Association. He was presented with an engrossed scroll signed by the membership of the association in appreciation of the many courtesies extended by him and by his sons, Frank, Joseph and Harold.

ZACAWEISTA WINS SIX-FURLONG RACE

Three D's Entry Defeats T. S. Jordan in Stadium Purse, Feature at Washington Park.

CHICAGO, June 2 (AP).—Zacaweista, a speedy 4-year-old colt from the Three D's Stock Farm stable, gave old T. S. Jordan a beating today to win the Stadium Purse at six furlongs, the feature event of the card at Washington Park. Morsun, another horse which has been a consistent winner, wound up in third place, never able to match strides with the two leaders.

T. S. Jordan, the pride of Stuyvesant Peabody's stable, was installed favorite. The 9-year-old son of Luke McLuke flattered his backers by breaking in stride as the field of six sprinters left the barrier. In his only other start this year old Jordan won at big odds.

Tommy May, astride Zacaweista, permitted T. S. Jordan to run in the lead until the field was midway in the stretch. Then he drew his whip and Zacaweista promptly sprinted by T. S. Jordan and kept in front the remainder of the way. Morsun ran an even race but never threatened the leaders.

LORD DERBY'S COLT IS OUT OF CLASSIC

FIELD IS REDUCED TO 19

The Scout II, U. S. Entry, Gains Favor—Steve Donoghue to Ride Sea Rover.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 2.—Sir Hugo Hirst's Diolite still rules the favorite for Wednesday's great race, the Derby, with the latest odds being 5 to 2.

Leading owners, trainers and jockeys gave their hottest tips today at the usual London Press Club luncheon, which is as traditional an affair as the famous race itself.

Owners were represented by Edgar Wallace, the writer-sportsman who has entered Adlon in his wife's name, and Sir Hugo, owner of the favorite. Lord Derby also was present and confirmed the news of the scratching of his horse Caerleon. Trainers present who have horses in the race were R. C. Dawson, trainer of Rustom Pasha and Blenheim, the Aga Khan's two entries, and Captain T. Hogg, trainer of Lansdowne and Grand Salute, Lord Glanely's horses. Jockeys who were there included Steve Donoghue, who will ride Sea Rover, and B. Carslake, Bargany's rider.

Says Diolite Will Stay Course.

"If Diolite is among the leading three or four at Tattenham Corner, I know he will win. I don't agree with those who say that he won't stay the course," said Sir Hugo.

"I hope my two horses will run well but I really fancy Diolite," was the frank tip given by Dawson.

"In my opinion whatever beats Diolite will win," said Donoghue. "Major Cortauld's Silver Flare will be the greatest danger to the favorite."

"If I were going to bet—which I'm not—I'd back Silver Flare each way," said Lord Harewood.

Lord Derby discussed the chances of the American horse, William Woodward's The Scout II, saying, "If his horse should win Wednesday's Derby, America can well be proud of having won the race by an owner worthy of upholding her colors.

"I left the United States after having induced every one to call the race 'darby,' and to call the hat as they see fit."

The Derby field now has been reduced to nineteen runners. With only two days to go and gypsies appearing in full force on Epsom Downs, interest in the event is quickening. Horses' chances, luck of the draw in the Calcutta sweep and the state of the weather were all-important topics everywhere today.

Today's first news was the scratching of Caerleon, one-time favorite, which leaves Lord Derby without a runner. This was not unexpected after Caerleon's poor showing in the 2,000 Guineas race.

Wednesday's Derby will be the last in which a horse will be ineligible to run because of his owner's death, it was announced at the Press Club luncheon by Lord Zetland, senior steward of the Jockey Club.

"We all regret that no horse belonging to the late Lord Dewar will be eligible for this year's Derby," said Lord Zetland, "but I am happy to say that this Derby is the last in which a horse will be prevented from running because of the death of its owner."

It is believed that if the engagement of Challenger had not been rendered void by the death of his owner, Lord Dewar, the horse would have proved one of the best of his age in this country and as likely a Derby winner as the favorite, Diolite. Challenger, which has been sold, left for America last Saturday.

Belmont Park Is Praised.

LONDON, June 2 (AP).—There are some things about racing that England could learn from America, declared Lord Derby today in addressing the Press Club luncheon. Lord Derby has just returned from America, where he witnessed the Kentucky Derby and other races.

"Belmont Park, although a dirt track, is very like our own race courses," he said, "but the paddock, stands and general amenities are far and away the best I have ever seen, and in any remodeling of our courses we could not do better than to take Belmont Park as a model."

Lord Derby took occasion to express his thanks to the American press for the way in which it contributed to his "most delightful visit in the United States."

The Scout II, which was bred at the Belair Stud in Maryland, was listed at 25 to 1 when the widely accepted odds quoted by the Victoria Club were announced today. The American horse went six furlongs at a smooth pace this afternoon, and as a result some tipsters are beginning to mention the Woodward colt as a prominent contender for the Derby prize.

The scratching of Lord Derby's Caerleon leaves the English sportsman without a representative in the mile-and-one-half classic for the first time in recent years. Lord Derby originally named four for the rich stake, but Caerleon was the only one declared last week. The three-year-old pulled up lame yesterday after a stiff workout. Parenthesis also was scratched today.

Hour's Broadcast Planned.

Radio listeners in this country will receive a description tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock, Eastern Daylight Time, of the English Derby as broadcast from the race track at Epsom Downs, England, by the British Broadcasting Company.

If radio conditions prove favorable over the Atlantic Ocean the feature will be heard for an hour on the National Broadcasting Company's network. In this area it will be transmitted through stations WJZ and WOR. If there is any delay due to a change of conditions at the English track it will be announced on the radio at 9:30 o'clock and the new time of broadcasting stated.

SONNELLI SCORES; SUNVIR IS SECOND

Captures Feature at Thorncliffe by Two Lengths With Scared o' Nothin' Third.

TRIUMPHS IN FAST TIME

Sprints Seven Furlongs in 1:26 2-5, Only Two-Fifths of a Second From Track Record.

TORONTO, June 2 (Canadian Press).—Running the fastest seven furlongs of the meeting, the Sewickley's Stable's Sonnelli today repeated his opening day victory and captured the feature race of the program at Thorncliffe. Two lengths behind came Sunvir, owned by K. E. Hitt, with E. P. Summerfield's Scared o' Nothin' third. The time was 1:26 2-5, and the winner paid $6.30.

Sonnelli was the pacemaker throughout. Jockey Maiben had an easy time, just letting his mount run along in front all the way, having the others beat for speed. Scared o' Nothin' was second to the stretch, when Sunvir, running consistently, came up to take the second place. Ryland H. New's Troutlet after a poor start steadily worked his way up and made up a lot of ground to finish in fourth position.

The winner's time was just two-fifths of a second over the track record.

Milestone sprang a surprise in the second race when the brown gelding stepped around ahead of a field of eleven horses to just last long enough to win. He paid $32.50 for a $2 ticket.

NICHELSON DEFEATS KINGSPORT BY HEAD

Gets Up in Final Strides to Win Feature at Fairmount Park —Governor Seth Third.

Special to The New York Times.

COLLINSVILLE, Ill., June 2.—Held off the pace until the stretch, when Apprentice Jockey Buddy Hanford sent him into contention, V. H. Perry's Nichelson got up in the final strides to beat C. Bartsch's Kingsport by a head in the fifth race, which featured the program at Fairmount Park today.

Eight horses lined up for the start, with Nichelson the favorite. Kingsport was away first and was rushed into a long lead, which he held until the stretch. In the final dash to the finish, however, he faltered badly. Governor Seth, running next to last most of the way, closed with a tremendous burst of speed to take third. The winner paid $6.10 for $2.

WEST POINT OPENS HORSE SHOW TODAY

Twelfth Annual Event to Be an Outdoor Affair for First Time in Its History.

POLO FIELD WILL BE USED

Cadet Exhibition Ride and Artillery Drill to Be Held in Hall in the Evening.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 2.—West Point's twelfth annual horse show will open tomorrow morning on the new polo field and continue through Wednesday, with a total of thirty-six classes to be judged during the two days of the exhibition, which will be divided into four sessions.

So large is the entry that a start has been arranged both mornings for 9:30 o'clock. Tomorrow troopers' mounts will be first on the card, and they will be judged by Colonel Adna Chaffee of Washington, D. C. They will be followed by novice saddle horses, the saddle events to be passed upon by Thomas M. Wilson of Bowling Green, Ky.

Third on the program will be novice jumpers, and the jumping classes are always strong and popular at the Military Academy exhibition. Alfred B. Maclay of New York City will judge the various hunter and jumper classes, while the polo mounts will be passed upon by Earl Hopping, the internationalist of New York City.

This year's show will be held in the open for the first time, although the vast riding hall will be available in case a heavy storm precludes showing in the opening.

The hall will be used on one occasion in any event, as a cadet exhibition ride and artillery drive will be held there tomorrow evening, beginning at 8:45 o'clock. These are spectacular events and no one who ever has witnessed the charge of the light artillery teams the full length of one of the largest covered rings in the world will forget the thrill of it.

First Sail on Sound Taken by Whirlwind—Metal Mast Stepped in Enterprise

WHIRLWIND SAILS 2 HOURS ON SOUND

Cup Yacht Has Her First Spin in Local Waters—To Be Hauled Out on Thursday.

INTERCLUBS TO COMPETE

Challenge Accepted for Series of Four Team Races Against Bermuda One Designs.

By JAMES ROBBINS.

Whirlwind, the America's Cup defense yacht designed by L. Francis Herreshoff, was taken out on Long Island Sound yesterday from City Island for a two-hour spin. It was a sail setting to observe the cut of her canvas and the set of her rigging. It was her first tryout in New York waters.

There was a lively southwest breeze, with little ruffle to the water, and the tall yacht moved along smoothly. No attempt was made to drive her at a racing clip.

Her black mahogany rail marked her from the all-white Enterprise, which has become a familiar figure on the Sound. Also her green underbody, as she heeled over, was a contrast to the bronze of Enterprise.

Whirlwind may get another short spin before she is hauled out of the water on Thursday for a final painting.

Landon K. Thorne, who heads the Whirlwind syndicate, has chartered Carl Fisher's fast motor yacht Shadow K for a headquarters for the racing yacht's afterguard.

Photographs of Sir Thomas Lipton's America's Cup challenger Shamrock show her off the wind with three headsails pulling besides a spinnaker. It is frequently a trick to keep lower headsails filled with a spinnaker, but Shamrock has used a baby jib topsail with it successfully, and the big kite has been bellied out sufficiently at the same time to give it full pulling power.

The Sound Interclub class committee has accepted a challenge from the Royal Bermuda Yacht Club for a series of four team races, against three or possibly four Bermuda one-design class boats. The races are to be sailed in August and the tentative dates are Aug. 28, 29 and two races on Aug. 31.

The Royal Bermuda Club also has presented a prize for Sunday races in the Sound Interclub class here. At least eight of these races will be arranged and a boat will be required to sail in 50 per cent of them to qualify.

It is felt by the committee that the most satisfactory means of getting a team to meet the Bermudians will be on a basis of class standing rather than by selection. Therefore the team will be made up of the boats foremost in the season's championship series, up to and including the Port Washington regatta on Aug. 16.

Following the custom of previous years the Interclub season will be divided into three series. The first will end on July 3. The second will run from July 4 to Aug. 9, and the third will run from Aug. 16 to Sept. 27. To qualify for each series a boat must start in four races, and for the class championship craft must race in 50 per cent of the schedule.

The Interclub Committee is composed of Cornelius Shields, chairman; Egbert Moxham, Gordon Raymond, Drake H. Sparkman and Robert A. Goeller.

Shamrock V Beats Five Rivals, Winning by Only Half a Length

COWES, Isle of Wight, June 2 (AP).—The Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America's Cup, defeated five big yachts in today's race, which was sailed in a light breeze.

There was little wind that the course was halved and even then the yachts took some six hours to sail and drift over the necessary twenty miles. The Shamrock led for most of the way and beat the White Heather home by half a length. Candida was third.

THREE-HOUR SAIL TAKEN BY YANKEE

Crew Shows Proficiency in Handling Canvas During Spin on Massachusetts Bay.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., June 2.—Three hours more training were given the crew of the Boston America's Cup yacht Yankee today. The weather was more complacent than it has been for nearly three weeks, the gale of yesterday having completely subsided.

During the morning the standing rigging was tightened and the crew summoned.

Shortly before 1 o'clock the yacht swung away from her mooring and headed out into the bay with the wind broad of the starboard beam. She ran acros the bay almost to Cohasset before being turned around and headed toward Gloucester.

Two of her larger balloon-jibbed topsails were broken out and taken in and the crew showed considerable proficiency in handling the canvas during the trial.

Designer Frank C. Paine observed from his power boat Dispatch, paying particular attention to the set of the sails. It is expected that the main sail will be sent ashore and slightly recut.

Yankee was sailed today almost entirely by C. Raymond Hunt, who was a junior yacht champion only six years ago and is one of the youngest yachtsmen ever to hold the wheel of an international major boat contender.

NEW MAST STEPPED IN THE ENTERPRISE

168-Foot Duralumin Spar Successfully Raised on America's Cup Yacht at Bristol.

RESOLUTE IS HAULED OUT

To Be Scraped and Cleaned Today—Diver, Over Sides, Works on Vanitie's Centreboard.

Special to The New York Times.

BRISTOL, R. I., June 2.—The new duralumin mast was stepped in the America's Cup sloop Enterprise today. Enterprise was hauled out Friday afternoon and her crew spent Saturday and Sunday polishing her hull until she was ready to be launched.

Because of the stiff breeze blowing into Bristol Harbor yesterday she was not eased down into the water until just before midnight. The metal mast had been partially rigged, and this morning the rest of the standing rigging was shackled to the tangs, and the upper spreaders and forward struts adjusted with the short stays from the masthead over the forward struts. Then, with a single sling around the 168-foot spar just below the balancing point, the task of stepping began.

As the head of the mast started out over Enterprise's deck it sagged a little and threw a graceful curve into the full length of the mast, but no more of a curve than the spring of a wooden mast in the same position. As the tackle began to lift and the masthead went up, the mast began to straighten out and when the heel hung clear of the wharf there was no sign of a bend.

The mast has twelve flat faces made in fifteen to sixteen foot lengths, beveled on the edges and ends. Each longitudinal joint is covered with a cap that laps about an inch and a half on each strip. Inside there is a liner covering each joint.

Resolute was floated into the cradle and hauled out for a cleaning this afternoon while Vanitie was alongside the north wharf with a diver overside cleaning her centre board.

CUTLER LEADS WITH CUE.

Wins First Two Blocks of Three-Cushion Match With Ribas.

Albert Cutler won the first two blocks of his three-cushion billiard match with Isidro Ribas at Dwyer's Broadway Academy yesterday. In the afternoon Cutler's margain was 25 to 11, in thirty-one innings. The winner's high run was 3, and the loser's 2. At night Cutler won 25 to 20, in thirty-eight innings. The high runs were 4 for the winner and 3 for the loser.

Federation Accepts World's Records of Laufer, Kojac, Misses Osipowich, McKim.

BERLIN, June 2 (AP).—The International Amateur Swimming Federation's meeting ended today with the re-election of virtually the whole slate of officers and directors. Daniel J. Ferris, the only American delegate present, extended an invitation for the meeting to be held in Los Angeles in 1932 and the invitation was accepted.

Five marks made recently by American swimmers were recognized by the federation as new world's records. Miss Josephine McKim, Los Angeles A. C. star, set two of these, and Walter Laufer, Chicago, George Kojac, New York, and Miss Albina Osipowich, Worcester, Mass., accounted for the others.

John T. Taylor of Pittsburgh, representing the United States, was returned to membership on the executive committee that carries on the work of the federation between congresses.

The other members of the committee, in addition to the officers, who serve ex officio, are J. Hodgson, New Zealand; H. Ahlstrom, Sweden, and A. Frick, Belgium.

The officers, all of whom were reelected, are E. G. Drigny, France, president; W. Binner, Germany, and H. E. Fern, England, vice presidents, and Leo Donath, Hungary, honorary secretary and treasurer.

Many of the ten world's records accepted are understood to have been bettered since, but these could not be recognized as the various national governing bodies have not yet had time to pass upon them.

The federation decided to add the 800-meter swim to the list of events for which world's records are accepted. Approval was given to the day-by-day program submitted for the Los Angeles Olympics of 1932.

A South African proposal to prevent Olympic swimmers who do not participate in trial heats in relays from appearing in the finals was turned down by a vote of 23 to 6.

Twenty nations were represented at the meeting. Peru and Cuba were admitted to the federation, while Latvia and Morocco, not complying in some details with the regulations, were denied admission. Portugal and Tunis were suspended.

Whitney Collects Two Doubles and Two Singles—Hafey Connects for Home Run.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2 (AP).—Rallying in the closing innings, the Phillies defeated the Cardinals, 9 to 6, today in the only game played in either of the major leagues.

The Cardinals were away to a four-run lead in the first inning, but the Phillies kept after Hallahan, driving him from the mound in the seventh following the scoring of two runs in the fourth, a like number in the fifth and three in the seventh to take the lead. Bell pitched the eighth for the visitors and was nicked for two more runs.

Collins started in the box for the Phillies, but was relieved by Elliott in the seventh, who held the Cards in check and received credit for the victory.

Whitney led the Phillies' attack with two doubles and two singles in five trips to the plate. Hafey drove out a home run for the Cards in the first inning, scoring three runs.

56 RUNS ARE SCORED FOR BASEBALL RECORD

Springfield, Ohio, Beats Fort Wayne, 38-18—Winning Club's Total New Mark.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., June 2 (AP).—What is believed to be a record for high scoring in modern league baseball was established here today when Springfield, Ohio, defeated Fort Wayne in a Central League game, 38 to 18.

The total of 38 runs excels by 10 the previous record of 28 made by the St. Louis Nationals against Philadelphia last year, and the two-team total of 56 exceeds the 49 made in 1922 when the Chicago Nationals defeated Philadelphia, 26 to 23.

Springfield batters made eleven of the fourteen home runs scored in the game.

AL SIMMONS IN HOSPITAL.

Dykes Also Left in Philadelphia as Team Starts West.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2 (AP).—Al Simmons, heavy hitter of the world's champion Athletics, who was left at home when the team started its Western trip, is in the Graduate Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania "resting up," he says.

Simmons ruptured a blood vessel near the right kneecap sliding into third base on Memorial Day. A physician punctured the knee to reduce the swelling and on Saturday it was again opened.

Al said today that he was feeling fine and was awaiting the doctor's verdict whether he could leave the hospital or would have to remain for some days.

Jimmy Dykes, the Athletics' third baseman, also was left at home with injuries. Dykes suffered injuries to his back in the morning game Memorial Day.

PITTSBURGH, June 2 (AP).—The world's champion Philadelphia Athletics hit Percy Jones hard in an exhibition game with the Pittsburgh Pirates today and the Athletics won, 8 to 2. Both teams used a number of rookies in the line-ups. Max Carey, former Pirate player and now a coach, played centre field, his old position. About 3,000 saw the contest.

RUTH HITS HOMER AS YANKS BEAT REDS

Babe Shows His Wares Before 15,000 Fans in Exhibition at Cincinnati.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 2.—By way of a little divergence, the Yankees paused a few hours here today on their journey into the West and gave the Reds a drubbing in an exhibition game, 8 to 5.

This, of course, did not offer the crowd of 15,000 much diversion or entertainment, but inasmuch as both Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig clouted homers over the left field wall the day was not a complete disappointment to the gathering.

Then, too, to add to the merriment, Ruth played first base and tossed a run into the laps of the Reds with an error, while Gehrig, stationing himself in left field, craftily played a simple liner into a two-base hit.

Prior to the game there was so much handshaking between the Yank and Red players that it looked like an old grads' reunion. Leo Durocher and Bob Meusel, ex-Yanks, held long confabs with their former teammates, while Larry Benton and Pat Crawford, former Giants, dropped around to the Yankee bench to inquire about the weather back in New York.

At noon the Yankees made a pilgrimage to Spring Grove Cemetery to pay tribute to the memory of their late leader, Miler Huggins, and as the players and writers grouped themselves about the grave, Ruth placed two wreaths upon it, one from the players, the other from the New York Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

IF JOHN McGRAW had been one of the party that was carrying the rope, the Giants would have given themselves up for dead. As it was, they received such a severe fright that they dashed out and won a double-header. It happened this way:

The Giants had lost fifteen out of eighteen games. They couldn't eat. They couldn't sleep. The Boston Braves had humbled them three times in a row and apparently there was no ray of hope on the horizon. Things were so bad that Freddie Lindstrom, who roomed with Bill Terry in Boston, heard the first baseman mutter savagely while shaving:

"They'd better take this razor away from me!"

With all that as a background, they went out again on Sunday to play another double-header at Braves Field. The management had made preparations for an overflow crowd on the field and had stretched ropes out there. About the fifth inning of the first game it was seen that the ropes would not be needed and a squad was sent out to bring them in.

At that time the Giants, who had lost fifteen out of eighteen, were trailing by 2 to 1 and apparently on the way to tossing off another game.

A Frightful Vision.

Suddenly a cry in the dugout aroused them all. Men were rushing across the field toward the Giant dugout and they had long ropes in their hands. Conscience doth make cowards of us all, according to the Bard of Avon, and the Clan McGraw could see nothing in the rapid approach of men with ropes but a prospective lynching bee. They forgot they were in an alien town where the onlookers were well content to see them lose. They saw the ropes and that was enough.

Lindstrom turned pale. Bill Terry's knees knocked together. Mel Ott ducked behind the water cooler. Just as they were about to pick up their bats and make an attempt to die fighting, the rope squad arrived, passed by rapidly but peaceably, and carried the ropes under the stands.

What a relief! The sense of escape changed the whole atmosphere in the Giant dugout. The team that had been downcast and disconsolate became chipper and cheerful. For the first time in weeks there were smiles on the bench. Having made but three scattered hits up to the time when they thought death was staring them in the face, they rushed out and began pouring singles in all directions. They made eight runs in the next four innings. They scored twelve runs in one inning of the second game. They won a double-header. They broke their slump.

The men with the rope should have been credited with an assist.

Beware the Brooklynite.

These are great days in Flatbush, but a word of warning should be sounded for the benefit of the inhabitants of Manhattan and the Bronx. Beware the Robin rooter! He is boisterous, elate, overwhelming.

A Giant rooter was strolling down Broadway yesterday when he received a terrific thump on the back. He turned.

"What about Wright now?" queried a fellow he once knew as a quiet, mild-mannered, inoffensive chap.

"He's pretty good, I guess," said the Giant fan.

"Pretty good?" said the Robin rooter. "Say, I wouldn't trade him for the Giant infield with the left wing of the grandstand thrown in. What about Dazzy Vance? I guess he won't do a thing to you birds, hey? Look at Luque."

By this time the Robin rooter had grasped the lapels of the Giant rooter's coat and was hanging on savagely. He was afraid his prey would escape.

The Big Barrage.

"Talk about Ott, will you?" continued the Flatbush orator. "Why, Babe Herman is the class of the league! There's no comparison. Why not be fair and admit it? Say, we've got better substitutes than those Giants have regulars. They couldn't carry water for our crowd. Be nice and I'll get you a couple of tickets for the world's series. Have you noticed the way Wally Gilbert is—stand still, I'm talking to you!"

By this time the transpontine talker had the Manhattanite by the throat and the victim was gasping for breath.

"Johnny Frederick is the best centre fielder in baseball," said the savage speaker from Flatbush. "Anybody knows that. Look what Del Bissonette is hitting! Anybody who doesn't hit over .300 on our club has his meat taken away from him. What about our boy Lopez, hey? Some catcher! The best young pitcher in the league is Babe Phelps. You wouldn't deny that, would you?"

The Giant rooter, half-strangled, muttered something about Benny Frey of the Reds.

Down and Out.

"The Reds!" sputtered the Robin rooter, afire with indignation. "Why mention a team like that when I'm talking about pennant winners? It's lucky for the National League that the Robins are in it. This is where we get square with those American League guys who have been kidding us about world's series results. Wait until the Robins get at those A.'s. We'll slaughter 'em. Nobody gives us any credit. That's the trouble. The papers are full of Babe Ruth and Hornsby and O'Doul and McGraw and fellows like that. And where are the Yanks and Cubs and Phillies and Giants? Down with McGinty at the bottom of the sea! Why don't they write about Herman? Why don't they write about Luque? Why don't they write about Vance?"

The Giant rooter gasped that he didn't know and hinted that he didn't care. He made an attempt to break loose and escape, which was unfortunate, because the next picture shows him on his back with the Brooklyn rooter kneeling on his chest and continuing with unabated vigor.

"Ain't it about time that somebody gave Uncle Robbie a little credit? Gink Hendrick could be a regular in two positions on that Giant club. We're tied for the lead in team batting and we're second in team fielding. The boys are just getting warmed up. Next week we'll be leading both leagues in everything except errors. Don't waste your time at the Polo Grounds. Come on over to Ebbets Field and see a good team play. We've got the pitchers and the clouters. We've got the color. We've got Uncle Robbie. You must come over! Don't forget what I'm telling you. Good-bye. It's nice to have seen you."

He dashed joyously away. His dazed victim arose and stumbled off in the opposite direction, casting looks of fright back over his shoulder. There's no doubt that one of the big tasks that faces Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney is the providing of proper police protection for Giant and Yankee fans these days against rabid Robin rooters.

GIANTS AND REDS WILL CLASH TODAY

Cincinnati Will Lead Year's First Western Invasion of the Polo Grounds.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

When the Giants punched the clock at their Polo Grounds clubhouse yesterday they were greeted by the welcome sight of their captain, Travis Jackson, with his glove on one hand and a baseball in the other, large as life and ready for action. Jack has been out of the game with a case of mumps for the past few weeks, but stated yesterday that his recovery is complete.

Jackson looked the part. The date of his actual return to the Giants' line-up is uncertain, but he will be in uniform this afternoon when the Giants meet the Cincinnati Reds, first of the Western National League teams to invade the Coogan's Bluff ramparts this year. Melvin Ott, out because of a charley-horse, appeared in Boston as a pinch hitter Saturday, so that, like Jackson, he too may bob up in the regular line-up almost any day now.

When Fred Lindstrom's shoulder heals the Giants will be in position to present their strongest front to all foes. Lindstrom hurt his shoulder sliding to a base in Brooklyn last week. He also wears a patch of plaster across the back of his neck to guard a series of boils, but his inability to throw accurately because of his shoulder injury is what kept him out of the line-up for all but a few innings of the Boston series.

The recent trades with Cincinnati and the return of the casuals to active service are sure to bring the Giants out of their slump, Manager John McGraw believes. With Ott, Jackson and Lindstrom available, the Giants will present so formidable an array that the two weeks' home stand against Western invaders, beginning today, is very likely to see the Polo Grounds battalion climbing the percentage ladder again, aiming at the heights where now perches the Flatbush flock.

READING'S ATTACK OVERCOMES BEARS

Newark Beaten in Hard-Hitting Game Which Sees Seven Pitchers in Action.

Special to The New York Times.

READING, Pa., June 2.—Reading batted its way to a 19-to-14 victory over Newark today in a heavy-hitting game which saw seven hurlers in action. Reading stopped Jim Faulkner's winning pitching streak and took the series from Tris Speaker's Bears.

Home runs by Scott, Krasovich and Jordan were features, while the stickwork of Bobby Jones, who collected five hits, including a triple and two doubles, and George Quellich's catch in the sixth, robbing Jordan with two on the paths, also were outstanding.

Reading announced the unconditional release of Pitcher Don Hankins tonight prior to leaving for Baltimore.

ROBINS NOW FACE WESTERN INVADERS

League Leaders to Play Fourteen Games, Starting Today, With Chief Rivals.

PIRATES WILL LEAD ATTACK

Pittsburgh to Be Followed by Cubs at Ebbets Field—Wright Expects to Rejoin Mates.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Pennant hopes of Uncle Wilbert Robinson and his high-flying flock either will be magnified or somewhat dampened by the evening of June 17, on which date they will have completed a series of fourteen games with their chief competitors, the four Western clubs. At the moment the Robins rest comfortably on top with a three-game lead.

This afternoon they must meet the invading Pirates in the first of three games to be played on the home field, the Pittsburghers to be followed in the order named by the Cubs, the Reds and the Cards. Watson Clark may be Robbie's choice against the invaders, although Ray Moss, who has been rounding into form recently and should go better in hot weather, is about due to get a start.

Manager Robinson these days displays plenty of confidence but no overoptimism. Before every game his entire squad is called into the clubhouse and a serious conference is held—a proceeding that did not always take place when the Brooklyn club was a chronic second-division outfit.

Much Depends on Showing.

"A whole lot depends on what we do with these fellows from the West," said Robbie yesterday. "They're all up there now and they're the ones we've got to beat to hold our lead. We took the series from all those fellows except the Cubs, and I think we can take them this time. Anyway, you can bet we'll be in there trying.

"It has been something of a blow to have Glenn Wright injured and out of the game, although a fellow must admit that Slade and Eddie Moore have done some pretty good work in his place.

"The Cubs have had some mighty bad luck in losing Hall Carlson and Hornsby, and I'm sorry about that. But when it comes to that we've had a bit, too. Where the Brooklyn club has the edge on some of the others is in our reserve strength, but I'd feel better with Wright back and with Rube Bressler's leg in shape, and a cure for Harvey Hendrick's rheumatism wouldn't make me feel bad, either."

Twisted Ankle in Boston.

Wright, who twisted his right ankle during the series with the Braves in Boston, has been unable to put his foot solidly on the ground, but expects to get into the battle against the Pirates this afternoon, as he rested the foot almost completely until last Sunday, when he entered into the pre-game practice and handled himself with little difficulty.

There is no question of the difference Wright makes in the club over a long series of games. The confidence reposed in him by all the players and his baseball astuteness, as well as his great mechanical ability and his flair for hitting with men on base, make him a real spark plug for the team.

The tide of battle undoubtedly flows with the Robins now. If unchecked during the next two weeks it will be hard to convince Uncle Robbie or any member of his club that they won't win the pennant.

POWELL'S .436 STILL HIGH.

New Haven Hitter Setting Eastern League Pace—Walsh Has .407.

The batting averages of the Eastern League, which were released yesterday by The Associated Press, and including last Thursday's games, show Powell of New Haven still leading the regular batters by a wide margin. His mark of .436 is far ahead of Walsh's of Albany, who has dropped to .407. Hitting remained rather light and only these two regulars are above the .400 mark. The New Haven club improved its team batting mark to .307 to hold first place.

Behind the two leaders the following regulars appear: Dressen, Springfield, .382; Johnson, Springfield, .362; Sanguinet, New Haven, .349; Smith, Hartford, .349; Small, Pittsfield, .348; Jarrett, Allentown, .347; Wilkie, Pittsfield, .344, and Benes, New Haven, .341.

Benes, the tenth batter, also leads in runs scored with 39, 1 ahead of the former leader, Fitzgerald of Bridgeport; in hits with 56, leading Smith of Bridgeport by 1, and in stolen bases with 14. He has dropped from a tie for the lead in hitting doubles, having a total of 14, while Boyle of Providence has 15.

Rodgers of New Haven, hitting 3 home runs during the week for a total of 11, still holds the lead in that respect, but has dropped into a tie with Small of Pittsfield in runs batted in with 37. Helgeth of Albany remains the leading hitter of triples with 6. Tennant of Bridgeport holds the pitching lead, having scored 6 victories without a defeat.

LEAGUE VOTES $2,000 PRIZE.

Goes to Players if Same Team Wins Both Halves of Eastern Race.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., June 2 (AP).—The directors of the Eastern League at a meeting today decided to pay $2,000 to the players of the winning team if the same club should win both halves of the split season.

If different teams win the two races, 70 per cent of the receipts of the first four games in the play-off for the championship will go to the players, 60 per cent to the winners and 40 per cent to the losers.

The directors went on record against the playing of three games in one day, as did Pittsfield and Albany on Memorial Day. The next meeting of the directors will be held at Albany June 13, pennant day.

Lead in Eastern Title Golf Taken by Mrs. Stetson

We hate to blow our own horn, but—

Fashions in men's clothes were never more attractive than this Spring, collegiate advocates of "shorts" and similar silliness to the contrary notwithstanding.

Two-button sack coats and lapels with modified peaks give a trim spruceness to this season's styles that is becoming to all men, thanks to our deft designing. Our variety of patterns, colors and fabrics is equally pleasing to the most finicky tastes.

As a fine example of how good good clothing can be we commend our lightweight Tweedmoor* suits to your inspection. They are $65.

Plenty other good suits at $40, $45 and $50.

4-piece sport suits, $50 to $85.

White flannels, $10 up.

Linen knickers, $5.50 up.

MRS. STETSON'S 86 LEADS AT BROOKLINE

Philadelphian's Steady Game Takes Honors in Opening of Eastern Title Tourney.

MRS. ANDERSON IS SECOND

Cherry Valley Entrant Falters on Incoming Nine and Returns 87—96 Players in Field.

Special to The New York Times.

BROOKLINE, Mass., June 2.—Griscom Cup contenders representing New York, Philadelphia and Boston were in the field that began play today in the annual women's Eastern golf championship tournament. At the close of the day the field of ninety-six starters was led by Mrs. Henry B. Stetson of Huntingdon Valley.

The Philadelphia golfer, a former national titleholder and twice winner of the Eastern championship, went around the Brookline course in eighty-six shots which gave her the lead by a single putt over another visitor, Mrs. J. L. Anderson of the Cherry Valley Club, New York.

The fifty-four-hole competition for the title extends through Wednesday on the customary one-round-a-day basis, and though shadowed in the opening play Boston lays claim to one potential challenger in Mrs. E. H. Baker Jr. of Oakley, who ran third in the scoring with an 88.

Behind Mrs. Baker in a triple tie at 89 were Miss Margaret Gordon of Providence, Miss Catherine Singer of Westchester and Miss Frances Williams, an 18-year-old girl from the Brookside club in New York. Miss Williams started brilliantly by getting her second shot snugly home at the 440-yard first hole and at the turn had the field behind her with a card of 41. But she squandered her advantage at the thirteenth by indulging in a series of fluffed approaches.

Scoring Converges Sharply.

After that the scoring converged sharply with the three districts alternating honors. An idea of how closely the secondary forces were bracketed can be had from the following tabulated summary of the side competition for the Fanny C. Osgood Memorial Shield, staged concurrently with the medal play rounds and contested on a five-score basis:

Boston.		New York.		Philadelphia.
Miss Baker..	88	Miss And'son.	87	Mrs. Stetson.	86

Total......	451	Total......	451	Total......	452

Mrs. Stetson established her ascendancy by playing the most consistent golf. If she performed no very brilliant feats, she at least was steady, and just once in the round was she bunkered—a feat extraordinary in itself on such a heavily barricaded course as the Country Club.

The shot that took her into the sand was an under-clubbed approach to the seventeenth green, and having had no previous practice on the round in extricating herself, she took 2 to get out. That cost her a none too satisfactory 6, but beyond that and a couple of wasted putts at the tenth and eleventh, her play in all departments was distinctly courageous and praiseworthy.

Mrs. Anderson's Game Falters.

Mrs. Anderson could have had the lead had she played the last nine as well as she did the first, and even as late as the eighteenth hole could have gone ahead of Mrs. Stetson by holing a ten-footer that would have given her a 4.

But, going a bit too boldly for the cup, she overran and missed coming back. In the outward stretch Mrs. Anderson was traveling at an 84 clip, and that without a single 3 on her card.

MRS. PARDUE LEADS IN GOLF AT TULSA

Returns an 83 to Win Medal in Field of 186 in Trans-Mississippi Tourney.

TULSA, Okla., June 2 (AP).—Mrs. Dorothy Klotz Pardue of Sioux City, Iowa, set the pace in the qualifying round of the women's trans-Mississippi golf tournament today, leading a field of 186 starters to win medalist honors with a score of 83 for the eighteen-hole route.

Brilliant play on the first nine holes spelled the story of the Iowan's success. Her 37 on the outward jaunt, two over par, was sufficient to offset a 46 on the return trip.

Only one stroke behind Mrs. Pardue was Mrs. Hulbert Clarke of Oklahoma City, who was out in 43 and back in 41 for an 84. Another Oklahoman, Mrs. Tom Wallace of Sapulpa, State champion, and Mrs. Leon Solomon of Memphis, Tenn., had 86s to tie for third honors.

Mrs. Pardue failed to get par on only one hole on the first nine. On the 410-yard No. 7 she took a six, to put her score two strokes over perfect figures. The inward trip proved beset with difficulties. On No. 13, a par 4 hole, she required seven strokes, and on No. 16, a par 5 hole, she had another seven.

Miss Ann Kennedy of Tulsa, runner-up in the recent Southern tournament at Greensboro, N. C.; Miss Virginia Pept of St. Louis and Mrs. R. E. Drennan of Tulsa, four times Oklahoma champion, each had an 89. One stroke behind them came 16-year-old Miss Mary Elizabeth Ford of Kansas City and Mrs. George E. Hipple of Hutchinson, Kan., Sunflower State titleholder, with 90s.

All favorites for the tournament championship negotiated the qualifying test fairly easily, although a brisk south breeze played havoc with many a shot.

JONES'S 70 HELPS BEAT FRENCH STARS

He and Johnston Triumph Over Vagliano and Dellemagne, Champions of France.

AMERICANS' MARGIN 1 UP

Trail, 1 Down, at Ninth, Then Bobby Plays Stellar Golf to Cut Three Strokes From Par.

SAINT GERMAIN, France, June 2 (AP).—Golf courses in the United States, Great Britain and France all look alike to Bobby Jones. Upon his first appearance in France today the open champion of the United States and amateur champion of Great Britain shot a 70 to cut three strokes from par of the course in which he was on the winning side in a best ball match.

With Harrison R. Johnston, amateur champion of the United States, as his partner, Jones defeated Andre Vagliano, amateur champion of France, and Marcel Dellemagne, winner last week of the French professional championship, 1 up in an 18-hole match.

Dellemagne, playing on his own course, also was under par, the professional returning a score of 72. Par for the course is 73.

Bobby did not win a hole on the first nine and the Americans were one down at the turn. Johnston won the second hole and Dellemagne took the sixth and ninth with the others halved.

Starting home, Jones went to work, winning the eleventh with an eagle 2, the fourteenth with par 4 and the seventeenth with par 3. Meanwhile, Dellemagne won the fifteenth, with the others halved.

The Americans came to the home hole 1 up and a half there decided the match. The match was played in a light rain during the first nine holes and a downpour for the second half.

Jones's driving was not affected by the rain but the showers seemed to bother him on the greens. Although he failed to break the course record, he shattered at least one record in the size of the gallery he attracted. Over 1,000 spectators followed the play in spite of the miserable weather conditions.

Johnston equaled par with a score of 73, while Vagliano had a card of 75.

Jones's card:

Out	4	4	4	5	3	5	3	4	5—37
In	4	2	4	4	4	4	4	3	4—33—70

Munroe, New York, Elected Track Captain at Harvard

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 2.—Vernon Munroe Jr. of New York City today was elected captain of the Harvard varsity track team for next season. Henry Chalfant of Pittsburgh was chosen manager.

Munroe, who lives at 1,172 Park Avenue, New York, is the son of Vernon Munroe, who ran on the Harvard varsity track team in 1893, '94 and '95. Although handicapped by injuries for most of the past two seasons, Munroe has gained a national reputation. His great quarter-mile during the recent Penn relays, in which he made up a 25-yard deficit to bring the mile title to Harvard, gained deserved recognition.

SCHMELING OBTAINS NEW BOXING MATES

Scarcity of Sparring Partners Brings Manager Jacobs Here—Three Are Engaged.

That Max Schmeling, German contender for the world's heavyweight title, is using his sparring partners with little consideration, was reflected yesterday with the presence here of his American manager, Joe Jacobs, to recruit fresh shock absorbers for the German lad.

Since he started training at Endicott for the heavyweight title battle against Jack Sharkey in the Yankee Stadium on June 12, Schmeling has engaged eighteen heavyweights for his preparatory sparring. Defections from the ranks have been frequent, with the result that Schmeling yesterday found himself with only two survivors, Lou Barba and George Neron.

Manager Jacobs left early this morning with three additional sparring mates, Jack Shaw, Frankie Bush and Carl Lockner, raising the total number in Schmeling's camp to five.

Jacobs expressed complete satisfaction with Schmeling's condition and the mental attitude of the German lad as the battle date approaches, and reiterated his confidence in a Schmeling victory. The German lad has only six more days of training, according to the schedule outlined.

He will work out today and tomorrow and rest Thursday. He will resume work on Friday and then drill Saturday, Sunday, rest Monday and conclude his training next Tuesday.

Sharkey Visits City.

Matchmaker Tom McArdle yesterday forwarded to the State Athletic Commission a special form of contract which has been signed by Schmeling and Sharkey and the latter's manager, Johnny Buckley. Sharkey and Buckley spent part of yesterday in this city, returning to the Boston heavyweight's Orangeburg training quarters in the evening.

Meanwhile the ticket sale for the battle is progressing with steadily increasing volume. An advance sale of more than $400,000 was reported yesterday by Vice President Frank J. Bruen of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, which is assisting the Milk Fund committee in the conduct of the bout. It was predicted yesterday that a minimum gate of $600,000 would be attracted to the match. Indications point to a crowd of about 75,000. The choice ringside seats have all been disposed of and indications are the supply of tickets for the permanent stands at the Stadium will be exhausted.

Nationwide Broadcast for Bout.

Elaborate preparations for broadcasting the Sharkey-Schmeling fight were announced yesterday by the National Broadcasting Company. President M. H. Aylesworth revealed that, beginning at 9:30 o'clock on the night of the bout, broadcasting will be conducted from the Yankee Stadium over a nation-wide network of stations.

A week in advance of the bout the contest is to be the subject of radio talks by representatives of the fighters and boxing critics. Approximately seventy-five stations throughout the country will be identified with the national hook-up on the battle night, with Stations WEAF and WJZ serving as the local outlets.

EASY DAY FOR SCHMELING.

Road Work and Golf Constitute All His Training.

Special to The New York Times.

ENDICOTT, N. Y., June 2.—Road work before breakfast, then eighteen holes of golf and another session on the links in the afternoon comprised Max Schmeling's training program today. He will resume boxing tomorrow when his new sparring partners arrive.

Umberto Torriani, the giant Italian who was a target for Schmeling's heavy punches yesterday, was around camp today looking considerably the worse of his training bout with the German. He did not trade blows with Schmeling today, however, as the German did not box.

To accustom his eyes to the glare of the lights that will make the ring at the Yankee Stadium as bright as noonday one week from next Thursday night, Schmeling may do a little night boxing shortly in the pavilion here under electric lights.

SHARKEY HAS DAY OF REST.

Road Work Is His Only Exercise—Resumes Training Today.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., June 2.—The best method of determining the respective abilities of principals in a major bout is to view them in action against the same sparring partners, Jack Sharkey believes. So he plans to invite to his camp a couple of boxers who have faced Max Schmeling. Manager Johnny Buckley tonight was making efforts to secure their services.

It was a day of rest for Jack Sharkey today. Road work this morning was his only form of exercise. Tomorrow he will resume training, to continue until two days before the fight.

CHICAGO, June 2 (AP).—Bud Taylor, Terre Haute boxer, was matched today for a ten-round bout with Pee Wee Kaiser, St. Louis, at Springfield, Ill., June 12. The weight will be 128 pounds.

WILLIAMS DEFEATS GROVE ON POINTS

Harlem Light-Heavyweight Wins at Dexter Park Despite Rally by Rival.

GILLIS OUTPOINTS SARKO

Belgian Triumphs in Semi-Final—Giraldo Stopped in First by Marty Goldman.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

With every physical advantage to his credit, Leo (One Punch) Williams, Harlem Negro light heavyweight, had an easy time last night winning the decision over Izzy Grove, veteran middleweight of the Bronx, in their ten-round bout which ushered in the metropolitan outdoor boxing season at the Dexter Park Arena, Woodhaven.

A crowd of 5,000 fans was attracted to the opening under favorable weather conditions and saw Grove wage a gallant, uphill battle against overwhelming odds. That the Bronx veteran survived the full ten rounds was a testimonial to his resistance to punishment.

Williams, who only recently knocked out Georgie Courtney, came within the proverbial eyelash of adding Grove to his knocked out rivals in the sixth session when the Bronx lad went down twice under powerful rights to the jaw.

Grove rallied strongly, continuing an uphill struggle which had for its climax a spectacular last-round rally. But Grove's best efforts were futile, not good enough against Williams, who had an advantage of twelve pounds in weight. Williams weighed 174 pounds and Grove 162.

Grove, starting on the attack, found his best efforts wasted because of the advantage Williams enjoyed in reach. Williams only had to extend his left to keep Grove away. For three rounds Grove rushed in tirelessly but missing most of his punches.

Williams Shakes His Opponent.

In the third round Williams shook Grove with a right to the jaw. Williams found a right to the heart an effective weapon of attack in the fourth. In the last five seconds Grove staggered Williams. Grove rushed his rival all over the ring in the fifth, hammering away with both hands.

The sixth was a dangerous round for Grove. A right to the jaw floored him for a count of eight and when he regained his feet he was floored for a similar count. He regained his feet but was battered and pounded through the rest of the round.

Grove rallied strongly in the seventh but Williams, near the end of the round, drove a right to the jaw which sent Grove to his corner, staggering.

Williams kept his rival at bay through the eighth round, and his blows had Grove floundering throughout the ninth round. Grove brought the crowd to its feet with a spectacular rally in the tenth round, when he hammered Williams all over the ring, but his efforts were in vain.

Sarko Loses to Gillis.

Hubert Gillis, Belgian welterweight, carried off the decision over Mike Sarko of Brooklyn in the semi-final of eight rounds. Sarko, substituting for Joey Abrams, proved a willing opponent and made Gillis travel at top speed throughout. Gillis weighed 138½ pounds and Sarko 138.

Marty Goldman, East New York lightweight, knocked out Jack Giraldo of Havana in the first round of their scheduled eight-round bout. Giraldo substituted for Freddie Anderson and was so far outclassed that referee Ridge stopped the bout. Goldman weighed 135¼ pounds and Giraldo 131.

T. Yamanaka, Japanese middleweight, won the decision over Justin Hoffman of Ridgewood in a four-round match. Yamanaka weighed 149½ pounds and Hoffman 154¼. In the opening bout of four rounds Andy Hudson, Bronx middleweight, won the decision over Pete Ritchinsky of Williamsburg. Hudson weighed 156½ pounds and Ritchinsky 160.

Ted Sandwina, 195, lost a ten-round decision to Tony Galento of Orange, 200, in the semi-final. Sandwina cuffed Galento in the early rounds but took a bad beating at the close.

Andy Bell, Newark, 190, knocked out Amos Morgan, Newark, 186, in the first round of a four-round bout. Stanley Seirnos, Newark, 177, won from Willie Bertram, Orange, 190, in another four-rounder. Cowboy Willis, Newark, 175, knocked out Jack Gordon, Jersey City, 173, in the second round of a six-round encounter.

Gunboat Williams, Nutley, 190, knocked out Jack Marion, Silver Lake, 190, in forty-five seconds of the fourth round of an eight-rounder.

ELECT EDITOR HEAD OF MOTHER CHURCH

6,000 Christian Scientists, at Boston Meeting, Name Duncan Sinclair as President.

CRITICS OF FAITH FORGIVEN

"Law of Loving Seeming Enemies" Is Invoked—Growth in the Past Year Disclosed.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 2.—Duncan Sinclair, Associate Editor of The Christian Science Journal and Christian Science Sentinel, was elected president of The First Church of Christ, cientist, the Mother Church, in annual meeting here today attended by more than 6,000 adherents of the faith.

Mr. Sinclair, who succeeds William W. Davis, former State Senator, has been a teacher of Christian Science since 1916 and associate editor of the two organs of the Church since 1922. He is a graduate of St. Andrew's University, Scotland, and later taught metallurgy and science at Glasgow Academy.

Edward L. Ripley of Brookline was re-elected treasurer and Ezra W. Palmer of Brookline was re-elected clerk. George Shaw Cook of Chicago and Mrs. Elizabeth F. Norwood of Brookline, continue as First and Second Reader, respectively.

Miss M. Ethel Whitcomb of this city and Ralph B. Scholfield of London, England, were added to the board of lectureship.

Miss Whitcomb has been engaged in the practice of Christian Science healing for more than thirty years. Mr. Scholfield served in the British infantry during the World War and since then has devoted his whole time to Christian Science.

Referring to recent criticisms of Mary Baker Eddy and the attitude of Christian Scientists toward them, C. Augustus Norwood, chairman of the committee on publications, said:

"Informed and unprejudiced observers have realized that the criticisms directed against the attitude and actions of Christian Scientists regarding misrepresentations of their religion and their leader have been based on a few instances where zeal exceeded wisdom. Christian Science truly has no enemies. Our duties must be carried out under the law of loving our seeming enemies."

Announcement was made that in the past year eighty-two new Christian Scientist churches and societies had been formed in various parts of the world as branches of the Mother Church. Of this number fifty were established in the United States, twenty-one in Europe, four in Canada, two in Africa and five in Australasia.

The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $215,384.01 in the general fund on April 30, after expenditures of $1,887,536.01 for the year. Trust fund balances are $632,761.74. One of the main disbursements was that of $794,095 for the construction of the sanatorium in San Francisco. Indebtedness on real estate was reduced $995,000 during the year.

Paul S. Seeley of Portland, Ore., in his report as chairman of the board of lectureship, stated that more than 3,000,000 persons had attended 3,822 lectures delivered throughout the world in the past year.

WRITER SUES H. G. WELLS.

Toronto Woman Charges "Outline of History" Contains Plagiarisms.

TORONTO, Ont., June 2 (Canadian Press).—Charging plagiarism against H. G. Wells, English author, Florence A. Deeks of Toronto began action today before Justice Raney asking $500,000 damages. Miss Deeks says that matter from her book, "The Web," is contained in the English author's "Outline of History."

The genesis of the suit dates from 1922, when the first claim was made. Writ was issued in 1925, since which time the taking of evidence on commission in England and elsewhere, applications before the Master-in-Chambers, and other processes of litigation have delayed the actual hearing.

The publishing firms involved with Mr. Wells, as defendants, are the MacMillan Company, Ltd., London; the MacMillan Company, Inc., New York City; the MacMillan Company of Canada, Ltd., Toronto; George Newnes Company, Ltd., London, and Cassel & Co., Ltd., London. Mr. Wells and his publishers deny knowledge of the existence of "The Web."

In addition to asking monetary damages, plaintiff asks the court for delivery of all copies of the "Outline of History" now in possession of defendant, an accounting of the proceeds, and an injunction to restrain further publication.

RULES FOR BRIDGE BOARD.

Attorney General Ward Holds Niagara Commission Has Full Power.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 2.—The Niagara Frontier Bridge Commission has full power to build a bridge from the north end of Grand Island and on Buckhorn Island to the main land at Niagara Falls, Attorney General Hamilton Ward advised the Erie County Park Commission and the Bridge Commission today. He held that the bridge could be built without obtaining consent of the Erie County Park Commission or any other State agency.

The opinion pointed out that the bridge commission does not obtain title, but merely the right to use and occupy the lands necessary for building and operating the bridges and their use in this regards must be reasonable so as to interfere as little as possible with the park projects.

CLEARS TAXI MAN OF THEFT.

Broker Who Missed $7,000 Ring Gets It Back After Police Hunt.

Upon the signing of a withdrawal affidavit by Herbert A. Mansfield, broker, of the Hotel Victoria, Fifty-first Street and Seventh Avenue, Sydney Breakstone, 26 years old, a taxicab chauffeur, was freed yesterday of suspicion of the larceny of a $7,000 diamond solitaire ring and was dismissed by Magistrate Dreyer in West Side Court.

After a tour of night clubs on May 25 Mr. Mansfield missed his ring. Detective John Walsh then learned that Breakstone had driven Mr. Mansfield home and arrested him. Breakstone, the detective said, signed a statement saying the broker had given him the ring "to mind" and that he had turned it over to another man.

Mr. Mansfield said yesterday that last Thursday a stranger had come ot his room, handed him his ring and disappeared. Mr. Mansfield said he did not request the arrest of Breakstone, but merely asked the police to try to find his ring.

FREDERICK BARTLETT AIDED VIOLIN PRODIGY

Gave First Money for Training of Ricci, Father Says in Guardianship Suit.

Ruggiero Ricci, 9-year-old violin prodigy, and his brother, Giorgia, 8, were the proteges of Frederick Bartlett, Chicago oil operator, and his wife, it was disclosed before Supreme Court Justice Valente yesterday when the habeas corpus proceedings brought by their father, Pietro Ricco, of 311 West Eightieth Street, was heard. The father contends that Mary Elizabeth Lackey of 311 West Ninety-seventh Street, assistant to Louis Persinger, teacher of the boys and also of Yehudi Menuhin, obtained the guardianship granted to her in California two years ago illegally, because the Riccis were not residents of the county in which the decree was issued.

Former Attorney General Carl Sherman, attorney for the father, said Mr. and Mrs. Martlett originally advanced the money for the musical education of the children, and withdrew their support because they believed the boys had been exploited, but will resume it if the parents regain control. Mr. Sherman said that the parents in consenting to the guardianship thought Miss Lackey was being made guardian merely in the event of the death of the parents.

Nash Rockwood, attorney for Miss Lackey, said that the boys were taken to Mr. Persinger, a San Francisco teacher, in 1926, and that they made such rapid progress that the parents asked Miss Lackey as assistant to Mr. Persinger to take legal charge of the boys during their minority. Contracts were signed by which half their earnings was to go to the father and the other half to Miss Lackey, but he conceded that the contracts are not valid and said that no effort has been made to carry them out. Ruggiero has appeared as soloist in only two important concerts, he said, one at Carnegie Hall and the other at the Ann Arbor Beethoven Festival and his earnings, $3,832, are on deposit in the Chase National Bank, but cannot be drawn without a Surrogate's order.

An action to have Miss Lackey made general guardian is now before Surrogate Foley, who has reversed decision pending a ruling in the present proceedings and in one before the California Court of Appeals. Justice Valente adjourned the case until this afternoon, when he will rule as to whether the New York courts have jurisdiction over the boys, and will take testimony if he assumes jurisdiction.

Canadian Pool Divides $1,000,000.

BLACK BEAR CRUSHES HER KEEPER TO DEATH

Cubs of 500-Pound Animal in Watertown (N. Y.) Zoo Had Recently Been Removed.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., June 2 (AP).—An enraged female black bear weighing more than 500 pounds today crushed the life out of Emerson E. Joyce, a keeper at the Thompson Park Zoo, when he entered her cage with food.

So ferocious was the attack that none of the park staff dared enter the cage to assist the man in his death battle. Joseph Lyng, a park employe, heard Joyce's cries and the bear's roars and rushed to the cage to find Joyce had been dragged into an artificial cave with only his feet visible.

Lyng called Arthur Phillips, who lives near by, and Phillips fired a shotgun at the animal twice, wounding her in the head. When she retreated Grover H. Brenon, park superintendent, pulled Joyce's body out.

When Joyce entered the cage he failed to drop an iron grating over the mouth of the animal's cave. She walked out and up behind him, taking him off his guard.

The bear's two cubs were recently removed to another cage.

The electric output of public utility plants in the United States for the first quarter of 1930 was 24,439,000,000 kilowatt hours against 23,663,000,000 kilowatt hours for the corresponding quarterly period in 1929.

This represents an increase for 1930 of approximately 3% and is especially significant, as it indicates that public utility companies, which supply a basic need, are little affected by temporary adverse business conditions.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Slightly Lower, in Smallest Trading Since January—Money Unchanged, Silver Down.

For the sixth time this year and the seventh time since the Summer of 1928, transactions on the Stock Exchange yesterday fell below 2,000,000 shares. Except for three days in January, the business was the smallest of any five-hour day since the middle of August, 1928. The movement of prices was generally as feeble as such waning activity would have suggested. The greater number of stocks lost ground, but changes were small outside of one or two incorrigibly rapid-moving shares.

There was no sign of change in the Wall Street money market, but at London the open-market discount rate continued to relax, and sterling went a trifling fraction under the previous low rate of the year. The London money market is now distinctly the lowest in the world, apparently because reaction in trade activity is more decided in that country than elsewhere. The persistent fall in German open-market discounts has a similar cause, and it has created a dramatic contrast in that money market with the 8 and 9 per cent rates long prevalent; but Berlin's 3¾ per cent for private discount is still above London's 2 1-16 per cent rate or the 2¼ per cent at Paris or the 3½ per cent at New York.

Perhaps the most striking movement of the day was the further fall in silver bullion, which went at London ¼ penny per ounce under last week's low-record price. This marks a decline of more than 1¼ pence in a week and of 2 3-16 in a month. The price is now only half what silver brought as lately as the Autumn of 1924, and this abnormal depreciation plainly reflects the political disorder in the two countries which still rely on silver for important use as a basis for their currency. The days when, as in our free silver-coinage campaign of 1896, the newspapers used to print in their daily financial columns the gold value of the American silver dollar at the changing price of bullion are now only faint reminiscence. If the calculation were made at yesterday's prices the intrinsic value of our silver dollar would be something like 27 cents.

The first of the monthly "index numbers" of commodity prices, that of Dun's Review, makes the average decline for May eight-tenths of 1 per cent and the decline since last October 8¼ per cent. Like all the other index numbers, its comparisons indicate uninterrupted decline in every one of the seven past months. The Dun figures make the present average the lowest of any month since October, 1922, but 10 per cent above the low monthly figure of 1921, reached in July. In that respect, it differs from the Labor Department's calculations, whose index number, even a month ago, was three-fourths of 1 per cent under the lowest monthly average of the deflation period and had not been matched since the Autumn of 1916.

Similarly, the Dun's Review computation puts last month's average nearly 46 per cent above that of August, 1914, whereas the April average of the Labor Bureau showed a rise over the immediate pre-war index of only 30 per cent. These are somewhat annoying discrepancies. But most statisticians use the figures of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, and it has the merit of conforming closest to the change from pre-war average prices calculated in the foreign official index numbers.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Instead of taking on more life as Wall Street had confidently expected, the stock market turned duller after the three-day suspension at the week-end. The turnover on the Stock Exchange yesterday was 1,710,880 shares, the smallest volume since Jan. 20. This suggested to Wall Street that the rest had done the market little good. Price movements were unimportant, except in a handful of stocks. The general list moved lazily within narrow limits. Some of the market leaders, like United States Steel, American Can, New York Central, Westinghouse Electric, General Motors and Radio, sold off slightly, but this was taken more as a reflection of lethargy than of weakness. A few stocks in which there was active trading advanced moderately. So far as tape-watchers could tell there was little relation between the fluctuations of stocks and such news as the day produced.

Mr. Lamont on the German Loan.

It would hardly be necessary for the most casual newspaper reader to examine the Congressional Record to establish the identity of the representative alluded to by Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co. at the luncheon of the Academy of Political Science. It was Representative McFadden, chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, who recently charged Germany with going beyond the law in accepting the obligations under the Young plan and said the late Herr Stresemann had declared that Germany would not fulfill her obligations under it. Mr. Lamont, without mentioning him by name, termed the remarks of the Pennsylvania Representative an "astonishing accusation." As far as the American portion of the German annuities loan is concerned, it is beginning to appear that offering will not be made much before the middle of next week.

Copper Dividends Reduced.

The reduction in the rate of dividend payments voted yesterday by directors of Kennecott Copper and two of its affiliated companies, Utah and Nevada Consolidated, generally met the financial district's expectations, although several authorities had predicted even more drastic cuts. The copper stocks moved in a narrow range, indicating that the news had been discounted. Wall Street has known for some time that the earnings of the copper companies for the first half of 1930 would make a poor comparison with the corresponding period of last year. While sales of copper in May broke all records, the price of the metal was 5 cents lower than it had been in more than two years. Another factor affecting earnings was the relatively small amount of deliveries of copper against contracts during the first half of this year.

A New Low for Sterling.

Dealers in foreign exchange were unable to find much in the news of the day to account for the drop of 5-32 cent yesterday in the pound sterling, bringing the rate to the lowest level since last October. The unrest in India and the trouble in Burmah continue and undoubtedly will be felt by British trade, and further new lows for bar silver, with the consequent drop in Chinese exchange rates, are also likely to disturb British commerce. Money continues easy in the London market, and the general opinion seems to be that no change will be made in the Bank of England rate so long as this condition exists.

A. T. and T. Convertibles.

The existence of a spread of $11.63 between the price at which American Telephone and Telegraph convertible 4½s, selling at 176½, may be converted into stock, which is currently quoted at 231¾, and the market price of the bonds, was said in investment circles to be due to a scarcity of the bonds as a result of the conversion of 93 per cent of the total issue and the consequent necessity for shorts to pay a premium in covering. If the bonds were converted into stock on the basis of yesterday's prices, the holders would pay 176.50 in bonds and 66.88 in cash for each share, or a total of 243.38. As the stock can be bought for 231.75, the high price of the bonds can be explained only by the existence of a short interest. Only $35,000 of the series changed hands yesterday.

Reasons for Optimism.

One of the Wall Street oracles who refuses to be down-hearted was arguing yesterday that the depression is not as widespread as many seem to think. He cited, among other things, the rate at which the country is absorbing new security issues, the steady increase in the stockholders' lists of large corporations and the sharp gain in consumption of gasoline as compared with last year. It was the opinion of this commentator that a 10 per cent increase in industrial activity was all that was needed to restore normal conditions.

California Crude Situation.

The decline of crude oil production in California in the last week to below 600,000 barrels daily, the lowest for several years, indicates that oil producers in that State are getting behind the curtailment movement. A few weeks ago the Standard Oil Company of California cut crude prices in the Santa Fe Springs field from 75 cents to 90 cents a barrel. Since production has now been cut to within striking distance of the 596,000 barrels allowable daily output of the State, it is believed that the former crude prices in this field will be restored shortly. The heavy output of crude in California has been a disturbing element in the crude oil price structure for some time and its decline to below 600,000 barrels daily, if maintained for any length of time, should have a steadying influence on the general oil situation.

Several investment trust executives are reported to be waiting anxiously for the proper setting in which to disclose information about their companies which they believe will be of general financial, if not public, interest. That setting is said to be a bull market, or at least the semblance of one. They feel that good news would be wasted if it were to be let out in these days when stock market interest is so low that it has to fight to keep its nose above 2,000,000 shares daily.

MONEY.

Monday, June 2, 1930.

Stock Exchange call money market was firm all day at 3 per cent. There was no concession from this figure for street loans. Tightness was attributed to heavy withdrawals—about $35,000,000 being taken out of the market by the banks to meet the heavy disbursements over the month-end and holiday. Curb money was 3½. Time money was moderately active, but with no change in rate. A little 30 days' at 3, and some five months' at 3½, was the only business reported. Business money was quiet and no changes were reported in either acceptances or commercial paper.

The following information has been furnished by the Company:

Business: Southwestern Natural Gas Company, a subsidiary of Appalachian Gas Corporation, will sell natural gas under long term contracts to companies engaged in the distribution of natural gas for domestic and industrial purposes in the cities and towns of Muskogee, Sapulpa and Boynton, all located in the eastern section of Oklahoma. The annual revenue to be derived from contracts now signed, which extend beyond the maturity of these bonds and represent only part of the Company's potential market, after deducting operating expenses in connection therewith, is estimated to be more than sufficient for the maximum annual interest requirements of the Company's funded indebtedness presently to be outstanding. The Company will also furnish gas directly to certain industrial consumers at Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Gas Purchase Contract: Utilities Production Corporation (which is controlled by Utilities Power & Light Corporation and which has extensive gas rights in the Quinton, Oklahoma, area from which it makes sales primarily at wholesale), has entered into a contract extending beyond the life of these bonds for the sale to Southwestern Natural Gas Company of its entire natural gas requirements up to 40,000,000 cubic feet per day, subject to the terms of the contract. Gas reserves of the Quinton Field as of April 1st, 1930, are estimated by Ralph E. Davis, Engineer, to be in excess of 242,000,000,000 cubic feet and to constitute the largest gas reserve of any exclusive natural gas producing field in the state. Oklahoma, in turn, is the largest producer of natural gas of any state in the United States.

Earnings: Ralph E. Davis, Engineer, has estimated that the earnings of Southwestern Natural Gas Company for the first three years of full operation will be as follows:

	1st Year	2nd Year	3rd Year
Gross Revenue	$847,125	$1,061,250	$1,183,500
Operating Expenses, Maintenance and Taxes (not including Federal Income Tax)	523,024	648,758	717,675
Balance available for Interest, Depreciation, Depletion and Federal Income Tax	$324,101	$ 412,492	$ 465,825
Maximum Annual Interest Requirements of this issue	150,000	....	....

Engineers have considered a daily delivery and sale of only about 20,000,000 cubic feet in the above estimate of earnings for the first full year of operation. As the Company continues to develop its markets, earnings should be substantially increased as reflected in the above estimates.

Security: These bonds, in the opinion of counsel, will constitute a direct obligation of Southwestern Natural Gas Company and upon completion of the project will be secured by a first mortgage on its entire fixed physical properties, consisting of approximately 112 miles of main pipe line owned or controlled, and complete auxiliary equipment, subject to the usual farm mortgages. Certain minor portions of the pipe line right-of-way may be held under lease. These bonds will be further secured by a pledge with the Trustee of all gas purchase and sales contracts hereinbefore referred to. Upon completion of the project provided for by this financing, including a compressor station to be constructed by 1931, and the development of the Company's business in accordance with the estimate as shown above, the properties and business of the Company are estimated by Ralph E. Davis, Engineer, to have a value in excess of $4,000,000.

Sinking Fund: The mortgage will provide for a fixed sinking fund payable monthly to the Trustee, beginning in January, 1932, and for an additional annual sinking fund payable out of income, as provided in the mortgage, calculated to retire this entire issue prior to maturity.

Exchange Privilege: Appalachian Gas Corporation will issue 80 full paid and non-assessable shares of its common stock for each $1,000 bond of this issue which, at the option of the holder thereof, may be presented for exchange after February 1st, 1931, provided, however, that such exchange is effected prior to February 1st, 1935, or earlier redemption, and will issue 70 shares for each $1,000 bond presented for exchange thereafter and prior to maturity or earlier redemption. Each $500 bond is similarly exchangeable for a proportionate number of shares. The foregoing exchange privilege is further subject to the terms of a contract to be dated as of May 1st, 1930, between Appalachian Gas Corporation and The Pennsylvania Company for Insurances on Lives and Granting Annuities, Trustee of this issue.

Appalachian Gas Corporation: Appalachian Gas Corporation, a Delaware corporation, through subsidiary or other companies in which it owns a substantial stock interest, supplies natural gas under long term contracts to outstanding public utility and industrial companies in Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas, and through the acquisition of control of Southwestern Natural Gas Company, will furnish gas under long term contracts in the state of Oklahoma.

Management: Union Management and Engineering Corporation, which will supervise the operation of Southwestern Natural Gas Company under the direction of its Board of Directors, likewise supervises the operations of other companies in the Appalachian Gas Corporation group, including Ohio Valley Gas Corporation, Ohio Kentucky Gas Company, Wayne United Gas Company, Ohio Southern Gas Company, Allegheny Gas Corporation, Texas Gas Utilities Company and Memphis Natural Gas Company.

3 GAS COMPANIES ACQUIRED BY U. G. I.

Adds Atlantic City, Peoples of New Jersey and Wilmington (Del.) Organizations.

STOCKS TO BE EXCHANGED

C. H. Geist, Principal Owner of Concerns Sold, Will Be Elected a Director of U. G. I.

The United Gas Improvement Company has entered into an agreement with the C. H. Geist Company of Philadelphia under which U. G. I. will acquire through an exchange of stocks the Atlantic City Gas Company, the Peoples Gas Company, New Jersey, and the Wilmington Gas Company of Delaware. Combined assets of the three companies are about $21,000,000.

An arrangement has been made to transfer control of the Atlantic City and Peoples Gas Companies to the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, extending further the gas business of the company in New Jersey.

Terms of exhange of shares will be announced soon. Clarence H. Geist, principal owner of the three companies taken over, will be elected a director of United Gas Improvement.

A joint statement issued yesterday by John E. Zimmermann, president of U. G. I., and Mr. Geist, said two of the transfers of property were subject to the approval of the Board of Public Utility Commissioners of New Jersey.

The Atlantic City Gas Company serves gas without competition to Atlantic City, Chelsea, Ventnor, Margate City, Longport, Pleasantville, Absecon, Northfield, Somers Point, Egg Harbor and Mays Landing, N. J., with a total permanent population of 116,000 and a Summer population of 335,000. Peoples Gas serves fifty communities in the counties of Camden, Gloucester, Salem and Cumberland in New Jersey, with a total population of 138,000.

The Wilmington Gas Company serves Wilmington, New Castle, Elsmere, Oak Grove, Richardson Park, Ashley, Newark, Tuxedo Park, Roselle and numerous other communities in Northern Delaware, with a total population of 150,000. The company furnishes gas also to the Kennett (Pa.) Gas Company and the Elkton (Md.) Gas Company.

Keystone Power Merger Approved.

The Pennsylvania Public Service Commission has approved the merger of the Pennsylvania Power Company, the Harmony Electric Company and the Peoples' Power Company, subsidiaries of the Commonwealth and Southern System.

C. F. CHILDS IN NEW POST.

Heads Securities Corporation Opening Here and in Chicago.

C. F. Childs, founder and for more than seventeen years president of C. F. Childs & Co., which was acquired in May, 1928, by the Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation, has organized the Childs Securities Corporation. The new company will operate a trading business in all classes of securities.

Formal opening of the new company's offices in the Board of Trade Building, Chicago, and at 120 Broadway, New York, took place yesterday. Mr. Childs, who has not been actively engaged in business since he sold control of C. F. Childs & Co., is president of the new organization.

UTILITY EARNINGS.

Italo-Argentina Electric.

The Italo-Argentina Electric Company reports for 1929 gross profits from operations and other sources of 14,225,512 Argentine pesos (about $5,405,500 at current exchange), compared with 12,800,605 pesos (about $4,864,230) in 1929, an increase of more than 11 per cent. Net profits after all reserves and general expenses were 5,860,836 pesos, against 5,824,398 pesos the year before. The smaller increase in net profits was attributed partly to the much larger amount of construction interest in 1929 charged to operating expenses, and in part to the fact that the company set aside in 1929 a reserve of 300,000 pesos for possible loss on exchange.

The company is building a new power plant which will have an ultimate capacity of 400,000 to 468,000 horsepower, of which 132,000 horsepower are scheduled for completion in 1932. Total power production last year was more than 144,000,000 kilowatt hours. Total assets at the close of last year were 115,174,172 pesos (about $43,765,000 at current exchange of 38 cents a peso).

Underground Phone Cable to Albany

The first partly underground telephone cable to be installed between New York City and Albany was placed in service on Friday, when three circuits were opened to traffic between the two cities, the New York Telephone Company announced yesterday. Other circuits are to be put into operation at frequent intervals until all are in service. The added facilities have increased the number of circuits by about 50 per cent.

Associated Offer to Lockport Light.

Holders of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of the Lockport Light, Heat and Power Company have received the right to exchange their stock for $1.60 interest-bearing allotment certificates of the Associated Gas and Electric Company at $110 a share and accrued dividend for the preferred stock and $29 a share and accrued interest for the certificates. The stock is callable at $105 a share.

STOCK DEPOSIT DATE EXTENDED IN MERGER

Atlas Utilities Makes Move After Objection by President of All America Corporation.

The Atlas Utilities Corporation has agreed to extend the deposit date under the terms of the proposed merger with the All America General Corporation to June 15 in view of the delay caused by the objections of Mason B. Starring Jr., president of All America General, to the merger, it was announced yesterday by Willard V. King, chairman of All America General.

A letter has been sent to All America stockholders by Mr. King and a group of directors who say they hold 20 per cent of their company's stock, denying the assertion of Mr. Starring that stockholders would lose approximately $1,370,000 if the company is combined with Atlas Utilities. The basis of exchange is two shares of Atlas common for one of All America General capital stock. The letter states that Mr. Starring's figure "is incorrect because it fails to take into consideration that the holder of All America General Corporation common stock who makes the exchange will, through the Atlas Utilities Corporation shares he receives, participate pro rata in any increase of liquidating value accruing to Atlas Utilities Corporation common stock by reason of the exchange."

CHICAGO, June 2 (AP).—Reversing its policy, the Zenith Radio Corporation today licensed the Utah Radio Products Company to use its automatic and remote radio control which Zenith had held exclusively in the radio field for the last year and a half.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Zenith company, Eugene F. Other concerns will be licensed by Zenith under the policy now adopted, it was said.

Debentures Yielding 6.33%
—And Convertible Into Common Stock

Southern Natural Gas Corporation's recently completed main pipe lines bring natural gas from the rich fields of Louisiana to Birmingham and Atlanta. This is the first unit in a gas transportation system which has for its logical market the entire industrial Southeast.

- The system now in operation comprises nearly 900 miles of modern pipe lines. Construction now under way is expected to increase the total to 1650 miles of lines by October of this year. This network of fuel supply will cover the most important cities in Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi—a territory which is one of the most rapidly developing industrial centers in the country.

Southern Natural Gas Corporation 6% Convertible Gold Debentures

Far-seeing investors will find the conversion privilege attached to these Debentures, constituting a call on common stock, particularly attractive in view of the assured future growth of the corporation and the territory it serves. This privilege may be exercised as late as January 1, 1940. In the meantime the immediate yield on the Debentures is unusually liberal. The corporation's common stock is listed on The New York Curb Exchange.

An Important Subsidiary of Tri-Utilities Corporation

Southern Natural Gas Corporation is controlled by Tri-Utilities Corporation, one of the great public utility systems of this country. The combined assets of Tri-Utilities Corporation and its subsidiaries are approximately $300,000,000. Its other principal subsidiaries are Federal Water Service Corporation, Peoples Light and Power Corporation, American Natural Gas Corporation and Power, Gas and Water Securities Corporation.

STRAUS NATIONAL BANK AND TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Trustee

We summarize as follows from a letter from the president of the borrowing corporation:

MORTGAGED PROPERTY: This issue is secured by a direct, closed first and general fee mortgage on London Terrace which comprises the entire block bounded by West 23rd and West 24th Streets, Ninth and Tenth Avenues, New York City and twelve apartment buildings being erected thereon. The mortgage is a first lien on the westerly portion of the block covering the entire Tenth Avenue frontage and the easterly portion of the block covering the entire Ninth Avenue frontage. Each of these avenue frontages have a depth of 125 feet on West 23rd and West 24th Streets.

The mortgage is also a lien subject only to first mortgages totalling $5,500,000, on the intervening ten apartment houses fronting on West 23rd and West 24th Streets.

The entire block has been leased by London Terrace Corporation to 23-24 Corporation, which lease is subordinate to this issue. The bonds are the obligation of the 23-24 Corporation and are secured by a first and general mortgage on the lease as well as on the fee.

APPRAISAL: The block with proposed improvements, when completed, has been appraised by Kenneth Slawson Hobbs, Inc., Walter Stabler, Consultant, at $16,525,000, indicating $11,025,000 as security for this $5,500,000 issue, as follows:

Value of Ninth and Tenth Avenue frontages and two buildings when completed.... (Upon which parcels the mortgage securing this issue is a first lien)		$7,355,000
Value of land and 10 buildings fronting on West 23rd and West 24th Streets, when completed	$9,170,000
Amount of prior mortgages	5,500,000	3,670,000
Total security for this issue		$11,025,000

On the basis of this appraisal, this issue represents less than a 50% loan on the fair value of the property securing it. The total amount of the mortgage securing this issue and of the first mortgages on the interior units is less than 66⅔% of the appraised value of the properties.

RENTAL DEMAND: The Chelsea district is readily accessible from all parts of the city and transportation facilities are immediately available. Recently there has been a decided residential movement to this section and apartments have commanded good rentals and have been in active demand. London Terrace will be a distinctive and thoroughly modern addition to the district and two hundred leases for apartments in the ten buildings now nearing completion are evidence of the demand for the accommodations it will provide.

EARNINGS: The Borrowing Corporation estimates the net annual earnings, applicable to this issue, at $1,208,520—more than 2½ times the greatest combined annual interest and sinking fund charges.

BORROWING CORPORATION: These bonds are the direct obligation of the 23-24 Corporation, of which Mr. Henry Mandel is president and all common stock of which is owned by Henry Mandel Associates, Inc. We have had satisfactory dealings with Mr. Mandel in such operations as the Pershing Square Office Building, The Lombardy, The Tuscany (120 East 39th Street) and the One Park Avenue Building.

SINKING FUND: Through the operation of a sinking fund, $125,000 principal amount of these bonds are required to be retired each year, beginning in 1933, leaving a balance to be paid May 1, 1940 of $4,500,000.

We recommend these bonds. Call or write for CIRCULAR B 34

OLD COLONY TRUST COMPANY, BOSTON, Trustee

The following information is summarized from a letter to us from Col. J. H. Graham, President of the Company:

Business: Indian Refining Company, organized in 1904, engages either directly or through wholly owned subsidiaries in refining and marketing petroleum products. Its lubricating oils and greases are sold under the trade name "Havoline" and its gasoline under the trade name "Indian."

Protective Provisions: These notes will be the direct obligation of the Company and will be issued under an indenture with the Trustee which will provide, among other things, that so long as any of these notes are outstanding:

(a) Neither the company nor any subsidiary company will mortgage or pledge any of their property, except for purchase money mortgages, mortgages then existing on property hereafter acquired, renewals or replacements of any such mortgages or of existing mortgages.

(b) The company shall not declare or pay any dividend upon any class of its stock if, after deducting the amount of the proposed dividend, the consolidated net current assets (as defined) of the company and subsidiaries would be less than $3,500,000.

(c) The company shall not sell or dispose of its "Havoline" trade mark or the "Govers Process" without retiring these notes.

Sales and Earnings: Net sales and earnings of the Company and subsidiaries available for interest and discount on funded debt after depreciation and Federal Taxes for the years ended December 31, 1928 and 1929 were as set forth below. Depreciation charges amounted to $893,023 in 1928 and $921,729 in 1929.

Annual maximum interest charges on consolidated funded debt to be outstanding on completion of this financing are calculated to be $307,500. Earnings as shown above for the years ended December 31, 1928 and 1929 are equivalent to 3.03 times and 3.39 times respectively the annual maximum interest charges. It is estimated that earnings of the Company for the first six months of 1930 will exceed those for the corresponding period of 1929.

Assets: Consolidated balance sheet of the Company and subsidiaries as of December 31, 1929 after giving effect to the present financing shows net tangible assets of $23,834,469 or over four times total funded debt including this issue of notes. Such balance sheet shows current assets of $7,355,852 or 4.4 times current liabilities of $1,668,627.

Equity: The current market value of the Company's outstanding common stock which is listed on the New York Stock Exchange indicates an equity junior to these notes of more than $22,500,000.

Price 99¼ and accrued interest, to yield more than 5.80%

We offer these notes subject to prior sale and change in price, when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to approval of counsel. All legal proceedings will be passed upon by Messrs. The Electric Bond and Share Company added $232,000,000 to its investments between April 30, 1929, and March 31, 1930, through merging Electric Investors, Inc., as of Oct. 17, 1929, and through purchases in the open market of additional holdings, bringing the book value of investments from $626,890,090 to $859,113,544.

The market value of these investments on March 31 was $1,278,444,806. This compares with a book value of $799,709,025 and a market value of $1,072,517,007 at the close of 1929, the annual report to be put out today shows. Stocks bought during the market break last Fall cost about $47,000,000, while $60,000,000 more was expended for securities between Jan. 1 and March 31.

The securities purchased last Fall, the report says, were to increase holdings in client companies and to make temporary advantageous use of a part of cash balances not then required in the company's current business. The transactions in the first quarter of this year included the purchase of $20,000,000 debenture bonds of the Cuban Electric Company from the American and Foreign Power Company, the anticipated payment of about $36,000,000 in the company's subscription to American and Foreign Power second preferred stock and the purchase of almost $4,000,000 miscellaneous securities.

$1.97 a Share on Common.

Net income of Electric Bond and Share in 1929 was $32,511,823, equal after preferred dividends to $1.97 a share on the total common shares at the end of the period and to $2.22 a share on the average shares in the period. For the twelve months ended March 31 the earnings available for common stock were $2.14 on the total shares at the end of the period and $2.31 on the average number of shares.

Gross income in 1929 was $42,410,701, against $20,942,206 in 1928, and net income after expenses $32,511,823, against $14,329,253. Surplus after preferred and common dividends was $20,653,004, against $6,948,125.

Electric Bond and Share now owns 30 per cent of the common stock of American Power and Light, against 24 per cent on April 30, 1929; 40 per cent of the common stock of National Power and Light, compared with 31 per cent; 30 per cent of the common stock of Electric Power and Light, against 18 per cent, and 16 per cent of the common stock of American Gas and Electric, against 8 per cent.

As of Dec. 31, last, the company's investment in securities of the American and Foreign Power Company represented 49.61 per cent of the common stock, 64.45 per cent of the option warrants, 76.69 per cent of the second preferred stock and 98.16 per cent of the allotment certificates for second preferred shares.

Large Budget Is Outlined.

The company has planned to spend $239,000,000 for new construction this year in the territory served by its five client holding companies. Its earnings statement does not include undistributed earnings that accrue from equity holdings. Stock dividends are put on its books at par or stated value or at market value, whichever is smaller.

Investments in companies other than client companies and wholly owned subsidiaries had a market value of about $175,432,355 on March 30, compared with a cost of $93,032,390, and with a market value of $131,264,469 and cost of $89,737,738 at Dec. 31. About 96 per cent of the market value on March 31 was represented by investments in fifty-five companies, the first twelve of which, in the order of their respective market values, are as follows:

Commonwealth and Southern, American Superpower, United Corporation, North American, American Water-works and Electric, Columbia Gas and Electric, Brazilian Traction, Light and Power; Consolidated Gas of New York, International Telephone and Telegraph, United Gas, General Electric and Public Service of New Jersey.

In addition Electric Bond and Share owned as of March 31, $22,234,401 in securities of wholly owned subsidiary companies, which have no market value, as the securities are not traded in.

PICKANDS, MATHER IN DEAL

Bethlehem Steel Reported Seeking Iron Ore Concern.

A report that the Bethlehem Steel Corporation was negotiating for the acquisition of Pickands, Mather & Co., a large producer of iron ore, with properties located principally in Michigan and Minnesota, was received here yesterday. The rumor, which could not be confirmed here, indicated that if the merger were effected Samuel Mather, who is identified with Pickands, Mather & Co., would resign as a director of the United States Steel Corporation.

A trend toward the acquisition by the steel companies of large reserves of ore has recently been evident on the Great Lakes, according to bankers in Wall Street. Last week, an affiliation of the Cleveland Cliffs Corporation, controlled by the Eaton interests of Cleveland, with Oglebay, Norton & Co., was announced. Both companies own and operate iron mines in the Great Lakes region and fleets of ore carriers on the Great Lakes. The affiliation will provide a larger potential supply of raw materials for the Republic Iron and Steel Company, which is also controlled by the Eaton interests.

FINANCING IS HINTED FOR N. Y. CENTRAL

Wall Street Hears Rights Will Be Offered to Holders in New Stock Flotation.

REPORT MEETS DENIALS

Budget of $150,000,000 Outlined for Road, With Earnings Unlikely to Meet Outlays.

A report that the New York Central Railroad would soon be in the market for additional funds to carry out its large program for improvements and acquisitions was circulated in Wall Street yesterday. It was said the money would be raised through the sale of additional shares to stockholders, but in some banking circles it was though the next financing by the company would be through a bond issue in view of the present condition in the stock market. However, both the bankers for the company and the officials of the road said that they knew of no financing contemplated just now.

Additions and betterments this year will cost approximately $150,000,000, according to Patrick E. Crowley, president, against $125,000,000 in 1929. In 1928 Central's budget for improvements and equipment was about $90,000,000.

Improvements contemplated which will necessitate large expenditures this year include the removal of Central's Manhattan freight tracks from street grade, elimination of all grade crossings in the vicinity and expansion of terminal facilities in New York City. The first contract under the west side improvement plan was let last December, and other contracts have followed rapidly.

Part of the proceeds from new financing would be used to reimburse the treasury for acquisition of 77,225 shares of the capital stock of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, purchased last year for $10,794,150, equivalent to about $140 a share. Other investments last year included 30,929 shares of stock held by the minority stockholders in the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway, at a cost of about $240 a share.

The New York Central offered 75,000 shares of stock to employes at $130 a share early in the current year. The last offering of common to stockholders was in 1929, at par in the ratio of one new share for every thirteen shares held. Stockholders were permitted to subscribe also to additional stock in 1928 and 1927.

Stockholders approved recently an increase in authorized stock from $500,000,000 to $700,000,000. Owing to lower earnings for this year, Central will not be able to take care of improvements from earnings to the extent that it did in 1929.

The report of the system, including leased lines, for the first quarter of 1930 showed net income of $8,471,256 after taxes and charges, equivalent to $1.69 a share on the 4,992,572 shares of capital stock. This compares with $14,992,639, or $3.32 a share, on the 4,635,663 shares outstanding in the first quarter of 1929. Net operating income for the first four months of this year was $19,945,424, compared with $31,370,549 in the similar period of 1929.

DROPS PLEA FOR WHEELING.

Nickel Plate Reported Planning Application in New Form.

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP).—The application of the Nickel Plate Railroad for permission to acquire control of the Wheeling & Lake Erie system was dismissed today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Nickel Plate is understood to be preparing to renew the demand for permission to retain Wheeling control, but, in view of the commission's promulgation of the general rule of consolidation plans, will prepare its petition in a new form.

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, a Van Sweringen line, will soon apply to the Interstate Commerce Commission to acquire the Wheeling & Lake Erie, according to information in railroad banking circles. It is stated that this is one of the reasons why the Nickel Plate, another Van Sweringen line, withdrew its application for acquisition of the Wheeling.

It was the original intention of the Van Sweringens to make the Nickel Plate the nucleus of their trunk line system in the East. Later, this plan was scrapped and it was decided that the system should be built around the Chesapeake & Ohio, on the theory that the Interstate Commerce Commission would more likely approve of the consolidations necessary.

STANDARD OIL SELLS TIDE WATER STOCK

New Jersey Company Disposes of 20 Per Cent Interest for $21,000,000.

SHARES AGGREGATE 120,000

Group of Tide Water Executives, Purchaser of the Securities, Form Holding Concern.

The purchase of a block of 20 per cent of the common stock of Tide Water Associated Oil Company from the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, which has held the shares for many years, by a group of executives of the Tide Water company, was announced yesterday. Axtell J. Byles, president of Tide Water, declared that the purchase covered all of the holdings of Standard Oil of New Jersey in Tide Water.

The Tide Water Associated company has outstanding 5,920,406 shares of common stocks. Purchase of 20 per cent of this stock would represent approximately 1,200,000 shares, which, at yesterday's closing price of 17⅝ for Tide Water common, involves $21,000,000.

Mr. Byles declared that the executives of Tide Water who purchased the stock had formed a corporation which will hold the shares. He stated that the relationship between Standard Oil of New Jersey and Tide Water Associated Oil Company was cordial, but that it was felt the interests of each company would best be served by the transfer of the stock.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey was credited in the past with the ownership of approximately 40 per cent of the stock of Tide Water Oil Company. The Tide Water Associated Company is the result of a merger of the Tide Water Oil Company and the Associated Oil Company, which took place in 1926. Associated Oil holds large reserves of crude oil on the Pacific Coast, while Tide Water is an active producer in the mid-Continent and Eastern fields. Both operate refineries and have extensive transportation and distribution facilities.

Rumors of a merger of Tide Water Associated and the Continental Oil Company into a $450,000,000 unit were denied by officers of the companies last week. Tide Water Associated has total assets of more than $251,000,000 at the end of 1929.

CRUDE OIL OUTPUT DROPS.

California Production Last Week Averaged 598,200 Barrels a Day.

For the first time in more than two years crude oil production in California fell last week below the 600,000-barrel mark, according to reports received yesterday from California. Total production for the State last week averaged 598,200 barrels daily, compared with 615,000 barrels daily in the preceding week. This represented a decline of 17,200 barrels for the week and of 35,000 barrels for the last two weeks of May.

The decline last week was largely caused by reduced production in the Long Beach and Santa Fe Springs oil fields. The reduced production in the State has brought the output in line with the amount fixed by the six months' conservation agreement.

PROCTER SAID TO SEEK KIRK

Cincinnati Soap Concern Reported in Deal for Chicago Company.

CINCINNATI, June 2.—James S. Kirk & Co., soap manufacturers, of Chicago, will be absorbed by the Proctor & Gamble company of Cincinnati, according to reports current here today. Negotiations, it is understood, are nearing completion. The Kirk acquisition would complete the Proctor & Gamble industrial zone plan for the United States. Proctor & Gamble now operate plants in Cincinnati, New York, Baltimore and Long Beach, Cal. The Baltimore plant, recently constructed, will go into operation June 20. The Long Beach factory is still under construction.

Proctor & Gamble, it is said, are designing to manufacture green-colored cottonseed hulls for fairways on Tom Thumb golf courses, and it is rumored also that the firm is negotiating for the Parisian perfumery of Caron to place on the market a high-grade toilet soap.

B. & A. Shops Resume Work.

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 2 (AP).—The Boston & Albany Railroad shops, employing 420 men, resumed operation today after a shutdown of ten days due to slack conditions. The shops will run on a five-day schedule as before the shutdown.

LISTED BONDS STEADY IN ACTIVE TRADING

Gains Shown in Foreign Loans and Domestic Corporation Issues Are Stronger.

The listed bond market was moderately active yesterday with prices generally steady in all groups. A number of the foreign loans made sizable gains for the day, particularly issues which have been quietly traded in the last few weeks. Domestic corporation bonds showed a better tone than at the close of last week, while United States Government issues were irregular. The latter group finished 7/32 point higher to the same amount lower.

German Government 7s were up half a point, although it appears to be definitely established that the new German loan will not reach the market until next week. Japanese Government 5½s were actively traded and finished fractionally higher. The infrequently traded Bulgaria 7s jumped 3 points and several German utility issues closed strong. A number of South American loans, which have been under pressure in the last fortnight, made fair recoveries yesterday.

Railroad bonds as a group were fairly active, but in most instances the net changes were limited to small fractions. Industrial bonds irregular, with most of the changes for the day of small consequence.

New York's New Estate Tax Law Shows These Savings

The new Estate Tax Law of New York, effective September 1, 1930, shows a considerable reduction in taxation on estates up to $1,200,000. What these savings amount to is shown in the tabulation below:

These figures represent the total taxes, including the Federal estate taxes, which will apply in the typical instance when property is left to a husband or wife by a decedent, a resident of New York State.

Size of Net Estate	Total Taxes Prior to Sept. 1, 1930	Total Taxes After Sept. 1, 1930	Savings
$100,000	$1,650	$640	$1,010
250,000	7,150	3,640	3,510
400,000	14,250	9,140	5,110
500,000	19,050	13,140	5,910
750,000	31,650	26,140	5,510
1,100,000	50,250	49,140	1,110

On estates above $1,200,000 the new law effects a slight increase in taxation.

Central Hanover specializes in reducing estate shrinkage and is pleased to point to these increases in the net values of these estates.

Additional tax reduction by proper estate planning is but one of ten major ways of increasing the net value of estates used by Central Hanover. A Central Hanover Plan may save your estate thousands of dollars.

A Central Hanover Plan will cost you nothing and take but little of your time. Further information will gladly be furnished on request. The coupon is for your convenience.

Why Gamble?

No matter how carefully you may prepare a proof of loss, fire may prove you to be a co-insurer, liable for part of your loss, unless the total value of your property has been determined accurately and insurance placed correctly. As a gamble, the odds are against you. An American Appraisal gives you value facts, removes the gamble.

FRENCH BOURSE IS DULL

Little Recovery From Month-End Liquidations—German Boerse Trend Downward.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 2.—With no advices from Wall Street over the week-end and with the commencement of an unpopular three weeks' account, the stock market opened the week idly today. British fund quotations improved after an uncertain start, the conversion 3½s to £78⅜ and the war loan 5s to £102⅛.

In the industrials International Nickel at 34⅜, Brazilian Traction at $51⅛, Radio Corporation at 56⅝, P. & O. at 44s 9d and Columbia Graphophone at £5⅞ showed to advantage, but His Master's Voice Gramophone at £4 25-32, Vocalion at 9s, Royal Mail at £23½, Dunlop at £12 and Unilever at £2 31-32 all depreciated.

Cables and Wireless weakened further after early recovery from the fresh low levels to which prices fell at the week-end. Less hopeful views are prevalent in the market regarding dividend prospects on "A" stock, which may now receive only 2 per cent or perhaps nothing. There was some recovery at the opening but further reaction soon set in, "B" being £18 after £20, "A" £42 after £45½ and preference £91 after £93.

The Times says Cable and Wireless stocks were again heavily offered "on renewed fears regarding dividends." The Financial News, however, says apart from dividend fears, "unfavorable rumors are in circulation regarding pending developments." The company's balance sheet and revenue accounts, which are expected in a few weeks, are naturally awaited with some anxiety, adds The Financial News.

Rubber was ⅛d weaker at 6 11-16d a pound and shares declined. Anglo-Persian at £4 9-32 raillied a little in oils in anticipation of the full report and the coming meeting. Burmah at £4 15-32 also was harder, but other oil shares showed an easy tendency.

Kaffir stock was one of the firmest in the mining section. Rhodesians were mostly lower owing to lack of support. Tin shares were easier owing to the metal declining £1 17s 6d a ton further to £138 16s 5d, which is the lowest level since 1914, when £120 was touched.

Disbursement of interest on the war loan and other British funds, together with other dividend payments, caused a big turnover of funds in Lombard Street. Credit was in abundant supply. Renewals were 1½ to 2 per cent. Discounts weakened under the weight of money seeking employment. Sterling on New York was slightly easier at $4.85 13-16—$4.85⅞.

Stocks Are Easy in Paris.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 2.—After a dull opening this morning the Bourse remained heavy almost to the close, when there was slight improvement due to low money rates. The first issue bonds of the Bank for International Settlements released a large amount of capital, but the stock market was still unable to attract speculators. Little recovery was made today from the month-end liquidation which weakened the market more than usual last week.

French rentes were steady, closing as follows: The 3 per cents, 87.40; 1918 4s, 100.65; 1920 amortizable 5s, 133.50; 1928 5s, 101.85; 1920 6s, 101.95; 1927 amortizable 6s, 106.15.

Berlin Dull and Lower.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 2.—The Boerse today had its dullest session in several months and the market declined all along the line, but owing to the inactivity losses averaged only one or two points.

Artificial silks, shipping stocks, the potash group, chemicals and electricals were lifeless and weaker. The only exception was Draht and German Telephone and Cable of the low voltage group, each of which improved two points, while R. Frister jumped ten points. The Boerse closed at the lowest quotations of the day.

CRIMINALS ON BAIL BAN.

Pledge by Grand Central Surety Company Ends Conway's Inquiry.

Because the Grand Central Surety Company has wired its Chicago representative not to bail any notorious criminals, Albert Conway, State Superintendent of Insurance, announced yesterday that he planned no further investigation or action on the charges of the Chicago Crime Commission that this company has specialized in such business.

The New York State Department of Insurance cannot penalize "bad judgment," Mr. Conway said. He said this was the answer given to the charges of the Chicago group by H. Robert Burney, executive vice president of the company, when called before Mr. Conway. Mr. Burney promised that the company would be more careful in regard to those for whom it furnishes bail in the future, Mr. Conway said.

The company was said to have furnished bail for such persons as Ralph Capone, brother of "Scarface" Al Capone, and Leo Mongoven, bodyguard to George (Bugs) Moran.

"Companies licensed by our department," Mr. Conway said, "must be like Caesar's wife—above suspicion."

How Thousands can go into Partnership with M*illions*

If a close friend of yours, a successful man with many millions, and a man you knew and trusted, were to suggest some day that you turn over your $10,000, $25,000, $50,000 or whatever it might be, to him and let him invest it along with his millions . . . you'd accept in haste. For that would mean that your thousands would get the same care as his millions. And the scrutiny and guidance of his financial advisers.

That is exactly what the Uniform Trust offers you. Through the co-operative mingling of thousands of Uniform Trusts created in the past six months, a fund of millions has been assembled. Your thousands . . . whether $5,000 or $250,000 . . . can go into partnership with these millions . . . share in the protective diversification this fund permits. And also enjoy the guidance of men who administer some of the country's great fortunes and estate.

THE UNIFORM TRUSTS

You place in trust with us a sum of money (the minimum is $5,000). You authorize us to mingle your trust with many others created on the same basis.

We administer this mingled fund, amounting to many millions of dollars, as a unit . . . just as we do the huge private fortunes of which we have been trustees for generations.

This enables us to gain increased stability by diversifying the investments of the fund over many different types of sound securities permitting us to invest in a variety of the country's basic industries, and giving the holder of a Uniform Trust a carefully chosen stake in the future of the country.

Most important of all, the mingled fund comes under the skilled supervision, the daily scrutiny of senior officers and directors of this company . . . acknowledged investment authorities.

Thus the holder of an individual Uniform Trust benefits from the same facilities which we are able to offer the very largest investor.

He shares proportionately in the operations of the mingled fund.

He benefits from all capital increases in the fund. He can get back his proportionate share on the first Wednesday in any month . . . or can use his trust as collateral.

After you have established a Uniform Trust with us we, as trustee, will make you a payment, four times a year, out of the income earned by your trust. The income to be paid to you should compare favorably with the return on ordinary high grade securities. Any income or profits earned by your trust beyond that which is paid to you quarterly will be held for your benefit and invested by us.

Call at any branch of the City Bank Farmers Trust Company or The National City Bank of New York, and the Uniform Trusts will be explained to you in full detail. Or send for booklet "The Uniform Trusts," addressing the City Bank Farmers Trust Company, Department T, 43 Exchange Place, New York City.

Nothing can take the Place of Good Management

SYSTEM, Method, Equipment, Capital and other such essentials of business are never substitutes for brains.

They are only tools.

None of them can take the place of Management any more than brush, paint or canvas can take the place of art.

Their usefulness is determined by the ability of Management.

Always at the top must be the power to think, decide, initiate, direct and control.

Good Management seeks a complete kit of the best tools. It recognizes and selects the best—then uses them with skill.

CANADIAN BANK STOCKS RETURN 10.7 TO 13.1%

Analysis for Five Years Gives All Sources of Profit in Figuring Annual Yield.

The average annual return on Canadian bank stocks varied from 10.7 to 13.1 per cent on the total amount invested from January, 1925, to January, 1930, according to an analysis of Canadian bank stocks by Bongard & Co. These returns include regular and extra cash dividends, rights exercised and market appreciation in the five-year period.

From 1925 to 1929 inclusive, total assets of Canadian chartered banks increased from $2,882,721,000 to $3,710,695,000, equivalent to an average annual increase of 5.6 per cent; deposits rose from $2,221,712,000 to $2,678,961,000, or an average annual increase of 4.1 per cent, and net earnings went from $18,917,565 to $28,263,307, or an average annual increase of 9.9 per cent.

Comparisons between Canadian bank stocks and New York bank stocks have frequently been made, says the analysis, but on the basis of existing ratios the former are much more cosnervatively appraised.

KENNECOTT COPPER REDUCES DIVIDEND

Directors Vote to Lower the Payments From Annual Basis of $5 to $3.

CUTS BY TWO SUBSIDIARIES

Utah Copper Distribution Down From $3 to $1.50 and Nevada Consolidated $8 From $16.

Reductions in the dividend rates of the Kennecott Copper Company and two of its most important subsidiaries, the Utah Copper Company and Nevada Consolidated Copper Company, were announced yesterday by the boards of directors of the three companies.

The directors of Kennecott voted a quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share, placing the stock on a $3 annual dividend basis, compared with $5 a share previously. Nevada Consolidated reduced the annual dividend rate to $1.50 from $3 by declaring a quarterly payment of 37½ cents a share. Utah Copper directors declared a quarterly dividend of $2, placing the stock on an $8 yearly basis, compared with $16 previously.

Reductions in the dividend rates of other copper companies preceded the cuts by the Kennecott group of companies. Among the copper companies which have reduced their dividends this year are Inspiration Consolidated, largely owned by Anaconda; Calumet and Arizona Copper Range, Calumet and Hecla and Chile Copper. Directors of Greene Cananea Copper recently deferred their meeting to make it conform with that of the directors of Anaconda, which controls the former company. The Anaconda board is scheduled to meet on June 21.

The reduction in the dividends of copper companies has been necessitated by the fall in the price of copper from 18 cents to 13 cents in the last two months. The lowering of prices was followed by record-breaking business during May. Sales of copper for foreign account during May amounted to 242,000,000 pounds, it was reported yesterday, the highest total for any other month in the history of the copper industry. The previous record was 204,500,000 pounds, established in May, 1928.

While the large sales of copper during May has improved sentiment in the copper trade, the demand for the metal has fallen off again in the last week, and producers are anticipating an extended period of dullness, largely on account of the recession in business activity, according to copper authorities.

Much of the copper sold in May will not be delivered until late this month or in July. In view of the small amount of copper sold during the first four months of this year, executives of copper companies expect that earnings for the first half of 1930 will show a sharp contraction, compared with the total for the corresponding period of last year.

OTHER DIVIDENDS VOTED.

Extra Dividend.

The Trust Company of New Jersey has declared an extra dividend of $1 in addition to the regular quarterly dividend.

Increased Dividend.

The El Paso Electric Company has declared a quarterly dividend of $3, compared with $2 previously paid.

Initial Dividend.

The Ann Arbor Railroad Company has declared initial annual dividends for 1929 of $6 on the common stock and $5 on the preferred.

Deferred Dividend.

The West Boylston Manufacturing Company has deferred the dividend due at this time.

Dividend Omitted.

The Chickasha Cotton Oil Company has omitted the dividend due at this time.

Dividend Reduced.

The Denver Tramway Company has declared a dividend of 37½ cents on the cumulative preferred stock, compared with 75 cents paid quarterly previously.

Other Dividend Action.

Libby, McNeill & Libby have declared a 21 per cent dividend, payable in second preferred stock, on account of accumulations on the first preferred stock.

Sisto and Gillespie Form Company.

The American Composite Shares Corporation, chartered under New York laws to transact a general underwriting and securities business, has been formed by J. A. Sisto & Co. and E. F. Gillespie & Co., Inc., with the Chase National Bank as transfer agent and the Guaranty Trust Company as registrar.

TRADING ON COUNTER IS QUIET AND NARROW

Bank, Trust and Insurance Issues Fail to Hold Early Gains—Industrials Firm.

Trading in the over-the-counter market was quiet yesterday, with prices fluctuating in a narrow range. Bank, trust and insurance shares started well, but became quiet soon after the opening, with a few issues closing below their opening levels. Industrials held firm most of the day. Bonds, communication stocks, chain stores and a few others were dull.

Among the bank and trust company shares declines were marked against Guaranty Trust, County, Public, Chelsea, City, Bank of United States, Manhattan Company, Corn Exchange, Manufacturers and Irving. Lawyers Title and Guarantee, American Union, Empire and Title Guarantee and Trust were firmer in tone.

In the insurance group, Aetna Life, Automobile, Home, Hanover, Halifax, Baltimore American, Providence-Washington, Bankers and Shippers and American Re-Insurance were slightly easier. Losses in the industrial division included the shares of Wilcox & Gibbs, Welch Grape Juice and American Manufacturing common and preferred.

TIRE PRICE CUTS EXPECTED.

Five Per Cent Reduction to Dealers About June 20 Predicted.

A cut of approximately 5 per cent in tire prices to dealers by the large tire manufacturing companies immediately after June 20 is expected by the industry, it was learned yesterday. The reason for the reduction is due to a recent cut of approximately this amount by the leading mail order houses. Although some manufacturers are reported to be opposed to extending the cut beyond the secondary grade, it was said that the reduction might be made throughout the list.

The last change in tire prices by the manufacturing companies was in October last year when a cut ranging from 5 per cent to 10 per cent was announced. It is understood that one or two of the tire companies have already instructed their salesmen to quote prices on the secondary line 5 per cent below present list prices. The weakness in crude rubber prices is another factor responsible for the uncertainty of tire prices, it was explained.

NEW DIVIDEND BY MOTORS.

Initial Quarterly Payment on $5 Preferred Stock Declared.

Directors of the General Motors Corporation voted an initial quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share on the new $5 preferred stock issued on a basis of exchange with the 7 per cent preferred, the 6 per cent debenture and the 6 per cent preferred stocks.

A. B. Purvis, president of Canadian Industries, Ltd., Montreal, was elected a director to succeed the late William McMaster, who was chairman of the board of the Canadian company.

The company announced also the redemption prices that will be paid on the three classes of stock called for transfer for the new $5 preferred if this stock is not exchanged by July 21. The 7 per cent preferred will be called for redemption on Aug. 1 at $126 a share; the 7 per cent debentures at $120; the 6 per cent debentures at $115 and the 6 per cent preferred at $110.

The new dividend will be paid on Aug. 1 to stock of record July 7.

Jewel Tea Reported in Deal.

Negotiations looking to the establishment of a close working agreement between the Jewel Tea Company and the Van Camp Packing Company were reported yesterday to be under way. The transaction was said to involve the issuance of $2,500,000 prior preferred stock by Van Camp, which may be taken wholly or in part by Jewel eTa. If this deal is consummated, it is reported that Jewel officials may take an active part in the management of Van Camp. Confirmation of the rumor could not be obtained yesterday.

Utah Copper Cuts Miners' Wages.

SALT LAKE CITY, June 2 (AP).—The Utah Copper Company posted today a wage reduction, effective June 10, affecting all mine and mill employees. Workers receiving $4.50 a day and more will be cut 50 cents a day and those receiving less, 40 cents a day.

GOOD CROP WEATHER DIPS COTTON PRICES

Field Work Is Reported as Progressing Well, With Most of Planting Finished.

MILL DEMAND STILL SLOW

World's Visible Supply Is Put at 1,000,000 Bales Above Total of a Year Ago.

Generally favorable weather throughout the cotton belt during the holidays caused reselling of contracts on the Cotton Exchange yesterday and several new crop deliveries declined a quarter cent. July met support around the 16 cent level, holding about a cent above October most of the day, but the list ended 15 to 28 points lower.

A weekly report from a Memphis agency said excellent progress is being made in planting and replanting, chopping and cultivation. Planting is about completed except in scattered parts of Western and Northwestern Texas and in sections of Oklahoma where the soil is too wet. Some land is still under water, especially in Louisiana.

Precipitation over Sunday was light and confined to a few sections, helping farm work and plant growth. With a loss of $1 a bale in foreign prices and no improvement in demand from export or domestic mill quarters, the market showed the effects of a weakened technical position after last week's short covering. Indian interests became sellers in the early trading.

Spinners' takings are now 1,800,000 bales behind the total at the same date last season, when the amount for twelve months aggregated 16,300,000 bales, including linters. Concentration of cotton at delivery points for certification has increased the combined port and interior stock to 1,000,000 bales more than a year ago. The world's visible supply of all kinds is more than 6,300,000 bales or 1,000,000 more than a year ago.

COTTON INDUSTRY IMPROVES

Analysis by Textile Official Shows Progress Toward Improvement.

Substantial progress toward normal and healthy conditions is being made in the cotton goods industry, with "ample evidence that overproduction has run its course," according to an analysis issued yesterday by Leavelle McCampbell, vice president of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York. He expressed the belief that the industry has undergone such changes in recent years that it is now possible to forecast the end of most of its major difficulties.

"The ability of the industry," Mr. McCampbell stated, "to increase its running time by 200 working hours, nearly a solid month, in 1929 was amazing, but even so the total failed to reach either that of 1927 or of 1923. It is unlikely that we shall ever again see such a spurt. If not, stabilization has arrived. One hundred billion spindle hours is a deadline that probably will not again be crossed until our house is in order.

"It is not conceivable that we can take care of increasing consumption and at the same time progressively destroy the equipment with which we make our goods. Sometime there must come an end. When it does there is likely to come a textile boom greater than any we have ever known."

COTTON EXCHANGE ELECTS.

P. B. Weld Chosen President and W. S. Dowell Vice President.

Philip B. Weld of Post & Flagg was elected president of the New York Cotton Exchange yesterday, to succeed Gardiner H. Miller, who is now completing his second term. William S. Dowell was elected vice president, to succeed Mr. Weld, and T. Lurelle Guild was re-elected treasurer. Mr. Weld will be installed as president on Thursday.

At yesterday's election five new members were elected to the board of managers of the Exchange and ten members re-elected. The new members elected were Clayton B. Jones, Frank J. Knell, Gardiner H. Miller, Frederick L. Munds and Spencer Waters. Daniel Schnakenberg was elected trustee of the gratuity fund for three years.

TO THE DEPOSITORS OF TERRE HAUTE, INDIANAPOLIS & EASTERN TRACTION COMPANY FIRST AND REFUNDING MORTGAGE 5% SINKING FUND GOLD BONDS:

You are hereby notified that an amendment to the Deposit Agreement dated May 1, 1926, under which your above mentioned bonds have been deposited with Fidelity Trust Company, now Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Company, Depositary for the undersigned Committee, has been made by the undersigned Committee and filed with the above mentioned Depositary subject to your inspection in its Principal office, 135 South Broad Street, Philadelphia, Pa. The general purpose of the amendment is to confer upon the Committee power to negotiate for a sale of the bonds, or to take action to enforce the bonds and the mortgage and any such other action for the protection of the bondholders as may seem desirable in view of the refusal of the Public Service Commission of Indiana to approve the Plan, dated July 1, 1927, and its consequent abandonment, and the appointment of a receiver for the Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Company; also to enable the Committee to assess the bonds not to exceed two per cent. (2%) of their face value in order to provide for such reasonable compensation and expense incident to action which the Committee may take for the protection of the bondholders subsequent to the abandonment of the Plan. These powers were not contained in the original Deposit Agreement because no action was then contemplated except the proposed merger.

PROMISES OF RAIN EASE WHEAT PRICES

Drought Partly Broken in the Canadian Northwest, With More Moisture Forecast.

OATS ARE HIGHER AT END

Shorts Run Up Corn, Finding Oversold Market When Covering—Rye Dull and Lower.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 2.—While the wheat market showed a flash of strength at one time today, due to short covering, the undertone was materially less firm than of late. With the drought partly broken in the Canadian Northwest and the forecast for scattered showers on both sides of the international line, local sentiment became decidedly bearish. The result was a break of 2⅛ to 2¼ cents from the early high mark, and the finish was 1⅛ to 1½ cents lower, with the decline checked by buying against bids.

Houses with Winnipeg connections were good sellers at times, and the Southwest sold early, some of the latter presumably being hedging business. Weather in Texas was favorable for harvesting, while in Oklahoma harvesting is expected to be general by June 15. Winnipeg closed 1⅛ to 1¼ cents lower as a result of rains in the prairie Provinces but only five of the thirty-three points that reported moisture received one-half inch or more. Liverpool finished unchanged to ⅛d higher. Buenos Aires was ⅝ to ⅞ cent lower.

Technical Position Weakened.

Wheat's advance in the last four trading days materially weakened the technical position, and today's early bulge was also a factor in reducing support.

A decrease of only 1,589,000 bushels in the visible supply disappointed the trade and led to some selling, as the total is now 116,846,000 bushels against 118,435,000 in the previous week and 96,427,000 in the same week last year. No export business of consequence was reported at the seaboard, although there were numerous bids somewhat below a working basis.

Primary receipts were 939,000 bushels; a week ago, 816,000, and a year ago, 1,169,000. Shipments, respectively, were 737,000, 972,000 and 834,000 bushels.

Shorts Find Market Oversold.

A heavily oversold condition was disclosed in corn when local shorts started to cover and closing trades were at net gains of ½ to ¾ cent. Selling against offers checked the advance. Local traders were reported as heavy sellers of the July delivery for some time past as a hedge against other grains and also against purchases of deferred deliveries of corn. Dry weather has favored corn planting, but rains are needed for the newly germinated grain over a considerable area.

A decrease of 937,000 bushels in the visible supply made the total 10,825,000, the smallest at this period since 1923, and it compared with 11,762,000 bushels a week ago and 14,259,000 in the week last year.

Primary receipts of corn were 1,186,000 bushels; a week ago 1,053,000 and a year ago 944,000. Shipments respectively were 584,000, 647,000 and 687,000 bushels.

Oats finished ¼ to ½ cent higher, with cash interests buying. Complaints of crop deterioration are expected unless rains are received in the Central West in the next few days.

Rye was dull and 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents lower, with the bulk of the trading in spreading between July and September.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

RELIEVE CANADIAN DROUGHT

Showers Reduce Crop Damage From Recent Heavy Gales.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 2 (Canadian Press).—Falling on wind-lashed prairie farm lands, scattered showers in the west today sought to cut down crop damage from continued gales. Central Alberta, Southern Saskatchewan and Southern Manitoba grain crops appeared to have suffered most of the wind ruin as farmers made their estimates today.

Department of Agriculture officials in all three provinces hesitated to estimate definitely the amount of soil drifting. They said that moist weather in the next few days may greatly nullify the wind damage, though they admitted that blown-out seed would necessitate reseeding in some sections.

Reports placed damage at 50 per cent in the Pense district of Central Saskatchewan and at 35 per cent around Pasqua, near by. Both points are on the Canadian Pacific Railway between Regina and Moose Jaw.

Big Lake Cargoes of Canadian Wheat

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., June 2 (Canadian Press).—Eight wheat-laden vessels started down the lakes from Fort William-Port Arthur today, which, combined with one cargo cleared Saturday, totaled 2,241,000 bushels. Four grain boats are loading and none is reported en route light.

MAY FAILURES FEWEST SINCE LAST DECEMBER

Month's Total of 2,179, However, Is Reported as Still Above the Average.

"The insolvency figures for May, in point of the total number of commercial failures in the United States, represent the best showing of any month this year," according to R. G. Dun & Co. While failures during the month were above the average, standing at 2,179, the total was the lowest reported since December.

Discussing comparisons the report says that while May's total was fully 21 per cent below the record reached in January, there has been only one other May, that of 1928, which has passed the 2,000 mark in the number of insolvencies. A year ago in May there were 1,897 failures reported.

The following table of failures was compiled by R. G. Dun & Co.:

"Considerable fluctuation in the liabilities of commercial defaults has appeared this year, and the indebtedness, after decreasing sharply in April, rose appreciably in May," says the Dun report. "Thus, last month's total was $55,541,462, as against $49,059,308 for April. That increase of about 13.2 per cent did not, however, raise the amount to the level of March, and the May liabilities show a contraction of nearly $5,645,000, or fully 9 per cent, from those of last January. A year ago, on the other hand, the aggregate debts were much smaller than in the present instance, at $41,215,865."

Pilot Files in Bankruptcy.

PORTLAND, Me., June 2 (AP).—Harry Lyon of Paris Hill, navigator of the Southern Cross in its flight from California to Australia, today filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in Federal Court, listing assets of $125 and liabilities of $12,340. A one-fourth interest in a motion picture of the flight across the Pacific is set forth as an asset, but no estimate of its value is given. A $5,000 loan from his mother, Mrs. Leila S. Lyon, widow of Admiral Henry W. Lyon, is listed among the liabilities.

WORLD PRICE DROP HITS FARM MARKET

Wheat, Chief American Product, Affected by General Decline of Commodities.

LOW STOCKS ROUSE HOPES

Dwindling Supplies in Argentina and Europe Cited in Report of Agricultural Bureau.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2.—Markets for American farm products are being adversely affected by the general world decline in commodity prices, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the Department of Agriculture asserts in its June report made public today.

"The low price of wheat," the report said, "reflects a world-wide condition of declining commodity prices, large stocks, business recession, unemployment and reduced purchasing power, all of which has operated to the disadvantage of many producers of commodities entering into international trade, including cotton and pork as well as wheat.

"Moreover, there seems to be a somewhat curtailed consumption within this country, and apparently this is affecting markets for cattle, butter, eggs, lambs, wool and certain vegetables."

The bureau said that continued weak market for wheat as harvest time approaches was depressing to Western growers. Hopes are largely grounded, the report stated, in the possibility that small supplies in Argentina and shrinking stocks in Europe and the Orient may lead to increased exports from this country during the Summer.

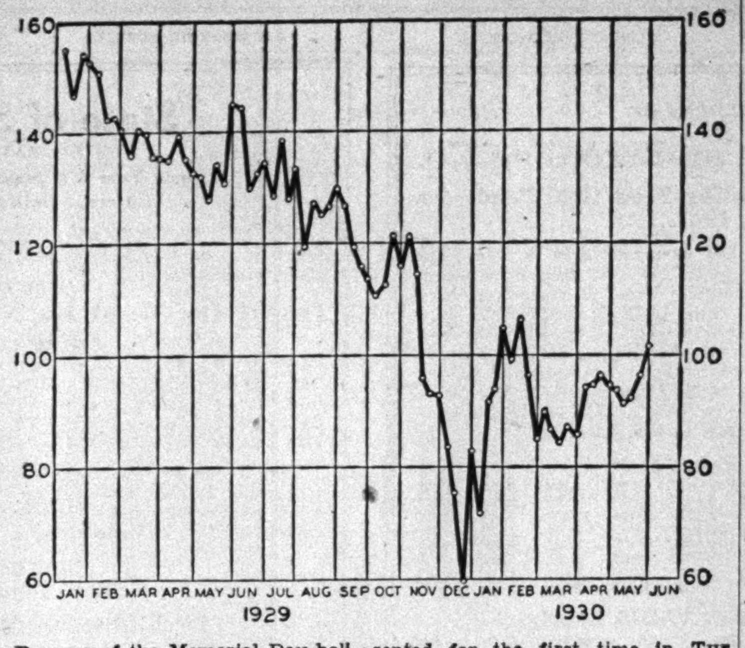
In the face of these reduced market prospects, mid-season crops were reported as giving prospects of abundant supplies of potatoes, cantaloupes, watermelons and tomatoes, but probably limited shipments of peaches, onions and cabbage. Cotton, corn, potatoes and other crops, the report said, have been planted under generally favorable growing conditions. The grass crop has made rapid growth. Some effects of the hard Winter are reported evident in spotted fields wheat reduced crops of peaches. The straw is short and the stands thin in parts of the Ohio Valley, Texas, Oklahoma and Southern Kansas. Early estimates have indicated a crop of hard Winter wheat around 5 per cent smaller than last year.

Spring wheat has grown rather slowly, owing to cool weather. The crop has made a favorable start in Canada, though lack of subsoil moisture in Saskatchewan and Alberta will make the crop somewhat dependent on Summer rain. Cattle in the Western States came through the past Winter and Spring in very good shape and losses were probably somewhat below average.

Visit Marine Midland Unit.

Executives of eleven of the eighteen banks in New York State that comprise the Marine Midland group paid their first group visit yesterday to the Fidelity Trust Company of New York since that bank was acquired by the group in April. James G. Blaine, president of the Fidelity, gave a dinner last night in honor of the visitors at the Racquet and Tennis Club.

Automobile Output Shows Improved Trend Despite Slackening Due to Week-End Holiday



Because of the Memorial Day holiday, with many factories closed over the week-end, automobile production last week was sharply lower than in the preceding week. But, allowing for the smaller number of working days, the decrease was less than the usual seasonal decline, and the adjusted index of automobile production shown in the accompanying chart consequently shows a further rise, for the third consecutive week, to the highest level since the week ended Feb. 8.

This adjusted index is one of the four components of the new weekly index of business activity constructed by THE NEW YORK TIMES and presented for the first time in THE TIMES of Sunday, June 1, 1930. As explained then, each of the four component series, including the adjusted index of automobile production, has been corrected for seasonal variation and long-time trend so as to reveal the basic or cyclical swings free from the effects of purely seasonal influences which are so pronounced a characteristic of most American industries and are especially prominent in the automobile industry.

For the week ended May 31 the adjusted index of automobile production stands at 101.8 (preliminary), as compared with 96.2 for the week ended May 24 and 92.2 for the week ended May 17.

CUT IN DAY IS URGED FOR RAIL ENGINEERS

Report at Brotherhood Convention Asks a 16-Hour Maximum Working Day.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, June 2.—Reduction of four hours in the maximum time per day for which transportation employes are allowed to work under Federal law was urged upon the sixth annual convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers today in the national legislative report read to the delegates. The same report recommends measures to reduce the number of days in the railroad working week also.

The present law sets sixteen hours as the longest period railroad and other transportation employes are allowed to work in one day. The legislative report urges that this be cut to twelve.

The present railroad working week is six days, and while no specific reduction was named in the report delegates interpreted it to mean a five-day week in line with the trend in other lines of industry.

The five-day week has been one of the special aims of the American Federation of Labor in its campaign to relieve unemployment throughout the country.

Through the reading of the legislative report the two propositions were placed officially before the convention for action. It was indicated, however, that action on these issues would not come for at least a week.

REPORTS DECLINE IN ASSETS

Bank of Montreal Has $822,599,648, Against $915,705,653 Year Ago.

The half-yearly statement of the Bank of Montreal shows total assets of $822,599,648, compared with $915,705,653 a year ago. Of this amount, liquid assets are reported at $373,450,296, equivalent to 51.03 per cent of liabilities to the public. Included in them are cash holdings of $94,421,408, equal to 12.90 per cent of public liabilities. At the same time there is a somewhat unexpected increase in current loans and discounts in Canada, and these are now reported at $335,301,194, as against $314,464,137 last year.

Call loans in Canada are down to $27,460,856 from $39,359,799, and call loans in Great Britain and the United States have been reduced from $139,974,369 to $68,028,615. Total deposits are now $688,067,752. Of this amount deposits bearing interest are $545,856,287 and deposits not bearing interest $130,418,937. Capital, surplus and undivided profits totaled $75,281,034.

Fine Goods Volume Held Up.

Sales of fine goods last week equaled those of the preceding week in spite of the two-day holiday, according to the report issued yesterday by the Berkshire Fine Spinning Association, Inc. Sales were greater in volume than the curtailed production during the four days. Prices are still subject to incessant pressure, particularly in the lower broadcloth construction. Buyers are still interested in crêpes and there has been a noticeable trend toward graded yarns. Organdies, lawns and combed pongee were wanted in small lots for spot delivery.

PRICES UNCHANGED ON FLOOR COVERINGS

Mills Open Fall Lines at Spring Levels for All Types That Are Most Popular.

NEW SHEEN RUGS OFFERED

Concerns Introduce Numbers to Sell Retail Around $100—Buyers to Delay Orders.

Fall prices on popular lines of rugs, carpets and hard-surfaced floor coverings opened to the trade yesterday by the mills showed no change from Spring levels. The addition of new sheen type rugs which will retail in the neighborhood of $100 and some reductions on velvets by several of the mills, were features of the opening. The attendance of buyers was heavier than expected, but the volume of sales yesterday was limited, as most of the buyers were busy comparing the various lines.

The Mohawk Carpet Mills, Inc., announced a new sheen type rug named the "Viceroy," which was priced to the trade at $65 in the 9 by 12 size, and W. & J. Sloane, selling agents for C. H. Masland & Sons, Inc., offered the "Makara," a washed rug of the same size priced at $76.85.

Reductions averaging from 25 cents to $2.65 on 9 by 12 velvet rugs were announced by both Mohawk and W. & J. Sloane. The Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Company, Inc., maintained its prices.

Persian, Oriental and period designs were outstanding in the new patterns shown by the mills. The majority featured small all-over designs.

Buyers visiting the show rooms expressed themselves as pleased with the new offerings and showed keen interest in the low-priced sheen types. Those representing retail stores indicated, however, that they would not be ready to place regular orders until next month.

New rugs included in the Bigelow-Sanford lines included the "Sultan," a wilton priced at $122.50 at the mill, in the 9 by 12 size, the "Ardebil wilton," priced at $58.50 and the new tapestry rug at $15.30.

W. & J. Sloane, selling agents for the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company, the Barrymore Seamless Wiltons, Inc., and C. H. Masland & Sons, Inc., announced a new rug in the Barrymore line, the "Barazak," in plain colors, which is priced in Zone 1 at $120.55 for the 9 by 12.

New prices on the Smith seamless velvet rugs, based on the 9 by 12, were as follows, with the old prices in parentheses: Colonial $30.55 ($33), Palisade $24.75 ($26.25), Katonah $19.75 ($20.35) and Katonah $18.85 ($19.45). All are fringed except the last.

The Mohawk reduced prices on seamless velvets were Norwood, fringed, $20.75 ($22); Gotham, fringed, $16.50 ($17), and Sagamore $15.25 ($15.50).

M. J. Whittall Associates, Ltd., made no changes in prices on regular lines, but announced the addition of seven new wiltons. These included the "Anglo Amerikan," a seamless, washed, extra high-pile worsted rug at $250 in the 9x12 size; "Anglo Assyrian" at $217.50; "Anglo Ramadan" at $185, "Anglo Lustre," a seamed, washed high-pile worsted at $175; "Anglo Irastan," a seamless, six-frame worsted at $165; "Anglo Caspian," seamless, three-shot worsted, $150; "Windsor Wilton," a seamless high pile, three-shot wool at $117.50, and the "Edgeworth Wilton," a seamed, three-shot worsted wilton at $100. A new hooked rug, in a seamed looped high-pile wool fabric, is also offered at $135.

No price changes were made by A. & M. Karagheusian, Inc., although a large number of new patterns were added to their regular offerings.

The Karastan Rug Mills introduced a new rug, the "Karashah," quoted at $135 in the 9x12. The Karastan rug remains unchanged at $195.

Both linoleum and felt-base rug manufacturers held to their Spring prices, but offered new patterns to attract buyers.

BUSINESS WORLD

Saturday, 3½ to 3¾ per cent for the best names.

The quotations are 4 to 6 months' paper.

Orders Show Expected Pickup.

The week began with a sharp pickup in the arrivals of buyers and in orders through the mail, resident offices here reported yesterday. The increased activity was in line with expectations, as replenishment of low retail stocks has been delayed during the preceding ten days because of weather conditions and the holiday last week. It is the consensus of opinion that much seasonal purchasing in the aggregate remains to be done and with higher temperatures the indications are that the period directly ahead will see further active reordering of both Summer apparel and accessories.

Karagheusian Suggests Rug Sale.

In a notice to their dealers yesterday A. & M. Karagheusian, Inc., manufacturers of Gulistan rugs, suggested a clearance sale of discontinued patterns of their merchandise in retail stores from June 16 to July 5. The mill suggested a retail price of $119.75 for the 9 by 12 sizes which ordinarily retail at $150. This is the first time such a notice has been sent out by the company, it was stated there yesterday, and is intended to give retailers a chance to clear discontinued patterns from stock before the activity on Fall lines gets under way.

Gain for Dry Goods Jobbers.

Dry goods jobbers throughout the country report a slight gain in business last month as compared with April, according to officials at the Wholesale Dry Goods Institute. Flint Garrison, director general of the institute, returned yesterday from a trip through the Middle West, where those in the trade were reported as pleased with the progress being made. The institute concluded its ten-weeks' program of zone meetings yesterday with a session at the Hotel Pennsylvania, where members of Zone One, including New York and adjoining States, discussed the organization's plan of issuing reports on mill selling policies.

Meet on Larger Dress Styling.

Indications are that in the building of ready-to-wear lines for Fall there will be somewhat greater attention to styling in the sizes of larger size dresses, namely, those from 38 to 42. Retailers are said to have encountered difficulties in meeting their needs in these sizes during recent seasons, not only in dresses but in knitted and sports garments. This has resulted, it was pointed out, in the loss of some business that the stores would obtain. Representatives of the dress trade and the Garment Retailers of America will meet today in the offices of that association to discuss remedies for the situation.

Straw Hat Turnover Takes Spurt.

Substantial improvement in the retail turnover of straw hats was reported here yesterday. Executives of leading hat chains said the business for the day compared well with the best selling day of the season thus far. The gain was chiefly remarked in sennits at popular prices, indicating that the rank and file of consumers are now ready to purchase new headgear following the uncertainty and delay created by recent weather conditions. Panama and body hats managed to maintain their position, and promise to account for a larger percentage of the business this year. The total straw hat business is still estimated at well below this time last year.

June Promotions May Set Record.

Plans under way indicate that the current month may set a record for the number and scope of retail promotional events. Prior to entering upon the traditionally dull months of July and August, it was pointed out yesterday, most stores will endeavor to close the first half of the year by obtaining increases in volume. Along with bridal, school closing and dollar day promotions, the month will see more than usual attention given to vacation, travel and camping merchandise. The attempt in general will be to make two sales where one was previously made to counteract the effect of the lower dollar unit transaction upon volume figures.

Household Specialties Sought.

Buyers for a number of local department stores and for concerns in near-by cities were in the market yesterday shopping for specialties in house furnishings for immediate delivery. Selling agents for electrical goods, including toasters, coffee urns and waffle irons, reported a fair amount of business placed with them. There was a slight increase in activity in kitchen utensils, including cutlery, for seasonal offerings, but the volume of business is still well below normal, it was claimed.

Fall Buying to Be Concentrated.

Selection of fewer ranges to meet the best selling retail price lines will mark the Fall buying operations of both group and independent stores, according to views expressed yesterday. This was held one reflection of the marked trend of consumer demand during the Spring to medium and popular price merchandise. In connection with this development it was pointed out that, aside from the reduction of fur-coat prices, no marked price easing is likely to feature the Fall opening of dresses and coats. Maintenance of labor standards now under way will prevent this, but easier fabric and trimming prices will enable the production of a better garment within established ranges, it was held.

To Favor Mills Curbing Output.

Recommendations that buyers and converters of gray goods give preference in their purchases to mills which are following the 55-50-hour schedule and also for improving the adjusting production in the cotton textile industry are contained in a resolution made public yesterday by the Textile Converters' Association. The resolution was passed at a special meeting of the association's directorate last week. Production of cloth, the resolution points out, is still in excess of consumption because certain manufacturers "continue to disregard the welfare of the industry at large and willfully and selfishly overproduce merchandise."

Gray Goods Trading Quiet.

Trading in the gray goods market was slow again yesterday, with buyers interested chiefly in offerings of 38½-inch 64-60 printcloths at 5⅝ cents. The low price was obtainable only on quantity purchases and those in quest of small lots of goods were forced to pay 6 cents. A few mills filled orders for 39-inch 68-72s at 6⅝ cents, but most houses held such goods at 6⅞ cents. A price of 5 cents was quoted on 38½-inch 60-48s and 8¾ cents was asked for 39-inch 80-squares.

BRITISH PRICES NEAR TO 1867-77 AVERAGE

April Index Number Reckoned as 1% Above That of Earlier Period.

FOODSTUFFS DECLINE 10.1%

Comparison With Year Ago Also Shows Drop in Mineral and Textile Groups.

The tables of British prices published by The London Statist on the basis of the old Sauerbeck index number show the April price average, based on the average of the period 1867-77 as 100, to have been 101.5, as against 103.0 at the end of March, a fall over the month of 1.5 per cent. Compared with the corresponding figure last year the latest index number reflects a fall of 12.9 per cent in the general level of sterling wholesale prices. The rise in wholesale prices since the outbreak of the war has now been narrowed to 25 per cent. Each month in the current year has witnessed a decline in the index number, but it is interesting to note that the rate of fall has been diminishing. In January the extent of the decline in prices was 2.1 per cent, in February 1.7 per cent, in March 1.7 per cent and in April 1.5 per cent.

The downward movement in the index number last month was largely attributable to the further decline in mineral prices, this group of commodities showing a fall of 5.6 per cent over the month. The most important movements within this group were the depreciations that occurred during the month in the prices of copper, tin and lead.

As compared with a year ago, the foodstuffs group has declined 10.1 per cent in average prices, the minerals group 10.7 per cent, textiles 23.9 and materials as a group 14.6. Compared with June, 1914, foodstuffs have fallen 34.1 per cent in price, minerals 16, textiles 16.9 and materials as a whole 24.6.

TO GET TAMMANY POST.

Thomas J. Murray Slated for Leadership of 21st A. D.

Thomas J. Murray, deputy Municipal Court clerk, is scheduled to be elected Tammany leader of the Twenty-first Assembly District to succeed Edmund P. Holahan, who died a month ago, it was learned last night. A meeting of the members of the Democratic County Committee of the district will be held tonight at the Chicopee Democratic Club, 728 St. Nicholas Avenue.

The election of Mr. Murray will settle a contest in the district. There were seven or eight candidates, among whom were Chief Assistant Corporation Counsel Charles Horowitz and several other lawyers. The decision to select Mr. Murray is said to have been a victory for those opposed to the selection of lawyers to positions of Tammany leadership.

Mr. Murray is a lifelong resident of Manhattanville, as the section north of 125th Street and running to Washington Heights is known, and is a member of a Tammany family. His father, Jack Murray, formerly was Alderman from the district.

N. Y. U. RETAIL ESSAY PRIZES

Three Winners in Department Store Contest Announced.

In that post when the United States

The three grand prize winners of the ninth annual Bloomingdale Essay contest sponsored by the New York University School of Retailing were named yesterday by Dean Norris A. Briscoe. The contest is conducted in the continuation, trade and evening high schools on two topics concerning department stores.

Of the thousands of essays submitted, the final judges selected those by the following students:

JOSEPH M. GRAHAM, Erasmus Evening High School, first prize for his essay, "What Features of Service, Layout and Store Fixtures Influence a Family's Selection of Department Stores in Which to Do Their Shopping?" He will receive $50 and a gold medal.

JOHN J. SCHMITT, Bushwick Evening Trade School, second prize for his essay on "Various Interests and Abilities Which Can Be Used in Department Stores." He will receive a silver medal and $25.

Miss DAISEY E. VICKERS, Harlem Evening High School for Women, third prize for her essay on "Store Service." She will get $15 and a bronze medal.

FIRE QUELLED IN SHIP.

Flames Spoil Sugar and Roast Peanuts in Hold of Californian.

Fire of spontaneous origin caused considerable damage yesterday to the 14,000-ton motorship Californian of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Line, plying between New York and San Francisco, while stevedores were unloading a cargo of sugar and peanuts that the ship had brought on Sunday to Pier 6, Forty-second Street, Brooklyn.

The flames were discovered in hatch 6, forward, where 20,000 bags of sugar were stored. The fire spread to hatch 5, where 20,000 bags of raw peanuts were stacked. Officials of the line said that, although the sugar had been ruined, the peanuts might bring a higher price because of the roasting. After half an hour's work by two city fireboats, the crew of the ship and Bush Terminal fire-fighting squads, the flames were extinguished.

FINNS LAUNCH SUBMARINE.

First Undersea Craft Arouses National Enthusiasm.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HELSINGFORS, June 2.—The launching of the first Finnish submarine, of 450 tons and entirely home built, has caused national enthusiasm as marking the first step toward the realization of the projected naval defense program. Two more submarines of the same class are planned, as well as one smaller vessel.

Owing to the prohibition law the traditional christening ceremony was dispensed with. The vessel was constructed in cooperation with Dutch naval experts.

PRICES DOWN NEARLY 1% FURTHER IN MAY

Dun's Index Number Makes Fall Since October 8¼%—Still Above 1921.

The monthly index number of average commodity prices compiled by Dun's Review was published yesterday. It shows an average decrease of eight-tenths of 1 per cent in May, comparing with a decline of nearly 1 per cent each in April and March, of 2 per cent in February and of slightly more than 1 per cent in January. As compared with the index number of Oct. 1, it shows an average decline of 8¼ per cent. Dun's present average is 10 per cent above the low level of 1921 reached in July, and 45⅞ per cent above the index number of Aug. 1, 1914.

During May all but two of the seven groups for which separate indices are compiled showed moderate decline, the heaviest being in textiles and clothing. The two which advanced for the month were the breadstuffs group and the group of dairy and garden products.

The following table, giving a record of Dun's index number for a series of months and years, shows the course of the movement:

HOLDS BUYING POWER VITAL

Chatham Phenix Review Says It Has Dropped Less Than Output.

The true key to the business prospect at this time lies in the relation of production to consumption and purchasing power, according to the Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust Company. There are many indications that the national capacity to buy has contracted in measurably smaller ratio than has the output of goods, it is said, and that the relation between production and consumption is now on a much more favorable basis than it was in 1929.

"The automobile industry in particular is cited as one line in which output has dropped more sharply than demand," says the review. "Since the close of 1929, it is pointed out, the combined domestic and export sale of American cars has exceeded production. As a result the large stocks accumulated from the unprecedented output of 1929 have been largely cleared and dealers' inventories now are comparatively low."

LIVE STOCK IN CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Hogs were steady to weak at the start today, because of large receipts, but demand was aggressive and the market firmed up quickly, with some light and medium weights showing 5 to 10 cents advance. Shippers and smaller butchers were good buyers. The top was steady at $10.50, with the day's average 5 cents higher at $10.15. Most sales were at $9.90 to $10.35, with 250 to 350 pound butchers $9.75 to $10.35, 160 to 250 pound averages $10 to $10.50 and packing sows $8.90 to $9.65. The five leading Western points expect 74,000 for tomorrow, against 69,900 a week ago.

The cattle market was steady to strong, shippers being good buyers of the better grades and sales regarded as 25 cents higher. Best steers sold at $14, with the bulk of beef cattle at $10.50 to $12.25. Receipts were 20,000.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

Raw sugar remained unchanged in the New York sugar market yesterday, with one refiner buying 5,500 tons of Philippine and 5,000 bags of Porto Rico at 3.14, duty paid, with one cargo of Cuban available at the close last night at the equivalent of this price at 1⅜ cents a pound, c. and f.

In the refined sugar market, second hand, which has been selling at 4.62½ to 4.67½, became scarce, and refiners received some business at the established price of 4.70. Exports of sugar from Cuba last week amounted to only 22,204 tons, of which but 7,300 tons came to the United States, which would indicate that refiners are reducing stocks.

In the futures market sales amounted to 22,450 tons yesterday. The total sales for May amounted to 931,850 tons, as compared with 1,049,050 in May, 1929.

LIVE.

There were 11 freight cars in or due yesterday; none was unloaded, and about 27 fresh cars due Tuesday. Monday was the first of the Jewish feast of week's holidays and for that reason no cars were unloaded. Fowls cleared well over the week-end and the market appeared steady with outlook for light receipts for the week. The market for express and truck poultry closed entirely nominal owing to limited outlet.

REVIEW OF THE DAY IN REALTY MARKET

APARTMENT FOR 2D AV.

Nineteen-Story Project Planned for 49th St. Corner—West Side Leasing Is Active.

By the purchase of the two four-story flats at 102-104 East 107th Street, fronting 50 feet, sold by C. Sammit, who acquired the property a few days ago, an investing syndicate has assembled a large parcel in that upper east side area, including the entire easterly Park Avenue block between 106th and 107th Streets.

The sale by Mr. Sammit was closed through Leon S. Altmayer, who also acted as broker in accumulating many of the other plots. The owning syndicate now controls the property from 1,437 to 1,451 Park Avenue, 101 to 103 East 106th Street and 100 to 104 East 107th Street, fronting 201.10 feet on Park Avenue, 55 feet on 106th Street and 80 feet on 107th Street, an area of about 13,500 square feet. The plot adjoins the new eleven-story club building recently completed at 105-111 East 106th Street. No plans for immediate improvement have been announced. There has been within the last few months considerable realty activity in that locality.

In the Turtle Bay section, where several old houses were attractively remodeled three or four years ago, plans are progressing for the erection of a high-class nineteen-story apartment house at the southwest corner of Second Avenue and Forty-ninth Street, adjoining the houses in the Turtle Bay Gardens colony. The projected apartment house corner is owned by Joseph J. Schlesinger and Maurice Epstein. The frontage is 70 feet on Second Avenue by 97 feet on Forty-ninth Street, taking in the property there from 250 to 258 East Forty-ninth Street. Negotiations, it is said, are now pending for a building loan. The rear windows of the new apartment house will look over the interior Turtle Bay gardens.

Among the leaseholds recently recorded was the transfer of the lease, extending to Feb. 28, 1935, of the seven-story apartment house at 294-295 Central Park West, adjoining the south corner of Ninetieth Street, from 294-295 Central Park West, Inc., Jacob Goldstein, president, to the Fifth Avenue Development Company, of which Harris Berry of Brooklyn is president.

The apartment house at 3 West 101st Street, fronting 38 feet, just west of Central Park West, has been leased for twenty-one years by the Regam Holding Company, John Denys, secretary, from James W. Keenan, the lease dating from June 1, 1930. The rental rate is graduated in seven-year periods, being $5,000, $5,500 and $6,000, respectively, in addition to taxes.

A lease for ten years has been taken by the Rukin Garage Corporation, David Rukin, president, on the property at 332-340 East 122d Street, fronting 125 feet, between First and Second Avenues, with an option to purchase. The lease was taken from the Derflaw Corporation, Walter Meihofer, president, at an annual rental ranging from $7,200 for the first year to $9,000 for the last three years. The purchase option involves the sale of the property for $85,000 if exercised during the first year or at $90,000 during the second year of the lease.

The building at 213 West Seventy-ninth Street has been leased for a term of years by Ackerman & Blatt, furriers, through Samuel D. Landau, broker. It is to be remodeled for business.

Jacob Seibert bought from the Chone Realty Corporation, René Andrade, president, the four-story building at 22 Fulton Street, 53 feet west of Front Street. The plot is 19 by 56 feet. Ryan-Brady, Inc., was the broker.

The New York Central Railroad, through its New York State Realty and Terminal Company, bought from Joseps Hyams a fivt-story flat at 532 West Fifty-fifth Street. Brown, Wheelock; Harris, Vought & Co., the brokers, also sold 54 West 134th Street for the Lurose Realty Corporation to the City Real Estate Company and the adjoining parcels at 54 and 56 for Allen J. Mason and Jennie Sterrett to Frank C. Robinson. Nail & Parker were co-brokers.

White Plains Industrial Tract Opened by Development Group

The Halyan Realty Company of White Plains has opened for development a tract zoned for industry, adjoining the Ridgeway station of the New York, Westchester & Boston Railroad in White Plains. Plots in the tract are to be offered to investors as in residential developments.

The scattered industrial zones in White Plains are said to comprise less than 5 per cent of the city's area, about 85 per cent of the whole being residential.

COOPERATIVE PLAN ENDED.

Apartments in New Town House Are to Be Leased.

The cooperative sales plan for the Town House, under construction at 108 East Thirty-eighth Street, has been abandoned, the space now being offered on a rental basis. The change was made because of the number of requests for apartments on lease, according to R. M. Dinsmore & Co., Inc., the managing and renting agents. Several of the prospective buyers have taken leases.

The structure, which is near Park Avenue, has one and two room housekeeping apartments. It is being erected by the William Kennedy Construction Company from plans by Bowden & Russell.

New Brokerage Firms Formed.

John R. Caldwell, formerly with William H. Caldwell, and Seyd Havens, formerly with Slawson & Hobbs, will conduct a mortgage brokerage business as Caldwell & Havens in the Real Estate Board Building, 12 East Forty-first Street. Wetzler & Schneider, realty brokers, have dissolved their partnership, Louis Wetzler to continue in 7 East Forty-second Street and A. B. Schneider to open offices in 18 East Forty-first Street.

To Build on West End Av. Blocks.

Plans for one and two story lockers, washrooms, &c., to occupy the block fronts on the west side of West End Avenue between Sixty-fourth and Sixty-seventh Streets were filed with the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings yesterday by the New York Central Railroad Company. The cost is put at $121,000 by W. C. Berg, the architect. The structures are to cover space 637 by 19.3 feet.

The Real Estate Board will hold a meeting some time this month to take similar action. The governing committees of both organizations had approved the merger.

The Building Managers and Owners Association unanimously adopted the recommendations of its rental conditions committee for standard floor measurements of office buildings, thus agreeing for the first time on the definition of a rentable square foot of space.

Dinsmore, president of R. M. Dinsmore & Co. The other officers re-elected were Charles J. Quinlan, vice president; Arthur C. Bang, treasurer, and Charles F. Merritt, executive secretary.

HOOVER NAMES NAVAL AIDE.

Captain C. R. Train of the Utah Will Succeed Captain Buchanan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Captain Charles Russell Train, who commanded the battleship Utah when it brought President Hoover back to the United States from his tour of South America as President-elect, was selected by the President today to be his naval aide in place of Captain Allen Buchanan, who is to become Chief of Staff of the Naval War College at Newport, R. I., this month.

Captain Train, who still commands the Utah, will report at the White House for his new duty by June 10.

The son of Rear Admiral C. J. Train, Captain Train was born at Annapolis, Md., in 1879, and was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1900. In 1906, as a Lieutenant, he served as an aide at the White House. In the World War he commanded the American naval aviation forces in Italy.

FIGHT SITE PICKED FOR FREIGHT CENTRE

Six Business Groups Criticize Port Authority for 'Unfair and Arbitrary Methods.'

BOARD ACTION DUE TODAY

Commissioner Cullman Says 15th St. Location Was Chosen Only After Years of Study.

With the issuance of a statement yesterday by six mercantile organizations criticizing the Port Authority for trying to obtain public and official approval of its west side freight terminal site by arbitrary and unfair methods, it appeared likely that vigorous discussion would take place before the Committee of the Whole of the Board of Estimate today when the proposal comes up for final decision.

Declaring that the Port Authority had minimized the opposition to its site on Fifteenth and Sixteenth Streets, Eigth and Ninth Avenues, in its annual report last year, the statement said that the interstate body was "trying to win its case in the newspapers at the very time that the Board of Estimate was holding hearings to determine whether the city should approve the site." Becaues the Port Authority's site is in a growing residential district the joint statement said an alternate site had been suggested on the block bounded by Seventeenth and Eighteenth Streets, Ninth and Tenth Avenues.

The site was not approved by the Port Authority, the civic organizations said, and the Port Authority refused to submit it to the ten railroads that have agreed to use the terminal. At the public hearing on the matter held by the Port Authority last Oceober, the statement said twenty-nine out of forty-eight organizations and individuals registered opposition to the Fifteenth Street site. The purpose of the hearing, it adds, was "nullified" by the fact that the Port Authority had bought 40 per cent of the block before the hearing was called. The Board of Estimate committee appointed to represent the city did not know of the Fifteenth Street site until almost half of it had been acquired, according to Assistant Corporation Counsel Charles Horowitz, one of the committee members.

The Port Authority is criticized for issuing newspaper statements before the Board of Estimate began hearings, saying that its site was endorsed by such prominent real estate men as Charles F. Noyes, Joseph P. Day, Brown, Wheelock: Harris & Vought and others. These articles said the opposition was confined to property owners in the neighborhood. The statement pointed out that the individuals included Vincent Astor, Henry Mandel, builder; five civic associations and ten real estate firms.

The organizations which criticized the Port Authority are the Central Mercantile Association, the Eighth Avenue Association, the Market and Business Men's Association, the Sheridan Square, the Twenty-third Street Association and the West Side Taxpayers' Association.

Commissioner Howard S. Cullman of the Port Authority, chairman of its terminal committee, said the Fifteenth Street site had been picked by the Port Authority's engineers and real estate experts as the only site between Houston and Twenty-third Streets suitable for the purpose after many years of study. He explained that 40 per cent of the block was bought quietly to evade the inflated prices that would be asked after the project had been announced.

Explaining that the alternate site would be across the street from the New York Central tracks on Tenth Avenue, thus giving that railroad an unfair advantage over others, he said its use was obviously impossible.

"While there has been opposition to our site, the leading civic associations of the city are unanimously in favor of it," he said. "Some of the opposition is from local organizations and some from real estate speculators. But there has been no opposition by any of the large, disinterested civic organizations which have the general welfare of the city at heart."

In a letter to Borough President Miller of Manhattan, Commissioner Culman answered objections to the Port Authority site and cited the disadvantages of the alternate site. Mr. Miller is to report today on the question to the committee of the whole.

BACK ALL-AMERICAN CANAL

Shipping Men Here Leave Today for Convention in Albany.

A group of shipping men and others interested in the construction of an all-American canal to connect the Great Lakes with the Atlantic seaboard will leave for Albany tonight on the steamer Berkshire of the Hudson River Night Line to attend the annual convention of the Great Lakes-Hudson Waterways Association to be held tomorrow at the Ten Eyck Hotel, Albany. They will be the guests of Colonel Edward C. Carrington, chairman of the association and president of the Night Line.

Among those invited to address the convention are Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York, Congressman William E. Hull of Illinois, J. Hampton Moorem, president of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, and Anthony J. Griffin of New York. The organization was formed in 1928 by a group of New York business men who support the Hudson as the connecting link in an all-American waterway as opposed to the St. Lawrence River on the ground that such a canal would lose much of its value to the United States if an important link were owned by a foreign nation.

WINCHESTER IS PROMOTED.

Becomes Passenger Traffic Head Here for United States Lines.

The promotion of Tarleton Winchester from European passenger traffic manager of the United States Line to passenger traffic manager at the main offices in this city, effective immediately, was announced yesterday by E. Grant McMicken, vice president in charge of traffic. Mr. Winchester succeeds Owen A. Smyth, who resigned several weeks ago. He will return to this country at an early date to assume his new duties.

Mr. Winchester was formerly a newspaper man and made an intensive study of transportation. In 1920 he took charge of traffic abroad for the United States Shipping Board. Two years later he was transferred to the United States Lines, then owned by the Shipping Board, and became the European passenger director. He served for the board until 1929, when the United States Lines were bought by the Chapman interests. He was retained by the new owners and has directed the European traffic with offices in London.

'CRUISES TO NOWHERE' TO INCLUDE A STOP

Plan of Cunard-Anchor Lines Changed and the Ships Will Call at Halifax.

The proposed "Summer cruises to nowhere" under auspices of the Cunard-Anchor Lines and the National Tours, which were recently announced for July and August, have been changed to include a stop at Halifax, N. S., it was learned yesterday. As originally announced, the ships would leave New York with no destination and would return six days later after cruising about the open sea. The plan now calls for the departure of the liner California July 26, returning Aug. 1; the Caledonia Aug. 11 and returning Aug. 17 and the Translyvania Aug. 18 and returning Aug. 24.

Some objection to the original plan has been raised in the last few weeks, with the American Steamship Owners' Association active as an objector. Counsel for the association brought the matter to the attention of A. J. Tyrer, Commissioner of Navigation, charging that the cruises violated the spirit of the coastwise laws, though making no charge that they actually violated the laws.

Shipping men have protested that the ships would be the scenes of drinking orgies protected by the coastwise laws. This was denied by the promoters.

The stop at Nova Scotia brings the cruises under the supervision of the Federal Government and they must follow the procedure of other trips to foreign ports. Had there been no port stop as originally planned the ships would have returned to New York without clearance charges. A fee of 2 cents per net ton will now be assessed in accordance with the schedule of charges on all ships from ports in the zone which embraces Nova Scotia, customs officials said yesterday.

The Cunard Line said yesterday that the stop at Halifax was "as an added attraction."

CANADIAN VACATION

A New World... at your Door!

THE glamour of a romantic past still lives in old French Canada. Much of the architecture of the Richelieu period remains today, not as picturesque ruins but in houses and buildings still in actual use. Little villages, clustered around tall church spires, dream in the sun beneath the slopes of the Laurentian mountains.

The Saguenay river was once believed to be the water route to China. Early voyageurs paddled up its black waters awe-inspiring beneath the towering grandeur of rocky capes. Their subsequent laughter gave rise to the christening of Ha Ha Bay. As you relax on the wide decks of our luxurious steamers, scenes of almost unbelievable beauty and grandeur pass slowly beyond the rail.

Please write at once for illustrated folder, which describes in detail the pleasures of this wonderful vacation cruise.

VERY IMPORTANT

CANADA STEAMSHIP LINES operate from the head of Lake Superior, via the St. Lawrence River, to the Saguenay. Their cruises include the seven day trip from Detroit to Duluth and return; Niagara to the Saguenay, including the Thousand Islands, and shooting the rapids; excursions from Toronto, the Queen City, to Niagara, the Thousand Islands and Rochester. They operate a fleet of 106 steamers, freight and passenger, and are the largest fresh water transportation company in the world. The famous Saguenay trip includes visits to Montreal, metropolis of Canada; Quebec, the historic walled city; Murray Bay, "Newport of the North" and Tadoussac, Canada's oldest settlement. The Saguenay Canyon is one of nature's masterpieces.

Our steamers may be boarded at Lewiston, Rochester, Duluth or Detroit in the U.S.A., or Sarnia, Queenston, Toronto, Montreal or Quebec in Canada.

SEIZE 200 GUNMEN IN CHICAGO RAIDS

Police Hope to Rid City of Alien Gangsters Through Deportation.

CAPONE FOLLOWERS IN LOT

Connection Is Seen Between Fox Lake Slayings and Warfare Among Sicilians.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Two hundred reputed gunmen and gangsters, many of them Italians, were arrested tonight in a series of police raids in that quarter of the city known as Little Sicily and other resorts of rum and beer runners and racketeers.

More than half of those in custody admitted being without citizen's papers, and Chief Stege plans to have every prisoner examined by immigration inspectors tomorrow, in the hope of ridding the city of some of its killers through deportation. A majority of those seized were armed.

The wholesale arrests were due to the belief of Chief Stege that a recent outbreak of murders among Sicilians has some connection with the slaying of three gangsters and the wounding of a man and a woman at Fox Lake Sunday. There have been eight shootings among Sicilians here in the last three days, seven in Detroit and five in Boston.

A capture, which Chief Stege pronounced important, was affected by one detective bureau squad when the members sighted three of the Capone gang, each in his own car, driving south in Clark Street in procession.

In the chase the police car cut off and forced to the curb the second and third cars, the driver of one being Israel Andelman, alias Alderman, former Detroit kidnapper, and Frank Foster, former henchman of the Moran-Aiello gang but lately allied with Capone. Another Capone follower, Frank Diamond, outdistanced the police car and escaped.

Another notorious character seized in the round-up was Rocco Fanelli, once a henchman in the Eller political organization and recently listed by the Chicago Crime Commission as living in London. "London," Fanelli scoffed, "I haven't crossed the Chicago River in three years."

Taken with Fanelli in a west side poolroom were James Belcastro, a reputed bomber, and Ralph (Chink) Avino, both followers of Capone, according to Chief Stege.

State's Attorney V. Smith of Lake County had a warrant issued for the arrest of George Druggan, who is hovering between life and death at the University Hospital in Chicago, so that Druggan may be taken there if he recovers. Druggan was one of those wounded at Fox Lake.

Chicago officials are of the opinion that the basic cause of the Fox Lake murders is the rich field offered by the chain of lakes region for beer and slot machines in the Summer season. They say Bugs Moran and Joe Aiello had made arrangements with the native gangsters regarding supplies and protection and that Druggar and Pellar were late comers trying to "muscle in."

J. BORDEN HARRIMAN ILL.

Had Nervous Break-Down in London—Now on Way to Recovery.

J. Borden Harriman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harriman of 1,088 Park Avenue, who made his first stage appearance with a stock company in 1923 and has since appeared in New York and London in various plays, is recovering from a nervous break-down at his home here, it was learned yesterday.

Mrs. Harriman said yesterday that she had brought her son from London, where he became ill, and that he now was progressing toward recovery, although still weak. Mr. and Mrs. Harriman plan to take him to Newport for the Summer season next week.

Mr. Harriman played in "Don't Bother Mother," with Nance O'Neil in "Stronger Than Love" and with Doris Keane in "Starlight" and "Romance." After going to Europe he resumed his rôle in "Romance," which made a record run in London. On the stage he uses the name Borden Harriman.

SHABUOTH IS OBSERVED IN SYNAGOGUE HERE

Houses of Worship Crowded for Confirmation Services — First Class in New Temple Emanu-El.

Confirmation services were held in synagogues and temples of the city yesterday in connection with the celebration of Shabuoth, the Feast of Weeks. All the houses of worship were crowded as parents watched and heard their children recite the lessons they had learned about the Torah, the books of the law, and the doctrines, traditions, teachings, practices and Messianic Hope of Israel.

At Congregation Emanu-El the services were conducted by Dr. Nathan Krass, Dr. H. G. Enelow and Dr. Samuel Schulman, the rabbis, and the Rev. Simon Schlager, cantor of the congregation. There were thirty boys and forty-one girls in the class, the first to be confirmed in the new temple. The Rev. William Franklin Rosenblum, rabbi of Temple Israel, confirmed a class of forty-six.

The Rev. Dr. Israel Goldstein conducted the Shabuoth services of Congregation B'nai Jeshurun, and the Rev. Dr. Jacob Katz, rabbi of the Montefiore Congregation in the Bronx, officiated there.

The sermons stressed the tenets of Jewish faith and creed and called for renewed devotion. Dr. Krass, who addressed himself specifically to parents, urged that they take care not to undo, by carelessness or lack of devotion to their religion, the effects of the teaching the rabbis had given their children.

FACE ELECTION ARRESTS.

Twenty-two Philadelphia Officers and Magistrates Accused in Primary

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—As an echo of the primary election, warrants will be issued tomorrow for the arrest of twenty-two election officers and one magistrate, all accused of infractions of the election laws, S. Davis Wilson, city manager of the Pinchot-for-Governor Committee, announced today.

It was indicated that the officers, whose names Wilson declined to reveal, would be accused of fraud, either in the actual conduct of the election or in the tabulation of returns. The magistrate who faces arrest is alleged to have conspired with others in carrying out a program contrary to the assistance to voters statute.

"Particular stress is being laid on the political activity of municipal employes and we hope to get some convictions on that score," Mr. Wilson said.

Mr. Pinchot's plurality over Francis Shunk Brown, his Vare ticket opponent in the Gubernatorial race, approached 17,000 today by virtue of corrections in the returns from Delaware County. The former Governor showed a gain of 1,224 votes over the unofficial figures.

At a special secret meeting of the Republican women of Philadelphia today, 600 of the Forty-second Ward, one of the parent organization's chief components, withdrew in a body.

AUSTRIAN ARCHDUKE BURIED

Rainer Karl Laid to Rest in Vienna With Hapsburg Forbears.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, June 2.—Today, for the first time since the Emperor Francis Joseph was buried twelve years ago with the elaborate and gloomy ceremonial of Spanish court etiquette, the Viennese saw the body of another Hapsburg laid to rest in the vault of the Capucine monks, where his forbears of the last 300 years already lie. This was the Archduke Rainer Karl, for whose interment in the family resting place the former Empress Zita gave permission despite the fact that he had renounced his title on the formation of the Austrian Republic.

Thousands of spectators lined the Ringstrasse as the hearse bearing the body of the 35-year-old Hapsburg passed to the gloomy crypt in the Neumarkt. Among the mourners were Rainer Karl's father, the Archduke Leopold Salvator; his mother, the Archduchess Bianca; practically the whole Austrian aristocracy, delegates representing the Austrian army, others representing the cavalry and artillery officers of the old monarchy, the French and Spanish Ministers, and Mgr. Seipel, former Chancellor.

When the coffin was carried through the church to the door of the vault, an official fulfilling the function of the vanished court chamberlain knocked on the door.

"Who is there?" a voice asked.

"The body of the Archduke Rainer Karl," was the answer.

"I do not know him; who is he?" came the further query from within.

"A poor sinner," was the reply.

Then the door was opened and the coffin carried down.

$7,500 GEMS VANISH IN PROSECUTOR'S HOME

Hastings Reports Apartment on Park Av. Was Robbed—No Clue to the Thief.

Assistant District Attorney Harold Hastings reported yesterday that five diamond rings and a diamond brooch, worth a total of $7,500, had disappeared from the Hastings apartment on the sixth floor of 1,235 Park Avenue, at the southeast corner of Ninety-sixth Street, some time between 11:30 P. M. Sunday and 7:30 o'clock last night.

Although detectives at first believed that the gems might have been misplaced, Mr. Hastings insisted they had been stolen and he expressed the belief that it was "an inside job." He said that no locks in the apartment had been forced and there were no traces of burglars' tools in the bedroom bureau from which the jewels had been stolen.

Mrs. Hastings, who said the rings and the brooch were intact when she retired at 11:30 P. M. on Sunday, was in the apartment all day yesterday. She discovered the loss when she opened the bureau drawer last night. None of the missing gems was insured. They included an engagement ring with a five-carat diamond, a wedding ring set in diamonds, a solitaire diamond ring, and two dinner rings each set with three diamonds.

Mr. Hastings told the police that his wife had no maid. The apartment building, which is in the northern part of the fashionable section of Park Avenue, is guarded day and night by two doormen.

UNGER STAYS WITH NURSE.

Pennsylvania Judge Postpones Habeas Corpus Hearing to June 13.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—Aaron Unger, New York candy importer, whose family is seeking to have him released from the custody of Miss Amelia Phillips, his nurse, of Upper Darby, Pa., will remain in her apartment at least until June 13, Judge W. Roger Fronefield ruled today in the Delaware County Court at Media.

Final witnesses were heard in the habeas corpus proceedings instigated by relatives of Mr. Unger against Miss Phillips. Some of the testimony related to the "affection and kindenss" shown by the defendant toward Mr. Unger. At the conclusion of the hearing Judge Fronefield looked at Mrs. Unger, wife of the sick man, and his son, Bernard Unger, and daughter, Miss Blanche Unger, and then postponed the case for legal argument until June 13.

"In the maenwhile," he said, "Mr. Unger will remain where he is."

The family of Mr. Unger is seeking to have him removed to a New York hospital.

Divorce proceehdings started last year in East Orange, N. J., by Mr. Unger have been quashed, it was learned here.

SEIZE EX-SUBCHASER LOADED WITH WHISKY

Coast Guards Take Craft, Now Believed of French Registry, Off Virginia Coast.

NORFOLK, Va., June 2 (AP).—A whisky-laden former American subchaser, now known as the Metmuzel and believed to be of French registry, was seized off the Virginia coast last midnight and brought into Norfolk tonight by the Coast Guard patrol boat CG-22, as a suspected rumrunner. The craft, her cargo of 1,000 cases of supposedly bourbon whisky and twelve men found aboard her, were under guard tonight at Coast Guard headquarters here.

Boatswain Garrison, in command of the CG-22, reported that the Metmuzel was flying no flag and was only seven miles off Paramore Banks when she was seized. Albert Flahant, master of the craft, disputed this, saying he was much further off shore.

The papers of the craft were in French, and being unable to translate them to ascertain if they were made out according to law, Boatswain Garrison decided to bring the Metmuzel into port. Coast Guard officials suported his action in seizing a rum-laden craft within an hour's run of American shores.

The Metmuzel is supposed to have loaded her cargo at St. Pierre, Miquelon. Pending the clearing up of the registry of the ship, no formal charges have been filed.
